DESERET EVENING NEWS.

Wednesday, . . January 31, 1894.

FRAGMENTS.

F. C. M. L. will be dead tomorrow for moonshining.

The county clerk has issued marriage licenses to Charlie M. Dodge and Sarah A. Williams of Murray; William Cole of Salt Lake and Minnie Moss of St. Louis; Robert R. Lee of Woodruff and Helen Mae Bryson of Honeville.

Vast quantities of snow are being deposited in the mountains, and the hearts of the farmers are thereby made glad at the promising and excellent prospects for a good supply of water for irrigating purposes during the coming summer season.

Mechanics of the Tabernacle choir will please take notice that an organ practicing at the large Tabernacle for rehearsal Thursday night at 7:30. The piece will be bouhit and made considerable, and much improvement will thus be done. E. Stephens.

There will be an excellent musical entertainment given in the Twentieth ward meeting house this evening, the proceeds to go to the ward organ. It will coincide with the new Mormon identity by the Pell Mergens comedy company. The doors will open at 7:15 and the performance will begin at 7 o'clock.

There was considerable temporary excitement among persons residing north of the Union Pacific depot about 10 o'clock last night, by the report of three pistol shots fired in rapid succession. The cause of the firing was not known, but it is believed to have been done by a crowd of boothlums, simply for the "fun" there was in it.

It is stated that a certain detective a few nights ago arrested one of the "sore footing" men who operate about the Temple block and searched him about three quarters of the way to the City Hall, when he some unknown reason, or moved the bracelets on to go. Just what passed between the policy pair is not known to the public but it is certain that the vagrant has been kicking a good deal the last few days and but little more would be needed to make the story complete as well as create a vacancy in a recent appointment for important office.

There are two coal yards near the intersection of Fifth South and Third West streets. During the last administration Fifth South street between Second and Third West was "graded" by carrying off all the gravel, and as a result the street is now almost impassable. Wagons are stuck in the mud nearly every day. The people down there and those who have to travel along that street are very desirous that the present street commissioner will undo the bad work of the former management, and again place the street in a passable condition.

Y. L. M. I. A. Notice.

The Y. L. M. I. A. officers' meeting will be held in the Fourteenth Ward Relief society hall on next Saturday at 11 a. m. It is earnestly desired that each association be represented. An invitation is extended to all interested.

MARY A. FREEZE,
Stake President.

To Foreclose.

Thomas Marshall et al., as trustees, have commenced proceedings against the Salt Lake & Fort Douglas Railway Company et al, to foreclose mortgages in the sum of $600,000. The Utah Central Railway company, its receivers and others are made parties defendants. The receivers of the Utah Central are appointed receivers in this instance.

MUNICIPAL MATTERS

The Council Still Takes Issue With the Mayor on the Removal Question.

AGAIN THE PAVING MUDDLE.

Property Book in the University With a Setting to It—An "Unknown" City Reference.

There was a long and busy meeting of the City Council last night and for the first time during the present administration, it was deemed necessary to hold a Friday night session, a policy that seems heretofore to have been sedately guarded against. All of the members were present and President McCornick occupied the chair.

THE PROCEEDINGS.

Isaac Hatcher asked to be allowed to use the water of City Creek for ice making purposes. Committee on irrigation.

A petition from J. W. Summerhays for relief from tax sale was referred to the city attorney.

A claim of $5,401.35 from Walker Brothers came from the Kentucky Liquor company for $117 and one from Carlson Bros. for $300 was referred to the committee on waterworks, the damage being claimed from the effects of the recent freshet in the waterworks.

The petition from A. L. Jacobs for $25 for insurance and the request of Harriet M. Further were referred to the committee on license.

A petition from the board of scientists to have the property owners on the south side of the Jackson school remove their fence to the property line, and of Frederick Smith to set up a fruit stand at the corner of South Temple and East Temple streets went to the committee on streets.

A. F. Lawson and others complained that their property was being flooded and damaged by city water. Committee on irrigation.

Hannah Phillips asked for a refund of $6.05 payment of sewer taxes. Committee on sewerage.

James Fullmer and twenty-three other street sprinkler employed on the joint City and County building sent in a communication in which they complained saying they were informed that after June (Wednesday) they would be displaced for entire sprinkling. They wished to protest against any such proceeding. Lies on the table temporarily.

