SERVICES AT TABERNACLE.

Were of an Interesting and Impressive Character Sunday Afternoon.

Remarks by Returned Missionaries, Including Elder R. S. Wells, who Reports Conditions in Europe.

Services of an interesting and impressive character were held at the Tabernacle Sunday afternoon January 8, 1899, Elder Angus M. Cannon, president of the Stake, presiding. The speakers were Elders H. E. Jenkins, F. C. Graham, E. S. Sheets and Rulon S. Wells, all of whom reported their missionary labors, the latter having returned two weeks ago from presiding over the European mission.

The choir sang the hymn:

We're not ashamed to own our Lord,
And worship Him on earth.

Prayer was offered by Elder N. V. Jones.

The choir further sang:

Again we meet around the board
Of Jesus, our redeeming Lord.

Elder Harrison E. Jenkins, a returned missionary from Germany, was the first speaker. He expressed satisfaction at the privilege afforded him in addressing the Saints at home, after a few years' sojourn among a stranger people in a strange land. His first assignment was in the city of Mannheim, Baden, Germany, where he experienced the help of the Lord in learning the language. Next he labored in Prussia with a good degree of satisfaction, after which he was called into Switzerland where he labored several months in the office at Berne. In this position he had the privilege of noting the movements of the work in that section of country and was pleased to report that it was prospering, and that the Lord was with His servants in the ministry. Elder Jenkins had received a testimony of the work and could confidently assert that he was not ashamed of the Gospel of Jesus Christ, as he had learned to know that it was the power of God unto salvation.

Elder Fred C. Graham reported his labors in the Colorado mission, where, he said, the Elders were meeting with gratifying success. Elder Graham was first assigned to Colorado Springs conference where he preached the Gospel for some time. He was afterward called to be a counselor to President John W. Taylor in that mission, in which capacity he traveled considerably holding meetings with the Saints wherever and whenever opportunity afforded. The speaker bore testimony to the healing power of God manifested through the Elders and to the many blessings that the Lord would pour out upon His people if they would cleave unto Him.

Elder Elder S. Sheets, from the Northern States mission field, reported great success in the promulgation of the Gospel among the people of Illinois and vicinity, where he had labored for upwards of thirty months. The speaker testified that the feeling against "Mormonism" was fast subsiding in that section, and the missionaries were sowing seed which they believed would result in a rich harvest in the due time of the Lord. Elder Sheets related instances of the workings of the Lord among the people of southern Illinois, showing that the Elders had been led to persons who had seen them in dreams and were seeking after the truth, and were desirous of embracing the Gospel. The speaker had labored in the Minnesota conference, over which he presided for several months, and in this section he also reported encouraging success in the dissemination of the Gospel principles.

Elder Rulon S. Wells, the president of the European mission, and one of the First Seven presidents of Seventies, was the last speaker. He prefaced his remarks by referring to his travels in the Old World, which had taken him into nearly every conference of the Church throughout Europe. He could testify as the preceding speakers had done, that the Lord was with His servants in the ministry, and that the Elders engaged in spreading the principles of righteousness, were full of zeal and went forth with a determination to do their full duty.

The sending out of missionaries to preach the Gospel, was an object lesson to the world, said the speaker. They could not understand how it was that young men could be induced to leave their homes to carry the Gospel to people in foreign lands without monetary compensation.

Elder Wells was pleased to report the work progressing in the European mission. In Great Britain, he said, there were thirteen conferences of the Church, and about 200 Elders. In other parts of the mission there were numerous organized branches, and from all of them come good reports, the work prospering in every section and even extending into Turkey. The success of the work did not necessarily mean that hundreds and thousands were being added to the fold. It was manifested in the good feeling existing among the people in place of former hostility and the gratifying manner in which the way was being opened up for the spread of Gospel principles. Many of the people were willing to give the Elders entertainment, and by this they had been led to investigate the truth with a true and honest purpose.

The speaker referred to the blessings of God in behalf of His servants in the ministry. The acquisition of foreign languages was a distinctive feature of these blessings. They had been so assisted by the Spirit of the Lord as to be able to preach in foreign tongues after being but a very short time away from home, and in many other ways the promises unto the servants of the Lord had been fulfilled in their behalf.

The missionaries throughout the world, the speaker said, were declaring that the Gospel had been restored to earth in these latter days. They were testifying of its divinity, and took pleasure in calling upon all mankind to embrace its principles and thus place themselves in a position to receive the blessings in store for them. Yet many were ready to reject it without a hearing, preferring to remain in darkness rather than to enter into the light.

Faith, he argued, was a living, practical principle, and one which had to be applied daily in order to produce good results. Some people confused this principle with that of credulity and had been led to call it a humbug and to cast it out as being non-effective. The speaker showed the difference between the two. Faith was a saving principle, but without works it was dead and of no avail.

