THE STATE BANK ROBBED.

Cashier Locked In the Vault and a Visitor Beaten Insensible.

The Robbers Got Five Thousand Dollars and Left on a Train, But Were Soon Captured.

ONTARIO, Cal., Jan. 4.—The Ontario state bank was robbed today by two men. Cashier Fred Stamm was alone. A revolver was put under his nose by one of the men, while the other jumped behind the counter, clubbed Stamm with a revolver, and forcing him into the vault locked him in. R. B. Ridley of the Ontario cannery came into the bank and was ordered to hold up his hands. He was then clubbed until he was insensible. About $5,000 was taken. As soon as Ridley regained consciousness he gave the alarm.

The robbers drove away in a buggy to Spadra where they boarded a train for Los Angeles. Officers intercepted and arrested the men a few miles from town. They proved to be Frank Conway and J. [illegible], notorious eastern crooks. Only a small amount of money was found on them, and it is believed they buried the plunder before reaching Spadra.

Currency Bill Substitute.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Representative Sperry of Connecticut, a Democratic colleague of Mr. Springer on the banking and currency committee, has proposed another substitute to the Carlisle currency bill.

It strikes out all after the enacting clause and provides for an issue of bonds sufficient to retire outstanding greenbacks and treasury notes under the Sherman act. The bonds are to bear three per cent interest and are to be redeemed in gold, and are to be of denominations from $50 to $1,000. They are to run for thirty years, with the right to redeem them after ten years. The secretary of the treasury is empowered to keep the gold reserve up to a minimum of $100,000,000 by selling these bonds.

Provision is made for the steady retirement of the greenbacks both from the proceeds of bonds and from the surplus in the treasury.

Mr. Sperry's substitute, it is understood, has executive approval in case the Carlisle bill cannot pass.

GOV. WAITE'S MESSAGE.

No Hope for Silver from the Old Parties.

DENVER, Jan. — Governor Waite read his last message to the legislature of Colorado today. It consisted of about 15,000 words and was perhaps the most exhaustive document ever presented to the general assembly of this state. He called attention first to the fact, that in spite of the destruction of the state's silver interest, the credit of Colorado was higher in New York today than ever before and more railroads were built in this state last year than in any other. He referred to the increased production of gold, and said:

"But even if gold should be found in Colorado as abundantly as it was in California and Australia, it might relieve but would not atone for the tyranny and oppression which, under both a Republican and Democratic President, have deprived the people of the free coining of silver—a right which was theirs before the Constitution of the United states was adopted and which was never ceded to Congress."

The governor recommends that the tenth general assembly appoint a commission to investigate the excess warrant frauds committed under previous administrations and amounting to nearly $1,000,000, with a view to bringing suits against the guilty parties and their bondsmen.

The governor recommends a revision of the state constitution, a law to abolish the private detective system, an eight-hour law, and abolition of capital punishment. He suggests that the most hardened criminals be compelled to run as candidates for some state office.

After a full discussion of state land matters, the governor recommends that the state construct reservoirs and canals for irrigation purposes. He condemns the Carey land bill, as "in the interest of private corporations," and recommends the general assembly to "memorialize Congress to cede the arid lands to the several states in which they are situated, under conditions that the title to these lands shall forever remain in the state, to be leased to areas not exceeding 160 acres, to actual settlers only."

In conclusion the governor said: "A brief two years ago a Democratic national administration arrogantly assumed power in all the departments of the government. Today that administration lies crushed and bleeding. Its success contained all the elements of its swift destruction, for the money power which had controlled the party prevented any relief to the people, and as the Republican party, controlled by the same relentless power, can grant no relief—no substantial prosperity—and would not if it could. Hence, it, too, must give way to the party of progress and reform.

"The People's party of Colorado, though never in control of the general assembly, and with its state officers somewhat divided and discordant, during the most exciting and troublous times that have existed in the history of the state, turn over to the incoming administration the affairs of the state with a clean bill of health, and we shall hold your dominant party to a like rigid account.

