LOCAL BRIEFS.

Mr. James T. Pulton the young stock broker who was operated upon for appendicitis at the Knight-Hoomer hospital on Thursday was reported this afternoon as progressing nicely.

Marriage licenses were issued today to the following named parties: John C. Wilkinson, Jr., 21, and Mary Alcott, aged 18, both of Salt Lake City; Alvin Thompson, 21, of South Cottonwood, and Harriet Drage, 21, of Big Cottonwood.

Mrs. Fred Barton and her two children returned this morning after an absence of three months spent in Honolulu. Mrs. Barton expresses herself as very much pleased with the city of the Sandwich Islands and predicts a glowing future for Uncle Sam's latest possession.

Captain William Lassiter, formerly of Salt Lake, and who was detailed by the war department at Washington to train the National Guard of Utah, and who is now connected with the 20th infantry, has been granted a leave of absence from the Jefferson barracks, Mo., owing to disability.

Mr. George Irvine, representative of the "News" at Silver City, and wife are in Salt Lake on a sad errand today—to tenderly lay to rest in the city cemetery their nine-month-old daughter, Annie T. Irvine, who died on the 22nd inst. The funeral was held at 4 o'clock this afternoon from 65 south Fourth West.

O. L. Thompson of Eureka came to Salt Lake yesterday and brought his four-year-old son, who has been suffering with spinal fever, which has left the little fellow deaf. A specialist will be consulted with the hope of effecting a cure. Mr. Thompson was a member of the First Utah State Legislature.

The west side fire department made a nice little run yesterday down to 264 west, Third South street, where a blaze had started in the roof of the house. The place was once the home of W. L. Pickard. The fire started from a spark which fell upon the roof and the flames were very easy to control. The damage done amounted to about $100.

The person who picked up a fireman's ax that was lost from the hose wagon on the night of Wednesday last, when the department was going to the M street fire would confer a favor on the boys by returning the same to headquarters. As the ax is branded F. D. possibly it may not be advisable to keep it too long around private premises.

Late Saturday evening Governor Wells received a telegram from the war department, which goes to show that the report of the wounding of John R. Rogers of the Utah battery, as published in the Army and Navy Journal, is not founded on facts. Following is the message: Hon. Heber M. Wells, Governor of Utah—There is no record in this office of John R. Rogers, battery A, Utah artillery, having been wounded or having died in Manila, he include the 21st inst., latest report. Ward, Asst. Adjutant-General.

The brief stay of Hon. Bartlett Tripp, in Salt Lake, was very pleasant. He was entertained at the home of his niece, Mrs. S. F. Paxton, where he was called upon by Senator Hawkins, Hon. F. A. Williams, Byron Ross, De. Partridge, James Dwyer, Arthur Pratt and other old friends. When he left Salt Lake yesterday Governor Wells, ex-Governor Thomas, Colonel C. S. Burton and Spencer Clawson went to the depot to see him off. At Ogden Commissioner Tripp was joined by C. H. Hilton, Utah's representative in the Danish government.

Mrs. Julia Cornall, who met with such an unfortunate accident the other day, the result of which necessitated the removal of her right eye, is in a good condition and on the way to a speedy recovery. The operation was successful in every respect. Mrs. Cornall suffers but little pain, sleeps well, has a good appetite, and with a continuance of such favorable conditions she will not be long before she will enjoy the society of her many friends once more.

Congressman L. Fletcher of Minnesota, who arrived in Salt Lake Saturday afternoon, left last evening for the East over the Rio Grande.

A young man named Elmer Harding had a narrow escape from serious injury about 7:45 this morning. He was driving down State street, and when between Second and Third South streets, his horse became frightened at a street car and began to run. Harding was unable to manage the animal, and, fearing dangerous consequences if he remained in the vehicle, made a leap for the pavement, sprainting his wrist and bruising his right leg. Some pedestrians on Fifth South Thought they would stop the run-away, but upon "second sober thought" concluded to "let 'em go." The last work of the rig was while making a "home stretch" on west Fifth South.

Kid Duffy, who was gathered in by the police yesterday together with another young man, charged with assaulting an aged man this morning and robbing him of his money, that in his estimation he is also a much persecuted man. The police thought Duffy knew something about the burglary on First street on Friday night but Duffy came out of the ordeal with flying colors proving a complete alibi during the time in the presence of the court stenographer on the night in question. Duffy says he came out of the county jail days to be turned over a new leaf. In fact he was arrested just as he was leaving the jail last evening and he swore that he is going to stay in town and work at his trade of a carriage painter.

