THE CZAR'S DEATH.

Pathetic Closing Scenes of the Emperor's Career.

ALL EUROPE IN MOURNING.

Russia Has a New Ruler—The Palace Guard and the Grand Dukes Take the Oath of Allegiance.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 1.—At 2:15 o'clock this afternoon the [illegible] and a few hours later the [illegible] booming of cannon at Livadia and St. Petersburg announced the Czar was dead, and that he who had been the Grand Duke Nicholas reigned in his stead. On lightning wings the news of Russia's loss spread throughout the world, and it is safe to say that everywhere the intelligence created sympathy for the family of him who, by his policy, had maintained the peace of Europe.

From America come words of sympathy, for the dead ruler had always been a friend of the great Republic of the west, and Americans have not forgotten how well his father's friendship [illegible] the North in the war of the rebellion.

Among the peasants of Russia he will be mourned with a deep and abiding sorrow, for was he not the "peasant czar?"

There will be sincere mourning, too, in the royal and imperial families of Europe. Not the conventional mourning prescribed by rule, but the mourning of little children. For who has not heard of the annual visits of the czar to Copenhagen, the home of his beloved czarina, when, with the children of emperors, kings and princes around him, he was the biggest child of them all, joining in all the sports, and romping with them like a big boy.

The morning broke with rain and wind and heavy clouds, and the weather was much colder. As the day advanced the weakness increased so rapidly that the czar himself recognized that he could only live a few hours. He expressed a desire to receive the sacrament, which was administered to him by Count [illegible] Yanisheff and Father Ivan, in the presence of the whole family.

The czar then conversed long and earnestly with Father Ivan, concluding by asking his family to again gather around him. He spoke to each member separately and at greatest length with the czarina. He blessed all his children present. The scene was one of deep pathos.

About noon a convulsive fit of coughing was followed by a slight rally. Thence until the end the czar remained quiet, seemingly free from pain. At 2:15 o'clock he heaved a deep sigh and breathed his last in the arms of the empress, who then broke down with the weight of her grief.

The state mourning will commence on Saturday. The funeral will probably be held two weeks hence.

An imperial decree announcing the accession to the throne of the Grand Duke Nicholas (the czarewitch) is expected from Livadia in a few days.

RUSSIANS INDIGNANT.

1 a.m.—It is reported here that the populace of Moscow, indignant at what they believe the malpractice of Dr. Zacharin in the case of the czar, are watching the doctor's house in that city.

AT THE DEATHBED.

LIVADIA, Nov. 1.—When all was over the czarewitch, Grand Duchess Xenia and the other imperial relatives approached the bedside in turn to take a last farewell. The court officials and members of his majesty's suite were afterwards admitted. The flag over the palace was placed at half-mast, and a salute was fired by the vessels in port.

Shortly after 4 o'clock the members of the palace guard were marshaled in the square in front of the palace chapel for the ceremony of swearing allegiance to the new czar. They were the first to take the oath. The grand dukes were the next to swear allegiance, and they were followed in the order of procedure by the high court functionaries, court officials, military officers and civil officials.

ANNOUNCED IN WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—The announcement of the czar's death brought profound grief to the Russian legation at Washington. Official word came late in the afternoon in the following cable from the minister of foreign affairs:

"ST. PETERSBURG, November 1.
It has pleased the Lord to recall him, our much beloved sovereign, Emperor Alexander the Third. Died at Livadia this afternoon, November 1, at 2:15.
GIERS."

Upon receipt of the official notification of the czar's death, Mr. Adee, second assistant secretary of state, acting secretary in the illness of Secretary Gresham, called upon Prince Cantacuzene and conveyed verbally to him the condolence of the President and secretary of state. A formal letter of condolence from Secretary Gresham will be sent to him later.

The members of the diplomatic corps all called and left their cards at the Russian legation today. The only visitor received there this evening was Assistant Secretary Adee.

FRANCE IN MOURNING.

