SECOND DAY.

The Enthusiasm Continues Without Abatement.

THE MINERS FLOAT AFIRE.

A Sensation Amounting Almost to a Panic.

ANOTHER GRAND STREET PARADE.

The Striking Features of the Parade Today—New and Beautiful Floats.

Somewhat more promptly than yesterday, the various sections of the grand parade were in their assigned positions this morning, and soon after eleven o'clock the column began to move down East Temple street from the intersection of South Temple, at which point the various divisions fell into line.

A FLOAT ON FIRE.

All moved smoothly until the head of the procession had neared a point near Third South street, which brought to view into East Temple near South Temple. At this juncture the miners' float had reached a point a few rods south of First South street. This resistic portrayal had been attracting much attention and applause. At frequent intervals a blast was discharged in the tunnel, a man at the level was shoveling coins, "Dutch" Fred and a group of miners were seen sinking one sample through a glass, and the numerous presentations of a mining camp was the center of eager attention by an enormous throng of people which packed either side of East Temple street, which suddenly the mountain in which the tunnel had been driven, and wisdom ever and anon found the source of the exploitation that was shaking vast ore bodies, became a mass of flame.

In an instant the cry of fire resounded up and down the street. The multitudes in its immediate vicinity of the conflagration rushed to and fro. Women and children who were in vehicles near the spot hastily leaped to the ground and for a few moments the scene resembled a panic.

In an incredibly short space of time a hose cart, which fortunately was in the procession, was alongside the burning float. The hose was coupled to the hydrant near the creek corner and the firemen were in position. On the close of the burning scenery opposite the tabernacle was an immense crowd of people who were there to see a disastrous sight. The stream of water on the fire, warning shouts caused most of the crowd to get out of range, for what with the confusion in the water gushing out of the hose and the shouts of people, the scene was one of wild excitement.

A HIGH SCHOOL BATH.

The sight of the hose cart caused to mind the alarm, and the flames were quickly extinguished. A crime work of wood and tinsel was all that was left of the mountain in which the miners had been working. The complete ruin of the float. The rear portion of it, on which stood the mining cattle, was uninjured. So far as could be learned, no person was hurt. The pecuniary damage was slight. The exact manner in which the canvas, which covered the framework of the mountain took fire, was not ascertained.

THE PAGEANT.

Beautiful Allegories on Wheels—The Interest and Admiration of the Multitudes.

Even before the hour of starting, the children, bright riders, who were to lead the procession today, were in place in East Temple street, ready to mount their gaily decorated steeds, and at the signal they moved forward. Next followed the pretors of police led by Chief Pratt, Marshal Newman and aids, the police in infantry band, also mounted, leading the first division.

The float entitled "Our Dear Life" was a superb affair. On a throne in the form of the Temple as the Pioneers found it, Dear Life lies on a sofa, which is shaded by a large lily of green at home and beautiful coloring. The throne occupied the best position of the float. In the forward portion were some beautifully mounted children, in costumes and pageants beautifully, and other features and settings necessary to the representation. Groups of people surrounded this spectacle as it passed down the street.

The float representing the second division were the Irish Reg float, and the crescent float. The former were labed a large number of little girls dressed in the national colors and ranged in three tiers of tracks on either side of the float. The effect was beautiful and striking.

The crescent float was a most beautiful and realistic creation. A new moon, whose horns point forward, is rising out of a lake of Rocky Mounds. On the lower back ground a little girl in a costume of white gauze impregnated with silver, the other barefooted in wool and over her head, in form of the moon above a group of little girls in the costume described, representing heavenly hosts, and making up a creation of fairy like beauty and poetic impressiveness.

The basket float, which was the chief feature in the fourth division, was a very beautiful structure. It consisted in form in basket in which is seated Betsy Ross, besides her two little daughters, Pearl Weller and Theresa Warner. These little ones were gowns of flowers, and all around the basket, moving outward, were petals of flowers, growing. Utah made up a very large float. The basket and body of the float were ornamented with wheatin and lessons of Ruth, and numerous sons of varied hue. The parasols carried by the young ladies were in imitation of different flowers. The creation represented the flower that grows in our state.

The W. C. T. U. had a very beautiful float, emblematic of their work. I. is an ice boat, and was manned by young ladies and children in appropriate costumes.

