PACE ARRAIGNED.

The Testimony was Insufficient to Convict and Defendant was Acquitted.

The case against William Pace, who was recently arrested in Tintic by Police Officer Jenny, on the charge of receiving stolen jewelry, was heard yesterday afternoon in the Police Court. The defendant was represented by Messrs Hamilton & Watson, Assistant City Attorney Zeilmer prosecuting. The complaint alleged that the defendant had received the jewelry, consisting of a locket and a gold watch and chain, from one Mike Jackson, formerly a dancer in the employ of Mr. S. I. Clawson of this city.

It will be remembered that Mike Jackson pleaded guilty to stealing the property, in the Police Court, several days ago, and was fined $25 and costs. He also admitted having given the jewelry to Pace. She also stoutly maintained, however, the allegations that Pace was her paramour, but admitted that he was paying his addresses to her.

Mr. Clawson was present as the witness stand and testified to the ownership of the property, saying that it belonged to his wife. The prosecution then made a motion to dismiss the case, and asked the privilege of filing a complaint in the name of Mrs. Clawson. Under the peculiar matters the original complaint was dismissed, so as to make Mrs. Clawson the complainant. With the complaint thus amended the case was proceeded with.

Officer Jenny testified that immediately after the defendant was taken into custody he voluntarily relinquished all claims to the property in question, saying that it had been presented to him in December last, by Miss Jackson.

Counsel for defense then moved to dismiss the case on the ground that it had not been shown that the defendant came in possession of the property by any unlawful means. The court refused to grant the request and Mrs. Clawson was placed on the witness stand. She again confessed to stealing the articles, but said that Pace was ignorant of her having done so, and that he had received them from her in perfect good faith. Her testimony throughout was calculated to exonerate the defendant and the case against him was dismissed.

MARSHAL YOUNG'S REPORT

For the Year 1890 Submitted for Consideration Yesterday.

HE ASKS FOR MORE POLICEMEN.

The Increase of Crime—3,139 Persons Arrested During the Year.

Below is given a full and complete copy of Marshal Young's first annual report of the doings of the police department. The document was submitted to Mayor Scott yesterday and will come up for approval in the City Council on Tuesday night:

"To the Honor the Mayor and the Honorable City Council:

"Gentlemen—I have the honor to submit herewith the annual report of the police department for the year ending December 31, 1890, showing the work done by the force and other matters appertaining to the department.

"At the beginning of the year the police force numbered twenty-seven all told. It has been increased since then, and at present there are thirty-five names on the pay roll.

"The orderly condition of the city was not disturbed during the year by riots, unlawful assemblies or any serious breaks of the peace.

"There was a labor strike in which the street car men quit work, and for several days matters were in an unsettled condition. There was no attempt at violence or the destruction of property. At the expiration of the time fixed upon the greater of the strikers had returned to work, leaving meantime the force did good and faithful work, putting on duty as many as eighteen hours per day.

"I have earnestly endeavored to prevent the presence of professional thieves, thugs and pickpockets in our city. This class, unless detected while at work, can remain in the city two days under our ordinances before they can be convicted of vagrancy.

"The year just closed has been a quiet one in police circles. Considering the large extent of territory our city covers, the railroads centering here, the vast amount of building and public work which has necessarily attracted laborers from every section, and where the wage-earner is in large numbers, there is due reason why we should be proud of the fact that the criminal class that lives by the labor of others.

"The operations of petty burglars and sneak thieves, many of whom are boys, have greatly annoyed our citizens and caused many extra hours for the police than any other class of criminals.

"At this time the cognomen, tramps and petty criminals generally are scarcely known quarters a little work on their part and there are sent to the county jail for from ten to twenty days, whence they can pass the winter in comfort, making little or no return for the same.

"A workhouse, such as I recommend would be given employment, would be almost self-sustaining, besides having a much desired effect of lessening crime.

"A city jail, a city hospital and a workhouse would add materially to the health and moral welfare of the community, the sick and injured whom the police have to deal with daily during the year.

