

LUKE WHARTON'S LESSON.

A SKETCH FOR EVERYBODY.

"I think he would sell himself cheap," said Luke Wharton, and he spoke very warmly.

"What do you mean?" asked Rosanna, his wife.

"I mean just what I say. He would sell himself for money; and I believe he would sell his best friend."

"Of whom do you speak, my son?" asked his mother, looking from her work and raising her spectacles.

"I'm speaking of Mr. Simmons," replied Luke.

"But what have you against him?" the old lady resumed.

"I have nothing against him; I was only speaking about him just as I thought."

"But don't you know that we should not always tell just what we think, my son? It is not safe."

"I believe it is always safe to tell the truth, no matter where it hits," returned Luke.

"Then it would be proper for me to go out and tell the things I hear you and your wife say, and all that I see you do, no matter what may be their character?"

"Ah—but that would be infringing on the sacredness of the domestic circle," said the young man.

"So it would," continued his mother, "and this shows you that there must be exceptions to your rule. The domestic circle is no more sacred than a man's character. When you must speak, then speak the truth, and fear not the consequences; but be careful when you speak. I know you are very careless, sometimes, in the way you speak to others, and I am sorry it is so. Now answer me this: would you want Mr. Simmons to know what you said of him?"

"I shouldn't care," replied Luke, and he spoke hesitatingly.

"Yes, you would care," continued the old lady. "You know that he is a man of much influence in this place, and that he never wronged you in any way or shape. Your estimation of his character is only formed from what others have said. Now answer me truly: Would you wish that some third party would whisper in his ear the scandal you have spoken of him?"

"Well—I don't know as I should—but there's no danger."

"Ah, my son; you don't know how much danger there may be. I am afraid you are as free in speaking to others as you are in speaking to us. Have you not spoken to Mr. Simmons?"

Luke was obliged to admit that he had; but still claimed that there was no danger, and that he had a right to do so.

"You have no right to speak about your neighbor," said Mrs. Wharton, "and more than this, it is not safe. You will find as you advance in the world that you will have difficulties enough to contend with without making enemies needlessly. If you would prosper and move along through life with honor and respect, let your first care be to see that you speak no evil of your neighbor. Speak ill of no man when duty does not absolutely compel you to do so. You will find it by far the safest course."

Luke Wharton was a young man just married, and was clerk in a retail store. He meant to be honorable and truthful, but he had contracted that habit which so many have foolishly contracted, of speaking very foolishly of his neighbors. In the present case, Mr. Simmons, a worthy and respectable citizen, had made a movement for retrenchment in the expenses of the town. Luke's employer had been in the habit of furnishing certain articles to the town, and under a new system his bill was likely to fall below the amount he had received in former years. So he thought Mr. Simmons had meddled too much in town affairs, and Luke took up the strain and piped freely upon it. He knew nothing of the causes which had led Mr. Simmons's course, he only knew that that gentleman's character was before the public, and he went into it. But this was not the only case. A man who can speak recklessly of one individual will speak in the same manner of others; and a man who can thus thoughtlessly speak at one time, is likely to speak at any time. Luke had been for some time anxious to go into business on his own account, and the opportunity at length presented itself; or at all events he saw a fair chance to make arrangements to that end. His old employer, who had done business, was ready to sell out. He told Luke if he could find a partner who would pay cash down for half of the store and its good will, the other half might remain for several years on a mortgage. So Luke cast about him, and was not long in finding the man he sought. Thomas Lyon, a young man of a neighboring town, was ready to enter into such a partnership, and he considered that the thorough knowledge of the business, and the intimate acquaintance with the customers Luke would bring to him, would offset the interest he might have to pay for the money he would be obliged to hire.

It was all arranged and Luke Wharton was happy. Thomas Lyon would raise the $4,000 necessary to be paid down, and he would soon be in a position where he could not only enjoy the honor and satisfaction of doing business for himself, but where he knew he could lay up money. And he was more satisfied because another party had been talking of purchasing the store.