Mrs. James Devine and Mrs. Van Pelt yesterday afternoon met with an accident while out driving with the result that both ladies were considerably shaken up. Mrs. Van Pelt, who held the reins, endeavored to pull in the horse when near Fifth East on First South the animal upon feeling a steady pressure on the bit started off at a livelier gait, whereupon Mrs. Van Pelt pulled on the bits with the inevitable result that the horse veered around the buggy striking against a hitching post. He in both ladies out of the vehicle in front of Dr. Ellis' house. Mrs. Devine's back and face were badly bruised, but she was enabled to proceed home while Mrs. Van Pelt escaped without a scratch. The horse became detached from the buggy, but instead of running headlong down the street he stopped, turned around and surveyed the wreck and then began to crop the grass at the roadside.

SERVICES IN THE TABERNACLE

Returned Missionaries Occupied the Pulpit on Sunday Last.

PROFITABLE EXPERIENCES.

Missionary Work Spoken of and Its Effect Upon Those Who Engage in It Related.

At the Tabernacle services yesterday President Angus M. Cannon presided.

The choir sang the hymn on page 25:

Earth with her ten thousand flowers,
Air with all its breezes and showers,
Heaven's infinite expanse,
Sun's resplendent countenance,—
All around and all above,
Bear this message: God is love.

Prayer was offered by Elder J. Golden Kimball.

The choir sang:

Hark, ye mortals, hist! be still!
Voices from Cumorah's hill
Break the silence of the dark,
Penetrate the gloomy gloom,
Gently whisper, "All is well,
Now's the day of Israel."

President Cannon announced that the following returned missionaries would speak: Elders A. B. Kimball and Eugene Lewis of the Southern States mission, Wm. D. Neal of the German mission, W. T. Jack, who is presiding over the Southwestern States mission, and Alonzo P. Kesler lately president of the Eastern States mission.

ELDER ALBERT B. KIMBALL.

Elder A. B. Kimball said: I have been away from my home thirty months in Georgia and Kentucky. I labored in the West Virginia conference, afterwards called to the East Kentucky conference. There I enjoyed many rich blessings and met with good success. I was then established in Georgia, in April, 1897, where as traveling Elder I canvassed houses and preached to the people. I returned home with many memories of the truth of the Gospel and with my heart filled with gratitude to my heavenly Father that I have enjoyed the privilege of proclaiming His Gospel. I have witnessed many manifestations of the power of God in my behalf, protecting me and my companions. My labors have brought me joy in the best, and it is my intention to go on and attempt to secure the blessings which are given to those who keep the commandments of God. As Paul has said, Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither hath it entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him."

You who have not been out in the world, cannot realize the contrast that exists between the people of the world generally and the Latter-day Saints. The whole duty of man is to fear God and to keep His commandments. If we fail to do this we fail to fulfill the measure of our creation.

ELDER EUGENE LEWIS.

Elder Eugene Lewis said: The two years and a half of varied experiences abroad has been compensated by the rapture I have felt in entering homes and in partaking of the sweet spirit which exists among the Saints. And if that be typical of the joy we shall experience on reaching our beautiful home, a lifetime of work will be a small thing to give for the blessing of eternal life.

In Florida, I suffered somewhat from chills and fever, and my work was obstructed by sickness; but I feel that the health and strength I enjoy now is due to the power of God, which raised and delivered me from that disease. I enjoyed myself in Florida. The people there are kind, hospitable, faithful, honest, and courageous; and when they take a position, they will be true to it because of opposition it brought upon them. I remember a man called John Coombs when that conference was organized. That State seems to be trying to outdo the dark deeds committed in Illinois. A number have been baptized and the seeds we sowed there seem to be germinating. The southern people are other than those we see in the West. They do oppose, they are implacable, but if they embrace the truth they are true friends. When I left I did not know that the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints was the Church of God. But I have received many testimonies that one of the grandest spirits in heaven was reserved to come forth in these times. Every time of my being thrilla at the mention of the name of that Prophet. The word of the Lord to him while he was in jail, declared that the people should not turn against him because of the testimony of martyrs. And by people have been true to him. We are told that prophecy is common, that miracles are common, and that the people of our Church are not the only ones to whom these things are given. Thus to the truth opposed by a counterfeit. The only way we can be able to know the truth from the counterfeit, and that is by the testimony of the spirit. By this we may know the difference the spurious coin, and know that we are in possession of the coin that will stand the test. As a people we have accomplished great things. We have conquered a little desert and well, and now we must conquer our enemies. We are making rapid progress in this direction. The spirit which attends our Elders as they go into the world, their demeanor before the world commands respect to every candid mind. If they could live in Zion as they live in the world, Zion would be inviolable from the force of examples. We are prepared for a war against that be that will do the will of the Father shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God or of man. I have testified to the truth of the Gospel and I know it to be true. Those who are about can approach our Father and receive from Him these blessings.

ELDER WM. D. NEAL.

