PULLIAM AT OUTS WITH HERRMANN

Squabble Between Baseball Magnates Over Blacklist Scheme.

MORE TROUBLE EXPECTED.

Claimed That President of National League Was Too Hasty in His Actions.

President August Herrmann of the national baseball commission declares that President Pulliam of the National league was somewhat hasty in his recent statements in regard to the blacklist which was declared recently against players who have in the past jumped contracts with protected league clubs to play with teams of the so-called outlaw league of Pennsylvania. He does not say that the stand taken by President Pulliam was a wrong one, but intimates that Pulliam was just a little too hasty in breaking into print on the matter, and that his action was not becoming in one who is at the head of the oldest and highest powers in organized baseball.

The sporting public recognizes Herrmann as the truest of America's prominent sportsmen of today. It looks upon him as a man who carefully weighs his words before having them appear in public print, and that considerable provocation must have been given him to cause his utterance which shows displeasure with the action of a man whom he has stood behind for years and always appears to be the warmest friend of at all times.

SAYS WORDS WERE HASTY.

Not only does Herrmann declare that President Pulliam was impolitic, but he also says that some of his words sounded to him as suggestive of a man too ready to make public utterances without as carefully investigating matters as a man should in his position.

In other words, the president of the National league and the man who heads the highest tribunal in baseball are at loggerheads. President Pulliam, with the impetuousness of a southerner, has declared that he will resign rather than see such an injustice done the players blacklisted, and Herrmann intimates that if Pulliam carries out his threat he will not have to present his resignation twice so far as he (Herrmann) is concerned.

The cause is small, but it has stirred up a lot of discussion and it is hard to figure what the outcome will be. The National Association of Professional Baseball leagues started the trouble and then the National league took up the fight.

President Pulliam of the National league, President Johnson of the American league and President Herrmann of the national commission talked together for hours yesterday in New York, being brought together by a special meeting of the national commission, of which all three are members.

WARM WORDS AT MEETING.

They refused to say anything for publication, but is was learned that their discussion was pretty warm at times, and that President Johnson took the stand that the blacklisted players deserved the punishment, but that Pulliam was right in the stand which he has taken that it was unwise to publish a blacklist and lay the organization liable to damages from the players, should they appeal to the courts.

The joint rules committee met last night in New York and after the meeting it was announced that no changes in rules were made that would be of interest to the public.

Today the magnates of the National league will convene at the Waldorf-Astoria and the American league magnates will meet at the Hotel Breslin, about three blocks away. The American league is expected to adopt a schedule today or tomorrow and the National league will adopt its schedule during the twenty-four hours following, in pursuance of an agreement between the two organizations. It is announced that there will be fewer conflicting dates than ever before since the American league placed teams in towns represented in the National league.

Teams May Play Basketball to Assist Loganites in Trip.

In all probability there will be a lively basketball game in the near future at Logan between the Y. M. C. A. state champions, and the B. Y. C. state school champions. Manager Brown of the association team has made a proposition to the Loganites which the latter will most likely accept. Mr. Brown thinks that a game between the two teams at Logan would draw well and the funds would help the Loganites greatly in their proposed trip to Chicago. He says if the B. Y. C. will pay the expenses of the Salt Lake team the balance of the receipts may go to the Temple City team.

WONDERFUL FEATS BY ATHLETES UNDER HANDICAP

It is not generally known that nearly half of the athletic champions of the present day compete in their respective events handicapped by some sort of physicial disability, but such is the truth. Examine 100 ordinary citizens and you will find a weak spot in the bodies of 40—the result, possibly, of some accident earlier in life, and it is just so with the athletes. Forty per cent of them while in competition are secretly nursing a lame joint or some other weakness, and doubtless feel the result of the race for days afterward.

Some wonderful athletic feats are on record under such circumstances. For instance, John Eisele, the great Princeton runner, ran over a mile while almost totally blind in the college cross-country championships last fall. He had been troubled with an affection of the facial muscles, and the strain of the seven-mile run aggravated the affliction to such an extent that the optic nerve was partially paralized. Eisele knew the course like a book and ran on in his blindness, until Trainer Copeland saw his plight and dragged him out of the race.