"I wouldn't trust him so far as I could throw a fat hog by the tail, up hill!" asserted Luke. He spoke of Mr. Samuel Lovejoy, a man who lived in a distant part of the town, and who was the individual who had some talk of purchasing the store.

"What do you mean by that?" asked Mrs. Wharton.

"I mean just what I say," returned Luke. "I wouldn't trust him an inch."

"But what do you know against him, my son?"

"I know enough. He would have bought our store if he could, and meant to do it in an underhand way. He knew that I wanted it, and yet he tried his best to work me out."

"How do you know that?"

"How do I know—why I know it well enough. I know that he went to my employer, Mr. Green; offered to purchase the whole; and I know that he intimated that I might never be able to pay my half. I tell you he isn't to be trusted."

"I shouldn't care," replied Luke, and he spoke hesitatingly.

"Yes, you would care," continued the old lady. "You know that he is a man of much influence in this place, and that he never wronged you in any way or shape. Your estimation of his character is only formed from what others have said. Now answer me truly: Would you wish that some third party would whisper in his ear the scandal you have spoken of him?"

"Well—I don't know as I should—but there's no danger."

"Ah, my son; you don't know how much danger there may be. I am afraid you are as free in speaking to others as you are in speaking to us. Have you not spoken to Mr. Simmons?"

Luke was obliged to admit that he had; but still claimed that there was no danger, and that he had a right to do so.

"You have no right to speak about your neighbor," said Mrs. Wharton, "and more than this, it is not safe. You will find as you advance in the world that you will have difficulties enough to contend with without making enemies needlessly. If you would prosper and move along through life with honor and respect, let your first care be to see that you speak no evil of your neighbor. Speak ill of no man when duty does not absolutely compel you to do so. You will find it by far the safest course."

Luke Wharton was a young man just married, and was clerk in a retail store. He meant to be honorable and truthful, but he had contracted that habit which so many have foolishly contracted, of speaking very foolishly of his neighbors. In the present case, Mr. Simmons, a worthy and respectable citizen, had made a movement for retrenchment in the expenses of the town. Luke's employer had been in the habit of furnishing certain articles to the town, and under a new system his bill was likely to fall below the amount he had received in former years. So he thought Mr. Simmons had meddled too much in town affairs, and Luke took up the strain and piped freely upon it. He knew nothing of the causes which had led Mr. Simmons's course, he only knew that that gentleman's character was before the public, and he went into it. But this was not the only case. A man who can speak recklessly of one individual will speak in the same manner of others; and a man who can thus thoughtlessly speak at one time, is likely to speak at any time. Luke had been for some time anxious to go into business on his own account, and the opportunity at length presented itself; or at all events he saw a fair chance to make arrangements to that end. His old employer, who had done business, was ready to sell out. He told Luke if he could find a partner who would pay cash down for half of the store and its good will, the other half might remain for several years on a mortgage. So Luke cast about him, and was not long in finding the man he sought. Thomas Lyon, a young man of a neighboring town, was ready to enter into such a partnership, and he considered that the thorough knowledge of the business, and the intimate acquaintance with the customers Luke would bring to him, would offset the interest he might have to pay for the money he would be obliged to hire.

It was all arranged and Luke Wharton was happy. Thomas Lyon would raise the $4,000 necessary to be paid down, and he would soon be in a position where he could not only enjoy the honor and satisfaction of doing business for himself, but where he knew he could lay up money. And he was more satisfied because another party had been talking of purchasing the store.

"I wouldn't trust him so far as I could throw a fat hog by the tail, up hill!" asserted Luke. He spoke of Mr. Samuel Lovejoy, a man who lived in a distant part of the town, and who was the individual who had some talk of purchasing the store.

"What do you mean by that?" asked Mrs. Wharton.

"I mean just what I say," returned Luke. "I wouldn't trust him an inch."

"But what do you know against him, my son?"