In addition to the features mentioned there were many of the best floats of yesterday's parade, though a number of floats not represented yesterday, were in the procession today.

Walker Brothers Dry Goods Co. had a large float in contemplation a great number of little girls in beautiful attire, showing popular airs as the characters which sang. This tableau attracted much attention.

John S. Park, jeweler, had a very big as an attraction and decorated so as to be a beautiful sight when present and the time when the Rio Grande engaged in business.

Frank H. Dickson had a float representing the horseshoe, and on L. X. L. Round Hand there bar two.

The Farmers Club Lemon advertised by opening a day 12th by a pleasure boat, and the H. M. Ice and Refrigerator were well represented by a float loaded with the goods in the shape of which resembled a cake of ice.

The Chas. Wagon & Machine Co. had a handsome float calling attention to the Pope Engine, Wagon machines, etc.

Many of the trades floats which were shown and admired yesterday, were in the procession today.

When the procession arrived at the city and county building the prearranged program of exercises was carried out. The review under the Queen took place, and the chorus of 1,000 children sang under the direction of Prof. Bassett.

A band of school children lined in some patriotic songs, and John F. Merritt recited The American Flag in splendid style.

Then a salute to her majesty Queen Jean visited Salinas, and the cowboy tournament was repeated on the exposition grounds.

This evening there will be a grand mass bar in honor of the queen at Saltair. The Indian band, Ogden band and Sixteenth Infantry band in attendance.

Movies can be procured at Saltair.

During the intermission the "Highland Fling" and "Sword Dance" will be danced before the queen by Master and Miss McGee.

THE TARIFF PLANK.

One of the Problems Before the Convention.

JUDGE POWERS'S PROPOSITION.

He Proposes a Declaration Which He Believes Will Not be Silver Gas in Silver Bag.

CHICAGO, July 3.—Notwithstanding the convention is still four days off, there are almost continuous conferences regarding the platform among the free silver leaders. The plans all look to preparing a document which, while it will cover the various other questions of Democratic faith, will give the place of prominence to a financial address which will appeal to the support of all silver advocates of whatever party. The gist of the plank and its accompanying document is to be one of complete courage of silver as a relic of 16 to 1, without waiting for action by any other nation. The tariff plank is really giving the silver leaders more concern than the financial declaration.

Democrats too have a position to declare on the tariff and the Republicans have made it a premium for the leaders realize the impossibility of ignoring it. The Democracy is decidedly towards a tariff and not per centum of protection of silver is the Democratic traditions on this subject, though in very general terms, admonishing the brief that with the issues of silver the present tariff will produce sufficient revenue for the needs of the government. There will be a strong disposition to a more explicit enunciation than in the general law with the aim of reinstating the wool and lumber item of the Wilson. The plank must even go so far as to recommend to protection in wools including that any tariff, even enough for revenue only, is primarily to attack.

Judge Powers, of Utah, has submitted the following draft of a tariff plank: "We favor the imposition of duties to meet the demands of the government for revenue, such duties to be so adjusted as to operate equally throughout the country and not to discriminate against any classes or sections."

Judge Power expresses the opinion that a declaration of this character will be satisfactory to the West and also meet all the demands of the situation and of the democratic faith. It was taken considerably for a compromise, but it is decidedly Wilson Administration in its principles and which the Wilson tariff is based.

IN FAVOR OF SILVER.

There is talk among the free silver leaders of calling a caucus before the convention for the purpose of fixing a plan. Should this be done, Governor Altgeld's idea of a "one day convention" may be carried into effect. W. F. Halstead, chairman of the Illinois state central committee and straightout-larger, says there is strong sentiment among the free silver delegates now in the city favoring such a course. "But even should there be no caucus," he continued, "I have no fears that the work of the convention can be wound up in a single day. I figure it out, the silver candidates for nomination for President will be Bland, Boies, Blackburn, Matthews and Mclean. I incline to the belief that Bland and Boies will get the bulk of votes and whoever has the greatest number of votes on the first ballot will be nominated on the second." Holstead said C. S. Thomas, national committeeman of Colorado, and chairman of the Republican state central, stands a good show of being elected temporary chairman. "It is quite probable," he said, "that the temporary organization will be made permanent, for the purpose of expediting business."

