

DISCUSSION OF THE POSTOFFICE BILL.

Mr. Grosvenor Makes it Occasion To Defend the Republican Party.

ASKS SOME POINTED QUESTIONS

Wants to Know What Crime Has Been Committed by Any Department.

Washington, April 5.—In the house of representatives today discussion of the postoffice bill opened the way for political talk. Mr. Grosvenor started the ball, devoting himself to a defense of the Republican party. Mr. De Armond, he said, had indicted the leaders of the house for an attempt to cover up crime.

"What crime," Mr. Grosvenor asked, "has been committed in any one of the branches of the administration of the federal government, and by whom?"

He sarcastically remarked that when a member of the house knew enough to hurt in the face of the majority of the house the charge that they were covering up and protecting crime, "he ought to know enough to make some statement that somebody, somewhere, had committed some crime." He declared, amid laughter, that since the reference to the postoffice report in the house, the Democrats had gone through a series of "acrobatics."

"Why are you opposed to investigation?" inquired Mr. De Armond.

For the manifest reason," said Mr. Grosvenor, "that the department has been thoroughly investigated. All wrong doing has been laid bare."

Mr. Grosvenor said this had been shown by the convictions in Washington, Baltimore, New York and elsewhere. "And," he said, referring to the St. Louis boodle case, "so far as we know of there is no ready-made, willing supreme court to set at liberty every body who should be convicted."

Facing the Democratic side, Mr. Grosvenor said, "your entire clamor and your libelous attacks have been based upon nothing but a deliberate purpose to tarnish the administration of your government in the interest of party politics." He assured the Democrats that if they would come in with a single charge in writing that somebody had committed a crime in the postoffice department and had gone unpunished, "they will have an investigation instantly."

Branching off on the tariff, he called on Mr. De Armond to state what ought to be changed in the tariff. "There would be no ten of you," he said, "that will name the same committee, no five of you that will come within 10 percent of it, and none of you will agree on all of the items of the tariff," at which there was much laughter. He scored the Democratic party on the tariff question, being composed of a "disorganized, broken-up, dismembered, helter-skelter crowd."

He got into an argument with Mr. Clark of Missouri regarding differences of opinion among Republicans on the tariff question, and said there was no difference of opinion as to the basis on which protection must stand. "When the time comes to amend the tariff," he vehemently stated, "we will amend it." Taking up the subject of trusts, Mr. Grosvenor declared that not one word of praise or approval of the Sherman act had come from Democratic sources. He defended the president for his attitude concerning trusts, saying: "It is enough for Mr. Roosevelt to show that he took the law that had been enacted by the Democratic party and cast out as worthless, and made it the most effective weapon and engine for the suppression of the unlawful and injurious trusts that man has ever dreamed could be put on the statute books."

He mentioned the president's attitude in connection with the postoffice investigation and the Panama canal treaty. In the latter case he said the president had risen in his own person, in his own power as an individual and as president of the United States, and solved that problem in such a manner that all the world looked on with admiration, and he added that there was nobody in the United States that raised a sane voice against the proposition.

When the first ship goes through the canal, it should carry in addition to the American flag, another flag with an inscription testifying to the genius, courage, skill and patriotism of the president.

"Haven't you forgotten something?" inquired Mr. Fitzgerald of New York.

Mr. Grosvenor convulsed the house when he replied, after hesitating a moment: "I have forgotten more than you know."

Not perturbed by this retort, Mr. Fitzgerald asked if there should not be added to the inscription the fact that the American people were heartily ashamed of the way they got the Panama canal route.

Mr. Grosvenor replied that "several little people got that way and so did several big people," but no one dared condemn the action of the president in that matter. He challenged the Democrats to come forward now "and fool with the very weapon that has destroyed a number of the great men of our party already," and he added, amid laughter, "there are many others on their way to the grave-yard." He believed, he said, the people understood the president to be a genius and a man of great power and unlimited patriotism, and the Democrats could not name an affirmative act of his that was not done right.

