DESERET EVENING NEWS.

Wednesday, June 28, 1893.

FRAGMENTS.

JUDGE ZANE adjourned court at 12:30 today and will not hold another session until next Saturday.

MANY of the beautiful trees on Pioneer square were cut down by the crews men this morning to make room for the tents, which extend over a considerable area.

MRS. JOHN MCLAUGHLIN will come up before Commissioner Tyler tomorrow for sentence, on conviction for having disturbed the peace of her neighbor, Mrs. Elizabeth Healy, as stated in yesterday's News.

THE Union Pacific has announced a one fare rate for the round trip from and to all stations on its lines in Utah within 200 miles. Tickets will be placed on sale July 3rd, 4th and 5th, and will be good for return to and including July 6th.

THE Utah Commission this morning sat for a short time, but without any very great results. The only thing done was to receive communications from the Democratic Central committee of Washington, Weber, Box and Tooele counties, containing names of persons suggested for county registrars.

THE Utah Women's Press club will hold its regular monthly meeting at the office of the Woman's Exponent, room 229 Templeton building, Eno Temple street, on Friday, June 30, at half-past 7 o'clock in the evening. All members of the club are specially requested to attend as it will be an important session. E. B. Wells, President.

SAID a well known bar employees circle today: "I am inclined to think there is something besides politics in the resolution offered by Mr. Wentland at last night's meeting of the City Council for the employment of married men only by the city. Looks to me like a scheme had been put on foot at the county clerk's office to make a boom in the matrimonial market. The issuing of marriage licenses is a well-paying business."

COUNCILMAN LAWSON is well known for his sense of gallantry and tenderness of the fair sex although he has resigned himself to a bachelor's life. Mr. Lawson does not take kindly to Wentland's "marriage" resolution as he terms it, and says it is the most inconsistent document he ever heard read. Councilman Horan is of the same opinion. He says Wentland as a benefit and a real estate broker would be very much opposed to land purchasers who would only buy from married men.

THE MUNICIPAL MILL.

Indignant Councilmen Expunge Lawson's "Boodle" Resolution.

TAXATION RATE SQUABBLE.

Wentland Offers a Employment, Political and Marriage Resolution.—Warm Discussion.

The City Council met in regular session last night, President Loufbourow in the chair. The members present were Rich, Folland, Hardy, Kelly, Simondi, Wentland, Heine, Moran.

Absent—Evans, Lawson, Horn, Kerrich.

The three last named gentlemen came in about an hour late.

THE PROCEEDINGS.

THE "BOODLE RESOLUTION."

After the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting Moran moved that the Lawson "boodle resolution" be expunged from the record.

Hardy—I do not think, Mr. President, that it would be fair to expunge such a measure in the absence of Mr. Lawson, who offered it. It would only be fair to wait until he is here to speak in his own defense.

Wentland—Is it necessary, Mr. President, to make a record of every resolution and paper that comes before this council? Some of them are not pleasing to all of us.

The chairman did not reply to this interrogation.

Moran—The resolution is an objectionable one and should be obliterated. I don't think we should wait to consult Mr. Lawson. He didn't wait to consult us before introducing his boodle occupation. But he jumped right on to us without warning.

On the motion being put there were only two votes, a negative one by Hardy and an affirmative one by Moran. No division was asked for and the chair declared the motion carried.

THE RATE OF TAXATION.

The following report from Beardsley and Kelly as members of the committee on ways and means was read:

We your committee on ways and means, beg leave to report as follows in the matter of the rate of taxation for the present year. From the fact that the county assessor, in an official communication, informs us that the assessment for this year only amounts to $21,000, a decrease of some $[illegible] from last years assessment, we find that it will be necessary to raise the rate 1 mill above last year's rate, making it equivalent to retaining amount of our tax receipts to the amount realized last year. We have consulted several of our largest property owners and they are of the same opinion as your committee, that it would be impossible to get along with a less amount and carry out the contracts already entered into. The county rate is 6 mills and with the city's rate of six mills will make a total of twelve mills, the same as last year on a low valuation. We therefore recommend that the rate of taxation for the year 1893 be fixed by this council at the rate of six mills on each dollar upon the assessed valuation within the corporate limits.

MINORITY REPORT.

The subjoined minority report from Folland, a member of the same committee was read:

I have not had an opportunity of meeting with the balance of the committee to discuss the case, but am of the opinion that the rate should not be raised over last year, and reserve the right to file a further report in the matter.

Folland—I move that the rate be fixed at five mills.

Rich—I second the motion.

Simondi—I am not satisfied with this kind of a report. There is a crack between the members of the committee and I think the matter should be referred back to them with instructions to report something more tangible and intelligent.

Beardsley—I move as an amendment to Mr. Folland's motion that the rate of taxation be fixed at five mills for contingent expenses and one mill for street purposes.

Folland—Salt Lake is no longer a village and it is about time that the councilmen knew it. A little financial and executive ability is necessary to run our municipal affairs. This matter was referred to the committee on ways and means but that committee has never been called together. It seems to be a bit and miss proposition. According to the one mill tax for street expenses it will make about $44,000. I want to know if that is enough for the purpose.

Kelly—If it isn't, we can borrow more.

Folland—Yes, it is easy enough to say "borrow," but we can't always do that and another thing we have about reached the limit of our borrowing capacity.

Hardy—This tax question is one that always troubles the people. But it must be met sooner or later. I think if we fix the rate at five mills we will do the best thing. I am in favor of that rate and shall oppose anything more than that.

