Amusements.

The last performance of the "New Devil's Auction" in the Salt Lake Theatre was given to a very small audience.

HANLONS MINSTRELS.

The first appearance of this talented home company will take place at the Salt Lake Theatre Friday and Saturday evenings, December 18 and 19. The programme, in a very happy figure of speech, promises "a cyclone of mirth," and the merry public who value a hearty laugh are not likely to be disappointed. The evening's entertainment is to conclude with "A Derby Picnic," in which the entire company will appear.

MODERNLAND.

Today will witness the first appearance of a dramatic company specially engaged for the amusement of visitors to Wonderland. The piece to be presented is entitled the "Corner Grocery." It is a laughable farce comedy by George W. Peck, and is the first of a series to be performed at Wonderland.

THE CENTRAL RIFLE CORPS.

The third annual ball of this organization was given last night at Young's Hall. A great many guests were present who enjoyed themselves very much. The party was a decided success. The following is a list of the members of the corps: T. L. Berry, E. L. Estelle, E. P. Midgley, H. Leyland, J. G. Nystrom, B. A. Scare, T. Hinton, G. Kelson, F. W. Cope, F. D. Hughes, Charles Tuckett, W. Tuckett, Wm. Davis, H. Hutton, T. M. Kiddle, F. Crow, T. Naylor, B. Jones, S. Goldstrom, L. Bentley, St. C. Barrell, W. Maiser, C. J. White, H. L. Jennings, G. Stringam, James H. Poulton, Charles H. Wells.

FOREFATHER'S DAY.

It is proposed to celebrate this day, December 22nd, at Hotel Knutsford. It is expected that all New Englanders and all whose immediate connections are from New England will join in a social New England dinner in honor of the occasion.

Railroad Notes.

The Union Pacific will run an excursion train to the east west on Sunday next, leaving this city at 2 p.m.

The Rio Grande Western will also run a special to Lake Shore on the same date. It will leave at 3 p.m. and return at 4:30.

Track laying has been nearly completed to Bountiful on the Bountiful & Hot Springs Railway.

Mr. Jay H. Douglas, a Union Pacific stenographer from Omaha, is in the city.

Probate Court.

The following business was transacted before Judge Hatch yesterday:

Estate of Joseph Burton, deceased: It appearing that there is no error in the register of sales in this estate, the decree filed in said estate, May, 1893, it is ordered the clerk correct the register to show true nature of said decree.

Estate of George Hosler, an insane person; continued to Dec. 22.

Estate of Thomas Hosler, an insane person; continued to Dec. 22.

Estate of Alpha Overson; petition for letters of administration dismissed on motion of Attorney Pierce.

Estate of Henry Shlingleton, deceased; order made confirming sale of real estate to Catherine Steiner for $550.00.

Estate and guardianship of John B. Chase, a minor; the clerk ordered to cite Elizabeth Morris, guardian, to appear in court December 23 to show cause why her letters of guardianship should not be revoked.

Estate of Hiram B. Eldredge, deceased; Dr. Snow, of Logan, to be allowed reasonable expenses to appear as witness. Continued to Dec. 19.

Estate of Ezra T. Sprague, deceased; order made discharging executrix and releasing sureties.

Estate of Alpha L. Redfield, deceased; order made fixing January 5, 1892, to hear account and petition for distribution.

Estate of John W. Chamberlain, deceased; order made fixing Dec. 29 to hear petition for letters of administration.

Settlers Wanted.

By private letter from Bishop Peter A. Lafferty of St. David, Cochise Co., Arizona, we learn that the canal which furnishes water for that settlement is now in splendid shape, and the people have an abundance of water for irrigating their land. He would like to have fifty more families come and settle there, and feels that there is ample room for them. The land is of excellent quality and yields abundantly, and there is a good market for all the grain, vegetables, fruit and hay that can be raised. A person who has the necessary capital to build a grist mill would find St. David an excellent place to locate, as there are settlers enough on the river to secure it sufficient custom to make it very profitable. The nearest mill now is at Tucson, sixty miles distant.

Court Matters.

The following business was transacted before Judge Anderson yesterday afternoon.

In the case of Constantine Kanakes against A. J. Burt et al., a motion to revoke the order heretofore issued to compel Hiram B. Booth, United States land commissioner, to send up a transcript of the appeal taken in the case, was granted.

In the case of Verina Schwin et al. vs. W. P. Rowe et al., which had been submitted on demurrer to the complaint, the demurrer was overruled.