"Hereto has been the practice for the population then our city in the west, and the many miles of streets which should be patrolled and the opportunity for petty crimes suggest the necessity for increasing the number of police in our city.

"A large amount of stolen property is usually found in pawn and junk shops, and I suggest that an ordinance be passed requiring the keepers of such shops to furnish each day a transcript of their books showing articles purchased, and the name, residence and full description of their customers of the previous day, said transcript to be furnished by 10 o'clock each morning to the police department, as they must do in other cities.

"Well knowing the necessity of having a detective force in connection with the police force, the matter was brought before the police commission and a supply of two detectives were employed until October 31.

"There was more or good service in locating crooks and recovering stolen property, and materially assisted the department in breaking up the notorious gang of thieves which infested our city one year ago. Permit me, gentlemen, to recommend the employment of two additional detectives to work with the police department, and to confer in central and attention.

"The patrol wagon has been of incalculable service to the department since its purchase, and I have to report the loss of one of the horses during the month of June for some months.

"During the year the police have arrested three thousand one hundred and thirty-one (3139) persons.

"There have been thirty-seven lost children found by the police and returned to their parents.

"Four hundred and sixty-two (462) animals running at large were taken up and impounded by the police during the year.

"The department has furnished lodgings to six hundred and twenty-six (626) persons during the year, which is five hundred and twenty-three (523) more than last year.

"The police have recovered $4,336.75 worth of property, and have lost the amount of property stolen is $9,072.85. You will see that nearly two-thirds of the property recovered has been returned to the owners. During the year there have been fourteen cheap lodging houses in operation in the city.

"The number of saloons, eighty-two, twenty-three and junk dealers and second-hand stores, eighteen.

"The roster of the department at this time is as follows:

Chief of police	1
Captain and lieutenant	2
Sergeants	5
Patrolmen	25
Office clerk	1
Janitor	1
Patrol driver	1
Night watchman	1
Matron	1
Reserves	3
Patrolmen on duty	25

"Of these there are seven on duty from 7 a.m. until 3 p.m.; eleven on duty from 3 p.m. until 11 p.m.; eleven on duty from 11 p.m. until 7 a.m., and one detail on the Union Pacific railroad depot, special police, as:

"The officers on duty each shift have eight miles of streets to patrol. This includes all that portion of the city from South Temple and West Temple streets to State street, thence west to south West, thence south to South Temple.

"I have the honor to recommend the following:

"That the city purchase the buttons and other supplies exclusive of uniforms used by the officers.

"That the police force be increased by fifty men.

"That the Marshal be allowed to deputize a sufficient number, who shall be bonded for money and effects of prisoners, and who shall be without the advantage in the deputy department.

"In conclusion, permit me to meet your Honor and the police and the public generally, and commend the good conduct and considerate treatment of the officers. This department, I assure you, has report without having the United States Marshal and Deputies, and the county sheriff and deputies for valuable assistance rendered the police department the past year. Yet, Captain Parker, ex-Captain Lange and every member of the police department are thanks are due for their close attention to duty, their efforts to promote the welfare of the department, their efficiency, their kindness to each other, and the courtesy and courageous manner in which they have carried my orders.

Respectfully submitted

"CITY MARSHAL and CHIEF OF POLICE."

BURNS' ANNIVERSARY.

The Birthday of the Scottish Poet Fittingly Commemorated.

On the 25th of January 1759, just 132 years ago, Scotland's great lyric poet, Robert Burns, was born. Last night, the Salt Lake Caledonian Club gave a concert and ball in commemoration of the bard's birthday. G. A. R. hall was crowded. The sturdy sons and fair daughters of old Caledonia were out in goodly numbers to honor the memory of their favorite bard. A beautifully framed picture of the poet adorned the background of the platform. His honest, clearcut face was greeted with admiration by his enthusiastic and patriotic kinfolk. In front of the platform was the inscription in bold lettering, "Robbie Burns—Scotland's boast and pride."

