Some Hangings.

Sr. Louis, 25. — Manden Brown who intrdered his wife's mother over a year ago, was hanged at Huntsville, Mo. this evening, in the presence of a great crowd. This is the man who attempted suicide in jall in Kansas City, some nights ago, in accordance with a plan between himself and wife at a certain hour, but who was prevented from carrying out his part of the agreement by the officers, who, by choking him, forced him to disgorge a heavy dose of morphine. His wife was more successful. Brown ascended the scaffold at 1.10 p. m., and after religious services by the Rev. Mr. Eulington, of the Methodist church, he stepped forward and made quite a speech to the crowd in attendance. He said: If you will keep still a minute I will talk to you in regard to my poor dead child and wife. To every man, woman and service measures he taken to have AMONG THE LADIES

The brilliant. fascinating tints of Complexion for which ladies strive are chiefly artificial, and all who will take the trouble may secure them. These reseate, bewitching hues follow the use of Hagan's Magnolia Balm—a delicate, harmless and always reliable article. Sold by all druggists.

Child I want to say that I have nothing against you, and hope you all have forgiven me. May God have mercy to-day on me and all of you. I stand to-day on the gallows to pay the peualty of my crime. To the young, and many of whom I recognize, I wish to say, I saw many of them riding out here to-day, drunk. I have done the same thing myself, and you see where I am. He asked to be buried with his wife, and held to be buried with his wife with his wife would see that it was put on his wife's dear little hands. I want, he said, to see lief of the distressed in Ireland. The secretary could not assent to a bill which proposed to adopt an entirely new principle. He believes that the government's course, aided by private charities, would be sufficient to meet the evil. He regretted he said, that there had been fever in some of the distressed districts, but there was no evidence that it could be traced to famine, and it was con-fined to a very few places. The re-ports that he had received from Ireland, he said, were reassuring. The debate adjourned.

Smelting and Wages. June 26, 1880. Editors Descret News:

As a word to the wise is sufficient, sincerely do I hope it will be so in this instance for the sake of tho for whom it is written, namely those in Utah who are so unfortunate as to be obliged to earn their bread by working at one of the worst of all employments for health, namely smelting. The cause of this communication is the fact that a short time since the employers of one of these establishments inthe number of working hours from eight to twelve, without increasing the remuneration, and this not because the financial pros-perity of the institution demanded it (for I learn from good authority a good paying business was being done) but to squeeze a little more life out of those who lose enough by works do not pay, and that to make them do so it is necessary to reduce expenses by either increasing the number of hours or reducing the wages, to make the toiler stand the less. Let us look at this fact and see how much justice there is in it.

Allow that a sum of money is invested by an individual or company, and men are engaged to work what is termed eight hour shifts— a length of time that any person who is conversant with the employ-ment, knows is all that any man should work per day—is all that any man should work per day—at a cer-tain rate of wages, are they not ex-pected to perform their duty faithfully, and expect no more than their wages, even though the result of their work should yield immense sums to their employers. But by not so successful, the employed still have the same work to perform but as capital is so much more valuable than human life they conclude that they who had little before shall have still