"I know enough. He would have bought our store if he could, and meant to do it in an underhand way. He knew that I wanted it, and yet he tried his best to work me out."

"How do you know that?"

"How do I know—why I know it well enough. I know that he went to my employer, Mr. Green; offered to purchase the whole; and I know that he intimated that I might never be able to pay my half. I tell you he isn't to be trusted."

"I shouldn't care," replied Luke, and he spoke hesitatingly.

"Yes, you would care," continued the old lady. "You know that he is a man of much influence in this place, and that he never wronged you in any way or shape. Your estimation of his character is only formed from what others have said. Now answer me truly: Would you wish that some third party would whisper in his ear the scandal you have spoken of him?"

"Well—I don't know as I should—but there's no danger."

"Ah, my son; you don't know how much danger there may be. I am afraid you are as free in speaking to others as you are in speaking to us. Have you not spoken to Mr. Simmons?"

Luke was obliged to admit that he had; but still claimed that there was no danger, and that he had a right to do so.

"You have no right to speak about your neighbor," said Mrs. Wharton, "and more than this, it is not safe. You will find as you advance in the world that you will have difficulties enough to contend with without making enemies needlessly. If you would prosper and move along through life with honor and respect, let your first care be to see that you speak no evil of your neighbor. Speak ill of no man when duty does not absolutely compel you to do so. You will find it by far the safest course."

Luke Wharton was a young man just married, and was clerk in a retail store. He meant to be honorable and truthful, but he had contracted that habit which so many have foolishly contracted, of speaking very foolishly of his neighbors. In the present case, Mr. Simmons, a worthy and respectable citizen, had made a movement for retrenchment in the expenses of the town. Luke's employer had been in the habit of furnishing certain articles to the town, and under a new system his bill was likely to fall below the amount he had received in former years. So he thought Mr. Simmons had meddled too much in town affairs, and Luke took up the strain and piped freely upon it. He knew nothing of the causes which had led Mr. Simmons's course, he only knew that that gentleman's character was before the public, and he went into it. But this was not the only case. A man who can speak recklessly of one individual will speak in the same manner of others; and a man who can thus thoughtlessly speak at one time, is likely to speak at any time. Luke had been for some time anxious to go into business on his own account, and the opportunity at length presented itself; or at all events he saw a fair chance to make arrangements to that end. His old employer, who had done business, was ready to sell out. He told Luke if he could find a partner who would pay cash down for half of the store and its good will, the other half might remain for several years on a mortgage. So Luke cast about him, and was not long in finding the man he sought. Thomas Lyon, a young man of a neighboring town, was ready to enter into such a partnership, and he considered that the thorough knowledge of the business, and the intimate acquaintance with the customers Luke would bring to him, would offset the interest he might have to pay for the money he would be obliged to hire.

It was all arranged and Luke Wharton was happy. Thomas Lyon would raise the $4,000 necessary to be paid down, and he would soon be in a position where he could not only enjoy the honor and satisfaction of doing business for himself, but where he knew he could lay up money. And he was more satisfied because another party had been talking of purchasing the store.

"I wouldn't trust him so far as I could throw a fat hog by the tail, up hill!" asserted Luke. He spoke of Mr. Samuel Lovejoy, a man who lived in a distant part of the town, and who was the individual who had some talk of purchasing the store.

"What do you mean by that?" asked Mrs. Wharton.

"I mean just what I say," returned Luke. "I wouldn't trust him an inch."

"But what do you know against him, my son?"

"I know enough. He would have bought our store if he could, and meant to do it in an underhand way. He knew that I wanted it, and yet he tried his best to work me out."

"How do you know that?"

"How do I know—why I know it well enough. I know that he went to my employer, Mr. Green; offered to purchase the whole; and I know that he intimated that I might never be able to pay my half. I tell you he isn't to be trusted."

"I shouldn't care," replied Luke, and he spoke hesitatingly.

"Yes, you would care," continued the old lady. "You know that he is a man of much influence in this place, and that he never wronged you in any way or shape. Your estimation of his character is only formed from what others have said. Now answer me truly: Would you wish that some third party would whisper in his ear the scandal you have spoken of him?"