Elder W. D. Neal said: I feel weak in addressing such a congregation. I have spent nearly a two and a half years' mission in Germany. At first I was in the Hanover branch, where we made a tour of 8 weeks, and where some were baptized. I remember the first one to be baptized. On the morning after his baptism he said to me, "Now I know that my sins are all in the Saints." I was called to labor in Hamburg. Here as in Hanover I found the people very friendly to the Elders. There were many that were honest and upright, and their integrity was always respected. Later I labored in the kingdom of Saxony. In some parts of Germany we have liberty to preach, but in Saxony there was little liberty for us. We made tracts then and the branch grew. I had the pleasure in 1897, of attending a semi-annual congress in St. Petersburg. There I met a number of learned men and was able to interest them in our people. Some requested me to send them tracts. On the first Sunday of last October a member of our branch was stricken with paralysis, and sent for the Elders. I was alone and wrote to Brother Reed Cannon. Many of our people fasted and prayed. And as soon as we administered to her, she got upon her feet and walked.

The women can do a great deal of good there. When they see the women of our people, they know that we are not a degraded people. Whenever they became acquainted with my wife we were asked to come again. This plan of salvation, when we investigate it, we find to be reasonable, for the principles accord with reason; we find these doctrines to be scriptural, for they accord with the Scriptures. In all respects these principles are practical, for every member of the Church must live the life of a Saint if he would retain his standing; they are philosophical, one principle follows another from first to last, and there is a grand harmony among them all. These principles are sublime, for they reach our origin and show us how we may return to the presence of our Father.

ELDER WM. T. JACK.

Elder Wm. T. Jack said: I feel it a privilege to stand before a congregation of the Saints. Our meetings in the mission are principally among those who know very little of the principles of the Gospel. My heart has been made to rejoice in listening to the testimonies of the brethren today from this stand. Two years ago I was called to the Southwestern States mission, having been there also eleven years ago. On my first visit the Elders were nearly all subject to chills and fever. Now the mission includes a number of States with a variety of climatic conditions, so that many go through the mission without the disagreeable feeling of shivering in the summer. There are in that mission 127 Elders. We visited last year the homes of 20,000 people. We have preached to about one-third of that number. The Elders are ever ready to return good for evil. The Elders in the Southwestern mission are as good men as those of any part of the earth. If we could be at home we are there, the power of God would be felt throughout Zion and throughout all the world. Among my experiences was the case of a man taken with apoplexy, who suffered three days and had been given up to death. Some Elders happened to come into his house. He burst into tears at the prospect of death before he could be baptized. He requested one of them to be baptized for him in the Temple after he was dead. They thought him faith in healing, and administered to him and he recovered. The physicians said it was a miracle. According to the promise which God has made, the Elders are rejoicing in our every blessing, and they receive their blessings. When you write to the missionaries abroad, do not tell them anything to discourage them. Do not ask them when they are to be released, as it takes their minds from their labors. I rejoice in this great work, and I should regard it a calamity to say young man who should be denied the privilege of going upon a mission.

ELDER A. P. KESLER.

Elder A. P. Kesler said: I have had the honor of laboring as a missionary for the usual period of time in the eastern States. The office of that mission is located in Brooklyn. The organization covers, in all, twelve States, has 128 Elders and 4 missionary Sunday schools and branches of the Church. The inhabitants of Washington and New York are those who are engaged at the approach of a Mormon Elder, and they ask why we come to these centers of civilization to teach what they regard as a false doctrine. We will tell them that our people are doers of the word as well as believers in it; that we have amongst us the living oracles, as well as the inspired writings; that we have the voice of inspired Apostles and Prophets; that we have today the same mission, the same organization, the same Church in fact as they had in the days of Christ. It is for this reason we have come to them. For this we prepare, with tears, fasting and prayer, and the cross; for that is the only place where God and man can meet. Our greatest task in the eastern States is to get people interested, for there we meet but little opposition. People receive us, open their doors to us, and take care of us. We have thirteen Sunday schools, about as many branches and 1,200 Saints in those States. We are building up in a small way a pattern of Church to these places. It is indeed difficult to interpret Christ; for to understand Him we must first obey Him. And it is not easy to obey. We know that by disobedience, death came into the world and that it was through obedience that life came into the world. The death that came through disobedience was a spiritual death, and the life that came through obedience was a spiritual life. I believe in obedience. We have received the commandment, and it devolves upon this people to carry this Gospel to them that sit in darkness. On us rests the momentous task. May we do well this great duty.

The choir sang the anthem "Hallelujah!"

DELIGHTFUL SCHOOL PROGRAM.

Programs are out for the Quinten school entertainments to be given at First Congregational church on Friday and Saturday nights, April 28 and 29. From the programs it may be predicted that the audience will not be disappointed in seeing and hearing something very good. It is also noted that the program for the second night is entirely different from that of the first night. Among the subjects to be illustrated by means of the stereopticon, and described by the pupils, are scenes from Egypt, France, Italy and some of the famous paintings, as well as some scenes which are not mentioned on the program.