"I will not say 'Hail and farewell.' That would be too formal. We go, but we return. We will meet you, gentlemen, in two years 'at Philippi.'"

THREE OF THEM LYNCHED.

A Band of Horse Thieves Followed by Vigilants.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 4.—A special to the Republic from Wichita, Kan., says: News was received here today from Kingfisher, O. T., of a wholesale hanging of horse thieves in the Cheyenne and Arapahoe country. The settlers there have ever since the opening been victims of marauding bands of horse and cattle thieves, and finding the authorities too slow in bringing offenders to justice, several vigilance committees were organized in different parts of the country to take the law in their own hands.

The vigilants a few days ago started on the trail of one band, followed it into the Panhandle of Texas, back into the Cheyenne country, overtaking it near Cantonment. Here a battle followed, resulting in the wounding of George Gaskill and Simon Campbell, two of the vigilants, and the capture of three of the thieves. The latter were hanged without delay. Their bodies were shot to pieces and left hanging as a warning to their kin.

Chicago Officer Shot.

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—The police late this afternoon arrested Jack Carey, Jack McGee and Billy Hayes, who are accused of being the murderers of Officer Edward Douglas, who was killed last night while attempting to arrest two burglars. They all deny that they had anything to do with the murder.

Two women who gave the information which led to the arrest of the men were taken into custody and will be held as witnesses. After the men were arrested, and while the police were taking them to the station a number of their friends made a show of taking them from the police and a number of them were roughly handled by the officers.

Another Horse Thief.

RALEIGH, N. C., Jan. 4.—Particulars have reached here of the lynching of horse thieves in the Cheyenne [illegible] county, by masked men. [illegible] who had killed a man named Watson. He was arrested Christmas day, and while en route to jail a country street mob seized and hanged him to a tree. None of the lynchers are identified.

WANTED TO DIE.

A Negro Shoots His Whole Family and Himself.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Jan 4.—In a fit of jealous rage this afternoon George Jordan, a negro who has borne an excellent reputation, shot and killed his 19-year-old son, shot his wife in the forehead and through the neck, shot his 3-year-old daughter in the side and back of the head and then shot himself twice in the breast. On the way to the hospital he begged for poison, that he might be relieved of his pain.

His wounds are fatal and it is believed his wife will die. The little girl has a chance to recover, but it is probable the entire family of four will be wiped out. Jordan's wife said her husband left her two weeks ago. This afternoon he came to the house, drove some women visiting her into the street, and drawing his revolver, commenced the fusilade. The only explanation he gives is that he wanted to die, and thought it best to take his family with him.

Arbitration Bill.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 4.—An opportunity will be given by the House committee on Labor to parties interested in the new arbitration bill revised by Commissioner of Labor Wright, to present their views on the plan.

Invitations have been sent by the chairman of the committee to all principal railroad managers of the country and the leaders of railroad corporations in general to appear before the committee next week. None have as yet signified an intention to accept the invitation, but it is expected several well known men will speak.

Naval Attache at Tokio.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 4.—Secretary Herbert has decided to send a naval attache to the United States legation at Tokio, and has selected for the post commander, Francis M. Barber, who was originally ordered to London as naval attache.

Commander Barber will sail from San Francisco on the 15th instant for his field of operations which will cover all naval operations in the East, China as well as Japan. He is well fitted for this duty as he returned only a year ago from China where he had been in command of the United States ship Monarch, and had, in the course of his cruising, become well acquainted with the authorities at nearly all of the Eastern seaports.

Killed His Slanderer.

HARRODSBURG, Ky., Jan. 4.—Sheriff John I. Vanarsdall, today shot and almost instantly killed Dr. F. L. Herod, in Lawyer's row, where Dr. Herod had an office.

At the recent election a circular was sent out which charged Vanarsdall with throwing a bucket of water on his sick wife, in order to make her get up and cook breakfast. It was also charged that he unmercifully beat his grown daughter with a stick. Vanarsdall was defeated. It was charged Dr. Herod was the author of the circular.