"Well—I don't know as I should—but there's no danger."

"Ah, my son; you don't know how much danger there may be. I am afraid you are as free in speaking to others as you are in speaking to us. Have you not spoken to Mr. Simmons?"

Luke was obliged to admit that he had; but still claimed that there was no danger, and that he had a right to do so.

"You have no right to speak about your neighbor," said Mrs. Wharton, "and more than this, it is not safe. You will find as you advance in the world that you will have difficulties enough to contend with without making enemies needlessly. If you would prosper and move along through life with honor and respect, let your first care be to see that you speak no evil of your neighbor. Speak ill of no man when duty does not absolutely compel you to do so. You will find it by far the safest course."

Special Notices.

TIME AND MONEY WOULD BE SAVED by every family in the Territory being in possession of a complete set of the CURTIS FRENCH MODELS; they will enable the possessor to cut every style of fashionable garment worn by gentlemen, ladies and children, so as to insure a perfect fit. They are very simple, and persons from 14 years old can learn in a few hours, to cut Coats, Pants, Vests, Dresses and Cloaks in all the fashionable styles of ladies' and children's wear. In the State Fair in California they have taken the first premium. Numerous references in the city and country can be given. Parties desirous of testing these facts can do so by calling on Mrs. Joe. Hall, 17th Ward in this city, who is the Sole Agent for the Territory. See Agents Wanted.

COMPLETE KIT—Saddlery, Horse and Harness for sale. Inquire of

ROSS & BARRATT,
WANTED—Two first class TINNERS. Apply to F. A. MITCHELL, Exchange Buildings, d17-1

L. I. Smith runs a Carriage from the Post Office on Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays of each week, and is prepared to take Passengers and Express matter to Toledo and Stockton. Residence, half a block west of Temple Block, d133 4 law

LATH FOR SALE by J. D. Lyon, plasterer, 12th Ward. d121 1m

WANTED IMMEDIATELY.—One hundred Cords of Good Fire Wood at the Paper Mill, Singar House Ward, Salt Lake County. d138-2

We have just received an extensive assortment of Boots, Shoes and Hats, suited to our Spring trade. We are resolved to sell, allowing the smallest possible margin for expenses. d138

FOR SALE.—A fine lot of STATES' SYRUP, by the keg or retail, at LOW PRICES. G. W. DAVIS, Two doors north of Kimball & Lawrence. d138-2

Friend Wharton— I am very sorry to be obliged to inform you that our plan for purchasing the store in partnership cannot be carried out. I had so arranged to have the money from my uncle Samuel Lovejoy, whom you know, but he will not allow me to move as I intended. I may as well be frank with you as not; he says he will purchase the whole store for me, or he will allow me to take such a share as I wish. A week ago he had resigned all his previously formed plans in my favor, but he has met with something which has suddenly and strangely changed his mind. He simply tells me that he will not trust you where my money will be at stake. He says further (pardon me, for I must speak frankly), a man who uses his tongue as you use yours, would be sure to ruin a business sooner or later.

Will you see him and talk with him? I may see you this week.

Yours, &c.,
THOMAS LYON.

The hand that held the letter sank by Luke's side, and a smothered groan escaped him.

"What is it?" asked his young wife springing to his side.

"Nothing—nothing now," he whispered; and then he seized his hat and hastened out of the room.

"What a blow was that! How high had he built his hopes upon the flattering promises of the future!—and how heavy was the fall! He paced to and fro in the garden, and finally he reasoned calmly on the subject. At first he muttered deep imprecations upon the head of Samuel Lovejoy; but when he came to read the letter again he was forced to think and feel differently.

"A week ago he had arranged plans in my favor," he read.

"I was mistaken," he said to himself. "While I thought he was trying to work me out, he was really trying to help me. He was ready to let Thomas have $4,000 to be my partner. What a fool I have been!—Why couldn't I have known that he was Lyon's uncle and my friend?"

