FRAGMENTS.

No District Court session to-day.

Watermelons are plentiful—and green.

Tax day opened bad for the orphan's excursion.

Board of equalization meets to-day at 4 p.m.

'Tis the last circus of summer, now folded and gone.

P. RICHARDS donated $5 for a plain drunk this morning.

Buoy, burlesque, ballet and beauty, at the Theatre to-night.

CITY COUNCIL in regular session this evening at the usual hour.

Quite a change in the temperature, from last night's and to-day's showers.

Tax days are perceptibly growing shorter, but it still takes 24 hours to make a whole one.

SANPETE gray stone is becoming popular for building purposes. Large shipments are coming in.

COFFEE JOHN is running New York oysters and selling at 50c per can. Other oyster men are sick.

Provo and other Utah County towns indulged in a hall-storm yesterday. Our neighbors are nothing if not original.

Another small party from this city has just left for Soda Springs, taking the advice of the News to try it for themselves.

ROSE THOMAS and Mary Smedley were arrested last night for being drunk. The former paid $15, the latter has not been sentenced yet.

The funeral of the late Aaron Morris, who was murdered near Ketchikan, Idaho, Saturday midnight, took place at the Jewish synagogue at 4 p.m. to-day.

A Utah Central employee named Bird, while switching cars in the depot yard on Sunday, had three of his fingers caught and injured between the couplers.

News regarding the recovery of the corpses of the murdered Elders, also respecting further threats, are in our telegraphic dispatches on a second page. No further news has been received.

S. P. TEASDEL has quite a corner on the dried fruit business. His advertisement in another column gives notice that his wagons will call upon city patrons and will go to the depot for rail shipments, upon receiving information that the fruit is to be had. Utah dried fruit is famous, and so is Teasdel for his energetic way of getting it into an appreciative market.

LOCAL NEWS.

Not the "Capitol."—An unfortunate mistake occurred in last evening's News in our notice of the stabbing affray. We announced the crime as having occurred in the Capitol Saloon. This was incorrect—it should have been the "Capitol" saloon. We regret the mistake and hope no offense will be taken.

Lost Pocketbook.—The man Nordqvist, mentioned in last evening's News as being hooked up by the runaway team, and carried half a mile, suspended from the tongue of the wagon, had the misfortune to lose his pocketbook and about $10 while taking the perilous ride. The finder ought to be and probably is anxious to find the owner, and now he knows where to look for him.

For Coalville.—Mrs. Diana Smoot, wife of President A. O. Smoot, came up from Provo last evening, on the way to Coalville to attend the funeral of her brother, Hyrum Eldredge, who died there on Sunday morning. This morning, President H. S. Eldredge, also brother to the deceased, with Mrs. Chloe Eldredge, his wife, accompanied Sister Smoot on her journey. The deceased died of consumption, from which he had been a sufferer for many years.

A Lady Correspondent.—Our sanctum was visited for a few moments this morning, by the genial presence of Miss S. A. Fawcett, of Newark, New Jersey, representing during her absence from home, the Daily Advertiser of that city, in the capacity of special correspondent. The lady is also Superintendent of drawing in the Newark Public School, and her main object, or one of them, in coming West was to attend the School Convention lately held in Madison, Wisconsin, which she distinguishes as "the grandest educational convention ever held on the globe." Continuing her journey after that was over, Miss Fawcett has perambulated the Pacific Slope and the great Northwest, and arrived here yesterday morning on her return East. She intends leaving by the morning train. We are sorry she cannot stay longer, but wish her ever so pleasant a visit while she remains.

Religious Discussion.—Our readers will remember that several months ago a public discussion took place in the Ogden Tabernacle, between the Rev. Richard Horley, of the Baptist Church in that city, and Elder Ben E. Rich, of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. The proceedings were reported in full by E. B. Barker, and true to the intention of having them published in pamphlet form, Elder Rich, we are pleased to notice, has done so through the medium of the Pacific Instructor office. The little book is very interesting and contains 72 pages of reading matter, the first fifty-three pages being devoted to the discussion referred to, and the latter part to a dialogue, entitled "True versus False Religion," in which a "Mormon" Elder, a Parson and a Traveler discuss the question of eternal salvation. This dialogue is based on incidents in the experience of Elder Rich, while on a mission to Great Britain, he being the "Mormon" Elder introduced. Both the discussion and the dialogue are full of interest and instruction, and cannot fail to please and edify those who are investigating the question of the religion of the Latter-day Saints. The book sells at 50 cents, the object of the compiler not being to speculate, but simply to place before the public and destroy the expense incurred in so doing.