WHO WILL BE TEMPORARY CHAIRMAN?

Chauncey Harrity, who will call the convention to order, is used to say whether he will take speaker or not, that is the selection of temporary chairman. At that time no rules will have been adopted for the government of the convention. Harrity says his only business is to call the convention together and name the national committee's choice for temporary chairman.

If the name mentioned meets with the disapproval of the silver men, they will move a substitute and then the previous question. All then depends upon whether the chairman of the national committee will recognize this and put the previous question in the teeth of rules. If he refuses and the gold standard men are allowed to talk, then there will be, sometimes, a rousing scene. Among the Democrats are several skilled parliamentarians. There are also some Cleveland men among the Southern and Western delegations. The rank and file at the silver men are somewhat held in their eagerness to control, and this may be a great trouble. But an attempt to steam roller the silver men may lead to a stampede which will be fatal to all committee and the silver men may be rescued. Some silver leaders urge that no harm can come to their cause by having Hill chairman of the temporary organization, for if anybody they can overrule by rulings. Vice President Stevenson is mentioned as one of the possibilities. He name is received with more favor than Hill's.

SENTIMENT STRONG FOR SILVER.

It has been determined, so far as it can be in advance of the meeting, that the committee will select for temporary chairman some man who is sympathetic with the silver movement, although he may have leanings toward silver. It is apparent from the talk of the democratic leaders that the committee should not be inclined to go on outside reconsideration.

Ex. Vice President Stevenson, of Illinois, told the Associated Press that in the Democratic national committee meeting from the inland east, in the selection of temporary chairman, and if the committee decided that the committee's selection is not have the right to vote on another hand.

Ex. Vice President Stevenson, of Maryland, pledged for Senator Gorman on the national committee, says the committee will be inclined to give the silver men at least even to attempt to have some sympathetic man as temporary chairman. He thinks some fair and impartial Democrat, such as Vice President Stevenson would give satisfaction to every element of the party. The fact that the Vice President is not a candidate did not matter, he said, as the committee has authority to do either, the convention to select the temporary presiding officer.

SILVER BOLTERS AT WORK.

The silver issues from the St. Louis convention are working the Texas to a degree upon the Democratic silver leaders the great advantage of Texas's nomination to stiffen up all the silver elements of the West, being warmly supported by Tillerman, chairman of the Democratic committee, Governor of the Democratic party, Tarbrough, assuming to work for the Populists in Texas, especially with the silver Taller is connected for the Populist who will be put for the Democratic ticket by the Populists. A letter is circulated after receipt of the news of Senator Teller's great individual triumph and the Democratic silver men are working hard to induce Teller's friends to come out and take the lead and fix in the party world rules against the nominee of a Democratic silver ticket. Senator Teller has conferred with all the leading Republican silver men in the city and quite extensively the question of promulgation of Teller's name will depend upon the Republican silver men working hard to Populist advocating Teller's nomination and the new Republicans are believe it will have effect on Algeld.

BRYAN PROBABLY.

CHICAGO, July 3.—In an interview Hon. W. J. Bryan of Nebraska will be temporary chairman as Senator Harris personally assumed of the Democratic convention. He chose not not been officially asked, but a caucus of the senators which has been in progress for days at the Rio meeting of the representatives of the silver congress not Monday, has resolved in a general agreement upon the support of Bryan for the place by the respective places. Bryan is the logical especially to meet the requirements. It has been suggested from the first that Bryan would be the most best man to be present the cause of the campaign from the free silver standpoint in a way that would be acceptable to the party and among the friends of the country. He has been spoken of as a presidential candidate for the ticket with Bryan. Governor Stone of Missouri, Senator Gorman, Governor Hill, C. S. Thomas, chairman of the Colorado delegation, are also mentioned for the position. Bryan is, however, generally in the lead. The silver men are hopeful today that they will be able to carry their plans for the platform adopted by the national committee. They may accomplish this by providing more low gold standard men to endorse with the silver men. It is said that the committee chairman is to be gold. The courage of three Democratic silver men is to be their purpose. Failing in this, the minority will make a minority report, presenting the views of the new silver party and the Democratic silver party
