FRAGMENTS.

BENGHAM CITY is now famous for watermelons.

PAVING at the intersection of State and Third South streets has commenced.

WILLIAM DEATES, of the Woodbine saloon, Warm Springs, is wanted for violation of the Sunday liquor law.

THE testimony in the Charlie Newsome case was concluded at the trial office yesterday and the case submitted.

SAM WHITEBREAD, of the Territorial "Liberal" committee, has sent in his resignation, it will be acted on at the next meeting.

REV. MR. TERRILL and yesterday to Portland for a course but capable of entertaining 500 people, to be used for the Mills revival service.

THERE seems a probability that the new Theatre to be erected on State street near Second south will be erected per sons are in town in relation to it.

A. H. PARSONS has tendered his resignation as chairman of the "Liberal" county committee and will henceforth be identified with the straight Republicans.

M. R. PARSONS, who two years ago was the secretary of the "Liberal" county committee, has also withdrawn from the "Liberal" party and will join the straight Republicans.

A LADY who applied for rebate of taxes before the county equalization board refused to tell the name of Mrs. Matilda Sophia Wentworth. Wilson Bliss. Sharpe was she wanted.

MR. F. A. GRANT has begun the erection of a handsome residence on east Third South street, near Seventh East. It was completed it will be occupied by Rev. T. C. Iliff.

THE mayhem of Salt Lake are taking rather an active method of bill collecting. It is reported that they have published a black list of all persons in arrears to them for service rendered.

ANOTHER meeting of the citizens of the Nineteenth ward to protest against the establishing of the garbage crematory near the Warm Springs will be held tomorrow evening at the school house.

IT is said that the Union Pacific will run a special train from Salt Lake City for the accommodation of those wishing to witness the prize fight between Sullivan and Corbett next September in New Orleans.

AXEL CRONSTROM, delivryman for the Bennett & Nelson Furniture Co., who had a narrow escape from death through a runaway last week, is improving and will soon be around again for which himself and friends will be very glad.

THERE are messages at the Western Union telegraph office for A. D. Howard, Dr. J. M. Lewis, Glenwood Harris and Mary, Henry Schmidt, H. F. Bonyon, John Lyle Jones K. M. Maynard, Mrs. Madge, Mrs. H. W. Hibbard.

IT was rumored on the streets last evening that Councilman Beardsley intended following the example of Councilman Ewing by tendering his resignation. The gentleman positively denied the report and said that it was wholly without foundation in fact.

THE grand lodge, A. O. U. W. of Utah, Idaho, Wyoming and Nevada, which comprises a jurisdiction in the order, will meet today at their hall on West Second street. They go to Garfield Beach tomorrow. About 300 delegates are expected to be present.

A COUPLE of belligerent railroad employes engaged in producing a shower of high-sounding epithets and wind phenomenon on First South street, near Main, a little before noon today. They succeeded in attracting quite a crowd of people and making disgusting spectacles of themselves. No arrests were made.

THE Manhon banquet last night was a most pleasant and successful affair. Excellent oratorical music filled every corridor and room in the spacious building. The menu was the choicest and was served in a fifth, manner. Late in the evening, after most of the guests had departed for their homes Councilmen and Mrs. Simons tendered an informal reception to the city fathers and reporters.

THE local saloon men appear to be particularly anxious to have Marshal Jeffery reinstated as chief of police. The modus operandi they propose is to bring an injunction against the city restraining it from paying Chief Jeffery his salary as head of the police department, pending which they will endeavor to prove that his appointment was irregular and illegal and that Jeffery is still the incumbent of the office.

THE failure of Councilman Ewing to present his resignation at the City Council last night caused some disappointment among spectators who had gathered in the Council chamber to hear it read and probably discussed. Mr. Ewing was not present, though the document to which he announced his resignation was on file among the recorder's papers. It is said that it will be presented at the special session tomorrow afternoon.

POWERS' latest move has been to partially transform the Tusconora society into a social organization and he has secured the Alta club rooms as its headquarters. He proposes to make no straight Democratic honorary members, who shall have the privilege of the rooms at all times, but who will have no voice in the election of officers or the conduct of the club's affairs. So far straight Democrats have indignantly refused to become members in any way of the disreputable organization.