"My son!"

Luke started—turned and beheld his mother.

"What is this?" she asked.

He handed her the letter, and she read it.

"What shall I do?" he asked.

"What have you proposed to do?"

"Nothing, I know not what I can do."

"You can give up the store and all the bright hopes you have based upon it."

"Oh, I cannot do that mother."

"Then you can do better. Go to Mr. Lovejoy and tell him frankly that you have been at fault, and that henceforth you will do so no more."

"I cannot."

"Then you must do the other thing—give up all. You have done very wrong, and if you have not the courage to acknowledge it to him against whom the wrong has been done, then you deserve no favor that he can grant. Think of it, my son; and as you think remember this: If you come honorably out of this, it may be the best lesson you ever received. God be with you, Luke, and may good sense and reason prevail."

She left him and he remained alone in the garden for half an hour. Then he went to the stable and got a horse, and rode away to see Samuel Lovejoy. He found the old gentleman at home, and after he had overcome his embarrassment, he stated the object of his visit.

"You thought I meant to work against you, eh?" said Samuel Lovejoy.

"I thought," frankly returned Luke. "I did wrong, for I had no right to question your motives; nor had I any right to speak as I did. It was spoken thoughtlessly, and I am sorry for it."

"Sorry that I heard it, eh?"

"No, sir. I am glad you heard of it, for it has opened my eyes to the greatest fault of my life. But I am sorry I said it because it was wrong."

"Well, well," said the old gentleman, "come in. If you really feel in that way perhaps we can talk."

They went into the house and the matter was freely discussed. In the end, Luke had pledged himself that he would cast off the evil practice of a loose tongue forever; and Samuel Lovejoy had promised that he should have half of Mr. Green's store, with Thomas Lyon for a partner.

Once more was Luke Wharton happy. He went home with his resolution firmly fixed, and when he told his wife and mother what had transpired they were happy with him.

Within two weeks the great store bore above its entrance the names of "Lyon & Wharton;" and business flourished, and the new firm prospered. Luke wrote a few words upon a slip of paper, and placed it where his eyes fell upon it daily. It was a life lesson which he wrote there—a lesson which thousands of us should learn and practice.

"Suffer no word to escape thee of thy neighbor which thou wouldst not have thy neighbors know."—Potsdam Courier and Farmer.

Sixty-five thousand miles of cotton cloth are produced yearly by the Fall River Mills.

HOME MANUFACTURE
COMPETING WITH
Eastern Manufacture!

Having closed out my Business to Zion's Co-operative Mercantile Institution, in which former business I used to manufacture a large amount of Boots and Shoes, from Leather manufactured at my Tannery in the 15th Ward,

I NOW OFFER MY

LEATHER,

CONSISTING OF

Sole, Upper, Harness and Calf Skins,

OF WHICH I HAVE A LARGE STOCK,

VERY LOW FIGURES!

AT MY OFFICE,

One door west of the Eagle Emporium.

Harness Makers, Boot and Shoe Manufacturers, or any of the Co-operative Store, will find it to their advantage to give me a call.

W. JENNINGS.

d114 1f

MILLINERY and Straw Goods!

WEBSTER & GAGE,

78 Lake Street, CHICAGO, Illinois.

Having been established here for the past twelve years, we fully appreciate the wants of the Western trade, and keep constantly on hand one of the largest and most complete stock in our line to be found in this country. Our facilities are unsurpassed. Importing direct from the manufacturers, we have every means of supplying our goods at the lowest possible prices.

Our past success gives us assurance that we are entitled to your confidence and patronage. We have full lines of Velvet Trimmings and Lace, Ribbons, Trimmings, Dotted Laces, Capes, &c., adapted to the Merchants' trade, and feel confident that a fair trial will result in mutual satisfaction and profit. Orders promptly filled and satisfaction guaranteed.