Corporation Counselor Hoge reported that the claim of Susannah Zenger for $3,000 damages for injuries alleged to have been sustained by falling on the sidewalk, was so indefinite as to make it impossible to tell whether the petitioner was entitled to anything or not. Filed.

The same official reported adversely on the claim of the concrete bed company, Mr. Kendall, for salary after he was removed by the Mayor. Filed.

Health Commissioner Beatty recommended that the abandoned canal on Eighth West street be filled up. Referred.

George S. Bateman was confirmed as deputy recorder, while the appointment of Captain Donovan as deputy city marshal was passed upon.

The recorder was ordered to notify the heads of all departments, both elective and appointive, that they submit at the next meeting of the Council the names and salaries of all the employees in their respective departments.

The special committee to whom was referred the communication of the Mayor on the power of appointment and removal of officers, sent in a very exhaustive report on the matter, in which they have published stand taken against his house, and after quoting a good deal of law and citing cases, concluded as follows:

"We are therefore constrained to say that we do not think that the Mayor of Salt Lake City has the power to remove an officer unless it be the police in the city, and that before the Council can act upon the appointment of Mr. Malley it must remove the present incumbent. We therefore recommend that the Council take steps at once to remove Mr. Frank L. Hines and confirm the appointment of Thomas F. Malley."

The report was adopted, Hines removed and the appointment of Malley confirmed.

W. A. Edwards and F. P. McDonald were confirmed as patrolmen.

The committee on finance reported adversely on the petition of Treasurer Dotte for the retention of the license inspector. Adopted.

After a lengthy report and a good deal of discussion had been listened to, it was ordered that the work of the Culmer-Jennings Paving company be accepted and a final estimate made.

The city attorney was instructed to draw up an ordinance requiring persons having claims against the city to swear to the same.

Young offered the following which was referred to the city attorney:

Whereas, it is often desirable and necessary in the police department that detective work in the interest of the city should be done by a person who is not publicly known to be in the city's employ, therefore be it

Resolved, That the Mayor be and is hereby authorized to appoint a suitable person as private detective who shall perform such duties as may be required of him by the Mayor and chief of police and whose salary shall be and the same is hereby fixed at $100 per month, and that such appointment shall be made by the Mayor without confirmation of the same by the Council.

Lynn offered an ordinance to regulate houses, restrain and prohibit slaughterers, butchers and dealers in fresh meats. It provides that dealers shall pay an annual license of from $50 to $100 according to the amount of business done by them.

The close outlaw communication was referred to the committee on the poor, city and county building and pendent thereto was the adoption of the following resolution offered by Clawson:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this Council that the prisoners on public work be given in the new City residence and lay up an inventory of their accounts with such institutions, societies or any other organization. Adopted.

Clawson presented an ordinance opening the continuation of a road for block 105, plat A, Salt Lake City survey, establishing the title thereof in fee to the University of Utah. The ordinance states that the city received the land stock to the University of Utah on certain conditions, among others that the principal university building should be commenced and completed within two years from the present date of instruction and that the university has complied substantially with the conditions but that said premises and the buildings are now worth more than the amount required for the further development of a University and that Salt Lake City is willing to release the conditions of said conveyance sufficient to permit the University to have the title in fee with the absolute power of disposition and the benefit of its entire expenditure, provided said University is not removed from the vicinity of Salt Lake City.

In accordance with which the ordinance provides that the University shall have the title in fee to said land, provided that within three years from the passage of this ordinance the University shall produce a sworn and bonded inventory of its principal buildings thereon in or within three miles of the present limits of Salt Lake City and expend on said site and for the improvement thereon of buildings, etc., the sum of said new site to be subject to no material condition further than the maintenance of the University thereon. City attorney.

A few other minor matters were disposed of after which the council adjourned until Friday night.

THE MEETING OF SEVENTIES.

An Important and Excellent Discourse by Elder B. H. Roberts.

