HORRIBLE ACCIDENT IN COLORADO.

Murder Through a Game of Cards. —Chasing an Arizona Murderer. —Proposed Railroad in Montana.

The Jacinto silver mine at Aspen, Col., has resumed work after three years' idleness. The new find is said to be very rich.

As Tom Seitot, a farmer living about two miles below Brighton, Col., was going home, he was held up by two men and one took hold of him and demanded his valuables and while he was trying to get them, Harry Pearce drew up and frightened the robbers away.

The business men of Helena are now more enthusiastic than ever over the proposition to build the railroad to Idaho, and it is confidently stated that a local company will be formed, money raised and plans arranged which will enable the projectors to go right ahead with grading and constructing the road.—Helena (Montana) Journal.

In Dubuque, Iowa, Receiver Wallen, of the defunct Commercial National bank, offers the assets at public auction, November 1st. The assets consist of notes to the amount of $50,000 together with judgments, most of which are practically worthless. It is thought that creditors will not receive more than 10 per cent. of their claims. They have already been paid 50 per cent.

Sheriff Tom Whitmore, of Green River, has arrived, says the Laramie Republican, with two prisoners convicted at the recent term of the District Court of Sweetwater county on the charge of housebreaking, and sentenced to terms in the Laramie penitentiary. Of the pair, one named Belcher was sent up for five years, and his partner, Franklin, was given three years.

Sheriff J. H. Thompson and Deputy Frank Prothero have returned from their long chase after John Gee, the [illegible] murderer. They [illegible] that they had been following a short distance beyond Durango, Colorado, only to find that he was not Gee, and bore little resemblance to him. Mr. Thompson is confident that they were on the right trail for two hundred miles, when they lost it.—Silver Belt (Arizona).

As the north bound Santa Fe train No. [illegible], was pulling out of the yards a few mornings ago it collided with the rear car of a freight going south. The freight had pulled on to a siding to allow the passenger to pass, but in some way the trainmen miscalculated the length of the train and the last car was projecting over the main track. The passenger engine struck the freight car, turning it completely over and wrecking it. Traffic was delayed a little.

Colonel A. C. Fish, the largest farmer in Colorado, is harvesting the crops of wheat, oats, rye, potatoes and other products from the 5,000 acres of land he cultivates by the sub-leasing system in Weld county, near the towns of Fort Collins and Greeley. Charles E. Harriot has gone to supervise the harvest, which is expected to result in 50,000 bushels of wheat, 100 train loads of potatoes, and other things in proportion. Crops in that section are very large this year.—Denver News.

A horrible accident occurred a few days ago near the school house at the mouth of Cottonwood creek in the North Fork valley, Colorado, in which a 2-year-old boy of Dan Clark's was burned to death. The mother of the child, which was sick, laid it on the bed and went to the neighbor's for medicine, leaving another boy 4 years old in the house. A short time after the mother left, the school children discovered that the house was on fire, but it was too late to rescue the little sick fellow. The older boy got out safely. It is not known how the fire originated.

Dick Hern, alias Tex, shot Joe Lynch in the stomach with a six-shooter. The wound will probably prove mortal. The affair occurred at Wellington over a game of cards. Both men had been drinking. Tex placed the muzzle of his pistol close to Lynch's stomach, remarking, "Look out Lynch," and pulled the trigger. In an instant Lynch jumped from his chair, and although bleeding profusely, [illegible] Tex with his fists, drawing blood at each blow. In a few moments Lynch fell back unconscious, and is not expected to recover. Tex was arrested and taken to Dayton, the county seat, to await examination.—Carson (Nevada) Dispatch.

A half-million dollar mining suit will come up for hearing in the Federal court, at Boise, Idaho, at its next term. It is brought by Peter Huston against W. F. Livingston and others, and involves a group of mines on Salmon river, near Clayton, Idaho. The defendant alleges that on June 19th, 1891, he and G. A. Williams entered into a contract with the plaintiffs for the purchase of the group. The price to be paid was $225,000, of which $5000 was given at the time the contract was made. Forty thousand dollars was to be paid in two months, but the time for the second payment was extended to February 1892, 1892, on which date the deeds for the group were to be deposited in the First National bank in escrow. The final payment was to be made August 1st, 1892. The deeds were not forthcoming at the stipulated time and the owners of the group refused to refund the initial payment of $5000, claiming that Huston had not carried out his share of the contract. Huston now asks that his share of the sale be consummated or his $5000 be returned to him.
