PROVO.

PROVO, UTAH, APRIL 28, 1894.

LITIGANTS AT PROVO.

Things in the First District Court, Judge Smith, Yesterday.

The verdict in the case of the Rock Canyon Irrigation company vs James Hansen et al gave the defendants one-fourth of the water in Rock Canyon week from May 10th till June 20th of each year, each party to pay their own costs, plaintiff to pay the clerk and defendant to pay the reporter.

In the case of W. H. Smith vs the National Bank of Commerce et al, it says, from May 1st, stay of execution against E. H. Jones was granted.

In the case of Thomas C. Grossman vs J. V. Jones, a suit brought for $2,150 for the erection of a dwelling house, the plaintiff was permitted to file an amended complaint upon payment of $25. The case was continued for the term.

Yesterday the case of Bengt Johnson Jr. vs Levi Openshaw, assessor and collector, et al was heard by Judge Smith. Mr. Johnson owns land immediately north of the platted portion of the city, a city tax was assessed on this land which Mr. Johnson refused to pay. The assessor and collector took steps to sell the property and Mr. Johnson obtained a restraining order till the case could be tried and the rights of the parties determined. The decision of Judge Smith is anxiously awaited by Mr. Johnson and other interested parties and it will be given today.

The case of W. G. C. Martinez vs N. C. Lamarco came up for trial. The parties are residents of Moroni, and the suit is brought to enforce the fulfilment of a contract to purchase a ranch, which the plaintiff refuses to accept, claiming misrepresentation on the part of plaintiff.

Divorce Wanted.

Mrs. Martha Jane Atwood has commenced divorce proceedings against Alonzo S. Atwood. After stating that she married the defendant at Clifton, Utah county, on the 24th of August, 1892, she alleges that up to the 15th of January, 1894, when she left the defendant, he treated her in a cruel and inhuman manner, causing her great bodily pain and mental distress. The cruelty complained of consists in striking plaintiff the name, accusing her of crimes of a reprehensible nature, beating her with a black snake whip, and compelling her to sit up all night in a coat, while he held a loaded revolver at her head. She prays for a divorce of divorce, custody of a minor child, two years of age, which defendant has in his possession, and for costs and general relief; and that defendant be enjoined from removing the child out of the Territory. Walker and Warner are attorneys for plaintiff.

Chris Jensen, a resident of Springville, was absolved from allegiance to King Christian the Ninth of Denmark and became a citizen of these United states.

Notes.

County Prosecuting Attorney Gaddis claims that he was made acquainted with new evidence that is very damaging to Mr. Branagan, accused of setting fire to the Provo Woolen mills, and who was discharged by Commissioner Dudley; but that his information came too late to be introduced in the examination. A gentleman who claims to be acquainted with the evidence, however, says that the evidence is not very strong and can easily be shaken.

Superintendent Platt of the Provo Woolen mills has resigned and will accept a position similar to the one he filled here, with the Deseret Woolen mills.

B. D. Hoyt Esq. has been suffering from an attack of lumbago for several days. He is now able to be around and attend to business.

The great reduction in the charges for city water and also in the cost of pipe, etc., is being taken advantage of by our citizens and many new connections have been made.