Elder Wells bore a strong testimony to the truthfulness and divinity of the Gospel. It was indeed the power of God unto salvation to all those who believed and obeyed it, and in its practical application it brought to people joy and satisfaction, and gave unto them a testimony which time could not efface, nor the influence of Satan eradicate. The Savior Himself encountered opposition in the ministry. He had many obstacles to surmount, many enemies to fight, but in all He came out victorious, having descended below all things that He might rise above all things.

There was a better feeling than formerly in the world concerning "Mormonism," and although in some parts of Europe intolerance was manifest, the Elders were gaining ground continually, this being notably the case in Germany, where the way was being opened up, and where the Gospel was being quietly introduced. The people of Germany, said the speaker, were gradually becoming tolerant, and he believed that before a great while freedom would be accorded to the Elders to preach the Gospel. The chief opposition arose from the priests and preachers. In this connection Elder Wells related an incident that occurred in Hanover, where a family gave the clergy to understand that they wanted none of their interference with the work of the missionaries.

Concluding, Elder Wells expressed pleasure at being privileged to return home to the bosom of his family, and to meet Saints whom he regarded as his brothers and sisters. He had been blessed in his labors and was thankful for the experience he had received.

IN THE ASSEMBLY HALL.

Proceedings of the Regular Monthly Priesthood Meeting on Saturday.

The regular monthly meeting of the Priesthood of the Salt Lake Stake was held in the Assembly Hall, on Saturday, President Angus M. Cannon and Counselor Joseph E. Taylor presiding.

The meeting commenced with singing and prayer, after which the roll was called showing as follows: One High Councilor, three Patriarchs, Elder George H. Wallace, President of the High Priests' quorum, seven presidents of Seventies and six home missionaries, present.

All the wards of the Stake were represented excepting the Third, Ninth, Twelfth, Fifteenth, Eighteenth and Twenty-first city wards, and East Jordan of the country.

The Second, Tenth, Twelfth, Thirteenth, Nineteenth, Twenty-first, Twenty-third and Twenty-fifth quorums of Elders were represented by their presiding officers. The Lesser Priesthood was represented by members from the Eleventh, Thirteenth, Seventeenth, Twentieth, East Mill Creek, South Cottonwood and Sandy wards.

The Young Men's Mutual Improvement associations were represented by Superintendent Richard R. Lyman and Elder William W. Beckstead, missionary.

Upon the recommendation of their respective Bishops seven young men received certificates authorizing their ordination to the office of Elder.

Elders Angus M. Cannon, Joseph E. Taylor, William W. Beckstead, Richard R. Lyman and Heber Bennion, addressed the meeting, the burden of their remarks being the great need of more efficient and skilled Elders to labor in the interest of the Young Men's Mutual Improvement associations, the large and fruitful field for this labor, particularly among erring ones, the encouragement by the Bishops, presidents of quorums and heads of families of the corps of earnest missionaries appointed to visit and labor with the class of young men named, in their homes and elsewhere, and remain with until they are converted to the Gospel, and receive the witness of the Gospel, and receive the witness of the Spirit in their hearts, if possible, by the labor of love and kindness of the missionaries.

The Bishops and presidents of the Elders, who had not as yet sent in their statistical reports, were asked to send them in immediately. The meeting adjourned until Saturday, February 4th, 1899, with the usual closing exercises.

IN A COBRA'S POWER.

British Officer Saves His Life by Keeping Perfectly Still.

(The Scottish American.)

Dinner was just finished and several English officers were sitting around the table. The conversation had not been animated and there came a lull, as the night was too hot for much talk. The major of the regiment, a clean cut man of 35, turned toward his next neighbor at the table, a young subaltern, who was leaning back in his chair with his hands clasped behind his head, staring through the cigar smoke at the ceiling.

The major was slowly looking the man over, from his handsome face down, when, with sudden alertness and a quiet, steady voice, he said: "Don't move, please, Mr. Carruthers. I want to try an experiment with you. Don't move a muscle."

"All right, major," replied the subaltern, without even turning his eyes; "hadn't the least idea of moving, I assure you. What's the game?"

By this time all the others were listening in a tensely expectant way.

"Do you think," continued the Major—and his voice trembled just a little—"that you can keep absolutely still for, say, two minutes—to save your life?"

"Are you joking?"

"On the contrary; move a muscle and you are a dead man. Can you stand the strain?"

The subaltern barely whispered, "Yes," and his face paled slightly.

"Burke," said the major, addressing an officer across the table, "pour some of that milk into a saucer and set it on the floor here just at the back of me. Gently, man! Quiet!"

