FIRST DISTRICT COURT.

The Calendar Being Prepared by Judge Bachman.

THREE MURDER CASES.

James Sutherland Thrown From a Broncho and Severely Injured.

The excursion of the Tabernacle choir to our lake resort yesterday was well attended. Several came over from Springville and a very pleasant day was spent.

The request for the resignation of Marshal H. H. Parrish has caused considerable comment in the Garden city. The public generally seem to think that the removal is unjust and is a measure a triumph for his enemies.

Yesterday morning three drunks were disposed of by Justice Alexander as follows: T. W. Worth was required to pay $10. William Kelley and Hugh Nelson, $5 each.

Bishop Bachman, Jr., clerk of the first District court, is preparing the docket for the September term. He says that there is a fairly large list of cases, and some of them of considerable importance. There will be three or four hundred cases.

Deputy Marshal Bachman bit on Sunday for West Weber to arrest W. J. Davis, the notorious character who killed a man by the name of Brock and two others last week. The papers were issued from Commissioner Dalley's court. Mr. Bachman has not returned yet. It was rumored on our streets yesterday that Davis had gone to Moab to give himself up to the officers of that place.

The funeral services were held yesterday afternoon over the remains of the little child of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Sullivan of the Second Ward. The infant died from an attack of cholera infantum. The services were conducted by Bishop Webb.

Marriage licenses were issued by County Clerk V. L. Holliday to the following couples: William Calkins and Ida Tingey of Payson; William L. Johnson of Springville and Emma Jane Bale of Payson; Olof Tannlund and Georgina Nilson of Santaquin; Charles H. Preston of American Fork and Della Curtis of Provo; Charles E. Waugaf of Omaha, Neb., and Effie E. Sowell, of La Salle, Colo.; Lawrence J. Hutchings, of Lehi and Melissa Smith of American Fork; Charles E. Hawkings and Clara Lorinow of Beaver.

Mr. George Whitmore, of Nephi, is visiting friends in Provo.

Misses Mina and Carrie Smith, two of Salt Lake's charming young ladies, have been spending a few weeks with their friends, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Crane, in the Garden City. They returned home this morning after having enjoyed a pleasant vacation.

Mr. James Sutherland was accidentally thrown from a wagon yesterday while working a broncho. His shoulder was dislocated and his face considerably bruised. Dr. Simmons was called and dressed his injuries and today he is progressing nicely.

Mr. Samuel Liddiard is superintending the erection of a boiler house for the Tabernacle.

Our telephone poles are being painted which very much improves their appearance.

John A. Rohm, the young man from Akron, Ohio, who is just completing his journey around the world on foot, arrived in Provo yesterday where he will spend a few days looking over our points of interest. He looked dusty and brown when he arrived here but seemed happy and capable of enjoying everything that transpires. His looks indicate that he has cultivated the power of adaptibility and that he can now take cheerfully all circumstances. He is quite an interesting character and relates in a pleasing manner the many incidents that have happened to him since leaving his home in March, 1891. He expects to take his Christmas dinner at home.

The Dress Reform society held a meeting last evening. The ladies are all enthusiastic.

Bud Smoot reports that the new roller mill being erected by the Provo Lumber Manufacturing and Building Company at the U. P. depot will be in running order by October 1st. This will be one of the latest improved mills and promises to be a success.

Mr. William H. King went to the capital yesterday evening.

Everybody seems delighted with the beautiful cool evenings and the prospect Utah's climate is often song.

Our amusements of late have been confined to excursions to the lake. Theatres and operas are giving out so, the people now begin to want some change.

Robson is livening up some of late, supported by the harvest being at rest.

Provo City, Aug. 31, 1892.

COURT MATTERS.

Small Cases Which Came Up Late Yesterday Afternoon.

Commissioner Norrell had before him yesterday afternoon the cases of the People vs. H. H. Price and H. N. Hoff, saloonkeepers, of s. West Temple st., charged with having violated section 1241 of the revised laws of Utah by giving away drinks of whisky at their place of business on Sunday last. The defense had filed a demurrer to the complaint under the contention that the proceedings were instituted under some city ordinance, but when the attorneys for the plaintiff announced that they relied on the general laws regulating Sunday conduct, the demurrer was withdrawn and a plea of guilty as to defendant Price entered. The defendant stated that he had not been aware of the existence of any law prohibiting a man from giving away intoxicating drinks on that day. Last Sunday he was going to his saloon to take some repairing done there, several of the boys about the electric works asked if he would treat, and he bought them and gave them four drinks. No money was taken and nothing thought of the matter, until Sergeant Donovan also walked in and informed Price that he was breaking both civil and religious laws. Chief Paul and Captain Donovan corroborated the general facts in the case, and after short statements by the attorneys, the court sentenced the charge against Merrill and fined Price $1 and costs, making a total of $17.10, which was paid.

William Cedorof was arrested yesterday afternoon under the Territorial statutes, charged with introducing the waters of Emigration canyon by allowing the drainage from his stock corral to run into the creek. He gave a bond of $100 for his appearance on September 6th.

David Kerr was arrested late yesterday afternoon upon a charge of obtaining goods under false pretenses. Among the property captured by the police was a coat, "purchased" at Rich & Co.'s and of clothes which defendant obtained from Kelly & Co., some clothing, a big roll of brocaded silk, etc., for which the owners have not yet been found. Kerr had a railroad ticket from Salt Lake to Cayuse on his person when caught.

Laura Grossman vs. John S. Grossman is suit for divorce filed yesterday afternoon in the Third District court. The parties were married in 1887 and have four children. Desertion and failure to support are alleged as grounds for the action.