The case of John W. Galbraith vs. John T. Lynch et al. was reset to Monday, December 21.

The case of the Utah Central railroad company was set to come up December 18.

In the divorce case of Maud Whitlock against Thomas D. Whitlock, an order of publication was granted.

John Tingemann vs. H. E. Booth, United States commissioner, will be heard on December 17.

In the case of Elizabeth Brown against Alexander Brown, to show cause for contempt for refusing to pay alimony, the defendant was ordered to pay $25 into the court immediately and $25 per month afterwards and $12 costs.

In the case of W. J. Lynch vs. F. Harrington, a restraining order was granted to plaintiff on the furnishing of securities in the sum of $50.

The Woodruff Dam.

President Jesse N. Smith, of the Snowflake Stake, writes us that the brethren are working on the dam in the Little Colorado, at Woodruff, with good prospects of making such a substantial job that it will not wash away again. The weather in that region is colder than usual for the season.

HAVE PLENTY OF FRESH AIR.

Such Ventilation Does Not Mean, However, That One May Have a Draft.

In spite of all that has been preached and published of late in regard to the fatal whether the vast majority of people yet appreciate the value of fresh air. A considerable acquaintance with the travelling public leads a person to this decision. Even persons of intelligence are inclined to entertain still far more opprobrious by the adoption of a suspicion of some times the temporary discomfort caused by lowering the temperature to the degree required for health. In order to experience all the benefits of pure air it is not necessary to be what is popularly known as a "fresh air crank."

The amount of actual drafts of air which different persons can endure with movement is quite different. In this connection also for the sufferer of phthisis and so, we should not throw open the windows of a railway car or of any room entirely, however close and unwholesome the atmosphere may seem. Persons who have been sitting in a close apartment have by that means become weakened, so that they are quite liable to catch cold from the sudden change caused by the entrance of pure air. In all cases of this kind the air must be gradually changed. Many a case of pneumonia may be traced to some robust person's coming in from the outdoor air, announcing "the room was close" and throwing open the windows to admit it as suddenly as possible, despite the presence of other companions who had been sitting in the close room.

Such a sudden change of the temperature of the room is always safe for the person coming in from the fresh air, but it is to those who happen to be in the room for some time.

But because it is necessary to exercise care in changing the air of a room which has become vitiated it does not prove it will be healthy each air. It simply proves the power of close air to so arrive upon in debilitated constitutions. Nothing is more hazardous than to substitute one's self in a close, superheated room. Only persons of the greatest strength can endure such unwholesome surroundings. As a matter of fact, the very poor, who necessarily suffer more from diseases caused by exposure, do not show as high a mortality as people in a well to do or even wealthy rank of life from the various epidemic diseases caused by the foul air of overheated rooms, poisoned as it is often is with miasmatic gases of the sewer and tenement.

The statement seems startling, yet it is supported by statistics of the highest authority, that diseases, that manifestly, that most dreaded of scourges, Bronchitis is far greater related to the influence of the rich than to the homes of the very poor. The poor man's dwelling, in spite of the want of hygienic exposure to all the household requisites, has not been long enough in the city to be disinfected by the most powerful of all disinfectants, cold and heat. The fact that his children have been many evening down upon his stove, and that they have left their beds in very early morning to dress upon the stove, and that the children in comfortable circumstances. The poor child has been hardened.

No sense is it for us to think to use expensively washed out every day with fresh, cold air. The windows of such rooms in the house that is occupied should be systematically opened for at least ten minutes some time during the day, and should be arranged so that there is a continuous supply of pure, fresh air coming in the room and an exit for the used up air. In open fireplace is one of the best means of solving this difficulty. There are various systems of ventilation on which volumes have been written. The greatest best, however, is to keep your rooms and beds to neglect a matter so essential to the well being of those whom you care most for.

When a furnace is used it is necessary to see that the cold air box opens outdoors. As furnace or stove heat tends to exhaust the supply of pure air, it is essential that about an hour on the furnace in the room (outside intended for it. It is also necessary that a constant supply of pure air be kept flowing into the room in some way so it does not produce a draft.—New York Tribune.

What Children May or May Not Eat.

For breakfast, children three years old should be given milk, oatmeal, bread and butter, a little fruit and eggs, lightly boiled, poached or scrambled. If, instead of eggs, they prefer fresh fish or steak, either may be allowed the meat of organs being milked free. Fried foods are forbidden, and fritters and fried cakes are included in this class.