THE saloon men of the city have been silently "sawing wood," they say, for some time past. Subscriptions in the amount of $500 each are said to be in the tainer to their attorney. They propose to procure evidence against and prosecute persons selling on Sunday tobacco, refreshments, either liquid or solid, on Sundays. The liquor dealers, through their attorney, claim that the collection of street car fares on the Sabbath day is illegal and that they are seriously considering the question of preventing it. It is not generally believed, however, that their counsel is foolish enough to advise the taking of such an course step.

Supt. Webber Returned.

Superintendent Webber, of Z. C. M. I., and wife, returned today from a lengthy visit to the East, most of their time being spent in New York. Their stay there was varied, however, by trips to the Jersey coast, where relief from the intense heat that prevailed in Gotham was found. Mr. Webber states that when he passed through Chicago on his way home, the strong probability of the railroad strike in New York State calending to that city was being discussed. The general opinion appeared to be that the trouble was liable to spread over a large section of the country.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Webber return in fair health.

A TUSCARORA'S TROUBLE.

"Billy" Edwards an Ex-Local Newspaper Man Arrested for Malicious Mischief.

There was considerable excitement at the Walker House about 8 o'clock last night, occasioned by the arrest, by Officer Tom Matthews, of "Billy" Edwards, a bombastic brave of the Tuscaroras. Edwards, it seems, had been industriously posting hand bills and other advertising matter, announcing the performance of the Tuscaroras here at Garfield Beach tomorrow, on Union Pacific passenger coaches and buildings. This, of course, is against the rules of the company and the young till poster was so informed by the conductor who removed some of the advertising matter. While he was thus engaged Edwards with a characteristic persistence continued posting. The matter was reported to General Passenger Agent Burney, who swore out a complaint charging him with malicious mischief. A warrant for his arrest was placed in the hands of an officer who quietly informed Edwards that he was wanted at the city hall.

"What for?" inquired the tall poster.

"For your arrest," replied the officer.

"For my arrest?"

"Yes, for your arrest, shall I read the warrant to you?"

"No, I will read it myself." After having perused the paper Edwards said: "This must be a joke."

"No, it is not a joke."

"Well, then I will come up in the morning."

"You will come up with me now."

"I will not. Me walk through the streets with you? Why, the proposition is too ridiculous for serious consideration."

"If you do not, I will be compelled to send for the yellow 'hurry up' wagon."

"Well, send for it."

Without further delay Officer Matthews sounded the alarm and a few minutes later the patrol wagon was on the ground. Edwards has constantly protested, saying that the whole thing was merely a joke which had been planned by some of his friends.

The appearance of the "Black Maria" convinced Edwards (if he had any doubts) that it was not a joke.

Officer Matthews requested him to step into the secure looking receptacle for criminals, but he indignantly refused, as such a thing was not allegiant in harmony with his esthetic tastes. Force was then brought to bear and the Tuscarora was seen into the wagon. The somewhat subdued brave and his rather submissively asked that he be allowed to call a carriage and go to the hall in it. The request was granted and he was driven to the police station at his own expense. Ed. Kelley went security for Edwards' appearance in court today.

Judge Powers appeared for him. Explanations were made to the railroad officials and the charge was withdrawn.

The affair has given the Tuscarora excursion a big advertisement.

COURT MATTERS.

Beucher, the Belligerent Brewer, Adjudged Guilty of Criminal Assault.

Commissioner Greenman rendered his decision in the case of Nicholas Beucher, the brewer, who was charged with assault with intent to kill, at 10 o'clock this morning. The case occupied the whole afternoon in the Commissioner's court on Monday. Thirteen witnesses were examined. Beucher is the man who defied arrest at the brewery several days ago. He got badly cracked on the head on that occasion with a "billy" He got away, however, but was subsequently arrested at Evanston, Wyoming, and brought back to Salt Lake by Sergeant Ballinger, and charged before Commissioner Greenman. Assistant County Attorney Allison conducted the prosecution, and Loofbourow and Kahn appeared for the defense. Commissioner Greenman, after carefully considering the evidence, found Beucher guilty of criminal assault and fined him $50, and $100 costs.

All was quiet in the Third District court this morning in the way of law and learning. Judge Anderson did not sit at all. But carpenters were busy putting in opera chairs on the floor outside the circle sacred to the legal fraternity. There will be put in place 100 of these chairs on the floor and twelve in the jury box. In addition a row of benches of the old fashioned kind will be placed along by the side of the walls, thus adding to the seating capacity of the place.