TERRITORIAL ITEMS.

CULLED FROM LATEST EXCHANGES.

Dried dried scriptures are being shipped to Salt Lake.

St. George copper is being forwarded to Baltimore, Md.

New potatoes in Gunnison, Cal., sell for $3.00 per hundred weight.

The Prisco (Utah) Times will resume publication on September 1st.

The road from Salt Lake to Panguitch is now in good condition.

For pleasure it is preferable to the round-about railroad ride.

The late Conference in Bear Lake Stake at which President Taylor and party were present, was the best attended one ever held there.

A U. P. conductor was shot at five times by a tramp whom he had put off the train in Wyoming last week. The marksman was faulty, but the shooter came to jail, nevertheless.

Bishop Austin, of Liberty, Idaho, broke his leg a few days ago through being fallen upon by his horse. His member himself, assisted by his son, remounted his horse and rode home.

A species of temporary blindness has appeared among cattle on certain ranges in Montana. It does not have a fatal termination but causes much trouble during its stay, which lasts about two weeks.

A Montana man a few days ago dug up a tooth about seven feet below the surface of the earth which must have belonged to some extinct and forgotten monster. It is nine inches long and six inches thick.

George Osmond, Esq., gives up the editorial management of the Bear Lake Democrat, labors in another country and on another continent being required of him. The vacant tripod will be mounted by Robert S. Spence.

The Piegans Indians in Montana are reported to be starving. There are upwards of three thousand of them and a Montana paper says it will not be surprising if the redskins in their dire extremity help themselves to the palefaces' cattle.

The manager of the Butte Opera House has issued an order designating the seats which the demoniac should occupy. A few nights ago five of that class applied for admission, dressed in the manner of bonnets, roses etc., of Sisters of charity. The manager perceived the fraud and sent them home with the remark that there was no masquerade ball that evening.

The inmates of the Deer Lodge (M. T.) penitentiary got tired of their lossy life last week and made a long run through which to escape their bondage. The guard happened to notice a disposition to cave in on the part of a certain spot of ground in the jail yard, and watched it closely. Presently a head thrust itself out, but only stayed long enough to get one breath of freedom, for the watchman's bullet whizzed by too close to be comfortable.

Additional Particulars.—Two men have been arrested at Ketchikan, Idaho, for suspected complicity in the murder of Mr. Aaron Morris, a lately placed account of which appeared in this paper's second edition last evening. A companion of the men arrested, who is believed to have done the shooting, has disappeared. The three were well known "beats" of the town, having been taken together a great deal and the two in custody have been taken to a suspicion upon themselves by an unusual display of curiosity on the part of the jailer, and watched it closely. Presently a head thrust itself out, but only stayed long enough to get one breath of freedom, for the watchman's bullet whizzed by too close to be comfortable.

Third District Court.—Proceedings on Monday, August 18, 1884.

Mary P. Rice vs. London Bank of Utah (L. B.). The garnishee herein (Rivers Brothers) under the attachment are ordered to pay to the sheriff the amount in their hands due to the defendant, pursuant to the garnishee made of $305, and any additional money in their hands.

Harriet Mining Company vs. Phoenix Mining Company et al. September 10th inclusive, to file statement on motion for new trial.

Samuel Shew vs. Richard S. Dunn; on motion of M. M. Kishan, attorney for defendant, the order made at plaintiff's motion March 26th, 1883, recalling execution and staying payment of money, rescinded and set aside and execution ordered to issue.

Admitted citizen—Joseph C. Davis, formerly of England, now of Salt Lake County.

Court adjourned till Wednesday, Aug. 20, 1884.

"Orpheus and Eurydice."—This evening the Bijou Baroque Opera Company, of New York, open an engagement of four nights at the Salt Lake Theatre. A metropolitan journal has this and more to say of them:

We will wager that such an array of comely faces and shapely forms was never before collected on the stage of any theatre in the West. The first night in a comedy opera as Eurydice. She made a decided impression upon the audience. Laura Conway, a somewhat obscured by the part of Diana, goddess of the chase, but she acquitted herself admirably well, little required of her. Augusta Roche, tall, commanding and full of import, and withal to the point of public opinion, the companion of Orpheus in his hellish exploits. Her rich contralto voice was heard to advantage. The little girl and to perfection. Pauline Hall was very pretty as Venus, Billie Barlow was very pretty as the wing-footed Mercury. The rest of the women were attractive and sang the choruses satisfactorily.

