FRAGMENTS.

Fire hose and other officials are having a rushing time at present.

The Central Democratic Club will meet at its quarters in the Wasatch building this evening.

The City Council will meet in regular session tonight. There is a large amount of business on the table.

The purse recently picked up on the street, and which contained a small quantity of strip and money, is still awaiting the owner at this office.

Among the musical attractions during the coming festivities will be an Atlanta Polaris composed for the occasion by Professor C. J. Thomas, to be played by Held's band on Thursday, April 6th.

A transparency in front of the G. A. R. hall was ignited last evening by a gas jet. An alarm was sounded and the fire brigade turned out promptly but the flames were extinguished before its arrival.

The Y. M. C. A. Debating society will hold its regular meeting tonight at the association rooms. The program is as follows: Eleven minute speeches on papers on the following subjects, Emigration, Scott Anderson; Assurion, Eugene Young; France, C. H. Whitney. A general discussion on these subjects will follow.

The Mechanics' Union is the name given to a fifteen city whose inhabitants are mechanical figures apparently attending to the daily duties of life. The contrivance is a remarkable one and is operated by electricity in the new Bodwell building on East Temple, between South Temple and First South streets.

Entertainment Committee.

The members of the general committee on entertainment of Conference visitors are hereby requested to meet in their reports tomorrow (Tuesday) morning, and later than ten o'clock, at the office of President Angus M. Cannon, Tithing Office building.

ROBERT PAYNTER,
CHAUNCEY W. WEST,
Chairmen of Committee.

Special Notice.

COUNTY COURT IN SESSION.

The Sandy Incorporation Petition has Been Shelved till Thursday.

Vacancies in the Various Precincts—Recommendation by County Physician Worthington.

At yesterday afternoon's session of the county court that petition of 118 persons residing at Sandy, asking that the town be incorporated was laid over until Thursday afternoon.

The road supervisor of Sugar House ward was instructed to do two days' work in front of the school house in the Twenty-third district and charge same to said district; also to build a bridge across Emigration creek one mile east of Wagener's brewery.

The clerk was instructed to give the road supervisor of road district No. 21, an order on Morrison, Merrill & Co. for 100 feet of bridge lumber, and fifty spikes for road repairs.

The clerk was instructed to give an order on Geo. A. Lowe to Jackson James, road supervisor of district No. 20, for two plough points.

Edwin Haviland, Jr., county surveyor, was allowed $15 per month for office rent during the pleasure of court.

The applications for liquor licenses of John Schaerr and Witney & Spencer of Sandy were granted and bonds approved.

The applications for liquor licenses of Billy H. Graves of Sandy and S. Hays of Bingham were granted and bonds approved.

Territorial Secretary Sells sent in a statement of vacancies which have occurred in various precincts as follows:

Butler—Justice of the peace and constable.

Big Cottonwood—Justice of the peace.

Brighton—Justice of the peace and constable.

East Mill Creek—Justice of the peace and constable.

Farmers'—Constable.

Fort Herriman—Justice of the peace and constable.

Grant—Justice of the peace and constable.

Hooper—Constable.

South Cottonwood—Justice of the peace and constable.

Mountain Dell—Justice of the peace and constable.

North Point—Justice of the peace and constable.

Riverton—Constable.

Silver—Justice of the peace and constable.

Sugar House—Constable.

West Jordan—Constable.

Salt Lake City, Fourth Precinct—Justice of the peace and constable.

The notice was filed.

John W. Smith, justice of the peace for Draper precinct, reported that his predecessor had turned over to him the sum of $7, on entry sale, and asked what disposition he should make of it. He was instructed to turn it in to the county treasury.

The notice of the North Point Consolidated Irrigation company that the surplus canal had broken its banks, was again laid over.

Upon recommendation of the county physician the following resolution was adopted:

Whereas, A number of cases of diphtheria have recently occurred among certain families residing on the west half of block 1 and 2, block 7 A, five acre plat A, Big Field survey, Salt Lake City, and it is reported to the county court by the county physician that said cases of said disease were caused by the use of the water of certain wells located on said premises for drinking; and

Whereas, It is further reported by the physician that there is danger of further cases of said disease in the neighborhood of said premises unless said wells be thoroughly cleaned; so it

Resolved, That David P. Anderson and Ellen Lincoln, the owners of said premises, be not; they are hereby required to thoroughly clean out, under the direction of the county physician, all wells located on the premises of said premises to their satisfaction, at their expense respectively, and the clerk of this court forthwith transmit to David P. Anderson and Ellen Lincoln a copy of this order.

A communication from Justice Tipton of South Cottonwood precinct, with reference to costs amounting to $42.75 in a criminal case, was referred to the county attorney to ascertain whether the justice desires to turn the sum over to the county or that the county pay him the amount.

Appropriations were made amounting in the aggregate to $973.55.

The board adjourned until Thursday afternoon.

Card of Thanks.

The undersigned express their sincere appreciation of the deep sympathy, kind acts and consoling remarks rendered by their many friends during the sad and trying hour of their recent bereavement, and ask that the Father of all will make up to them the full measure their reward.

JAMES T. COON,
CAMILLA C. COON.

The Stanton Case.

The special committee appointed to investigate the charges against Chief Stanton are not yet prepared to report. The committee, it is understood, has been methodically procrastinating for the purpose of securing certain much desired affidavits which could not be procured heretofore.

Notice to Old Timers.

