DESERET EVENING NEWS.

Saturday, August 6, 1895.

ACCIDENTALLY KILLED.

A Wagon Shed Falls on a Seven-Year-Old Girl.

By letter from Flagstaff, Coconino county, Arizona, there comes the news of a sad accident at that place on July 29th, which caused the death of Ada May Buckiar, seven years and five days old, the youngest daughter of Brother and Sister George and Jane Buckiar, who reside near Flagstaff. The little girl was playing under a wagon shed when the shed collapsed and she was fatally injured. The bereaved have the sympathy of many friends in their sad affliction.

A "Sheep Ranch" Robbery.

A young man named Dick Jones was arrested last night for robbery. While under the influence of liquor he visited the saloon of the "Sheep Ranch" near the corner of East Temple and First South streets. Luck was not with him and he lost $18. This made him desperate, and seizing a sack containing $70 he ran down stairs into the street closely pursued by the crowd from the rooms. Officer Hempel captured him on Commercial street, after firing two shots.

Scandinavian Democrats.

A meeting of the Scandinavian Democrats was held in the Social hall last night, with President C. M. Nelson presiding. Speeches were made by C. M. Nelson and F. M. Erwan. The following committee was appointed to arrange for a Labor Day excursion: C. M. Nelson, chairman; Mrs. F. T. Nystrom, Mrs. M. Anna Berg and Messrs. F. L. Eitman and C. A. Carlquist.

Merchants' Carnival.

Saltair is being patronized today by the merchants, who give a carnival under the auspices of the Rathbone Sisters. The ladies with the assistance of the merchants and brother Knights are making the day the event of the season. After the festivities of the day a grand carnival ball will be held. All may provide themselves with suits at the pavilion.

The Bingham Sunday schools are also enjoying themselves at the delightful resort.

Wars and rumors of wars do not decrease the sales of Dr. Price's Baking Powder. They show a constant growth.

CALL FOR CONSERVATISM.

This is No Time to Spend the Taxpayers' Money in Extravagancies and Fads.

Salt Lake City, Aug. 5th.
Editor Deseret News:

In a recent issue of your paper is published an article signed "Taxpayer," having direct reference to the idea of parking certain streets of our city, and incidentally to the unfavorable financial condition of the latter and the embarrassing circumstances surrounding many resident taxpayers of the same, that would almost bear a repudiation. This is not written with the expectation of making the matters alluded to any clearer than set forth in said article, that being unnecessary if not well nigh impossible, but to back up the views of the writer expressed therein. These matters are published in which the public are deeply interested and which meets with their hearty concurrence, but nothing is published supporting it, therefore the writer has no means of knowing how his article took with the public.

Now your correspondent personally knows that many taxpayers of our city, not a few of whom are either of the number that first settled here, when this region presented a barren and most uninviting appearance, or the descendants of such, are almost in a state of despair in thinking of the taxes on their homes, and the dismal prospect of not being able to pay the same, resulting probably in their having to part with what has been obtained or created at great cost of labor and sacrifice, and therefore to the owners is so very dear. Under such circumstances it would seem that nothing should be recommended calculated to increase the strain, but rather that all possible measures of relief should be encouraged. Surely there can hardly be many resident taxpayers so rich in means, yet so deficient in principle as on reflection to advocate any measure that would imply that all a kind Providence had in view in prompting the Pioneers to settle this then desolate region was to pave the way for wealthy later comers to indulge in extravagant fads or freaks of fancy, at such fearful cost to the original settlers or others no more fortunate.

As regards parking some of our streets and making other fine improvements, that would be all right, if all the people inhabiting our city were in condition to consistently afford it—none to distressed thereby. Your correspondent is a great admirer of nice improvements and ordinarily entertains great respect for those enterprising enough to lead out in making them. But the people of this city are not in a financial condition at present to afford such luxuries, so let us wait till the clouds have somewhat rolled by, in the meantime feasting our eyes on the sight of our joint turning and streams, taking an occasional peep into our sewer, and pondering over the debt our city is staggering under, all harmoniously working together to bring about a state of affairs that will afford relief to those of general means with consuming anxieties.

Under the circumstances surrounding this city at present, all political parties in the field during our next municipal election will no doubt vie with each other in putting up honest, sound, conservative men for the support of the voters, as it would be close to political suicide, for a party to put forward the names of any of questionable soundness. Possibly a sprinkling of the Pioneer element would be no injury to the ticket put into the field by all parties. Booming, not to say boomerang, progress has had quite a fair opportunity for producing and exhibiting its lasting benefits to our city, therefore the conservatism that creates the latter, might perhaps safely be given an opportunity once more, to show what results it would bring about.

Respectfully,
Mormon.

Fire Loss Adjustment.

The adjustment of the losses caused by the fire Sunday night at the house of Nicholas Bernardis began today. The house and furniture were fully insured, the British American company carrying $1,000 on the building and the Home of Utah and the Phoenix and Hartford each $500 on the furniture. The two first companies are represented by Heber J. Grant & Co.

The origin of the fire is a mystery, Mr. Bernardis claiming that it originated in the basement instead of by the explosion of a student lamp.

Sheep Market Good.

Reports from the Kansas city stock yards are to the effect that the market for sheep is in a good condition. In view of this, the markets are rather crowded at present, and Utah will no doubt send in her quota of fat muttons within the next few weeks.

Cattle shipments from this Territory to the north are being made by Mr. B. F. Saunders, and early in September the steers recently sold to E. J. Bell by Sparks and Harrell will be shipped direct to the market.

A Good Dividend.

Irish dividends have been in order for some time, but last night the stockholders of the People's Equitable Co-op assembled, and after hearing a report from the president regarding the financial condition of the corporation, announced a cash dividend of 8 per cent. on the capital stock for the year, and an addition of 10 per cent. to the reserve fund. The report showed business for the year remarkably good and satisfactory to all stockholders. The board of directors was augmented by the addition of James Whitaker, of Circleville.

Fatal Accident.

We learn from David Williams of Greenville, that about 4 o'clock on Monday last, Jacob Robinson, who was in company with Mr. Williams, left Greenville, a few miles west of Beaver, to go to the sand bed, one mile south of town, for a load of sand, says the Beaver Utonian. Mr. Williams returned about 4 p.m. with the body of Robinson, and gave the following details of the sad accident:

Robinson went into the sand bed and commenced picking under the bank, which is composed of lime and cement, to cave in the sand, when all of a sudden the bank broke off, falling on him and striking him in the breast, burying him all but his head. Williams, standing near by, jumped to his rescue, in trying to remove the dirt, broke his shovel, and immediately started for the nearest settlers for help, which was given and the body extricated from the sand. Robinson was almost instantly killed. He was a miner born in Utah county. His father is somewhere in Wyoming and his mother is dead. Deceased was well respected and was said to be a good, kind and quiet young man, was single, 27 years old, of Scotch parentage. About two years ago, and about the same time of day, Russel Carter, son of Paris Carter, one of the members of the Mormon Battalion, was singularly buried in the same place and only lived about four hours after being extricated.