Another great runnig feat under a terrible handicap was the winning of the 880-yard metropolitan championship by Charles Bacon in 1904. A day or so before the race Bacon plunged his arm through a window and ripped the flesh from wrist to elbow. After losing a quart of blood and having thirty-two stitches taken in the wound, the gritty I. A. A. C. runner went to the mark and trimmed the best of the New York half-milers in 2:02 3-5.

To watch the peerless Hillman glide along on the flat or over hurdles one would scarcely believe that he is a partial cripple, but he has such a bad shoulder that he can scarcely throw a ball across the diamond in a line. Water-polo playing started his trouble, and the least undue strain on the injured joint now puts Hillman down and out. Hillman, like many other hurdlers, suffers with chronic water on the knee. He is also near-sighted and wears spectacles in all his hurdle races.

Heath, the great Michigan broad jumper, competes with only one arm, having lost the best port of the other. Yet he is consistent at 22 6 inches. Every time Joe Cockett of the Y. M. C. A. goes to the mark he ties his knee up in a stiff bandage. Once in a while he tries to run without it, only to land in a heap and call his friends to pull his knee back into joint again.

Andrew Glarner, second only to Mel Shepherd as America's leading middistancer, has defective eyesight. Though the handicap is a slight one in a distance race, it counts to a certain extent.

Martin Sheridan, the world's greatest athlete, has many weak spots—the results of his many gruelling contests. Sheridan once took a ten-foot tumble while vaulting and lit on his side. Another time he was hit by a big wave aboard ship and badly used up. He also hurt his knee while throwing. These are only a few of the battle scars the great discus thrower carries, and the least undue strain on any part of his anatomy is sure to bring one of the ailments back to the surface and cause Sheridan many an hour of pain and discomfort.

MATCH FOR HOPPE.

Chicago, March 11.—Jacob Schaefer, holder of the world's 18.1 billiard championship, will meet William Hoppe, who was challenged for the title, at Orchestra hall tonight in what promises to be one of the greatest exhibitions of modern billiards.

The match will be played in a single block of five hundred points, one shot in balk.

YOUNG ATHLETES MUST BE PHYSICALLY FIT

New York, March 11.—In the future every youngster desiring to compete in any athletic meet under the auspices of the Public School Athletic league will be compelled to produce a certificate from his physicians to the effect that he is physically fit.

This was decided yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the elementary games committee.

The new rule is a result of a hue and cry raised recently against the "training down" evil, which seems to have gained a strong foot-hold among the grammar school boys.

Restless Nervous

Do you get up in the morning tired, languid, and frequently with headache almost unbearable? You have been unable to rest or sleep. It is nervous exhaustion, and affects the heart, lungs, stomach and all the organs that depend upon the nerves for motive power. What you need is Dr. Miles' Nervine to restore nervous energy and give new life to the organs.

"For years I have been very nervous, suffered terribly with headache. I had always gone to the doctor, and was about to go one day to try him for the last time, when a friend advised me to try Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. I purchased a bottle and the results were so satisfactory I have been taking it ever since. It has helped me wonderfully. Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills have done lots of good for me. When I get to feeling nervous now, I go for the Nervine bottle and I am so thankful I have something to help me without a doctor bill." MARIE HARRIS.

CHAINS ON AUTOMOBILES SPREAD CONSUMPTION

Chicago, March 11.—Chains on automobile wheels werg last night accused of spreading consumption. The charge was made at a meeting of the city council judiciary committee and an ordinance forbiding their use was discussed. Dr. J. L. Pennington, who appeared before the committee said:

"You pass a law forbiding a man to spit on the sidewalk to curb consumption and then you let him put a chain on his automobile to stir up the dust and germs on the street. As a health measure an anti-chain ordinance should be passed."

EDWARD WRITES TO WILLIAM

King of England Offers a Slight Explanation to Emperor of Germany.

Berlin, March 10.—A local news agency declares today that it has learned from an unimpeachable authority that King Edward has sent a letter to Emperor William couched in cordial and friendly terms, concerning the revelation by the London Times of the existence of private correspondence between the emperor and Lord Tweedmouth, first lord of the British admiralty. According to this agency despatch King Edward, in his letter, takes the view that the British parliament and the public, as well as an immense majority of the press of England, sharply disapprove of the action of the Times. Continuing, the despatch says that the attempt of the Times to exploit a private and non-political exchange of correspondence in a national way and in a manner antagonistic to Germany, has caused the British king to write as he has to Emperor William.
