JUDGE KING'S LAND BILL.

Proposition of Utah's Representative in Congress.

To Cede Public Lands to State, on Acceptance by the Legislature, Within Three Years

Herewith is the bill introduced into the National House of Representatives May 24, 1897, which was referred to the committee on the public lands and ordered to be printed:

A bill granting and ceding to the State of Utah the public lands within the state of Utah.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That, subject to all rights inchoate or perfected thereto, including the water rights now belonging or appertaining to the United States, all lands lying or being situated in the State of Utah, with full and complete jurisdiction thereover, be, and are hereby, granted, ceded, and confirmed to said State; the grant hereby contemplated to said State being of all the lands contained within its present boundaries, and territorial limits. And the President of the United States shall issue letters patent for the same to the said State whenever and as said State shall, by an act of its Legislature, accept the disposition of the lands as herein provided within the time hereinafter specified. This act shall in no manner affect any of the lands held by the United States for parks, military or other public purposes, nor any Indian lands, nor lands held in trust for or for use by Indians; Provided, That as soon as the title to any lands which may be held by Indians, or any rights which they may have to the occupancy of any lands or Indian reservations, shall have been extinguished and the residue of said lands not obtained by said Indians by allotment or otherwise shall revert to the United States, the said lands so reverting shall be embraced within the act, and patent to the cession herein made, shall become the property of said State of Utah.

Sec. 2. That if at any time within three years from the passage of this act the Legislature of the State of Utah shall pass an act accepting the grant and cession of the public lands within such State as contemplated by said provisos herein, and a certified copy of said act, under the seal of the State of Utah, shall be filed with the secretary of the Interior, then said grant and cession shall be complete and the title of all said lands so granted and ceded by this act shall vest in the State of Utah, and the President of the United States shall thereupon issue letters patent for the same to the said State.

Sec. 3. That as soon as practicable after the filing of said certified copy of said act of the Legislature it shall be the duty of the secretary of the Interior, at the expense of the United States, to cause to be delivered to the proper authorities of the State of Utah the maps, records, books, and papers, or certified copies thereof in case it may be necessary to retain the originals in the general land office, which may be necessary to said State for the proper control, administration, and disposition of said lands.

PRESIDENT YOUNG'S MONUMENT

Council Grants Petition to Erect Statue at the Intersection of East and South Temple Street.

The special meeting of the City Council called by Mayor Glendinning was held Saturday night with Allen, Cattelier, Diehl, Dale, Hayward, Lee, Paxton, Lynch, O'Meara, Stewart and Newell present. The meeting was called for the purpose of taking action on the petition of the Brigham Young Memorial association and others, who asked that they be given a site 20x25 feet at the intersection of East and South Temple streets, for the purpose of erecting a monument of President Brigham Young. After the calling of the roll and the answer of the above named members thereto, President Newell read the follows communication from his honor, the Mayor:

To the Honorable City Council:

Gentlemen—At the request of Hon. Spencer Clawson and others whose names are appended to the accompanying petition, I have called you together in special session for the purpose of considering and taking such action upon said petition as in your judgment may seem best. It would, in my opinion, be a proper and graceful act on the part of the Council to grant the prayer of the petitioners by setting apart a portion of the public grounds or a street thereon for the location of a monument to be erected to the memory of Brigham Young and the Pioneers of 1847.

Respectfully,

JAMES GLENDINNING, Mayor

Dale was of the opinion that no action could be taken this evening for the reason that the meeting had not been called by serving each member with a personal notice as required by ordinance and charter. He was of the opinion, however, that he favored the question of the petition but he felt it done legally on account of the technicality he would be compelled to vote against it. Mr. Dale further gave it as his opinion that it was a question for the committee of the whole to attend to. President Newell overruled the objection and Mr. Dale appealed from the chair's decision which after a notable discussion in which the city attorney participated—the chair was upheld.