PARIS, Nov. 1.—Premier Dupuy, as minister of the interior, has addressed the following notes to the prefects of all departments of France:

"His majesty, Alexander III, died at 2:15 this afternoon. The government of the republic immediately sent to Livadia and to St. Petersburg an expression of its profound emotion and the unanimous regrets which this painful news will provoke throughout France. You are requested to half-mast and drape with crape the flags on the national and departmental buildings."

QUEEN VICTORIA TO THE CZARINA.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—M. de Staal, the Russian ambassador to Great Britain, did not receive an official dispatch of the embassy announcing the czar's death until 8 o'clock this evening. The Prince of Wales, who, together with the Princess of Wales, is en route to Livadia, telegraphed the intelligence from Vienna to the queen and the Duchess of York. The queen immediately sent a telegram of condolence to the czarina.

AT COPENHAGEN.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 1.—The death of the czar, who was a son-in-law of the king and queen of Denmark, has caused great sorrow among the masses here, where his majesty was a universal favorite.

ALL HEARTBROKEN.

ATHENS, Nov. 1.—King George received a dispatch from Queen Olga, who is at Livadia, timed 2:25 p.m., saying: "All is over. He died quietly. We are all heart-broken."

Queen Olga is a cousin of the late czar.

ILLEGALLY ON THE ROLLS.

Charges Preferred Against a San Francisco [illegible].

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 1.—The biggest political sensation of the campaign was sprung [illegible] O. J. Stowell, a private detective, brought suit against Registrar Evans and six thousand voters who, he charges, are illegally on the rolls. Stowell claims to represent the Democratic and non-partisan party committees. Every one of the six thousand men accused is mentioned by name. It is alleged that they have no legal residence, and the complaint demands that their names be stricken from the register. If the local courts refuse to take the action demanded, Stowell declares that he will secure warrants and arrest the accused men as they appear at the polls to vote, providing all the warrants cannot be served before election day.

Interview With Harrison.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The Commercial Advertiser prints the following interview with ex-President Harrison:

"You have been here over a week, Mr. Harrison; what do you think of the political situation?"

"From the surface indications, I should say the Republicans should win. Of course I do not know anything about the outside indications. It seems to me if ever the Republicans can win in the state this time is now the most propitious."

The crank Gordler, who called upon President Cleveland, entered the Fifth Avenue Hotel before 10 o'clock this morning, but he did not ask to see any one. He slowly made his way to the reading-room and wrote a long letter to ex-President Harrison, which he left at the office for him.

Excursions via Salt Lake.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—The Burlington has taken a new departure in the subject of excursions and will begin the last week in November to run a series of weekly excursions from Boston through to Los Angeles. West from Chicago the route will be via Omaha, Denver and Salt Lake City. The route from Boston to Chicago has not yet been determined.

TREASURY STATEMENT.

Increase of the Public Debt for One Month.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—The monthly treasury statement issued today shows that on October 31, 1894, the public debt, less cash in the treasury, amounted to $911,327,471, an increase for the month of $14,940,334.

The cash in the treasury is classified as follows: Gold, $125,613,885; silver, $506,018,713; paper, $160,337,134; bonds, disbursing officers' balances, etc., $16,-[illegible],247, making a total of $754,789,011, against which there were outstanding liabilities amounting to $647,[illegible], leaving a cash balance of $107,[illegible], of which $61,361,826 was gold reserve.

The total receipts during the month of October were $19,[illegible], and the disbursements $[illegible], leaving a deficit for the month $[illegible], and for the four months of the fiscal year $[illegible]. Of the receipts for October, $11,962,118 was from customs, $[illegible] from internal revenue, and $[illegible] from miscellaneous sources. Of the expenditures $11,[illegible] was for pensions.

Wanted to Buy the British Fleet.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—A dispatch from Tien Tsin says: Generals Wei and Yeh, who were recently disgraced for cowardice at Ping Yang, have arrived at Tien Tsin, but are afraid to proceed to Pekin because of the anger of the emperor.

The Japanese have placed three bridges across the Yalu river and 15,-000 Japanese soldiers are reported to be in China.

