TALK ON INSURANCE.

Thomas H. Duffy Scores Old Line Concerns for Misuse of Funds.

National Lecturer Thomas H. Duffy of the order of Women of America, made an address before the local camp last evening, on "Fraternal Protection vs. Old Line Insurances." He said in part:

"It is admitted that the officers of the leading old-line concerns used their positions not only to feather their own nests, but also the nests of all their relatives, down practically to their thirty-second cousins. The executor or administrator of any estate in this county would dare to contribute from the funds entrusted to him in such official capacity, the money belonging to his wards, would find himself being pointed out as a man without honor and would as a result of such use of trust funds ultimately find himself behind the chilled steel of prison doors. These officers of the old-line concerns who used company money to further the interests of their chosen political party had no more