CALL AND SEE US, at

78 Lake Street, Chicago, Illinois.

d81 3m d104 1f

OUR STOCK

Consists of a full assortment of

PRINTED FLANNELS, DOMESTICS, BLEACHED MUSLIN, LINENS, SATINETS, JEANS, GINGHAMS, HOOP SKIRTS, and a large selection of FANCY DRESS GOODS and NOTIONS.

SPADING FORKS, GARDEN HOES, SPADES.

FAD IRONS, and a general assortment of HARDWARE.

All of which we are offering

AT LOW FIGURES.

NAISBITT & HINDLEY.

d121a2d1-2w

Oysters! Oysters!

REVERE HOUSE BASEMENT IN FULL BLAST!

BOOTH'S selected Fresh Oysters, packed in Ice, Baltimore Cove Oysters, Pig's Feet, Pickled Tripe, and the choicest of constantly on hand.

HOME LUXURIES

Private apartments for guests. Finest Cigars in town.

THE BEST OF LAGER BEER ON DRAUGHT.

d116 1m

J. N. SIMMONS, Proprietor.

JUST ARRIVED:

Our New Stock of

Boots & Shoes.

WE HAVE

Ladies' and Misses' Kid and Morocco SHOES,

Children's Morocco and Goat SHOES,

Men's and Boys' Kip and Calf BOOTS,

Also a Large Stock of FASHIONABLE

Hats and Caps.

DUNFORD & SONS,

SALT LAKE CITY.

d124 1y

THIRKILL & EARL,

Merchant Tailors,

In rendering their thanks to the Public of S.L. City and its vicinity, beg respectfully to inform them that they have removed from their former place of business to more commodious Premises, situated on

FIRST SOUTH STREET,
One-third of a Block East of Godde's Exchange Building.

Where will be found a splendid assortment of BEAVERS, DOBBERIES, CASSIMERES, VESTINGS, &c.

and having greater facilities for carrying on the business of MERCHANT TAILORS, will take pleasure in waiting upon all their former customers, and as many new ones as desire the services of First-class and Fashionable Tailors, and with first-class ability, supported by strict attention to punctuality, will solicit that liberal patronage already bestowed.

d124 1m

C. THIRKILL & EARL.

G. H. & J. S. COLLINS,

Boots & Shoes.

Dealers in

Leather, Saddlery, HARNESS, WAGONS AND BOOTS & SHOES.

234 Douglas & 236 Farnam St

OMAHA, NEB.

d15 6m

The Co-operative RETAIL STORE!

FOR VISITORS

GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS.

The Elegant Store, recently purchased of

N. S. RANSOHOFF & Co.,

Has just been OPENED by

Zion's Co-operative Mercantile Institution,

With a new and first-class stock of

CLOTHING, HATS AND CAPS, OVERSHIRTS, LINEN SHIRTS, COLLARS, ETC., FINE CASSIMERE CLOTHS, TAILORS' TRIMMINGS, Men's Boots and Shoes,

And, in fact, A FULL ASSORTMENT OF

GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS.

Our friends, patrons and the public generally are respectfully invited to call and examine the Goods and Prices, as we feel confident they will give satisfaction.

H. B. CLAWSON,

GENT'LMN.

d125-1m

ST. LOUIS TRADE.

W. H. GUMERSELL,

Importer and Jobber of

DRESS AND CLOAK TRIMMINGS.

LACES, EMBROIDERIES,

Hosiery, Gloves, Fans, French Corsets, Skirts, &c.

ZEPHYR WORSTEDS

FANCY GOODS AND NOTIONS.

No. 413 N. FOURTH STREET, (Bet. St. Charles and Locust.)

ST. LOUIS, Mo.

d229-1y

SOUTHERN WHITE LEAD AND COLOR WORKS,

Established 1865.

SOUTHERN COMPANY

WARRANTED

STRICTLY PURE WHITE LEAD

IN BLEACHED OIL

ST. LOUIS.

The products of this Establishment are guaranteed equal in quality to the best manufactured in the country.