A dispatch from Chefoo says Admiral Freemantle, commanding the British fleet, has returned from Tien Tsin, where he paid a visit to Li Hung Chang. The viceroy gravely offered to buy the Centurion and three other warships of the British squadron. When the admiral explained the sale of the vessels would be impossible, the viceroy persisted in his offer. The Chinese imagine Admiral Freemantle is holding off for a higher price.

Tried to Buy Goff.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The Evening Post today says it has indisputable evidence that during the course of the present investigation Mr. Goff was waited on by a person who offered him $10,000 as a fee for examination of the title to a piece of real estate which was worth less than $3,000, on condition that he (Goff) would not call as a witness a certain captain of police or mention the name of said captain. Mr. Goff declined the offer and called the name of that captain the next day.

BRITISH CONSUL IN PRISON.

Peruvian Revolutionists Burn the Consulate and Kill Women.

TACOMA, WASH., Nov. 1.—A special to the Ledger from Victoria, B. C., says that the flagship Royal Arthur and four other ships of the British squadron at that point, have been ordered to Callao at once.

The British consulate at that place has been taken possession of by revolutionists and the consul made a prisoner. His wife and daughter have been killed and the consulate has been burned to the ground.

The flagship leaves under full steam tonight and will call at Victoria for the mail about midnight. Admiral Stephenson is on board.

A FIEND INDEED.

He Poured Oil Over a Horse and Set Fire to It.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Pouring kerosene all over a sick horse, setting fire to it and standing by to make sure that it burned to death are the outlines of the charges on which Welser Hanlsen, of Newark, N. J., was arrested last night. Jacob Wolf [illegible] to tell Hanlsen that his horse was ill. Hanlsen examined the horse and sent for a can of kerosene oil. This he emptied on the horse's back.

"The horse has colic!" he said, "and nothing will cure him but heat. I am going to warm him."

The animal was tied to a heavy post in the stable yard and Hanlsen set fire to the oil. It blazed up at once and the horse was soon roaring and plunging in the greatest agony. Hanlsen stood by with folded arms and smiled. Wolf meanwhile ran up and down shouting that Hanlsen was killing his horse. Hanlsen [illegible] some blankets brought out in order to put out the fire. The horse fell, however, in the death agonies and in a few minutes expired. A great hole had been burned in its back.

PRESS COMMENTS.

Called Forth by the News of the Death of Alexander.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—The Daily News correspondent in Paris says:

If the news of the czar's death had arrived earlier there would have been doubtless some spontaneous demonstration, as great crowds of workingmen were abroad placing wreaths on the graves in the cemeteries in observance of All Saints' day. Despite the fact that the event was expected, everybody around is pained and confused. Gathered in the boulevards, discussion is centered as to the best way of showing their sympathy. It was agreed forthwith that they should procure flowers and convey them to the embassy. They found the shops in the vicinity sold out and so the impulse died out.

In recalling the circumstances of Alexander the Third's accession to the throne the Standard says:

His life was one long martyrdom which he bore with serene fortitude. That he kept his head clear and his judgment sound argues his uncommon strength of character. The price had to be paid for his stern exercise of willpower. It may readily be believed that the malady to which he succumbed has its origin in his disappointments of heart and vexations of mind. We believe that the Franco-Russian friendship will be little affected by his death. His son Nicholas must move for a considerable time in the groove of policy worn by others.

The Daily Chronicle says: Death calls forth human and personal emotions before which all political and public considerations subside. For doing his utmost to preserve Europe from war millions who detest his ideas and the nature of his rule will respect his memory. We devoutly hope that his pacific views will be shared by his successor.

The Daily Graphic says: On the whole the czar's influence was healthy. He leaves Russia distinctly happier, stronger and more prosperous than in any other period of her history. He was faithful to his great trust as custodian of the European peace.

The Morning Post says: We warmly admire his stern sense of duty and the heroic way in which he struggled against the rapidly increasing weakness. There is no reason to doubt that Nicholas will walk the footsteps of his father, who commanded the gratitude of his subjects and the respect of Europe.

ATTEMPT AT ROBBERY.

The Unsuspecting Victim Entertains One of the Villains.