THE HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—During the speech of Representative Hendricks on the currency bill today, Hepburn of Iowa, asked:

"Does the action of the bank of France in its refusal to pay more than 5 per cent in gold impair its credit?"

"No."

"Then would the credit of the United States be impaired if the United States should exercise its discretion and redeem the Sherman notes in silver?"

"Yes, I believe it would at this time," replied Hendricks.

"Why?"

"Because of the general distrust of the government's ability to pay gold. One hundred and fifty-nine million of gold Sherman promises to pay cannot be met in gold."

"But these notes are redeemable in coin, not gold," was Hepburn's parting shot.

Hendricks continuing, said the pending bill was open to the vital objection that it would not do what it set out to do. It would not relieve the treasury of the aggressions on its gold; it would be a failure as a bank measure because it would superimpose upon an uncertain body of public credit currency a much larger and more uncertain body of private credit currency without sufficient foundation under the former.

Caruth, Democrat, of Kentucky, eulogized Secretary Carlisle and commended the efforts of the administration to solve the currency problem and relieve the treasury and endorsed the pending measure. Caruth devoted a small portion of his time to Hepburn, who briefly replied to Hendricks, whom he described as a self-branded "a[illegible] banker who came here with [illegible] utterances to tell the House what to do.

Hepburn said his self-laudation was inspired by the recollection of his speech sixteen months ago when the same situation existed. Mr. Hendricks then heard the panacea for all ills in the repeal of the Sherman silver law. Hepburn declared Hendricks had pointed out unwittingly the remedy for the present evil, when he told the House the great banking houses of Europe exercised their discretion about depleting their gold vaults. "Why will not the secretary of the treasury exercise the same discretion?" he asked, amid a round of applause. The exercise of this discretion did not impair the credit of European banks. Who dared to say that the credit of this country with sixty-three millions of people behind it, and with an unlimited taxing power, would be impaired because it refused to accede to the demands of the Shylocks. [Applause.]

"Why have not the Republican secretaries of the treasury exercised that discretion?" asked Mr. Pence, Populist of Colorado.

"I have not been secretary of the treasury," replied Mr. Hepburn hotly. "When I am I will answer. I am as fully convinced, however, as I am that I am alive that if the secretary of the treasury were now to exercise his discretion and to pay gold when legitimate redemptions were asked and refuse it to sharps and speculators, the evils from which we suffer would cease to be." [Applause.]

Graham, Democrat of Texas, supported the bill. At the conclusion of his speech, the House at 5 o'clock took a recess till 8 o'clock tonight, the night session to be devoted to private pension bills.

CIVIL SERVICE LAW.

Overtime Orders Must Not Be Evaded.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 4.—On the recommendation of Postmaster-General Bissel, the President today issued an order extending the civil service rules to all superintendents of stations in the postoffices of the United States. The order takes effect immediately upon its promulgation. There are 152 of these offices in the United States.

Postmaster-General Bissel has issued the following order to postmasters at all free delivery offices regarding overtime claims.

"The attention of postmasters at free delivery offices is directed to the order of April 4, 1893, respecting overtime of letter carriers. It is believed by certain officials of this department that in some of the postoffices evasions of this order are in contemplation, that overtime is, in fact, being made by letter carriers not recorded at the postoffice, and no claim is made for the same at present, but it is supposed this overtime will perhaps be made the subject of claim at some future time.

"It is not supposed the postmasters are cognizant of this fact, but it can hardly be the fact will escape the knowledge of the superintendent of free delivery.

"The order of April 4, 1893, has been and will remain in full force and effect, and I shall hold the postmasters officially accountable for any evasion to enforce it. The distinct purpose of the order was and is to prevent overtime being made, and not merely to prevent or postpone the claims for overtime."