At dinner, if the soup in this it may be given children, for thick soups would be made than their digestive organs could well bear. Roast or boiled meats, such as lean mutton, are allowable. The fresh fish, pork and all salted and otherwise cured meats are hard to digest. Avoid them too. Potatoes, baked or boiled, dry and mashed, spinach, peas, string beans, asparagus of good quality; cauliflower and beans, when young, are easily digestible.

This is not the case with green corn, unless it is very tender and the kernels are carefully removed from the cob with the back of a knife blade and then cooked in cream. Such vegetables as turnips, carrots, parsnips and onions require strong powers to digest them. The more easy to sort of celery, unless it is stewed. The sweet potato is much less easily digestible than the white one, or, as commonly called, the Irish potato, and spinach asparagus a sort of sugary dainty, hence it must be held inadmissible for young children.

For supper, milk toast, bread and butter, and a glass of milk, with possibly a little stewed fruit, will be quite sufficient for young children. The latter, by the way, when eaten at night, sometimes causes disagreeable symptoms. Ripe bread, cheese, boiled meat and vegetables and the like, so often the supper of the hearty workman, are altogether too indigestible for young children.—Boston Herald.

The Pansy's Adaptability—New Strains of This Favorite Flower.

The general principle of pansy culture, modified by climate and soil, is substantially the same in all places. The pansy attains its greatest perfection in the cool, moist climate of Great Britain and neighboring countries. In pansy seed the more expensive the better. Although you may grow thrifty plants and large blossoms you can no more expect flowers of rich texture and fine markings from cheap seed than Jersey cream from a scrub cow, neither a woman florist in The American Garden.

Seed planted indoors in February in latitude 44 degs. will produce plants large enough to blossom when the weather is sufficiently warm for them to be set in open ground. The time of sowing must be varied for localities farther south. Sow the seed thinly in drills half an inch deep. Cover with a piece of glass or board. Do not need light until the shoots appear; to keep the moisture in, but do not allow this cover to rest on the soil. Set this box in a temperature of 60 to 70 degs. When the second leaves are well grown, the plants are large enough to transplant. The outdoor location for a pansy bed is the north side of a solitary tree, where it will have shade at noonday. If among many trees it is essential to buildings, the free passage of air is cropped and the plants grow scrawling or are inclined to rot.

THE QUICK AND THE DEAD

WOODS' PENETRATING PLASTER

For Bronchitis, Asthmatic and Pulmonary complaints, "Bronchial Troubles" have remarkable curative properties. Sold only in boxes.

I have been bothered with catarrh for about twenty years; I has lost some of smell entirely, and I had almost lost my hearing. My eyes were getting so dim I had to get some one to thread my needle. Now I have my hearing as well as I ever had, and I can use to thread as fine a needle as ever I did, my sense of smell is pretty perfected, and it seems to be improving all the time. I think there is nothing like Ely's Cream Balm for catarrh. Mrs. E. E. Grimes, Bandith, Perry Co., O.

A Preventive for Croup.

We want every mother to know that croup can be prevented. True croup never appears without a warning. The first symptom is hoarseness; then the child appears to have taken a cold or a cold may have accompanied the hoarseness from the start. After that a peculiar rough cough is developed, which is followed by the croup. The time to act is when the child first becomes hoarse; a few doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will prevent the attack. Even after a rough cough has appeared the disease may be prevented by using this remedy as directed. It has never been known to fail. 50 cent and $1 bottles for sale by E. C. M. I. A Warning
To Horse-Owners.

The Split Nail in this Shoe seriously saved the lives of two horses which it was recently taken in Worcester, Mass. One point of the nail came out in the proper place for clinching and it enabled the blacksmith who shod the horse. The other point went in the direction shown in the illustration, piercing the tender part of the foot called the "quick," from which the horse was made lame for one nearly two weeks.

This is not an unusual case. The more things it is expected the more liable to injury the foot of the horse. The cause is usually attributed to the nails, which are forced to be worse. WHAT IS A GUARANTEE?

Many merchants and salesmen are in the habit of indiscriminately "guaranteeing" their wares with no thought of being called upon to make the "guarantee" good. It is a pernicious and foolish custom more respected in the breach than in the observance.

A guarantee, to have any value, should be made with knowledge of the meaning of the word and a set purpose to carry out the terms of the guarantee. On fine tools the makers instruct us to warrant, and we replace any tool found imperfect in use.

We have used our best judgment, acquired by a considerable experience, in selecting the following items for our stock and sell them to our customers with an absolute guarantee that if they do not prove to be all that we represent them, we will refund the purchase money in full.