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—An attempt was made to rob Mrs. M. E. Page, widow of M. E. Page, the confectioner, at her home, 446 Garfield avenue. A woman called upon Mrs. Page and asked for a report of a society affair in which Mrs. Page was interested. The woman was about 27 years old, well dressed and of pleasing manner. She said she was a reporter for a morning paper. Mrs. Page invited the young woman into her reception room in the second story of the building and engaged her in conversation. After some time the conversation turned upon music and the young woman requested Mrs. Page to play for her. Mrs. Page consented and seated herself at the piano. She had scarcely placed her hands on the keys when she received three heavy blows from behind upon the head. The blows, however, fell upon her hair curled on the top of her head and she was only slightly stunned and cried out lustily for help. The woman fled down the stairway to the street. Mrs. Page followed her and found that she had been stopped upon the sidewalk by two young men who seemed to be having a hard time holding her in custody. Before Mrs. Page could say anything one of the young men advised her to return to the house to see if any of her jewelry had been stolen. Mrs. Page did so and after finding that nothing was missing returned to the street. The two young men and the woman had disappeared and Mrs. Page has not seen them since. Police officers have been detailed on the case, but have made no arrests, but it is thought by them that the men were accomplices of the woman and it was their aim to get possession of Mrs. Page's diamonds and jewelry valued at several thousands of dollars.

"NOT HALF TOLD!"

The Words of Mr. Hendley, Whose Statements Were Published Two Weeks Ago.

A Forcible Illustration that the Statements Published in these Columns Each Week, far from Being Sensational or Misleading, are the Words of the Patients in their Simplest Form.

A very forcible illustration is furnished this week, in the words of Mr. Hendley, manager of the City Farm, establishing conclusively the fact that the statements given each week from patients treated and cured by Drs. Shores & Shores' new system, far from being sensational or misleading, are in every instance the mildest and simplest words of the patients themselves, used in describing their experience.

Mr. Hendley called at the office of Drs. Shores & Shores one day last week and said: "Doctor, among the many inquiries I have had from letters of people since my statement was published in the papers there is one in particular, from a gentleman at Clifton, Idaho, who wrote me, asking if it was true that you had cured me and if I was really in such a terrible condition when I went to you?

"Now I want to say just as I said in my letter to him that my statement did not half express it—words can hardly describe the awful condition I was in and the wonderful good you have done me."

Mr. Hendley's statement as published two weeks ago is given below:

MR. CHAS. HENDLEY, MANAGER CITY FARM.

"I had catarrhal poison in my system for 15 years, and I can say from experience that when it is allowed to go on unchecked the result is simply horrible.

"Besides ordinary symptoms my trouble had gone so far that the poison was beginning to decay and destroy. My mouth and stomach was eaten away in patches and holes. And I suffered fearful pain and agony at all times. I had no appetite, of course. If I did take any food the misery that always followed in my stomach was terrible—a gnawing, eating away feeling; food would not digest, my stomach was so sore and poisoned.

"For three weeks at one time I did not swallow a particle of food. My tongue was so swollen I could not shut my mouth. For years all I would dare take in the morning was a glass of water. The eating sores in my mouth were terrible, and all I could do was to keep burning them with caustic to stop the poison from eating into the bone.

"Of course I sought relief—have doctored most all the time for seven years. I was under the treatment of five of the best doctors in the east but none could give me any permanent relief. They could not even [illegible] the disease, for it kept getting worse and worse until about two months and a half ago, when I was induced to go to Drs. Shores & Shores. If my condition and suffering was extraordinary my experience under Drs. Shores & Shores' treatment is simply wonderful. I can hardly express my delight and gratefulness for their remarkable skill and success. Their soothing treatment and strengthening, purifying vegetable medicines have made a new being of me. My suffering is all gone. I eat three hearty meals a day now and enjoy every one of them.

"I am glad to make this statement, and I sincerely hope that everyone suffering with catarrh who reads this will take a warning from my experience and not neglect it nor risk injury by fooling with some incompetent doctor, but go at once to those up-to-date physicians—Drs. Shores & Shores—and be cured."

Mr. Hendley's address is Sugar House P. O. this county.
