MONTE-CARLO VICTIM

A Former Denver Newspaper Man Drugged and Robbed.

DEATH FOLLOWS THE AFFAIR.

The French Police Investigating the Rumor About the Administration of Drugs.

PARIS, Jan. 9.—A newspaper of this city announces the death at Nice of Franklin Johnson, one of the proprietors of the First National bank at Rossville, N. Y., under suspicious circumstances.

The young man, it would seem, arrived at Nice about two weeks ago, and went to Monte Carlo, where he played with wine, drugged and robbed of over $700. As the young man was in delicate health, the affair seems to have preyed upon his mind, and it is believed to have hastened his death, which occurred on Sunday last, January 6.

BOONVILLE, N. Y., Jan. 8.—Albert Johnson, master of the C. C. Thompson & Company's stock, this afternoon gave the story regarding the dragging and robbing of his son at Nice, as reported in a Paris paper, is substantially correct.

As to the details of the affair, Mr. Johnson knows nothing. He is awaiting a letter from the United States consul at Nice, who has been in communication with the police authorities at that place. He understands that the French police are investigating the story of intoxication of some of young Johnson, with a view of ascertaining if it has anything to do with his death.

DENVER, Jan. 9.—Franklin C. Johnson, whose death at Nice under circumstances seen as if pointed to the Associated Press knight, is well known in Denver. In 1880 he became one of the editors of the Denver Times, then the property of his cousin, Harry W. Johnson, now two-third owner of the Chicago Times. He remained here for three years, then returning to Boonville, N. Y. He had before coming to Denver occupied a position on the Minneapolis Journal, and was there at the time of the chartered fire in 1878. While in Denver Johnson always played the part of sportsman, and was immensely popular in all circles of society. A cousin of the Franklin H. Johnson, is still connected with the Denver Times.

CARLISLE'S CURRENCY BILL.

Bland and others speak at the Defeat of the Measure.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 9.—Representative Bland, the exponent of the silver element of the House, was asked in the debate at the rule, said:

"The vote undoubtedly means the abandonment of all hope to pass the Carlisle bill in its present form. But it is too soon to say it rids the possibility of any legislation by this Congress. As long as the effort is made to give a monopoly to national banks and exclude silver, the plan will be futile. There may yet be time to frame the measure adequate for the present situation; but it is certainly such measure will give proper recognition to silver."

On the Republican side the opinion was general that the defeat of the rule ended all chance of currency legislation in Congress. Mr. Reed would not enter into a detailed discussion on the face of affairs.

"The collapse is complete," said Mr. Walker, speaking of the day's events. "There will be no financial legislation by this Congress unless the Senate pass a bill to the House, which seems improbable."

When the possibility of the Republican Congress being called into extra session was spoken of, Mr. Walker said:

"If Congress gives ample authority and gives it wisely to the secretary of the treasury to issue bonds, bids to make gold synonomous and supply the treasury delicacy, an extra session may be avoided but at a great expense to the government. If the treasury is given no additional authority or the issuance of bonds, with the prevailing want of confidence in the management of the national finances by the administration it will injure the business interests of the country and an extra session will have to be called.

"As to the effect on business of the extra session, if one is called, it would give confidence to the Congress rather than be an injury. If it is followed by the extra session of the seventy-two Congress, the administration will probably have a Democratic house on its hands."

NOT FOR SILVER.

Secretary Carlisle was in the Speaker's private office as soon as the adjournment, conferring with Democratic leaders on the effect of the result suffered by the currency bill.

After the conference Mr. Springer said that while some concessions might be made in the interest of harmony, yet no concession could be made on the basis of giving the silver men everything they wished.

"If Mr. Bland and his friends will not give their assistance upon the condition of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1, then they must shoulder the responsibility of the result of all legislation, as we seek compromise is possible."

ARRANGED FOR ALLEGED ROBBERY.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—Through the efforts of the city detectives, three men who seem to be implicated with the robbery of the West Town economic bank were arrested for attempted burglary. Two men, Mike Ryan and Henry Wellard, Charles Nemsin, is to be alleged that they called upon W. H. Dietrich, proprietor of the West Side, and for a consideration of $25 offered to open the safe mentioned before. They claimed that Assessor Hallman of the West Side was working in collusion with them and that they divided with him the money received.

Dietrich informed the civic detectives and an agent of the organization who pretended to be could hear the offer made by the men to Hallman, and a test of their honesty example was placed in the time men under arrest. Assessor Hallman denies all knowledge of the men or the attempted robbery. The officers of the detectives expect to make some sensational developments when the men come up for a hearing tomorrow.

Alleged Embezzler Bound Over.

OMAHA, Jan. 9.—A dispatch from O'Neill, Neb., says:

Hinchman, Roy and Sullivan, the bishop bankers of Harris Neck, waived preliminary examination this day and were bound over in $1,000 bonds to appear in the district court next month.

Escape of a Murderer.