The old timers who came to the valley in the late companies of 1847, viz: Willes, Martin, Hunt and Hodgett, also those who went from the valley to their rescue, are requested to meet at the Globe bakery, on East Temple street on Saturday, April 8th, at eight o'clock p. m., to make arrangements for a reunion.

Runaway on West Temple.

There was a lively runaway on West Temple street this afternoon shortly before 3 o'clock. A raw horse attached to a buggy had been left standing on the west side of the Temple block and during the absence of its owner jumped to bride off, took right and ran southward to Brigham Brock's stables near which the outfit was stopped without any damage having been done.

AMUSEMENTS.

JULIUS CESAR.—The firm of Warde & James, successors to the firm of Booth & Barrett, are doing business at all the old stands in the country—opened up in Salt Lake City last evening, and was rewarded with a monster rush of patronage, mixed only to that enjoyed in the old times by their illustrious predecessors. If was not such a house, it is true, as Booth and Barrett drew on the memorable night when they gave us Julius Cesar, and neither can it be said that it was such a performance; but it was a handsome audience and it was a noble presentation, one better perhaps than to be seen today at any theater in the world which still affects Shakespearian plays, with the possible exception of Irving's theater in London. We recall no theatre, and no stars in America, certainly, who are making any such achievements in the legitimate drama as Warde and James are doing. When Barrett died and Booth retired there was no one left on the American stage to dispute Warde and James' sway with the possible exception of Tom Keene; the three stood on a plane very nearly equal. When Warde and James conceived the very clever idea of joining their forces, they showed a business shrewdness as keen as their artistic sense, and when they carried their idea into execution, the whole country lifted the combination with decided signs of approbation. That the union is a happy one, is evidenced by the reports of immense business which come from everywhere on the road; the verdict Salt Lake gave last night and will continue to give for the remaining nights of the engagement, is simply in accord with the other parts of the country.

It was inevitable of course that the presentation should be subjected to comparisons with that of Booth and Barrett. Cassius was always considered Barrett's strongest role, and Mr. Herman, a very capable actor, is to be commended, that in the face of the recollections he is constantly received,—he was accorded so many plaudits. Mr. Booth's Brutus is not less remembered, but Mr. James' abilities make the gap between Booth's rendition and his seem a very narrow one. The lofty philosophy and the melancholy of The Noblest Roman of Them All, were admirably portrayed, and the great dialogue, famous in every school boy's experience, as well as the beautiful parting scene between Brutus and Cassius, called for the warmest and heartiest applause. Warde came into good role, and he chose well, for the grand oration over Cesar's body he got four recalls, and on the last one he made a grateful little speech, thanking for audience for its encouragement of "an old and fellow player, Antony's role, he has never been heard to such advantage save, barring the one occasion of a slight vocal hoarseness—a fault which seems to be permanent with Mr. Warde. The support was all fair, except the ladies, who had little to do, and who were disappointing to the little they did do. In scenery, costumes and appointments the production was admirable, and the Roman portraiture was excellently handled, the Roman armies are so excellently.

Tonight Francesca de Rimini.

THE HOME DRAMATIC CLUB'S performance at the Majestic will be given Thursday night, and seats are now on sale. The new scene by Appleton, representing the Hotel des Ottoman Lookout, is finished, and is a very elaborate affair. It contains twenty-two pieces and covers 800 square feet of canvass. The world will be given by the club Saturday and Monday nights.

BEN HOGAN, formerly well known in this city as a temperance lecturer, gives a pictorique exhibition of The Wonder of the World, showing the Hawaiian Islands, at the First M. E. church on Third South this evening.

ROCK DISINTEGRATES.

A Useful Invention by a Salt Lake Man.

BEN HAGER of Salt Lake City, says the Sandy Advertiser, has invented an apparatus especially designed for disintegrating rock or dry asphaltum, and the tables in which the material is placed have such a stationary grate, between the bars of which oscillating bars are made to swing, a steam pipe delivering steam beneath the grate while another pipe delivers steam above the grate. As the steam disintegrates the asphaltum the oscillating bars force it down to the bottom of the tables, from which it may be drawn out as desired, the operation being preferably carried on in two connected tables, so that the work is continuous.

WITHIN OUR GATES.

THOMAS D. DEE was one of the visitors from Montana Ogden that mingled with the more or less merry throng upon our streets today.

T. E. RICKS of Beaver, Idaho, is conspicuous among the many Conference visitors from that state and is apparently enjoying himself as well as any of them.

WILLIAM FULLERTON, who has done more traveling and filled more responsible positions than any other man in Beaver county, was one of the many observed on our large streets today.

JOHN ROGERSON is here all the way from Blue Mountain, Iron Mountain county. He says mining is being actively prosecuted, gold flows between more and more, and he thinks well up in gold has been and is being taken out. This is his first visit here in many years.

BERTHOLD MASON, of the way from "Genie Flower" in Beaver county, called on the News today and related some tales of his days from the gold mines in that neighborhood, all of which were well supplied with gold. Also he was looking and feeling well.

M. F. O'CONNOR of Chicago, W. J. Powell of Butte, Montana, T. H. Noble and M. Kibble of Philipsburg, Montana, and C. H. Cosby of Denver, are at the Cullen and looking down upon streets as crowded as any they have seen for some time.

FRANK SLAUGHTER, hailing from the Hawaiian archipelago, is in our town, and as he says to the ladies whom he gives on the occasions thereunto, is here for the first time in twenty-seven years and naturally sees a good many things that he was not able to see in Hilo at all. He thinks we have a right smart chance of a settlement here.