OFFICE AND WORKS—Cor. Main and Lombard Streets.

Wm. H. Gregg, Pres't. F. W. Rockwell, Sec'y.

d49 6m

BRIDGE, BEACH & CO.,

Manufacturers of

STOVES.

Importers and Dealers in

TIN PLATE, SHEET IRON, WIRE, TINNERS' STOCK, &c., &c.

120 1/2 North Main Street, SAINT LOUIS.

d94-6m

L. & C. SPECK & CO

211 North Main St., St. Louis,

Direct Importers and Wholesalers in

NOTIONS, Trimmings, Brushes, Combs, Suspensives, Violins and Strings, Stationery, Threads, &c., &c.

d46 6m

REMOVAL!

PRATT, FOX & CO.,

Wholesale Dealers and Importers of

HARDWARE & CUTLERY

HAVE REMOVED TO

806 North Second Street, ST. LOUIS.

Where they are opening the largest and most complete stock of Hardware in the West. d67 3m

Ralph Sellow, James Kinkaid, E. C. Quinby.

SELLEW & Co.,

IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN

TIN PLATE AND METALS,

719 (New No.) North Main Street, d68 3m

ST. LOUIS, Mo.

William C. Orr, D. B. Lindsay.

ORR & LINDSLEY,

WHOLESALE

BOOTS AND SHOES,

No. 306 Main Street, d68 3m

ST. LOUIS.

Samuel M. Dodd, James G. Brown.

DODD, BROWN & Co.,

Importers and Wholesale Dealers in

STAPLE AND FANCY DRY GOODS,

217 and 219 Main St., St. Louis. d68 1 1/2

BUCK'S PATENT COOKING STOVES

Bake Quicker, Better and with less Fuel than any Stove made.

EVERY STOVE WARRANTED.

They were awarded the Premium at last Louisiana State Fair, also at last St. Louis Fair, Oct. 1898, after actual trial in baking with the leading Stoves made East and West.

We also Manufacture the Celebrated

PARAGON COAL COOKING STOVE,

which is superior to any Coal Cook Stove made.

BUCK & WRIGHT,

730 & 732 N. Main St., St. Louis.

Manufacturers of All Varieties of

COOKING & HEATING STOVES.

d67 1y

TO PREVENT CURE OF FEVER & ACUE

Red Jacket Bitters

CHICAGO TRADE.

BOWEN, WHITMAN & WINSLOW,

WHOLESALE DRY GOODS

15 & 17 RANDOLPH STREET, CHICAGO.

—70—

We make Prices Regular and Cheap on every article we sell. d78 9m

PHILIP WADSWORTH & CO.

JOBBER'S OF CLOTHING,

AND

Gentlemen's Furnishing Goods,

34 & 36 LAKE ST.

Philip Wadsworth, Gilbert R. Smith, R. B. W. Locke. d49 1f

Chicago, Ill.

E. SCHNEIDER & CO.

Manufacturers of

STAR & TALLOW CANDLES

AND

SOAPS.

Office, No. 20 La Salle Street, Factory—Corner McGregor and Wallace Streets

CHICAGO.

d68 6m

FAIRBANKS' STANDARD SCALES

OF ALL KINDS.

FAIRBANKS, GREENLEAF & CO.

226 & 228 Lake St., Chicago. 208 Market St., St. Louis d115 8m

ST. LOUIS TRADE.

W. H. GUMERSELL,

Importer and Jobber of

DRESS AND CLOAK TRIMMINGS.

LACES, EMBROIDERIES,

Hosiery, Gloves, Fans, French Corsets, Skirts, &c.

ZEPHYR WORSTEDS

FANCY GOODS AND NOTIONS.

No. 413 N. FOURTH STREET, (Bet. St. Charles and Locust.)

ST. LOUIS, Mo.

d229-1y

SOUTHERN WHITE LEAD AND COLOR WORKS,

Established 1865.

SOUTHERN COMPANY

WARRANTED

STRICTLY PURE WHITE LEAD

IN BLEACHED OIL

ST. LOUIS.