BENSON, Ms., Jan. 9.—Michael Davis, the murderer of James E. Wilson, of Lawrence county, escaped from a chain-gang at Jackson, Miss., on Saturday last, and has not been heard of since. He was sentenced to be hanged January 25th, in company with William Wilkerson, best for grand larceny, and George Archie, a burglar, escaped from the Pearl county jail this morning by forcing the door open. Both had been floating in Davis's cell and making their escape. No trace of the men has been found.

Lands by Mistake.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—A dispatch to the Times from Paris says that owing to the recent massacres at Urfas and Orfa, in the Armenian villages near Petigrano are covered up and all communication with them is stopped.

Violation of the Interstate Commerce Law.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10.—Mayor Sutro announces that he will call a mass meeting of citizens to protest against the action of Acting U. S. Attorney Knight in refusing to issue a warrant for the arrest of C. P. Huntington, who is charged with violating the interstate commerce law by issuing a pass to Frank M. Sloss. At the mass meeting expressions of opinion on the appointment of Miss Gunst, the well-known sporting man, as police commissioner, will also be made.

CUEL WITH PISTOLS.

A Deputy Sheriff's Encounter With a Desperado.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Jan. 10.—A bold attempt of a criminal to liberate two of his pals from the Springfield prison with the deliberate intention of murder to carry out his ends, is made known today. F. C. Hoffman, who is under indictment for robbing the postoffice at Pike Grove, and for other offenses had laid a plan to effect the release of Frank Doe and George Taylor. Hoffman was to obtain entrance to the jail by impersonating an officer and with them he was to murder the jailer and release his friends. The plan was known to the Springfield officers, as one of the murderers also had told of it, and a sixth force of officers were on hand to capture Hoffman or kill him.

Deputy Marshal Brown, of Springfield, accidentally met Hoffman on a lonely road near Nixon, while the desperado was on his horse. Each saw a pistol and drew back behind cover at the same instant. Both men sent their ground and exchanged several shots, when Brown drew a second revolver and advanced on Hoffman, who spurred his horse and made good his escape. A body of deputies are searching for him.

BETWEEN TWO WHEELS.

The Flesh and Bones of the Victim Crushed.

MUNCIE, Ind., Jan. 10.—Saturday evening Charles Cunningham, at the Muncie pulp mills, attempted to cross over the top of a big vat near a pair of revolving wooden hot night. He was in the boiling and fell. His feet were pulled between the rings until the flesh and bones were crushed to the core. The two limbs slipped the wheels and a soft mass and the grinding ceased. The man was held fast for nearly ten minutes before the other workmen could get the wheels pried apart. The injured man exhibited wonderful nerve while being released, directing the men how to work. He was taken to the city hospital, where his wife recognized him. There is no hope of his recovery. He has a family and is 25 years of age.

TWO WERE VICTIMS.

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 10.—City Prosecutor Nippert, secretary of the Masonic Mutual Aid association of this district, has discovered a gigantic scheme to swindle branch lodges of this association all over the country. The association has lost quarters in New York. A few days ago Mr. Nippert received a letter from a man who signed the name as Burk. It was dated at New York and said that the association would like to have the usual official send in the assessments for the year of 1894. The letter also said that the headquarters of the association had been moved to another street and that the remittance be sent to the new address. This letter alarmed Mr. Nippert as future president, because the local association never so announced to the grand secretary of the association. A reply to a letter of inquiry said that the person to whom the money was largely sent that the letters were forgeries.

BELIEVED TO BE TAYLOR.

The Absconding Treasurer of South Dakota.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—Tuesday morning a well dressed man of middle age, stout, heavy set and well groomed, with a plain value for baggage, walked into the Great Northern hotel and registered as W. W. Taylor, of New York. He was assigned a room, which he kept closed all day. He retired early and arose between yesterday morning. He left the hotel on time, carrying his grip, and the hour of his departure indicated that he had purposed taking a westbound train, if intending to leave the city. He had no conversation with any one. The man is believed to have been W. W. Taylor, the absconding treasurer of South Dakota.

The signature on the register is in a peculiarly bold and clear handwriting, the chirography of a man accustomed to the use of a pen. Those who saw the hotel noticed nothing peculiar about the man's demeanor except that he seemed to avoid notice.

After singing the work of the normal class was spoken of by Brother J. P. Harp and afterwards decided that the Stake authorities of the county school should conduct the class at Brother Hacking's home each Friday evening, Brothers J. P. Harp and H. S. Woodward were appointed class instructors by Brother Hacking.

The parlor and dining-rooms being thrown together by large rolling doors, the old people began dancing, led off by President S. H. Bennion, Superintendent Jos. Hawkins, Patriarch Neff and Secretary and Bishop's counselor, Robert Reilly and partners. In the early morn upstairs the young people were enjoying games, while in the kitchen the children were at their play. The evening was interspersed with songs, recitations and instrumental music, etc.

At the new moon hour of 3 o'clock we all departed for our homes, after a benediction and blessing by H. S. WOODWARD.

H. S. WOODWARD,