Tailors Refuse.

The union tailors employed in the tailoring establishment of Peter Anderson, on Grant avenue, Ogden, were called out last evening by the officers of the union, but without exception they refused to comply and will continue as heretofore, working under a new scale, which is said to be as satisfactory to them as the one formulated by the union, although in some instances a reduction is made. The women will organize and join the union and has called upon all labor organizations and the public generally for aid in maintaining its stand.

The reason given for the move on the part of the union is that Anderson refused to pay union prices and gave notice of his intention to maintain a nonunion shop.

Knights Templar Visiting Salt Lake.

Theodore A. Melchers, P. E. Commander, South Carolina Commandery No. 1, K. T. of Charleston, South Carolina, made a pleasant call at the NEWS office this forenoon. He was accompanied by Mr. Robert F. Madden, C. F. Parkain, Eminent Commander of South Carolina Commandery No. 1 Culpeper Kuhn, A. L. Thomas, Ludwig F. Meyer, all of Charleston, S. C. They are a party of typical Southern gentlemen and express themselves highly pleased with their visit to Salt Lake and its environments.

THE Latter-day Saints' College commences its seventh academic year on August 22.

WHERE JUSTICE REIGNS.

Two Women Arrested on Suspicion of Immoral Practices—Cases of Vagrancy, Etc.

J. Rosebelle was adjudged guilty in the Police court this morning of assault and battery. A fine of $5 was imposed, and promptly paid.

Eph Kelley, run in for sneak thieving and drunkenness, was discharged.

Thos. McAffer forfeited $5 for drunkenness.

Jane Morse and Elizabeth Curtis were arrested in a State Street saloon last night on a charge of prostitution. The police allege that the women live on 10 Street in the Eighteenth ward, and that they are running a house of prostitution on the quiet. They were released on their own recognizances.

Jennie Bourgeau, another frail female, was taken into custody on a similar charge.

TOBACCO

A Slow But Sure Poison: Parents, Read This to the Boys.

Editor Deseret News:

Looking over my notes accumulated during rambles in America and Europe, I find the following valuable discovery made by a celebrated physician of Great Britain, which may prove a voice of warning to some young men of Utah who are being thoughtlessly led into a bad habit by the examples set before them by many of the now causes as well as the older residents of Utah.

With the earnest hope that, at least a few of the intelligent lads of Utah may take the warning and cease the evil habit of the use of tobacco, I pen the following scrap:

A certain doctor, struck with the large number of boys under fifteen years of age whom he observed smoking, was led to inquire into the effect which the habit had upon the general health. He took for this purpose thirty-eight persons aged from nine to fifteen, and carefully examined them.

In twenty-seven of those he discovered tightness traces of the habit. In twenty-two there were various disorders of blood, circulation and digestion, palpitation of the heart, and a taste, more or less, for strong drink. In twelve there were frequent bleedings of the nose, too had disturbed sleep, and twelve slight ulceration of the mucous membrane, which disappeared on the use of tobacco ceasing for some days. The doctor treated them all for weakness, but with little effect until the smoking was discontinued, when health and strength were soon restored.

Now, this is no "old wife's tale," for the foregoing facts are given under good authority.

Quite recently, while at Logan Temple, I met a brother and his wife from Bancroft, Oneida county, Utah, who thanked me for kind words on the subject of the Word of Wisdom, as found in the Book of Doctrine and Covenants (Sec. 89, p. 82), verse 8: "And again, tobacco is not for the body, neither for the belly, and is not good for man, but is an herb for bruises and sickness of the body, to be used with judgment and skill." Verse 16: "And all Saints who remember to keep and do these sayings, walking in obedience to the commandments, shall receive health in their navel and marrow to their bones."

The gentleman from Bancroft I have forgotten, and here make the request that if this meets his observation he will communicate the particulars to my address, Z. C. M. I. First West street, Salt Lake City, Utah. In his thanks he remarked that the lecture at Santaquin, twenty-two years ago, on the subject of the evil habit of using tobacco, struck him so forcibly that when he returned home from the meeting he resolved, before his wife, that by the help of God he would quit the filthy habit as one of the mistakes of his boyhood days. He also said that although not addicted to the long use of the "weed," he was enabled to keep his resolution, and that his health, appetite, and spirits were ever so much improved by the small sacrifice made.