Returning to the subject of the Republican party and its principles, Mr. Grosvenor said it was so united that there was not a man on either side of the house who in an hour could not draft a platform that would be unanimously adopted at the coming convention.

Looking over the Democratic side he inquired amid laughter, "Don't you wish you had a situation like that?" He maintained that the Democratic party was abundantly able to block the wheels, but when it came to doing something or agreeing to something, it was in the unfortunate condition of a party "broken into fragments during all the past years of two splendid administrations by the Republicans."

Large Church Endowment Fund.

New York, April 5.—One of the largest endowment funds ever created for a church in this city has been formed by the will of Smith Lafayette Russell, a retired business man, who died March 10. It will amount to $500,000, and the testator's desire is along the line of several recent moves to keep alive church interest in the down town district from which many old religious institutions have removed in recent years.

The Duane Methodist Episcopal church in Hudson street on the lower west side, is the beneficiary. During the life of Mrs. Russell a portion of the income from the fund is to be paid her. At her death the entire sum will be placed in trust and the income, estimated at $25,000, will be expended in building up the church. Several Methodist charitable institutions also will receive sums of $5,000 each.

Little is known of Mr. Russell and his wife outside of their friends and neighbors in Washington Place, where they have lived many years, devoting much of their time to works of charity.

Professor Slugged by Thugs.

Berkeley, Cal., April 5.—William J. Sharwood, an instructor in chemistry in the University of California, is lying in an unconscious condition, the result of an attack by footpads. While returning to his home late tonight Sharwood was held up by two masked men. One of them stealthily approached him from behind and struck him on the head with a sandbag. Sharwood staggered away and tried to reach his residence, but when within about one block of home he fell unconscious. Assemblyman W. H. Waste found him and carried him home, where it was found that his head was badly cut. It is feared that his skull has been fractured and that his injuries may result fatally.

May End Building Tie Up.

New York, April 5.—A protracted conference of the general association of the building trades, representing the employers and the associations of skilled workers, has resulted in the adoption of resolutions likely to end the tie which has existed several weeks in the building trades here.

Representatives of the brick layers, whose strike precipitated the trouble, concurred in the resolutions recommending that the strikers return to work without over time pending a settlement of the entire matter by arbitration.

Agreements of a similar character previously entered into by representatives of the black layers have been repudiated by the unions, but it is now believed they will take favorable action. More than 10,000 men are idle.

EX-OFFICERS CONVICTED.

California Deputy Sheriffs Tried To Defraud Government.

San Francisco, April 5.—In the United States district court today former Deputy Sheriff William T. Dashi and Thomas J. Dempsey and Hom Tann, Chinamen, were convicted of conspiracy against the government. They will be sentenced on Thursday.

They were found guilty of substituting old Chinese anxious to return to China, for young men who had attempted to evade the immigration laws and had been ordered to be deported. The testimony showed that $250 had been paid for each case of substitution. Deputy Sheriff T. T. Burnett, also indicted for the same offense, turned state's evidence after securing a separate trial for himself.

German Exports to America.

Berlin, April 5.—Exports for the quarter to the United States from the consulates under the jurisdiction of the general consulate at Frankfurt amounted to $3,969,709, a decrease from the preceding quarter of $2,954,233.

CLARA BARTON, RED CROSS HEROINE, TO RETIRE.

Here are the latest photographs of Miss Clara Barton and Gen. John M. Wilson, who figure so prominently in the late press dispatches which indicate that a determined effort is to be made to oust Miss Barton from the head of the Red Cross society. Miss Barton asks that specific charges of misappropriation of funds be made that she may have an opportunity to reply. She alleges that the remonstrants are being misled and do not know the motives of the people making the charges. Among the things Miss Barton is asked to explain is the alleged collecting of $12,000 in New York City for the Galveston sufferers by one W. W. Howard, which never went into the Red Cross treasury.

DISTRESSING END OF PLEASURE PARTY

Out of Seven Five Were Drowned, Only Two Remaining to Tell The Tale.

STORY OF TERRIBLE SUFFERING.

All Through the Night All Held to Upturned Boat, Dropping and Perishing One by One.