Ernest and Edward Green, of Grand County, are charged with stealing a horse from Amos Barnes, a fellow living near Moab. They were brought into Commissioner Greenwood's yesterday afternoon, and the Commissioner fixed their bonds at $500 each, and set their preliminary hearing for next Saturday afternoon. Eli Green, the youngest of the brothers, was released on his own preliminary but fell while serving a summons.

Before Judge Anderson yesterday afternoon.

In the case of the Tenth Ward Loan and Building Association vs. the H. Cushing et al., a stay of execution was granted pending a motion to open the default previously entered.

In the case of Lewis Goldsmith vs. William Douglas, permission was given plaintiff to withdraw the original writ of attachment to amend the return.

Hamilton County Bank vs. T. W. Johnson Coleman Butler et al.; default of T. W., J. C. Butler and L. Butler entered and decree of foreclosure granted.

Governor Creighton begins suit in the Third District Court yesterday afternoon against J. Newman and A. Greenbrook. The pleadings allege that defendants have unlawfully obstructed a private alleyway upon his premises at Bingham, and she asks that the obstructions be removed. She also asks damages in the sum of $500, and that they be enjoined from molesting her in the future.

When the Third District Court convenes on the 12th inst. for the September term, Chief Justice Zane will charge the grand jury, and lawcases will be entered upon to real earnest.

It Was Well Meant.

Everybody in the fire department knew Father Cohen, the oldest reporter in New York, and everybody liked him. The news of his death, especially grieved Battalion Chief Bethel, who had known the venerable reporter for years. When he heard that Superintendent Byrnes, the police commissioners and others of the police force were going to send a floral piece to be laid on Cohen's coffin, he determined there should also be something from the fire department. Hereupon he had nearly fifty dollars among the firemen. The committee of department business prevented him from leaving after the matter himself the next day, and he handed the collected money to a fireman and sent him to a florist with an order for a design.

"Mr. Cohen was a reporter, wasn't he?" the florist said. "All right! I have an idea that will exactly suit. Leave that to me."

Politicians, policemen, firemen and newspaper men had just begun to gather at the old reporter's house in Harlem, on the day of the removal when the bell rang, and a messenger from the florist delivered a huge floral piece, and said it was sent by the firemen of New York. It was a superb bed of roses, and in the centre was a facsimile in white immortelles of the reporter's fire badge turned to Father Cohen by Mr. Richard Croker when he was fire commissioner. Worked in red letters on the inscription of the official inscription:

"LOST ONLY WHEN THE LINES, FIRE COMMISSIONER."

It was a handsome piece of work, but it was set in a corner with its face turned toward the wall, and other flowers took its place on the coffin.—New York Sun.

Angler Caught and the Whale.

William Cotton was out on one of the tugs one week ago Saturday, and while the crew of the tug was engaged in taking bathers on the lake about three miles west of the bar. After anchoring a disguised bather, amongst smaller game, and a few cod, Mr. Cotton leaned overboard and then "walked" away with his line in a steady manner. He called for assistance, and with the captain and one of the tug's crew the fish was the result, the fish steadily walking away from the three of them. After an hour had taken about one of the line, which, in the strain increased, it was seen that the tug was swinging to the strain, and the line on the same time appeared to be moving toward the surface.

Judge of the surprise of Mr. Cotton when a whale about forty feet long came to the surface and blew about 200 feet from the tug, with the line fastened to one of his fins. With a sudden turn of the tug the line parted near the bitts which it was fastened and went flying through the air in the direction of the whale. The whale held close around the tug for a couple of hours, and was struck with chunks of coal and shot at, to which he paid no attention whatever.

After Captain N-lson had struck him and lost his line also, the tug steamed a couple of miles further out to get away from him, or, before getting away with the line, he had so disturbed the fish that they would not bite.—Hamilton Times.

Why He Pays Duty on the "Pants."

Some rather fine distinctions are drawn in the matter of customs duties by the Treasury department. A citizen of Detroit went over to Canada and bought a pair of trousers, which he wore home. The customs officers taxed him $2.50 duty on the new purchases. He appealed to the treasury department for a rebate, and in his letter said: "I fooled those pantaloons and brought them."

When he used the word "fooled" he gave the case away. Attorney-General Tarsney decided that the Detroit Rube was entitled free of duty rebate of clothing which are a "necessity," but on the ground himself admits that he bought the pantaloons because he "fooled" them intends to assert that they were not an article of necessity. Therefore he must pay duty.—Washington Star.

Colonel Williams Not a Forger's Victim.

Mrs. Ann Dodge, who was mentioned in a New York paper recently as one of Montana's millionaires, is reported to night to be a pauper. She claimed to own vast estates in England, and had reason to give some of probability to her claim. The papers had long been looking for her. Meanwhile she had become sick and poor, she came to Butte from San Francisco a year ago, and while here was forced to go to the poorhouse, where she died Wednesday. By a contract with the county a local undertaker buys Butte's paupers for two cents per head, and that is the kind of a grave in which lies the widow of a woman who believed herself the richest woman of her sex in prospect.—Butte Cor. Helena Independent.

The Voice of the Robin.

No bird is better known to us than the robin. Rising in vernal mist from street corn early and goes to bed late. It loves to dwell and nestle near houses, and has no air of sprightliness and coziness which endears it to us all.

The songs of little men may be divided into six attributes. The call note of the male to his mate; the lord, chief note of defiance; the note of fear when danger threatens the nest, the note of alarm at sight of a hawk; the note of affection for their young and the soft, tender, fair, melodious love warble.—Troy Times.

Some Abstract.

The residents of Cartersville, Mo., became somewhat alarmed and unusually pious, a few days ago, on discovering that the one in a blue mine Bottomless, at a depth of eighty-five feet, proved so hot that it could not be handled without thick gloves. They thought that satan had suddenly changed his abode and moved his heating apparatus underneath near Cartersville.—Kansas Ledge.