While in Mexico last May, at the Palatia Hotel, the proprietor offered me, out of compliment, a cigar. Title I refused, saying that I was either poor or fortunate in not smoking. "Very fortunate, sir," was the reply. The hotel clerk informed me that the proprietor, in the course of one thought, smoked two ounces of cigarettes before "getting up." I saw the latter walking in the hall in a column of ten and twelve in the jury box. In addition a row of benches of the old fashioned kind will be placed along by the side of the walls, thus adding to the seating capacity of the place.

EDWARD STEVENSON.

SALT LAKE CITY, August 16, 1892.

A Serious Charge.

The preliminary examination of D. O. Evans, the engineer who was arrested at Ogden last Friday morning charged with the crime of committing a criminal assault on the person of little 10-year-old Maud Lanning, the daughter of A. L. Lanning, will take place on Saturday morning.

Mrs. Lanning arrest Evans has been confined in the county jail, where he has had ample time to reflect on the pitiful plight he has placed himself in. The crime with which he is charged. He will be brought up by the marshals on Saturday morning.

MR. SAM GALLEGHER, member of the "Liberal" city committee and now representing the theater and saloon interest, announces the family of gamer incumbents with the opening of another Tuesday afternoon. Gallegher is a three months-old stripe belonging to a baker named Gunn, who does business in Brooks' Arcade, opposite the Knutsford. Mr. Gunn introduced a debutante and the digitous which he brought forth was one of three times. Among the noisy incumbents of the Gallegher presented to the City Hall and Gallegher, a complaint charging them with cursing an officer. Gunn was arrested and taken before Judge Rolfe, who fined him $5 and costs.

SENSES OF OWLS.

Interesting Experiments to Determine Their Lack of Smell.

The hearing of all species of owls known to be in existence has been so keen as to lead the belief of no way of testing it, since it is so much more acute than that of man. If owls have the sense of smell, I am unable to find satisfactory evidence of it.

I have tried various experiments with them, hoping to prove that they could smell, but the results are all negative. They dashed paste meat, but they blind it to secure its condition. They will not eat fresh meat, or fish which yield an unpleasant odor, but they did not reject those species until they had tested them by tasting.

They may be eyes to insects, yet they do not appear to be guided by food if it is carefully covered so that they can not see it. Take two I have applied with the utmost care to the great horned, snowy and barred owls. The latter are circed nocturnal birds, they are eyes of killing their food, and when they secure the prey they will search in the place where I have previously hidden it, pounding upon pieces of wrapping paper and poking under feathers and scratchet with scraping cracking.

I tested them with the forces of camphor, ammonia and other disagreeable and unusual smells, but they failed to show that they perceived them unless they were very strong enough to affect their breathing or to irritate their eyes. Finally I put a rat in a basket and placed the basket between the two cells. They were utterly indifferent to it, and the rat made the basket rock, when both of them fled, presumably and needed assurance to go near the basket again.

Although Polly will put a rat to flight when on his perch, Polly is frightened almost out of his wits by the hoot.

Polly, when I first made a plaster of a piece of wood and a few scarlet feathers, was superly cowed by Polly, indicating not only a lack of power of smell but the presence of an appreciation of color. I have tested that an appreciation of color is also shown by barred owls in their frequent selection of bark trees as nesting places, by great horned owls in their choice of brown trunked trees, and by Swainson in an approval preference for gray backgrounds.—Frank Bolles in Popular Science Monthly.

Whistler's Frank Criticism.

A Paris letter says that Whistler recently criticised one of Dumas's pictures in a Paris art exhibition a week or so ago, and the next day a mutual friend unchivalrously introduced the two to each other. Dumas, who had the greatness of the former has been widely reported, "Glad to meet you, Mr. Whistler," Dumas is reported as having said, "particularly glad at this moment, as I have just been criticising your work, and I wish to be on good terms with you before I look you in the face."

"Yes," returned the artist in the gentle art of making enemies "I did say something rather frank about it, and it was behind your back, as I never before had the pleasure of seeing you face to face."

"Now that I do see you, I will do you the favor to tell you the contribution you have sent to this salon has no business here. This is a collection of pictures, and you should be informed that half a dozen figures outlined on a wall do not constitute a picture. Something of intelligent combination, some attempt to represent an idea, some respect for the truths of nature are prime requisites, and your sad drawing near them does not entitle any of those qualities. Good morning, Mr. Dumas!"

