"Liberal" Deputy Registrars Galore for Salt Lake City and County.

GENERAL McCLERNAND AGAIN SNUBBED.

A Resolution Providing for an Equitable Distribution in Appointments Voted Down.

When the appointment, by the Utah Commission, of deputy registrars for Salt Lake county was reached last evening General McClernand offered the following resolution:

Whereas, There are ——— deputy registrars to be appointed in the precinct in Salt Lake county; and

Whereas, It is fair and consistent with the law that these appointments should be equitably distributed among the different political parties in the county; therefore be it

Resolved, That such appointments shall be made in harmony with the facts herein stated.

The introduction of the resolution occasioned some little discussion and was defeated on the following vote:

WHAT THEY WILL GIVE.

Generous Offers of Special Premiums for the Finest Exhibits at the Coming Fair.

The Cache Valley local fair will be held in the latter part of September and the Deseret Agricultural and Manufacturing Society will aid it in every way possible. The cream of the exhibits will then be brought to the Territorial Fair, and the Cache Valley People will see to it that their part of the show will be a good one. A special mining exhibit will be a feature, and the rest will be made up of dairy products, manufactures, cattle and women's work.

There will be a penitentiary exhibit of canes, whips, bridles, fancy toys, etc., manufactured by the inmates.

Marshal Parsons offers $20 as a special premium for the best pen of molten cheese, not less than ten head.

A purse has been started for the best exhibit of minerals from Deep Creek and surrounding mountains, and reported for at the Territorial Fair. The subscriptions so far are as follows:

Jesse W. Fox, Jr. $10
Jesse R. Rich 10

Coulter & Gallgreen, music dealers, offer a special premium of one guitar (value $25) for any purpose needed work by the directors of the society to be designed for at the fair.

A. D. Holaway, of Provo, offers a special premium of $10 for the best display of window manufactured in the Territory, to be competed for at the Territorial fair.

Sanesbury & Johnson will give one dozen cabinet photos for the best amateur photographic views—and less than six, all different—to be competed for at the October fair.

Harry R. Brown offers $5 for the best exhibit of the showing of a successful co-partnership set of double entry books in which three partners are interested to be an interpretation of the same business, the number of transactions to be not less than ten; the amount transacted to be about one-third greater than the net difference between the resources and liabilities of firms 40 time of incorporation; the three partners to be interested in the incorporation; the exhibit also to show closing entries after six months' profitable business, and dividend declared and paid, has a contingent fund, variables to use whatever figures their own ideas suggest.

Harry R. Brown also offers $5 for the best exhibit of the closing entries for a large manufacturing concern, operating a plant at a certain given city, with three branches in as many other cities. The company to be incorporated for not less than $1,000,000, and the stockholders in towns all the employes of the main concern. The exhibit to show a statement of the losses and gains, the dividend declared and ready for payment, and statement of resources and liabilities after books are closed. Exhibits may select any line of manufacturing, but exhibit cannot include all the necessary records used in the business. Awards to be made on this Mr. Brown's offer on the decision of three Chicago bookkeepers or Salt Lake City.

A CULLING JURY

To Be Appointed By the Chief of the Fine Arts Department for Utah.

Secretary McDaniel of the Utah World's Fair commission, writes from Chicago: "We will not get a final decision on our building before Tuesday or Wednesday next. The chief of the fine arts department has agreed to appoint a culling jury in Salt Lake to which all exhibits will be submitted, and all that are passed by the local jury will be forwarded to Chicago, where they will have to pass the national jury before they will be accepted. This matter will be under the supervision of the local committee of the art department. Utah's space in the agricultural department will be assigned Tuesday. The chief of the horticultural department has promised to give Utah all the space she desires. All the chiefs of the departments say that the Utah exhibit will attract more general attention than that of any of the other States and Territories. The construction department is giving our exhibit every assistance possible, and our building will be one of the neatest buildings on the grounds, and will not cost over $12,000. The plans have been modified and improved upon.

Court Notes.

