CUBAN CONSPIRACY.

To Blow Up a Spanish Warship, Loot a Mail Steamer

AND CAPTURE A SEAPORT TOWN.

A Cleverly Laid Plot Spoiled by Spanish and American Detectives.

NEW YORK, April 25.—The Herald publishes this morning:

The Spanish authorities now set in Washington have literally discovered a conspiracy formed by Cubans in Cuba and Spanish sympathizers in the United States to blow up a Spanish warship in the harbor of Havana, loot a passenger and mail steamer of a foreign country on its way to Havana, and then, after a few days, to land a force of men at Cienfuegos, capture the town, and proclaim a provisional government in the name of the Cuban Republic, expecting the United States to come to their help in the name of the Monroe doctrine.

The military authorities of Cienfuegos, Havana and Santiago de Cuba, are in a state of panic, for it was only by a mere accident, it will appear as soon as it leaves the hands of the Attorney General, that the Spanish authorities got information of the plot in time to prevent its execution. The information came from a Spanish gentleman in Cienfuegos, who, in the interest of his country, sent the information to the Spanish consul at Porto Rico, who, in turn, telegraphed it to the Spanish minister at Washington. The information was given to the Spanish minister on Friday, and he at once communicated it to the Secretary of State, who, with the President, decided that the matter should be kept a profound secret until the Spanish authorities could take steps to prevent the execution of the plot. The Secretary of State, Mr. Olney, and the President, then sent for Mr. Cortelyou, the secretary of the Treasury, and he at once set the machinery of his department in motion to prevent the carrying out of the plot. In a few hours the secretary of the Treasury had telegraphed to all the principal cities in the United States, and had given the information to the Spanish authorities, who began to prepare to prevent the execution of the plot. The Secretary of the Treasury sent the information to the collectors of customs at Key West, Tampa, Fernandina, Savannah, Charleston, Wilmington, Norfolk, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, Portland, Me., Portland, Oregon, San Francisco, San Diego, San Pedro, Port Townsend, Puget Sound, Oregon City, Oregon, Astoria, Oregon, Alameda, Cal., Los Angeles, Cal., San Diego, Cal., Oxnard, Cal., Port Huron, Mich., Detroit, Mich., Duluth, Minn., Chicago, Ill., Milwaukee, Wis., Cape Vincent, N.