Mosquitoes That Never Lived.

Some of the good people of Stratford, Conn., decided this year to drain about forty acres of marsh land and fill the necessary ditches dug. After wind some of the ditches were partially filled up and the marsh water stagnated therein. On examination the water was found to be a saturated solution of mosquito larvæ. The land adjacent formed itself into a pestiferous swamp, and depending upon a specimen of the water and figured it out that the prospective mosquito population had been 20,000,000 to the acre.

As there were forty acres drained, the spending fact is apparent that within 300 promising members of the mosquito race, who might have done good and telling work upon the Connecticut country borderer last year, were thus cut off from existence. Not a single one of them flower or dew to appear, or, to come down from outsider to fort, to reach it round of the embryotic state. Among other things, this little story teaches us that we are not the universe into the dotted numbers.—New York Tribune.

A Pious Fraud Detecting for Tension Tests.

J. W. C. Pugsen brought in to Visalia the skeleton of a grizzly bear fresh of its life in the shape of a poison, the skin of which was growing painfully tight under the development, from the size of a mouse, to one as large as the average Early Rose. The skin was then sent to Mr. Pugsen's lonely grave. The sad journal was of the Early Rose variety, and some of the potatoes will be planted out to see if they will reproduce. When the vine was pulled up a few small potatoes were found at the roots, and on close inspection there have been a hundred. The only explanation Mr. Pugsen can offer is that the potatoes must have thought it to be its duty to produce heroes, as it was not related by the fruit, and that it made an honest effort in that direction.—Visalia Times.

A steel 39 inches long, 3½ inches thick and weighing 3 pounds 4½ ounces was caught in the Hudson river recently at Tappan, N. Y.

Art in Alvanitza.

We found the walls of the churches in Alvanitza covered with pictures of Scriptural history and the walls of the cottages with the exploits of Johannes. His victories over the Turkishes in Greece are the theme of many of Homer are fully represented in boxes and dedicated to those of advertising pieces at home. The tender little doll was not made up for crying or of color by the accuracy of his drawing, and if these pictures have any merit it is in the originality of their treatment. For instance, in the cartoon of Gandel, in a picture representing the Israelites crossing the Red sea, Pharaoh carries in his right hand the traditional sword, in his mouth a pipe, in his left hand he holds a pair of opera glasses, while the Egyptian host sports Bonaparte rifles.

All movement of figures is from right to left, and in all pictures heads are full front, with the exception of noses and the latest Egyptians, who are painted in acute profile, to show their lack of honesty and good faith and their inability to look you straight in the face. It is a disputable fact that Johannes's idea, he will say as soon, only trusses the knowledge and barbarity of the Ethiopians, that the evil spirits in these compositions are always represented by the artist as generally dressed in their neighbors to be exhibited their figures.—Frederic Villiers in Century.

A Venerable Yew Tree.

In the churchyard at Darley Dale is the most venerable yew tree in the world. Many authorities claim for it a fabulous age, making it as much as 5,000 years old. It is thirty-three feet in girth, but its trunk has collapsed and a little from the weather Hotts and Vandals who have carried their names in the bark and employed other methods of mutilation. The tree is now fenced round to save it from further insult and "whatever may be its precise age," says the Rev. Dr. Jos Charles Cox, "there can be little doubt that this grand old tree has given shelter to the early Britons when planting the foundation of the dwellings that they erected in the shadow of the tree of its trunk; to the Romans who built up the funeral pyre for their slain, and rather put other of its branches to the Saxons, converted parishioners to the true faith to the Danes, who left Danish names behind; to pleasant shade to Norman monks shading their cunning sculptures in form the first stone house of prayer erected in its vicinity, and to the band of Christian worshipers who from that day to this have bent humbly under its heavy limbs in women's dress to the baptismal font, and then in men's shoulders to their last sleeping place" the end this give it time."

Permanent Hopeless, Yet Saved.

From a letter written by Mrs. Ada E. Hurd, of Groton, S. D., we quote "Was taken with a bad cold, which settled on my Lungs, caught out in and finally terminated in Consumption. Four doctors gave me up, saying I could not live but a few months. I gave myself up to my Savior, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my church once above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I gave it a trial, both in all, eight bottles; it has saved my life. I thank God I am now a well and healthy woman." Trial bottles free at A. C. Smith & Co's Drug Store, regular size 50c. and $1.00