In the case of Lydia L. Duncan vs. the Riverside Canal Company, damage suit for $200 old brought in Justice Kruger's court, the defendants have filed their answer to the complaint. They deny that plaintiff was damaged in the sum of $200 or in any sum whatever, and allege that she does not own the land which she claims was damaged by the overflow, and further that no overflow occurred. They set up a counter-claim against the plaintiff for $200, alleging that the plaintiff's stock ran loose on the bank of their canal, thereby damaging it in the aforesaid amount. The title to real property having been made an issue, the case goes beyond the jurisdiction of Justice Kruger and will be transferred to the Third District court.

The National Sash & Lock Company have commenced an action in claim and delivery against Frank T. Rammeler for a certain iron safe or $175, and damages in the sum of $50.

The Intermountain Electric company has filed a suit against the Dodge Block corporation for $600 due for the electric light fixtures in the Federal courthouse. The Dodge block people claim that the bill should be paid by the United States, but Marshal Parsons says there is no appropriation for that purpose.

Yesterday afternoon (having been arrested by Deputy Marshal C. Goodwell at the mouth of Farley's canyon), John Dudley was taken before Commissioner Greenman on a charge of assaulting a saloon-keeper named Carl Dannin. He was fined $10 and costs.

F. H. Moore commenced filing a suit against the Button-Buck and Champion Mining company for one-tenth interest to which he claims he is entitled.

Emma Schield filed suit yesterday afternoon asking the court to grant her a divorce from her husband, William Schield. She alleges that the defendant has assaulted her, and at various times called her vile names, besides otherwise mistreating her. She says she has been compelled to support herself and children, making trips of several miles from and to her work, and carrying heavy loads. The complaint now being in the same house, she believes if she is compelled to continue there her husband will do her bodily harm and perhaps take her life. Besides these allegations there are others which are unfit for publication. She asks the court to order that she be paid alimony while the case is being tried, and that a restraining order be issued to prevent her husband from interfering with her, and to prevent him from disposing of any of his property until the suit is decided. The property he owns, she claims, amounts to $7,000, and a list of the same is filed. The couple were married in 1878, and have three children, aged seven, five and two and a half years respectively, and the mother confess they should be placed in her custody. She also wants the court to give her a just portion of the property enumerated.

Judge Zane yesterday afternoon issued the order for which she asked for in regard to the defendant interfering with plaintiff.

Pat Conway is a mining man of Bingham, and last Friday complained to Deputy Marshal Will Gordon that last night about o'clock, arrested Allie Lancaster and George W. Jackson. The charge against them is that of appropriating to their own use $100 belonging to the complainant. It would appear that Conway and the defendants were at Garfield Beach last Sunday, and it is alleged that Conway and the women were off together. When he returned the former had Jackson in his mine playing with his money. The women live in the Varina house, Third South Street, and Jackson claims he went down there and endeavored to get her to return the money, and also spoke to her husband regarding it, but they disclaimed all knowledge of it. Jackson says he was working up the case in the interest of the Pinkerton detective agency, but failed to recover the money, and was arrested last night as an accomplice of the women. It being claimed that she handed it to him after getting it from Conway. The defendants were before Commissioner Greenman, who held them in $500 bonds each for their appearance on Friday morning at the preliminary hearing. Being unable to find sureties, they were taken to the county jail.

HE WON HER TRICK.

A GOOD SAMARITAN TO THE OLD GREY HAIR WHO KNOW HIS OWN MIND.

[N. Y. Sunday.]

There recently passed through San Antonio en route to the City of Mexico the principals in a romance stranger than ever was woven into drama or story. Nearly twenty years ago George Dunbar, a young and handsome English gentleman, became involved in a difficulty with a neighbor and killed him. The act was done in self-defense, but the law might have won an enemy of Dunbar's, and he preferred himself for the risks of revenge. Dunbar was held to answer to the charge of murder, and, secure in his innocence, effected his escape and fled to this country under an assumed name. For a year he pounded cattle in West Texas, and then went down into Mexico and devoted his attention to mining. He prospered and in a couple of years became a very wealthy man. In Mexico he met a gentleman American girl who was traveling with her father and twelve mother. An attachment sprang up between the young engineer and the fair stranger, but the father objected. Before the young lady left Mexico she was secretly married to Dunbar, to prevent her being torn from him. The father, however, was not to be easily baffled, and he set detectives his disposition to trace him