Digby Ball acted Jupiter with much humor. He is a genuine comedian. However, he got all that was possible out of it. Max Freeman looked as innocent as a lamb as the Shepherd Aristides, and as wicked as possible as his infernal majesty Pluto. He was naturally nervous, having the weight of the libretto on his shoulders, but he got through successfully. Harry Evans sang Orpheus' song with a clear tenor voice, and went through the action of playing his violin excellently. He is a talented actor and will become a favorite. George C. Boniface, Jr., made Eurydice prominent.

Arrivals.—The following named persons arrived here from Liverpool on the evening of the 18th, all safe, having made the journey in 16 days: Henry, Mary Ann, Eliza and James Scott; Thomas Nichols; and Mrs. McAlister, for Salt Lake City; David Sam, Sarah Ann and Elizabeth Williams, for Wellsville; Henry Garret for Evanston; and Mrs. Emma Grover for Evanston. With these persons there were two returning missionaries Elders Samuel Milton, of Logan, and H. W. Atterly, of this city, the latter in charge.

The company left Liverpool per S. S. Nevada at 5 p.m. on the 2d of August, and had headwinds most of the way and a rather rough passage. They arrived in New York on the evening of the 12th, and landed on Wednesday morning. Their overland journey was a pleasant one.

Elder Samuel Milton, who was released on account of ill health, was searick some four days and after that got a good deal better. The sea air seemed to revive his spirits and he felt better when he separated from the company than when he undertook the journey.

Elder H. W. Atterly, of this city, made a call this afternoon. He left Salt Lake City on his mission on the 10th day of May, 1883, and proceeded direct to England. On arrival there he was appointed to labor in the Leeds conference, and did so nearly four months, after which he was transferred to the Manchester conference, where he labored until released. He expressed himself as having enjoyed his labors, and scarcely felt that his short time was done, as he had a number of relatives from whom he was anxious to part without saying good-by to any of them, which he will do on his return. Still he felt to be obedient to the requirements as he had been to the same in England, and within a few hours was on his way to Liverpool, where good health, and good and bad will be his.

PERSONAL.

Brother Eben Stephens has come down from the north, where he has been rusticated, and has resumed his musical teaching at the University, and with his evening class.

Consistent as Ever.—The leading anti-Mormon sheet of this city had an editorial this morning bewailing and denouncing, as every Latter-day Saint is bound to do, the murder of Aaron Morris, a Gentle in Idaho, and another leader excusing and justifying the assassination of five "Mormons" in the State of Tennessee. "O Judgment thou art fed to brutish beasts, and men have lost their reason!"

An Acknowledgment.—We recorded a call to-day from Mr. Hyrum Preece, of the 17th Ward, the father of the boy who was recently drowned in Jordan River. He requests us, through the columns of the News, to return his thanks to the many gentlemen who have rendered assistance in recovering the body of his son, and for other acts of kindness which he and the rest of the family greatly appreciate. He specially mentions in this connection Mr. Edwin Johnson, Mr. E. Tattler, Mr. Nyström and others.

Mipped in the Mud.—A man who evidently no friend to the hunting reporter, deliberately stopped a pair of would-be runaway steeds on Main street this morning, just as they had started off on a little rattle-tang junketing tour the end of which no man knoweth. The mad efforts of two or more newspaper men, in throwing up their hands and scolding the frightened animals still more, though yelling "whoa!" all the time for a while, showed plainly where their hearts and treasures were in the transaction. Well, we can't always have our own way in this world.

Journalistic Changes.—Mr. James A. McKnight and the Salt Lake Herald, we understand, parted company yesterday, the gentleman, who has for some time held the position of local editor on the staff of that journal, being up in the air and seeking his fortune in the "new world," of which we have had something to say heretofore. Mr. McKnight will next be heard from as one of the editors of the Salt Lake American, the Democratic paper about to be established in this city. The place made vacant in the literary corps of our esteemed morning contemporary, will be filled, we are further informed, by Mr. H. G. Whitney, at present the Dramatic and Lyric editor of the Herald, whose able contributions have been for several months a prominent feature of its Sunday columns, and who is also employed as a book-keeper in McCormick and Company's Bank. We wish both gentlemen all the success they merit in their new undertakings.