Tampa, Fla., April 6.—A story of terrible suffering, lasting 20 hours is told by President Walker and Miss Newton, art teacher, the survivors of a sailing party of seven persons from the Florida Methodist college, at Sutherland, whose boat capsized while on the way back to port after a day's outing on the gulf. In a cat boat they left Sutherland Monday morning, sailing to Anclote, a resort on the coast about 15 miles distant. They spent two hours at Anclote and then set sail for home.

In the meantime a strong gale had arisen, which gradually grew, driving the little craft off shore. Bourland, a student acting as skipper, but he lost control and a sudden gust of wind overturned the frail craft, spilling the occupants into the water. In the driving wind, the two men of the party had hard work in preventing the drowning of all the women at once. Except Mrs. O'Connor, the oldest of the party, all managed to catch hold of the overturned craft.

Mrs. O'Connor was not seen again until her body was found. All through the afternoon and into the night, the wind still blowing a gale, and the temperature being much colder than usual in this latitude, the chilled men and women held to the bottom of the boat. Mrs. Walker, the wife of the president, was the first to succumb and the others were too weak to save her. In fact, in the darkness they scarcely knew when she released her hold and sank. She was missed by one of the women and it was all they could do to keep President Walker from surrendering to what seemed the inevitable and following her to a watery grave.

After two hours more young Bourland, who had lost consciousness, also sank. President Walker exerted his little remaining strength to save the others but just at daybreak Miss McCrary who had been praying for several hours released her hold and also sank. From then until Tuesday noon President Walker and Miss Newton held Miss Slaughter, who had lapsed into unconsciousness, above the water. They were aided by the calming of the wind. Miss Slaughter died at 11 o'clock and when, one hour later, one of the search parties sent out from Sutherland and Ocala in a naphtha launch, discovered the wreck they found the president and Miss Newton exerting their remaining strength to keep the body of their last companion from being lost.

FIVE PEOPLE DROWNED.

Were Out for Pleasure and the Boat Was Overturned.

Tampa, Fla., April 5.—Five persons, all members of a pleasure party from the Florida Methodist college at Sutherland, on the west coast of the gulf, 30 miles west of Tampa, were drowned near Anclote lighthouse last night. The dead:

Mrs. Walker, wife of the president of the college.
Miss O'Connor of Atlanta, Ga.
Miss Slaughter of Sutherland.
Miss McGraw of Sutherland.
Mr. Bourland of Sutherland.
President Walker and Miss Newton reached the beach alive. The bodies of Mrs. Walker and Miss O'Connor have not been recovered. The bodies of the other three who lost their lives were washed ashore and recovered.

President Walker had taken the party out for a cruise to the lighthouse, but met with rough water and the boat was overturned in the gulf.

To Congratulate King Christian.

Berlin, April 5.—Crown Prince Frederick William is going to Copenhagen in behalf of Emperor William to congratulate King Christian on his eightieth birthday, April 8.

The Vossische Zeitung learns from the best source that the visit occurs only upon the condition that not one of the Cumberland princesses is present at Copenhagen.

It was announced March 23 from Berlin that the engagement of the

The Duke of Cumberland's second daughter, which was rumored to be under negotiations last year, at the time Emperor William visited Copenhagen, and which then was denied, apparently had some basis in fact, but was frustrated by the Duke of Cumberland's sudden departure from Copenhagen just before the emperor's arrival. According to the Brunswick Landes Zeitung the emperor resented the duke's departure and characterized it as an affront, adding to a high military personage in his entourage that he would not again run after the duke. The Landes Zeitung vouches for this story in such a way as to warrant the conclusion that it emanated from the Brunswick ministry.

MILES BOOM STARTED.

Indiana Prohibition Campaign Fathers it.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 5.—At the state convention of prohibitionists here today a boom was started for a national ticket composed of Gen. Nelson A. Miles for president and Felix T. McWhorter of Indiana for vice president. As a finale to his speech, Mr. Rhodes launched the boom for Gen. Nelson A. Miles as the prohibition candidate for president.