Not a word was spoken as the officer quietly filled the saucer, walked with it carefully around the table and set it down where the major had indicated on the floor.

Like a marble statue sat the young subaltern in his white linen clothes, while a cobra di capello, which had been encircled on the leg of his trousers, slowly raised its head, then turned, descended to the floor and glided toward the milk. Suddenly the silence was broken by the report of the major's revolver and the snake lay dead on the floor. "Thank you, major," said the subaltern, as the two men shook hands warmly. "You have saved my life." "You're welcome, my boy," replied the major, "but you did your share."

A PROUD BOAST.

"Yes, sir, I claim that I live in one of the most enlightened communities to be found in this country."

"I don't see what you have to base your claim on. You haven't a public library in the place and I doubt if you've even got a Browning society down there."

"That's all very true, but I want you to understand that we got through Christmas without learning up anybody who played Santa Claus with a lot of cotton fastened to his clothes."—Ex.

IMPORTANT LAND CASE ON

Involves Title to Greater Part of Twenty-third Ward Acreage.

Instituted by Charles H. Moore, who Alleges Illegal Filing Upon Land in Question.

A case of unusual importance has been on for a week past before Register Frank D. Hobbs and Receiver George A. Smith of the local land office.

The case involves the title to the greater part of the land embraced within the boundaries of the Twenty-third ecclesiastical ward of this city. The proceedings were instituted by Charles H. Moore, who alleges that the land in question was illegally filed upon and that the patent issued was void for the reason that the locators of the land reimbursed the government in Chippewa scrip, which, it is claimed, was not legal tender in this section under the circumstances indicated.

The litigants are Councilman F. S. Fernstrom and sixty-seven other residents of the Twenty-third ward, the title to whose homes is in question; the Rio Grande railroad, the Oregon Short Line, and Michael Stoskopf, on one side and Charles H. Moore on the other. The attorneys in the case are Judge Harkness for the Rio Grande, Parley L. Williams for the Oregon Short Line, Frank Pierce for Michael Stoskopf, Edwin W. Senior for Councilman Fernstrom et al, and Major William H. Dale represents the plaintiff, Charles H. Moore.

A large number of witnesses have been examined, and a considerable number remain yet to be examined. The case will probably be concluded early next week.

The board of education is also interested in the matter to the extent that the site upon which the Bonneville school stands is upon a portion of the land for which Mr. Moore is contending. Likewise the meeting house of the Twenty-third ward is located on this section of land. Seventy-three different persons or corporations now have title to the land in question, and twenty-four families are now living upon it.

The disputed land was patented on January 21, 1875, in two sections by Antonia Lapierre and Antonia Dragage. On May 5, 1896, Chas. H. Moore filed an application for these lands, but his application was rejected and the rejection confirmed by the general land office. After reviewing that decision the secretary of the interior directed that a hearing be called, which is now being done.

Deadly Cancer Cured at Last!

Do Not Give Up in Despair—There is Hope!

For ages it has been thought that Cancer is incurable, and those unfortunate as to have this dreadful affliction have considered themselves beyond hope of recovery. The doctors are absolutely unable to afford any relief, and the poor sufferer might well consider himself on the way to an early grave.

It is now easy to see why the doctors have failed to cure Cancer. Their theories have been all wrong, and hence their treatment misdirected. They have made the mistake of thinking that by cutting out the sore or ulcer, known as Cancer, the disease could be gotten rid of, and the patient restored to health. But the cruel knife accomplishes nothing, for the Cancer promptly returns, and is always more virulent than before.

It has been demonstrated, beyond doubt, that Cancer is a blood disease, and can not be cured by the surgeon's knife because the blood can not be cut away.

"Several years ago my wife had an ulcer on her tongue, which, though annoying, was not regarded seriously at first. It refused to heal and began to grow, giving her much pain. The doctors treated it for quite a while but were unable to do her any good, and finally pronounced it Cancer of a most malignant type. We were greatly alarmed and gave her every remedy recommended, but they did not seem to reach the disease, and it continued to spread and grow. Upon the advice of a friend she began to take S. S. S. and after a few bottles had been used a decided improvement was noticed, and continuing the remedy she was cured completely and the permanence of the cure has been proved, as no sign of the disease has returned, though ten years have elapsed.

H. L. MIDDLEBROOKS, Sparta, Ga."

The cures made by S. S. S. are permanent. It is the only blood remedy which can cure obstinate deep-seated blood diseases, because it is the only one which acts on the correct principle of forcing out the poison and ridding the system of it forever.

S. S. S. never fails to cure the worst cases of Cancer, Scrofula, Catarrh, Eczema, Contagious Blood Poison, Rheumatism, old sores, ulcers, etc., it matters not what other remedies have been used in vain. It is the only blood remedy guaranteed