Wentland—The only way to cut down expenses is for the city to discharge some of its employes and we can't afford to do that. I think Mr. Beardsley should make his amendment to read four and a half mills for contingent expenses and one and a half mills for street purposes.

Simondi—The property valuation of the city is about $9,000,000 less this year than last and we must do something to help ourselves. The interest on bonds is a heavy annual tax itself and must be met. I think it is better to make improvements and employ men than to allow the city to fill up with thieves and crooks.

Folland—But that is just the class of characters you fellows are employing to do your work. (Laughter.)

Simondi—Well, I am not in favor of turning the city into a savings bank.

Kerrich—I don't believe that we can stand any increase of taxation. The financial condition of the people and the country won't warrant it. I am in favor of cutting down expenses; we must do it or we will bankrupt the people. We can easily do away with one-fourth of the fellows who hold fat offices. Why it is outrageous, criminal, to get up here and spout about the necessity of improvements under the present terrible financial strain.

Simondi—Don't this money go back to the people?

Kerrich—No, it does not go back to the people. It goes to the men who come to here and stay for a month or two for certain purposes and then get out again. They are not the taxpayers, they are not the people, and they are not desirable citizens.

After considerable tedious discussion Wentland moved as an amendment that the rate be made four and a half mills for contingent expenses and one and a half mills for street purposes.

The motion was seconded by Simondi.

Beardsley, in answer to a question, said: Five mills is the full limit for contingent expenses; if we go above that we must specify what the extra tax is for. We can levy a special assessment for a special purpose, however, and that is what we propose to do.

Kerrich—That is the way you propose to get around the law, it seems.

Simondi—I am getting perplexed about this business, and I move that it be laid on the table until next Friday night, and be made a special order of business.

Kerrich seconded the motion, and Moran, who just came in, moved that the rate be fixed at five mills. The gentleman was informed that that was the original motion.

Wentland—I want to know if you, too, Mr. Moran, are also in favor of discharging city employes?

Moran—It will not throw any one out of employment. But I tell you what it will do. It will prevent the committee on streets spending $100,000 on temporary street improvements as was done last year. I can take you today where the city teams are working in subdivisions where there is not a house. I am in favor of five mills.

Kelly—We are degenerating into foolishness. It is only a few evenings ago when our eloquent friend—

Moran—I call the gentleman to order.

Wentland's motion was then defeated on the following vote:

Nays—Folland, Hardy, Horn, Kerrich, Lawson, Moran, Rich—7.

Ayes—Beardsley, Kelly, Loufbourow, Simondi, Wentland—5.

Wentland moved to postpone action until Friday night next. Carried on a vote of 7 to 5.

Wentland then moved that the city attorney be instructed to draw up an ordinance leaving the rate blank.

Folland sprung the point that the motion was out of order, as under the law the rate must be fixed before the matter could be referred to that official.

Hardy—This matter must be disposed of before Monday next or the levy will not be legal.

SEWER PUMP AND BOILER.

Moran offered the following:

Whereas, Owing to the lack of power the sewer pump at the ninth is not being operated and the sewage is at present running into the Jordan river, thereby endangering the health of the community, the city being liable to heavy damages and great expense in consequence of suits that may be brought against it; and

Whereas, A boiler and engine of sufficient capacity to operate the pump as heretofore operated can be purchased for about $[illegible] thus obviating any further trouble, and

Whereas, The gravity system will not be completed until December 1st next; therefore be it

Resolved, That the city purchase such boiler and engine to operate said plant until such time as the gravity system shall be completed. Committee on sewerage.

WANTLAND'S LITTLE BY-PLAY.

Wantland, determined not to be outdone in the matter of "did it for effect purposes" introduced the following:

Whereas, In the present condition of affairs in the city it is the duty of the city officials to use great care in the selection of employes engaged in city work, and in all cases to give preference to bona fide citizens and taxpayers in need of work to enable them to pay their taxes and support their families.

Resolved, That the superintendent of waterworks, street superintendent, water master and superintendent of sewers are hereby instructed to give preference to taxpayers and men with families to support, and to submit a statement to the Co. ill showing the total number of men in their departments July 1, 1893, and showing the total number of married men and taxpayers in service under their direction on said date.

Simondi—This resolution is un-American and I am opposed to it. The opportunities to all men are equal. Single and married men alike should rustle for themselves.

TO ENCOURAGE MARRIAGE.

Moran moved to include the "police, fire, and all other departments." He was in favor of marriage and married men.

Kerrich—I am in favor of the resolution also. Men are employed in this city and by the city who walked in and don't want to walk out. They are single men, too.

Rich—I will say to my friend Wentland that I will support the resolution, as I like the spirit of it. I will also say that I think it is a little early to make a political play out of it as we are doing. (Laughter.)

Lawson, who is a single man, made an onslaught on the resolution. He said he was not in favor of discriminating against single men.

Folland made a speech in support of the proposition to employ married men. He knew the city was employing single men almost exclusively. Early in the evening he had counted thirty men—all of them single—sitting in front of a saloon. They were a class who were satisfied to wear a jumper on their backs and a pair of overalls on their legs.

Moran—I think this employment business should be a free-for-all race. I won't and never do give preference to single men. Let merit and ability win.

A vote on the adoption of the resolution as amended resulted as follows:

Ayes—Folland, Hardy, Kerrich, Kelly, Lawson, Loufbourow, Rich, Wentland.

Noes—Beardsley, Horn, Moran, Simondi.

Adjourned until 7:30 on Friday evening next.