"With that noble American bearing our national banner aloft," said he, "with a candidate for every state, county and municipal office, next November we will march forth conquering and to conquer." The convention at noon was adjourned to permit a division among the districts. A state ticket will be nominated tomorrow.

Will Work on Subway.

New York, April 6.—For the first time in several months the city of New York will resume work on the rapid transit subway, a strike of plumbers having been settled after a month's negotiations. The men will resume work at once on the stations.

SAVES A NEGRO.

Gov. Vardman Stops One from Being Lynched.

Jackson, Miss., April 5.—The negro, Albert Baldwin, who killed Engineer Fogarty some time ago, was started today for Tallahatchie county for trial. When the train reached Tchula was sent to Gov. Vardman to take the negro from the train and lynch him. The governor immediately telegraphed the officers in charge to take the negro to Greenwood and keep him there, later sending a detachment of militia to take the negro to Sumner by special train.

A Growsome Find.

Davenport, Wash., April 5.—People in the neighborhood of Almira, a small place in this county, are wrought up over the finding of the body of a man buried in a shallow grave. The growsome find was made by a couple of stockmen. The body was identified later as that of E. E. English, a young rancher, who disappeared in 1901.

This is the fourth mysterious murder that has taken place in that community in the past three years. The other three were Judge Lewis and his wife, an aged couple who were brutally beaten to death at their home in November, 1902, probably for the purpose of robbery, and Charles Tantis, who was killed in his saloon at Geneva, April, 1903, no motive for the crime having ever been found.

Boodlers' Conviction Affirmed.

Lansing, Mich., April 5.—The supreme court today affirmed the conviction in the circuit court of Thomas F. McCarty, a prominent Grand Rapids attorney, on the charge of bribery in connection with the water deal.

Dynamite Plot Frustrated.

Everett, Wash., April 5.—A plot to dynamite the quarters of the Japanese employees of the Mukileo mill was discovered and frustrated last night. For some time past the feeling against the Japanese has been very bitter, organized white labor opposing them very strongly. Threats were made to drive the Japanese away from this locality and it is believed that the dynamite plot was part of a plan to accomplish this purpose.

Rose Re-Elected in Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 5.—Mayor David S. Rose, Democrat, carried the city in the municipal election, having a plurality of 5,911 over Guy D. Goff, Republican. Victor L. Berger, Social Democrat, ran over 2,000 votes behind Goff. The vote for mayor is as follows: Rose, 23,115; Goff, 17,693; Berger, 15,333.

The Democrats also control the common council, electing 24 members; Republicans 13, and Social Democrats, 5. Five hundred thousand dollars was voted for a municipal lighting plant.

Would be Defrauders Indicted.

Portland, Or., April 5.—The indictment returned by the United States against T. A. Wood was made public today. Wood and his son, Hosea Wood, are charged with conspiracy to defraud the United States by making fraudulent applications for pensions for alleged Indian war soldiers, for widows and alleged soldiers, for presenting fraudulent applications to the commissioner of pensions, for making false affidavits for both valid and fraudulent claims and for filing such affidavits.

Sciatic Rheumatism Cured.

"I have been subject to sciatic rheumatism for years," says E. H. Waldron, of Wilton Junction, Iowa. "My joints were stiff and gave me much pain and discomfort. My joints would crack when I straightened up. I used Chamberlain's Pain Balm and have been thoroughly cured. Have not had a pain or ache from the old trouble for many months. It is certainly a most wonderful liniment." For sale by all druggists.

I GRATEFUL PRAISE

LAS VEGAS HOT SPRINGS, NEW MEX., June 2, 1903.
A neglected cold caused cessation of the menses and I grew worse each day. My strength, which had been too robust, left me altogether and I was only too glad to do anything which would bring back my health. I suffered misery and torture each month and no longer had any desire to live. But soon after taking Wine of Cardui my spirits rose as I could feel my strength returning day by day. The menses soon became regular and in four months time I was as well and strong as any one could wish to be. I am full of praise and thankfulness for what Wine of Cardui has done for me.