The products of this Establishment are guaranteed equal in quality to the best manufactured in the country.

OFFICE AND WORKS—Cor. Main and Lombard Streets.

Wm. H. Gregg, Pres't. F. W. Rockwell, Sec'y.

d49 6m

BRIDGE, BEACH & CO.,

Manufacturers of

STOVES.

Importers and Dealers in

TIN PLATE, SHEET IRON, WIRE, TINNERS' STOCK, &c., &c.

120 1/2 North Main Street, SAINT LOUIS.

d94-6m

L. & C. SPECK & CO

211 North Main St., St. Louis,

Direct Importers and Wholesalers in

NOTIONS, Trimmings, Brushes, Combs, Suspensives, Violins and Strings, Stationery, Threads, &c., &c.

d46 6m

REMOVAL!

PRATT, FOX & CO.,

Wholesale Dealers and Importers of

HARDWARE & CUTLERY

HAVE REMOVED TO

806 North Second Street, ST. LOUIS.

Where they are opening the largest and most complete stock of Hardware in the West. d67 3m

Ralph Sellow, James Kinkaid, E. C. Quinby.

SELLEW & Co.,

IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN

TIN PLATE AND METALS,

719 (New No.) North Main Street, d68 3m

ST. LOUIS, Mo.

William C. Orr, D. B. Lindsay.

ORR & LINDSLEY,

WHOLESALE

BOOTS AND SHOES,

No. 306 Main Street, d68 3m

ST. LOUIS.

Samuel M. Dodd, James G. Brown.

DODD, BROWN & Co.,

Importers and Wholesale Dealers in

STAPLE AND FANCY DRY GOODS,

217 and 219 Main St., St. Louis. d68 1 1/2

BUCK'S PATENT COOKING STOVES

Bake Quicker, Better and with less Fuel than any Stove made.

EVERY STOVE WARRANTED.

They were awarded the Premium at last Louisiana State Fair, also at last St. Louis Fair, Oct. 1898, after actual trial in baking with the leading Stoves made East and West.

We also Manufacture the Celebrated

PARAGON COAL COOKING STOVE,

which is superior to any Coal Cook Stove made.

BUCK & WRIGHT,

730 & 732 N. Main St., St. Louis.

Manufacturers of All Varieties of

COOKING & HEATING STOVES.

d67 1y

TO PREVENT CURE OF FEVER & ACUE

Red Jacket Bitters

CHICAGO TRADE.

BOWEN, WHITMAN & WINSLOW,

WHOLESALE DRY GOODS

15 & 17 RANDOLPH STREET, CHICAGO.

—70—

We make Prices Regular and Cheap on every article we sell. d78 9m

PHILIP WADSWORTH & CO.

JOBBER'S OF CLOTHING,

AND

Gentlemen's Furnishing Goods,

34 & 36 LAKE ST.

Philip Wadsworth, Gilbert R. Smith, R. B. W. Locke. d49 1f

Chicago, Ill.

E. SCHNEIDER & CO.

Manufacturers of

STAR & TALLOW CANDLES

AND

SOAPS.

Office, No. 20 La Salle Street, Factory—Corner McGregor and Wallace Streets

CHICAGO.

d68 6m

FAIRBANKS' STANDARD SCALES

OF ALL KINDS.

FAIRBANKS, GREENLEAF & CO.

226 & 228 Lake St., Chicago. 208 Market St., St. Louis d115 8m

ST. LOUIS TRADE.

W. H. GUMERSELL,

Importer and Jobber of

DRESS AND CLOAK TRIMMINGS.

LACES, EMBROIDERIES,

Hosiery, Gloves, Fans, French Corsets, Skirts, &c.

ZEPHYR WORSTEDS

FANCY GOODS AND NOTIONS.

No. 413 N. FOURTH STREET, (Bet. St. Charles and Locust.)

ST. LOUIS, Mo.

d229-1y

<