For some time before the exercises commenced the scene in the hall was quite interesting. It looked like a reunion of a long scattered household. Shaking of hands, greetings of warmth and baptisms of affection went on in every quarter of the room. There were genuine smiles of joy on every face. In the midst of this fraternizing a silvery haired gentleman dressed in the chastest black, and with bright, sharp, intellectual features (or so did friend W. C. Dunbar) ran up and down the hall playing the highland pipes. It looked like a scene from the border minstrelsy of other days. Sir Walter Scott could not find a more typical minstrel in his day than the one who awakened last night in the towns of Scotch people memories of old Caledonia and all its wern wild moss, and its numerous of poetic genius.

Chief McDowell made a very good address, dwelling principally on the individality of Robert Burns. He repeated some verses of the poet which were never published, and the original manuscript of which is in the possession of a citizen of Salt Lake City. It appears one bard was at one time invited to a lordly residence to take part in a gathering of aristocrats. When the time came for dining, Robert Burns was instructed to seek his chattels in the servants' kitchen. He was enraged and muddled the spirited messenger with a note making that he paid his addresses to verse at the moment to the assembled gentry. And so it is such a message, last night it was the Scottish success, the words received most hearty applause.

The programme consisted of twenty pieces. Mr. Finlay McGregor was the attraction of the evening. His vocal imitations of harp and bagpipe evoked outbursts of delight. Mrs. Hull, Mrs. Robinson, Miss Pratt, and Miss Hodges all sang and were each encored. Prof. Uvenale, Mr. Evans, Mr. Elliott, Mr. Petty and Mr. Graham also took parts, and gave entire satisfaction.

Mr. Dunbar closed the concert with a selection on the national instrument, the shrill sounding pipes.

Scotch haggis was served in the new chamber of commerce.

After the banquet the floor was cleared and dancing indulged in till 2 a. m., when the gathering dispersed.

DEATH OF LUCY D. YOUNG.

She Passed Quietly to Rest This Morning.

Sister Lucy Decker Young, wife of the late President Brigham Young, died at 6 o'clock this morning, Jan. 24th, at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Shemira Y. Gillespie. The immediate cause of death was an affection of the stomach, which impaired the vitality of her system, leaving inanition. Her illness extended over a period of several weeks and caused much suffering, which the deceased bore with the fortitude and patience for which she was noted.

Sister Young was born at Piqua Greene County, New York, on May 11th, 1825, and was therefore, at the time of her decease, aged 65 years 8 months and 3 days. She embraced the Gospel, together with other members of the Decker family, when she was a mere girl, and has been faithful and true throughout many trying seasons and vicissitudes. She was in every sense a pioneer of the faith, having come to Utah in 1848, the season following the entrance into this valley of the first company of the Saints.

Sister Young, or, as she was familiarly and affectionately called by her friends, "Aunt Lucy," was a noble woman and possessed many of the most estimable traits of her sex. She was quiet, unobtrusive and thoroughly domestic in her tastes. Her sphere was in the circle where she shone with undiminished lustre, loving and thoughtful to a most remarkable degree. Her solicitude for the comfort and happiness of those around her was unceasing; hence she was deservedly loved by the members of her family and greatly esteemed by all who knew her intimately.

The funeral will be conducted tomorrow (Sunday), at 2 p.m., at the residence of her daughter, 57 N. First East Street.

Convicted of Vagrancy.

A little boy yesterday afternoon Little Hodgins, of Mill Creek, who has been a source of so much trouble to his parents of late, was arraigned on the charge of vagrancy. The defendant pleaded not guilty.

The complainant was the girl's step-mother. Mary Jane Hodgins, who set forth in the complaint that the defendant is an idle, loitering and unmanageable person, that she is in the habit of wandering about the streets at all hours of the night, neglecting her awful business, and that she is a common prostitute. The ladies of the girl affirmed the allegations set forth in the complaint. The court adjudged the defendant to twenty days' imprisonment.

The father says he has done all that lies in his power to reform his son from following in his footsteps, and must now appeal to the law for assistance. Application was made to have defendant committed to the Reform School, but an investigation revealed the fact that she was twenty-two years of age, married, separated, or represented, and therefore not entitled to admission to that institution.

A LOCAL LIBEL SUIT

Has Been Placed Against the Salt Lake "Tribune."