In response to invitations extended to the members of Seventies and Elders' quorums a large number of brethren met in the Assembly Hall last night, Jan. 30, to listen to the suggestions and instructions of the first presidency of the Seventies as to the best mode of conducting theological classes. Elder B. H. Roberts, one of the first presidency, occupied the time and delivered a most excellent address, showing the necessity of the Elders of Israel to acquire knowledge in all branches of learning whereby they may be made efficient as ministers of the Gospel and witnesses of the work of the Almighty in this age.

The speaker briefly emphasized the great responsibility resting upon those bearing a portion of the Priesthood, and then pointed out that the duties belonging thereto could not be discharged without earnest effort on the part of the members. The revelations of God commanded them to study things past, present and future, for although the Lord has chosen the weak of the earth to be His messengers, yet he does not intend them to remain weak, but wants them to be filled with strength. He then stated the positions taken by Catholics and Protestants. The former maintained that the Church of Christ has never been taken away from the earth but has continued to grow, according to the promise of the Savior that He would be with His apostles until the end of time. The latter admitted that the Church suffered from partial apostacy, but that through the efforts of such men as Luther and Melanchton, Zuingli and Calvin, Wycliffe, Huss, Knox, Wesley and others it was restored to the basis of the Bible. Both are united in denying the necessity of a restoration in this age. It was with the Seventies meet these arguments intelligently without having a detailed knowledge of ecclesiastical history and familiarity with the position taken by the various churches. Elder Roberts concluded by recommending a careful perusal of his outline of Ecclesiastical History and, if possible, of the works referred to in the book.

The discourse was listened to with deep interest throughout. Another meeting will be held tonight (Wednesday) for the purpose of giving a practical illustration of how to conduct a class. Those attending are expected to be prepared to answer questions on the Ecclesiastical History just mentioned. The meeting should be largely attended.

No Oxygen in the Sun's Atmosphere

Science has predicted that one day the fires of the sun will cool. As this nothing prevents such an event, the temperature of the envelope of the body will be affected. This rather contains, we know, great quantities of hydrogen, if, at the same time, it contains oxygen, necessarily, when a certain point has been reached in the reduction of the temperature, the two gases will unite and form vapor. A greater density of our atmosphere would be necessary to make a screen as vapor which the sun could not be imagined. In this case the heat of the earth's rays would be absorbed, and the death of the moon from cold greatly hastened.

M. Janssen resolved to find out if this be true or adding the earth; if her future was to be cut short by a veil of vapor. That is, he resolved to find out the origin of the oxygen lines in the solar spectrum. But how could it be done? "It is impossible the certain action of the atmospheric atmosphere from the hypothetical action of the solar atmosphere." [illegible]

There was one evident method. If he could reach the limit of the earth's atmosphere, and there examine the solar spectrum, the question would be solved at once. If the spectrum there was free from oxygen lines, whereas, those observed at the surface were due to absorption as the ray passed through the earth's atmosphere.

Not being able to reach this limit, M. Janssen sought to approach as high as possible above the earth's surface for observation. If he found that the lines grew paler, or disappeared, and that the degree of the contrast in intensity and in number corresponded to the difference in the quantity of oxygen in the earth's atmosphere at and below the point of observation, then he would be justified in concluding that, in reaching the limits of the envelope (the earth's atmosphere), all the lines would be absent in the spectrum, and that, consequently, the atmosphere of the sun contained no oxygen.

It was in October, 1893, that the first experiments was made. The place chosen was the station on the route to the summit of Mt. Blanc, called the Grands Mulets, ten thousand feet above sea level. The difficulty of meeting this secret so late in the season—the refuge of the Grands Mulets was closely closed, and snow and ice were and fallen—was great for any one, but an experienced Alpinist, Dal M. Janssen is not easily baffled. Provided a comfortable place of refuge, and with a company which resisted successfully, his party remaining the station after thirteen hours of toil, over a road which in the season does not require more than four or five.

If the account had been severe, the reward was more than a compensation. The weather proved to be favorable, and M. Janssen succeeded in making a series of experiments which led him to announce to the Academy of Sciences, "The lines and bands of the spectrum due to oxygen result exclusively from the earth's atmosphere. The solar atmosphere has nothing to do with the production of them. It is certainly very probable."—From "The Observatory on Top of Mt. Blanc," by Mr. M. Tisdell, in Harper's Magazine for February.