The following ordinance was then passed by a unanimous vote:

Be it ordained by the City Council of Salt Lake City: That a monument site twenty-five feet square at the intersection of South Temple and East Temple streets, in Salt Lake City, be and the same is hereby forever set apart to be cared for and managed under the supervision and direction of the Brigham Young Memorial association, and its successors, upon which to erect a monument to perpetuate the memory of the late governor Young and the Pioneers of 1847, and for the purpose aforesaid, authority is hereby given the said association and its successors in trust charge of and improve said site, erect said monument and maintain the same without cost or expense to said city, under such plans and in such manner as shall be approved by the city engineer, and to that end the management and control of said site is hereby surrendered to said association provided, that nothing herein contained shall authorize said association, its successors or any person, to alter, change or use said site for any other or different purpose than that for which it is herein set apart, and if the said association shall fail to accept the provisions of this ordinance within thirty days from the approval thereof, the same shall be null and void.

Councilman Lloyd then introduced an ordinance granting the association a site between State street and the west entrance to the joint building, on the broad sidewalk, about halfway between the street and entrance. This ordinance was made conditional that the county commission would join with the city in the grant. This ordinance was also passed, O'Meara alone voting in the negative giving his reason that the association had not asked for the latter site.

The Mayor signed both ordinances immediately after adjournment.

SERMON TO GRADUATES.

Elder Franklin D. Richards delivers the University Baccalaureate.

Elder Franklin D. Richards of the Council of Apostles delivered a baccalaureate sermon to the graduates of the University of Utah last evening. The lower floor of the Salt Lake Theater was well filled, although the attendance was a little disappointment, in that it did not equal that of previous such occasions.

Music was furnished by the Harmony Glee club, which sang as an opening piece, My Old Kentucky Home, and after prayer by Professor Cummings, the club rendered another selection and President J. T. Kingsbury introduced the speaker of the evening.

Elder Richards opened in his characteristic humable strain and threw out the suggestion that the duty imposed upon him might have been better discharged, had it been placed in other hands. He, however, had watched with interest the rise and progress of Utah's institution of learning and was therefore in a fair position to appreciate the great good it was bestowing upon Utah's sons and daughters. The speaker felt pleased to note that among the graduates, the young ladies were well represented and complimented them upon this fact, also calling their attention to the law of equal suffrage which had been spread upon the Utah statutes.

Referring to the future of the graduates, Elder Richards reminded them that they were living in the century of all centuries. It was a period when great events had happened—events which in their greatness had rivalled even the seven wonders of the world. All the sciences had made wonderful advancement, and the world had undergone very radical changes since the beginning of the century in which we were now living. Steam had been brought into valuable requisition, but of later years, its usefulness had been curbed and its value cut down through the wonderful strides in the use of electricity. This could be truly termed the age of electricity in line which Benjamin Franklin's simple experiment had been so enlarged upon as to result in the harnessing of the navigable streams and the directing of their power to the operation and turning of the wheels of commerce. Nights had been lengthened out, so to speak, and next to this wonderful piece of mechanical engineering came that which was now nearing completion in Ogden canyon to carry water to Salt Lake.

The speaker noted the advancement made in the science of theology. Communication had been opened up between God and man, and White ant people did not believe alike the Creator was striving with all His power to make the world better, to do a work for humanity and to raise them to a higher level by making His spirit manifest in them. Utah through it they subject were greater advancements in the arts and in the sciences. Reference was made to the good and evil use of knowledge so the graduates were admonished to live honest, upright lives that in their entrance upon the journey of life, civilization would be made the better and communities the stronger for the example which they would set their fellow-women.

In conclusion Elder Richards congratulated the graduates on having completed their University studies. He wished them of a bright future provided they went forth with the purpose of usefulness and goodness. He wished to be a credit to the State and an honor to the institution from which they had just graduated.

After the singing of The Rings by the glee club and benediction by President Kingsbury the assemblage dispersed.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Harlan house, Burton, W. Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state, was cured of rheumatism after the years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, 1894, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their natural size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to abate and now I feel sure that I am entirely cured.
