FRAGMENTS.

COURTS court will meet again on Monday next.

THE first meeting of the City Council this week will be held tonight.

THERE will probably be a brief session of the Third district court tomorrow.

JUDGE SHARP's opinions in Supreme court cases are acknowledged to be models of pith and brevity.

THERE was a fire alarm today for a blaze at the corner of Fifth South and Fifth West streets.

UTAH strawberries are in the market now in good supply, but the bulk of the crop has not yet commenced to reach it.

THE paving has progressed far enough to let the street cars run a little further, but it has not as yet added anything to their regularity.

THE members of the Utah commission have decided not to commence operations until next Monday, when the whole board will be present.

THE irrigating streams about the city are getting small, and owners of small gardens are alert for chances to get the water in on their parching gardens.

CAPTAIN ANDERSON secured his promotion with the Territorial secretary's office this morning, and after a brief vacation will turn his attention to coal oil and mining.

ONLY one order was made by Judge Hiles in the Probate court this morning. It was in the matter of the estate of Joseph Sowden, deceased, the petition for the sale of personal property being granted.

THIS ONE ALSO UNSUCCESSFUL.

Daniel Hines, a Penitentiary Convict Follows in Wilson's Wake.

Another convict at the penitentiary has made an unsuccessful break for liberty, making the second attempt this week. This time the effort was on the part of Daniel Hines, who on April 25th last was sentenced by Judge Zane to three years' term for counterfeiting. About one o'clock yesterday afternoon Hines obtained permission from the guard to go to the water-closet, but a chance presented itself for him to turn in another direction, and he made a move toward the gateway through which a number of trusties were about to march in one he was grabbed by a couple of guards and taken back to his cell. The convict will not gain very much by this move.

Thanks.

The following has been handed in, with a request for publication: For the sympathy and aid we received from kind friends during the sickness and death of our beloved son, we desire to tender our heartfelt thanks.

PHILIP B. and SUSAN P. BERRIER.

THE SCHOOL BOARD.

A Communication Received From the Building Trades Congress.

WASATCH SCHOOL BUILDING.

Employment of Teachers—A Number of Claims Allowed.—Sale of Bonds Refused, Etc.

Colonel Nelson presided over the meeting of the Board of Education, held last evening. A good deal of business was transacted.

The clerk announced that he had performed with the law in the matter of posting notice, etc., for the sale and issuance of the recently voted school bonds in the sum of $225,000. Filed.

The committee on finance reported that they had instructed the clerk to insert the notice of sale of bonds and also to communicate with the American Bank Note company, who engraved the previous issue of bonds, asking them to change the date, series and coupons, and that the bonds be dated August 1, 1893, interest payable semi-annually, February 1st and August 1st, and to get an estimate of the cost of printing the proposed 225 bonds. The report was filed.

John Bryan wrote that he was being prosecuted for constructing the First ward school building without a permit, and asking the board to take some action in the matter. It was ordered that the clerk notify the police court officials that the issue of this, if any, rests with the board in building the school house, and further, that the board demand Mr. Bryan if the suit is prosecuted after this notice is given.

Potts & Brown submitted a contract for placing blackboards in certain of the new school buildings, and the matter was referred to the committee on sites and buildings.

The Building Trades Congress reported that several of their members had been working for Contractor Sherrell on the Twenty-first ward school and had failed to receive their pay. Hence they asked that the board use its influence toward securing the same. Referred to the committee on sites and buildings.

E. E. Cantrell of Lisbon, N. D., Evelyn Bradley of Ries, Colo., Charles E. Smith of Burlington, Ia., and Ethel Woodmansee of Salt Lake, applied for positions as teachers. Referred to committee on teachers and school work.

The committee on sites and buildings to the matter of the Wasatch school building, recommended that no change be made as to the kind of brick to be used, as plenty of the kind named in the contract can be had. The committee also called attention to the fact that the contract provides that all payments shall be made to A. H. Gibson, one of the boardmen, and, further, that George C. Kidder, the second boardman, is one of the firm of Kidder Bros., recently assigned; also that they had been advised that the contractor, S. C. Sherrell, had assigned his contract for the erection of the building to A. H. Gibson, who promises to complete it before September 1, 1893, or that $100 per day be deducted from the contract price as liquidated damages for each and every day that the building is not delivered ready for occupancy after Aug. 31st. The committee further called attention to the fact that in all probability there was but one boardman, Mr. A. H. Gibson, and in order to better secure the board he had agreed to file each month receipted bills for all labor performed or material furnished, which are covered by previous estimates. Attached to the report was an itemized statement furnished by the superintendent of buildings, showing the difference in cost of construction between iron I beams required by the contract and wood beams as is now intended. The difference amounted to $337.55, and the committee recommended that the contract be modified so as to permit of wood construction, especially as it will also be a saving of time. The report was passed.

Mr. Dooly moved that the attorney of the board be requested to draw up a supplemental contract embodying the changes in the conditions of the original contract, and the proposition was adopted.

The committee on furniture and supplies stated that they had sold to George R. Emery, certain furniture, etc., for the sum of $50 as per power given them at the last meeting. Approved.