Moonshiner Killed.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 4.—A battle between a posse of revenue officers and a gang of moonshiners occurred in Vanburen county Wednesday. The officers discovered the still hidden in a mountain gorge. It was running full blast, five of the men being at work in it.

The moonshiners made a fight, and for a while bullets flew in every direction. Putnam, the leader of the moonshiners, was shot through the head and fell on the ground dead. His nephew, a boy 17, tumbled over mortally wounded. Two moonshiners were captured. None of the posse were injured.

Robbers Captured.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—A special dispatch to the World from Caracas, Venezuela, says:

Questions that have long been in dispute between Venezuela and England are to receive prompt settlement it is reported. The government troops under Col. Como have captured a large band of robbers near Maturin. President Crespo is determined to suppress all bandits.

A LARGE STOREHOUSE

Will Be Erected with a Capital Stock of One Million.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Jan. 5.—A large and thoroughly equipped storehouse is to be erected in a few months on the Pollion estate, at the foot of Bridge street, Brooklyn. The principal parties interested in it are said to be the New York Central, the New Jersey Central and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroads. The capital stock has been placed at $1,000,000, with bonds of $750,000. The new warehouse will be larger than any heretofore erected and will contain enormous elevators capable of lifting cars and their contents to any floor in the building. Large docks will be built out into the East river in front of the property and over these docks cars will be run directly from floats into the warehouse.

The "Silent Man" Dead.

RAHWAY, N.Y., Jan. 5.—Theophilus Page is dead, aged nearly 80 years. He was known as the "silent man." This name was given him through his inclination to maintain silence. His invariable answer was "yes" or "no." It is supposed that love caused him to act in the strange manner he did. He was miserly and lived in a small room alone. He commenced to sell the New York morning papers here in 1858. In early life he was a school teacher, having been graduated from Williams college. In one instance he is known to have donned a man for twenty years before obtaining pay for some papers he had served. He was a regular attendant at church, being a Presbyterian. When the great bell of the church was purchased he gave $500 toward it. He was led to the large donation through a wealthy man remarking that he would give as "much as Page."

NEW LIGHT ON THE CASE.

Letter from the Man Who Buried Newby as a child.

MONTICELLO, Ill., Jan. 5.—Some new light has been thrown upon the celebrated William Newby case. E. T. Lee, secretary of the Shiloh Battle Field association is receiving hundreds of letters from the survivors of that battle and among the number was a letter from Dr. H. B. Marion, of Illinois, Ill., who was a member of the same company and regiment with Newby. He says positively that he superintended the burial of William Newby at Shiloh after the battle, several men marked his grave in good shape, and he says he could yet identify Newby's skeleton by his teeth. He proposes to correspond with the superintendent of the national cemetery at Pittsburg landing, Tenn., and have Newby's skeleton examined in order to settle this most extraordinary case. Dr. Marion was a member of company D, Fourth Illinois infantry and firmly believes that "Dan" Benton ("Anselly Dan"), of Tennessee, is a fraud and is personating William Newby, whom he buried at Shiloh in April, 1862, and that he will be able to prove the truth of his assertion.

Sports for Ladies.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—A special to the World from Boston says:

Miss Hills, the director of physical culture at Wellesley college, is always on the lookout for sports which can consistently be engaged in by young ladies, and her latest idea is one which is new in the college. She has invited the manager of the Harvard football team to consult with her as to the advisability of making this move. She thinks there is no reason why young ladies of athletic inclination should not play the game.

STOLE THE SAFE.

Robbers Take It From a Car, But It is Found Unopened.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Jan. 5.—While the north bound passenger train on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad was standing at the Cass Valley mines, six miles south of here, last night, and while the messenger, Frank Farrar, was outside his car, robbers entered the car and carried away the heavy steel safe containing $250 in money and a valuable package. A trainman, noticing that the lights were not burning in the express car, gave an alarm. The robbery was discovered and a searching party of fifty citizens speedily organized. Half an hour later the safe was found a short distance away unopened, the robbers having become frightened.
