"SHERIDAN'S PETS."

THE THIRTY-SIXTH ILLINOIS, OR FOX RIVER REGIMENT.

Fighting Through the Wilderness of Rebellion and Sunder Fire, Chickamauga and Franklin, Side by Side with Sheridan, Its Colonel Will Wear the Heroic Epithet.

[illegible] Fox River valley is northern Illinois, distinguished the boys of blue in the days of southern rebellion for the number of soldiers that followed the fortunes of the Union and the dispersal of Bull Run. Early in the fall of 1862 it seemed to the people of that section of Illinois, and during the winter campaign with memories of Shiloh in the minds of the north [illegible] "Bull Run." Great apprehension [illegible] Fox River valley. Governor Yates [illegible] Washington himself, their representative, and begged permission. Col. [illegible] was with Governor Yates, who had served with Grant in Illinois.

[illegible] Thirty-sixth Illinois, and the enlistment was completed and the regiment was ready for the field. Early in the spring of 1863 it was at Nashville, and during the winter campaign [illegible] the south west was the