DAMAGES CLAIMED, $105,000.

The Plaintiff is Mr. Jesse R. Barton, of Ogden.

In the Third District Court yesterday afternoon a suit for libel against the Salt Lake Tribune was filed by Jesse Burton, a well-known attorney, formerly of Chicago and now a law practitioner at Ogden. The amount of damages claimed is $105,000.

The complaint alleges, first, that on January 24th, 1890, the following article was published in the columns of the Tribune:

"Parties from Brother-in-law of Peccolt, occupying the back seats in the Commissioners of the People's party and Liberal party, and who have been hanging on this city through the columns of the Chicago Herald, and the columns of the Chicago Herald, A newspaper libeler supposed to be responsible, were assured by a consideration, and the man Jesse Burton, who was sent to Chicago by the Gentiles and to the dirty scum of the Mormons. He was placed in the Herald building, and he was placed in the Herald building, and he was paid for the purpose of what little manhood he had."

The plaintiff, for a second cause of action, says that on the date aforesaid the following also appeared in the defendant's paper:

"Portraits of the editors of the Chicago Herald were purchased, a disguised form a week ago, and placed in the hands of the editors here, to create the impression that the charges in the correspondence were true, and those editorials were published as the work of the editor of the Chicago."

For a third cause of action plaintiff alleges that on the 27th day of January, 1890, the following words, referring to him, also appeared:

"When, in addition, the chief thug carries with him a lying scoundrel, whose business is to supply to the Gentile and editorials to a purchased newspaper publishing, in order to cause a false impression to be made that the country relative to a certain people, the Gentiles, are complaining, and it is then not supply a good paper for the Gentiles always and great journal, then we never saw this idea."

For a fourth cause of action plaintiff further quotes the following from the Tribune of January 30th:

"Jesse Burton, who has recently taken so much interest in the Mormon cause, and who was connected with John Rockfield was expected to appear in the Tribune office yesterday morning when Brigham McCallister opened the door in the Wasatch building. For several days he has appeared as counsel for editors and proprietors, and when he asked for a postponement in a certain case yesterday Brigham McCallister quoted it, and in the same breath said Mr. Burton, who had left the room, was a liar and a sneak. Mr. Burton, who is recognized as an attorney, especially in view of the shameful express made of his past methods, and broken the bar of his home county. Warned, of course, he hurried out of the room, and when the Tribune reporter called at eight he had an hour's start. Mr. Burton, who is a graduate of the University of Michigan, and who has practiced in Chicago, Ogden and Salt Lake, is not a bad lawyer. Barton looked somewhat disconcerted, and clearly stated that he had placed himself in a position to defend the Brigham McCallister, 'I shall not recognize you as a private attorney. If the People's Party does representation here they must appoint other counsel, for I cannot work in opposition to my client's characteristics.' This was a vengeance to the tyrant, and he turned out of the room like a whipped cur. The Tribune recently gave two minutes when Richard Young and James H. Moyle came rushing into the editorial rooms, and asked for their private parlors. If any sensational lines needed to throw the People's Party, this rapid replacement was the trick that made the clean complete. Mr. Moyle and Mr. Young had been promoted from opposing counsel because of the article which appeared in the Tribune, and which Brigham McCallister had commented in the article's behalf. Brigham McCallister replied that Barton was a liar, and generally supposed that Barton had not widely on account of the article, but that he McCallister had sufficient provocation to make the charge, and yet his mind that Barton was not the kind of man he desired to recognize."

For a fifth cause of action plaintiff alleges that on the 31st day of January, 1890, the Salt Lake City Herald and defendant published the following with intent to injure him:

"The member of the so-called success from Ogden, Jesse Burton, who has his own disciples, from Brigham McCallister, is another proof of the fact that the Gentiles are not the people, and seems to be, in fact, with that class of shameless blackguards that a well-spoken man is a coward. Mr. Jesse Burton, Esq., who is a graduate of Michigan, and who has been in Ogden, where he has practiced law for a long time, is a man of good standing, and yet he is a coward, and he is a coward, and he is a coward, and