The committee on teachers and school work recommended the employment of the following teachers at the monthly salaries named below:

Lillian Hamlin	$ 45 00
Rosa S. Hoyt	75 00
Flora Irvin	75 00
Clara Mills	75 00
Francis Smith	75 00
Stella Arnold	75 00
Lucy H. Moody	60 00
Flora Smith	75 00
Ida A. White	75 00
Ella L. White	75 00
Jane E. Wyatt	75 00
Clara S. Hill	75 00
Alice Ashton	75 00
Josephine Dixon	75 00
Carrie E. Young	75 00
Emma Kennedy	75 00
Mary A. Gifford	75 00
HIGH SCHOOL.
Scott S. Whitney	$100 00
A. W. Reed	100 00

The board approved the committee's recommendation.

The claim of A. F. Parshall in the sum of $203.94 for blackboards at the Jackson school was referred to the committee on sites and buildings for a report at the next meeting.

The H. B. Dudley Lumber company of Portland, Ore., filed notice of lien on the Summer school building in the amount of $8.75. Referred to committee on sites and buildings.

Claims were presented and appropriations made in settlement amounting in the aggregate to $23,629.38.

The board then adjourned for two weeks.

Wonderland.

One of the best shows of the season is being given at this popular resort, the Ideal Opera Company presenting the popular opera Erminie with Mr. Bert Havens and Miss Moore in the leading roles. A very enjoyable programme is being given. Tomorrow being the favorite matinee day a large attendance of ladies and children will undoubtedly attend this most excellent performance. THE DENVER SHORT LINE.

The Proposed Road to Salt Lake Capitalized at $10,000,000.

A Company Organized for the Enterprise by the Denver Chamber of Commerce.

The Denver chamber of commerce held its meeting on Tuesday evening, to take action on the proposed organization of a company to construct the Denver, Salt Lake and Pacific railway. The committee on railroads made its report, from which the following excerpts are taken:

"Your committee on railroad building, agreeable to your instructions, have had prepared a draft of articles for the incorporation of a railroad company, under the laws of the state of Colorado, to build a line of road to be called the Denver, Salt Lake and San Francisco railway company, which we submit herewith for your consideration.

"After the company is organized and officered, your committee recommend that a construction company be organized with full authority to build by contract for its stock and bonds, the road, to survey, acquire mines, and operate them, of coal and any other minerals, quarries, etc., and also to acquire timber land and to manufacture lumber and all products of timber, and also to acquire agricultural lands, town sites and city of towns and dispose of lots and also to perform all other operations proper for the building of the road and the development of the country along its line.

"The said railway company can make it a part of the contract for building the road for its stock, but that the said construction company shall bear all of the expenses of organizing the railway company and its incorporation, of surveying, acquiring right of way and other necessary expenses of construction of the road under the authority to locate and condemn right of way, etc., vested in the railway company.

"With the right to procure timber and other material for its construction and right of way and twenty acres for depot purposes every ten miles, on public lands, already granted by Congress, and the right to locate through any part of the richest agricultural, mineral and timber country in a region fifty miles wide a large part of the way, with a right to discover and own gold, silver, copper and lead mines found in its counties and cuts, and the right and privilege to acquire interests in all such property, it is plain that very large interests in the country can be secured for the location, and at the same time to own and control a railway on the very best line for local and through traffic between the Atlantic and Pacific—a line between Chicago and San Francisco 400 or 500 miles shorter than any other and through the very best country for business all the way.

"A tunnel of from two to five miles through the main range of the Rocky mountains, to keep the line below 10,000 feet above the sea level, is the only serious impediment. After crossing the main range, which can be done with a 2 per cent maximum grade, and not to exceed 10 degree curve, we have two routes, both passing through immense forests of excellent timber at different points on the line.

"It is reported that the country in the Wasatch mountains, in Utah, is very rich in its agricultural valleys and mineral deposits through which our line will pass. Being the shortest line to Salt Lake by about 200 miles, of course our road will participate advantageously in the traffic of that whole Salt Lake region of country. Beyond Provo and Utah Lake we have a very rich region of country.

"Information of a reliable character comes to us that one of the richest mining regions in the world is on or near our line westward near one of our routes and the state line of Nevada, in Utah. It is in the Deep Creek mountains. Everything we learn is favorable to the success of the enterprise.

"One of the routes goes up Clear Creek valley, the other by way of the Boulder valley on this side of the range, and on the other side the one goes by way of the White river and Uinta valleys and the other by the Yampa river valley, both of which run in the direction of the shortest line.

"The names proposed for the first board of directors, after a careful canvass, it is believed, if selected by the chamber, will accept as a patriotic duty and serve at least until, by their ability and skill, success is organized. The names proposed to be inserted as directors for the first year are W. N. Byers, H. M. Porter, George Tritch, J. S. Brown, C. S. Rossiter, J. J. Riethmann, P. A. Keener, Roger W. Woolbury, J. H. Platt, S. H. Elbert, E. W. Rollins, J. W. Nesmith and John Evans."

The report was adopted by a unanimous vote. The articles of incorporation which accompanied it were also accepted. They provide that the capital stock shall be $10,000,000 in 100,000 shares of $100 each. The company is to be known as the Denver, Salt Lake & San Francisco railroad, and are authorized to acquire, own and operate railway, telegraph and telephone companies and also provide for the acquiring of property in Colorado, Utah, Nevada and California. Fifty-five shares out of every hundred are to be the preferred stock of the company and the remaining forty-five shares are to be the common stock, and for every forty-five shares of common stock issued fifty-five shares of preferred stock must first be issued. The whole of the preferred stock is to be held by a trustee or trustees appointed by the board of directors, and the vote of ten out of the thirteen directors must be received to legalize a transfer of the stock.