Music, recitations and drills will be interspersed to give variety to the performance. The only cost of the school will be good to know that both the orchestra and chorus are prepared to do some excellent work. It is that the "Pinkers" of last year will appear on Friday night in a selection from Robin Hood.

In almost every neighborhood there is some one whose life has been saved by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, or has been cured of chronic diarrhoea by the use of that medicine. Such persons make a point of telling of it whenever opportunity offers, hoping that it may be the means of saving other lives.

THE FIELD FOR AMERICAN GOODS

And Opportunity for Its Enlargement in South America.

HOW IT MAY BE DONE.

Manufacturers of North America Should Put Themselves in Contact with Competent Natives.

Special Correspondence.

Washington, April 21.—The field for American goods in South America, and the opportunity for its enlargement is the subject of a letter just received by the bureau of statistics of the treasury department. It points out the popularity of American goods and the fact that American merchants and manufacturers are not apparently making the effort to extend their trade in South America that those of other countries are making. Imports into Argentine Republic from Germany increased from $,645,000 paper in 1896 to 13,882,000 in 1898; those from Italy increased from 4,447,000 paper in 1896 to 11,236,000 in 1898; those from the United Kingdom, from 23,825,000 in 1896 to 41,510,000 in 1898, while those from the United States which in 1896 were 7,874,000 were in 1898 11,119,000 out of a total importation in 1899 of 112,164,000 pesos in value. An examination of our own export figures by countries shows that our exports to Argentina which in 1899 were $9,252,000 were in 1898, $6,829,000.

The letter in question says: "A statement in a periodical referring to the commerce of Argentina in regard to the manufactures from Europe exports exclusively for its own benefit, is worthy of consideration when it is clear that the United States for many reasons should supply the South American merchants with the manufactures of a quality superior to the German, similar to those of Great Britain. The advantage of the United States is the possession of the raw materials; cotton, wool, etc., although it may not have wool in sufficient quantity, it can procure that of other places, as Europe has done, in exchange for its merchandise.

"To obtain satisfactory results, it is necessary that the North American manufacturers should put themselves in direct contact with competent persons, who should be natives of the country where they wish to plant their business, in order that the dealer may understand the needs, tastes, and customs of the consumers and all necessary modifications of which the trade may be susceptible; which, design, color, etc., in which each country has its own customs and tastes which very but do not change.

"In this country preference is given to French fashions, but imitations from other sources are accepted. From England some American textiles are bought abroad, such as jeans, drills, denims, satinets, canvas, and some others which sell at a price higher than those made by them (the English). The preference being given to them by the consideurs for the fineness of the material, evenness of the weave, and great durability.

"As all things begin for something, the manufacturers of American goods, in order to make their wares known, could secure an establishment for general merchandise of their manufacture at wholesale and retail, sending a case of samples, which would cost little, and the quantity and price returned would serve them as a guide for the development of future trade in that locality.

"It is well understood that the person who takes the lead will have the entire trade in his hands, and the (illegible) Bolivia and Chile as they are united by the railroad which will pass across the confluence of the Andes, which is already advanced, and which in a few years will be completed. The nationality of the person who should take the lead in this place has no importance, for those, as the Germans, who represent the manufacturers of their respective countries, manage to promote the interests which their countrymen have confided to them.

"Commissions estimate merchandise by its durability or color and fashion, and are distinguished with fraudulent imitations, which proves the importance of having an establishment for the promotion of the trade in merchandise from a single point.

The following table shows the export of merchandise from the United States to South America in each year from 1890 to 1899:

1890. . . .	$18,152,610.	1895. . . .	$23,525,952.
1891. . . .	21,170,000.	1896. . . .	22,187,871.
1892. . . .	23,147,614.	1897. . . .	23,769,646.
1893. . . .	22,626,877.	1898. . . .	23,621,701.
1894. . . .	22,212,210.

EMPLOYMENT OF TEACHERS.

Final Action will Not be Taken for Several Weeks.

Teachers to be employed in the Salt Lake schools will not be decided on for a few weeks, until after the arrival of Superintendent Cooper. Over 250 are to be employed; most of the present teachers, it is thought, will be retained. Promotion will depend largely upon an recommendation of principals. This year's payroll for teachers will amount to $187,700. The total number of the increase in salary is in recognition of meritorious and efficient services be addressed to the sum of $9,000 will be added, making a very creditable total of next year's salaries for teachers $196,800.

Next Wednesday the finance committee of the board will meet to determine the schools' financial needs for the ensuing year, preliminary to fixing the rate for the levy of school taxes.
