MINES AND MINING.

The Stock Exchange Has Temporarily Suspended Operations

FOR A PERIOD OF THIRTY DAYS.

Review of the Stocks Listed On The Exchange—Sales and Notes.

For thirty days at least there will be no calls on Saturday. This decision was arrived at by the governing board at a meeting held by them yesterday afternoon. At the expiration of that period at least the pipe in which the bulls and bears delight to growl at each other will be located in different quarters. It will be found on Commercial street and close to the Women's Exchange, in an apartment rented from the Bigelow Gang Trust company at the very low figure of $15 per month. The room although not in as desirable a location as the present pit, is large and airy and will afford ample space and sufficient breeze to allow the brokers to go for each other in true speculative style.

For the past two months business has been decidedly dull on "Change"—in fact so dull that some of the brokers wound the organization to dissolve had delayed, while others who felt that more good could yet be done by keeping it in operation, declared themselves in favor of that, as the irreducible portion, however, for a time, course of business cutting a period of six "ring days." The latter element prevailed and the motion has carried. It is to be hoped that the resumption of operations, feeling will be instantly improved and that the members will carry round with the determination to "make or crack themselves in the attempt.

With so an array of good-paying mining stocks as there are in the Utah market, inviting an "change should be exceedingly active. Let us look at some of the stocks that are listed on the exchange. The first in the list that can be quickly sensitized with profit is the Dalton Rock. This mine, located in the Tintic district, has paid in dividends to date $2,030,000. The company owning it is incorporated with a capital stock of $2,000,000, and the mine when now is showing large bodies of paying ore.

Next there is the Centennial-Eureka mine with $1,710,000 in dividends to its credit. This property is also in the Tintic district, and the stock is held at a very high figure, $75 and the bears have asked for a share of the stock. The company is a strong one, and has a capital stock of $1,000,000.

The Horn Silver is another property which has seen its share in the way of dividends paying, the total amount thus paid to shareholders $5,000,000. The mine is owned at Frisco, Utah, and the stock is listed upon as a gilt-edged security. The company is active, the property is capitalized for $10,000,000.

The Horn Silver has been in operation for a few years, but the development work is being pushed with a capital stock of $500,000, well up in the mining stock's fine property in the Cross Creek District. The incorporators are George E. Lee, Kingsbury, R. F. Baer, John R. Parker, F. K. Shafer, C. O. Whittemore, Sol Lesky, and the stock is now issued in shares of $1 each. The company is represented in the Association by Mr. Lee is president, R. F. Baer, vice-president, John R. Parker, secretary, F. K. Shafer, treasurer, all of whom, together with Mr. Whittemore, make up the board of directors.

SALE OF THE DE LAMAR.

An English Syndicate Succeeds in Securing the Famous Nevada Mine.

A deal through which the De Lamar mine at De Lamar, Nev., passed from the hands of its former owner, Captain De Lamar and became the property of an English syndicate, has just been consummated. The consideration for the property is not officially given, but it is estimated to be all the way from three to five million dollars.

About five years ago Captain De Lamar took hold of the property and from largely is due the reputation it enjoys the mine is today. Over $2,000,000 of development work has been done and a smelter and a mill of $200,000 have been expended on the plant. The deal was negotiated by Charles M. Bullard and in all probability that gentleman will shortly assume the management.

Rockfield Advocate Notes.

Two wagon road up to the chrysolite and other mines in Commercial canyon was completed yesterday and now there is a fine two horse turnpike running from Marysvale to the great properties, a distance of ten miles. Up at the Chrysolite carpenters are busy building sheds and boarding houses and a big mine will be placed on the mine as soon as the quarters are complete.

J. H. Fowler, R. Barton and Allen Nelson spent Friday and Saturday last week prospecting in Monroe mountain. About five miles south of Monroe they came upon a big showing of white and honeycomb quartz that has every indication of being of the gilt-edging variety. The gentlemen will save the rock secured and if it shows up as they expect they will begin development work upon the prospect this summer.

John Moore yesterday sold two tons of rock to the smelter at Iowa Springs, Monday the Rockfield-Tarbiton company, which is prospecting with favorable indications for a large supply of water on the city mining property, dropped into one of these dry holes that for one day's work Winters and Sons took each in wind given of the water necessary for irrigation purposes for one year, provided the supply is found to be adequate. It was as near as though a time singing water sounds in the summer.

Jim Long left Richfield Thursday and returned Sunday. While absent he did business in Black Rock, Frisco and Milford. The object of his trip was to secure some of various parties interested in the Rocky Mine as their assessable. Mr. Long was entirely successful and now holds up his end in the Rocky property. The Rocky mine is 20,000 feet from the Lucky Dog, the mine is 10,000 feet from the Lucky Dog. Five men are at work on the property, namely, R. F. Baer, John R. Parker, F. K. Shafer, C. O. Whittemore, Sol Lesky, and the stock is now issued in shares of $1 each. The company is represented in the Association by Mr. Lee is president, R. F. Baer, vice-president, John R. Parker, secretary, F. K. Shafer, treasurer, all of whom, together with Mr. Whittemore, make up the board of directors.

SALE OF THE DE LAMAR.

An English Syndicate Succeeds in Securing the Famous Nevada Mine.

A deal through which the De Lamar mine at De Lamar, Nev., passed from the hands of its former owner Captain De Lamar and became the property of an English syndicate, has just been consummated. The consideration for the property is not officially given, but it is estimated to be all the way from three to five million dollars.

About five years ago Captain De Lamar took hold of the property and from largely is due the reputation it enjoys the mine is today. Over $2,000,000 of development work has been done and a smelter and a mill of $200,000 have been expended on the plant. The deal was negotiated by Charles M. Bullard and in all probability that gentleman will shortly assume the management.

Rockfield Advocate Notes.

Two wagon road up to the chrysolite and other mines in Commercial canyon was completed yesterday and now there is a fine two horse turnpike running from Marysvale to the great properties, a distance of ten miles. Up at the Chrysolite carpenters are busy building sheds and boarding houses and a big mine will be placed on the mine as soon as the quarters are complete.

J. H. Fowler, R. Barton and Allen Nelson spent Friday and Saturday last week prospecting in Monroe mountain. About five miles south of Monroe they came upon a big showing of white and honeycomb quartz that has every indication of being of the gilt-edging variety. The gentlemen will save the rock secured and if it shows up as they expect they will begin development work upon the prospect this summer.

John Moore yesterday sold two tons of rock to the smelter at Iowa Springs.