A WOLF CHASE AT BOULDER, COL.

The Bear Lake County Banner.—A Sensation at Colorado Springs.—Serious Charge.

A bill is being prepared by a generous senator, says the Carson (Nevada) News, proposing the annexation of Nevada to Washoe county.

Governor Osborne of Wyoming has delivered to the secretary of state the appropriation bill, in which all appropriations for the board of live stock commissioners were disapproved and cut off. These amounted to $15,000.

The irrigation model for the exhibit for the World's Columbian exposition is being prepared as rapidly as possible at the Colorado state agricultural college under the supervision of Lewis L. Stimson. The model shows the irrigation of northern Colorado fully and will be a valuable part of the exhibit.

A man named Ross, manager of the co-operative store at San Pedro, Cal., has been arrested on a charge of criminal assault on the 13-year-old daughter of Mrs. Clemmons. The child has been discovered to be in an advanced state of pregnancy. The prisoner is now in custody at San Pedro, waiting examination before the local justice. He has a young wife and two children.

A wolf chase has been arranged at Boulder, Colorado. The circle surrounding the meeting point will be about thirty miles in circumference and extend from the mouth of Left Hand creek down the east hills via Boulder and Marshall, Louisville, Lafayette, Erie and Longmont back to Left Hand canyon. It is proposed to interest several hundred people, with horses and dogs, in the fun.

Cheyenne is to have a new Democratic daily in opposition to the Leader. It is to be published from the Sun-Journal office and A. S. Mercer will be the editor. A. L. New and A. C. Beckwith will be behind the enterprise. The new paper is to be the organ of Governor Osborne and the Democratic State Central committee.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Actor Charles R. Kenny of the Sylvester Fay company, who was recently arrested on a charge of criminal libel preferred by Manager Hilton, was discharged by Judge Jouneimon yesterday morning, it being shown that Kenny was not instrumental in placing the pamphlet in all the objectionable places.—San Francisco Chronicle.

William Simpson's team ran into a tree with them and the inmates of a other were rapidly whirling along a mile home from a dance the other evening. The tongue of the sleigh was broken into splinters, parts of the harness pulled apart and the elegant steed toasted up in general, leaving an unfortunate merry-makers walking home lazy companions to come and take them home.—Kingsville Star.

Amnejo shot and fatally injured his wife a few days ago at Ave Fore, Arizona. The couple had been married only four months. He is a Spanish and Mexican origin. Nemesis is assigned for the deed. The man has a Winchester and shot his wife in the midnight twice, the bullets passing through the intestines and coming out at the back. She lingered one hours in great agony, when death relieved her.

Pete Bergersen and Fred Thompson returned yesterday from a hunting trip, also by them on bicycles, saw the Cheyenne, Wyo., Leader. Both machines and carried off. They traveled about sixty miles, part of the distance being across the prairie away from traveled roads. Within thirty miles from town they sighted deer and successfully stalked them. Bergersen getting two of the animals. They hired a Mexican to haul them home to town. This is the first time it proved that deer have been hunted on bicycles.

On the afternoon of February 21, Ida Eichelli, with several small children, was camped five miles south of Tucson, Arizona. She was gathering wood for the camp, when an Indian in ambush fired at her with a Winchester rifle. The first shot struck her in the breast, and the second in the back. The wounds are thought to be fatal. Citizens and officers started in pursuit of the Indian, who is said to be a Pima. No motive is known for the attack, as the Pimas, like the Maricopas, have always been friendly to the whites, and have assisted them against the Apaches on several occasions.

Quite a sensation has been caused in Colorado Springs by the arrest of W. L. McLain of the firm of McLain, Hendrick & Co., on the charge of changing the records in the county clerk's office with reference to a certain mortgage transaction between him and D. L. Harrington, proprietor of the Cheyenne house. The alteration of the board of directors in minutes and conveyance of the property, title and franchises of the company, to the New York and Colorado Land company, are to be placed on file with all other business in connection therewith, for the purpose of preliminary hearing. The nature of the charge of the records, as alleged, was by interlines and inserting the words "the horse and phaeton." McLain is an old resident of the city and has heretofore been held in highest esteem by the citizens. Such surprise, therefore, is evinced at his arrest upon such a charge.

The silver bullion bonanza under by the lakes of Bear Lake country now hums in the senate chamber. It is five feet by 4½ in size and a magnificent work of art. On a ribbon at the top is a motto, made in gold letters "Latter-day Saints Home Society to the Bear Lake Stake in Zion." At the bottom on a scroll is the inscription, "Mines in Israel, Friends of the Poor." In the center of the canvas surrounded by a wreath of green leaves and a ribbon is a fine oil painting of Bear Lake. Tucked away among the leaves is a little bee, the emblem of industry, which gives the finishing touch to the picture of the leaves and. It cheers to the many, while around the wreath are the names of those in the lake who are taking the work on the home society, since early in summer. This home is a credit to the county, and to the lakes who are used to its production. It will be a valuable object lesson during the coming year, and will be sent with the Deseret and will be sent with the Deseret News to the state in the shape of a bee hive to be home in the shape of a bee hive in Chicago, during the World's Fair.—Logan Herald.

Richfield Advocate: The water question is rapidly coming to a solution. Besides the numerous sources of supply mentioned at other times, Mr. Lorenzo Nielsen has run a tunnel in the hill near the reservoir some 30 feet and obtained water enough to irrigate ten acres of land without reservoiring it. The tunnel is still in course gravel but he will run in until he strikes bedrock and then cross cut. In this way, he expects to materially increase the water. When Mr. Nielsen commenced operations there was merely a damp spot. There are many such spots and a great many springs in this precinct just as capable of development as Mr. Nielsen's, and the coming season there will be much of this kind of work done. The Richfield school board have now adopted plans for a building and a contract will be let shortly for a building costing not more than $14,000. The building will cover just double the ground of the new south side school, and it is thought that with the building we now have it will be sufficiently large for the children of this city for the next twenty years. A few days ago, while Mr. H. Sorensen and some hands in his employ were digging post holes on Mr. Sorensen's farm, about four miles south of here, they unexpectedly dug up eleven pieces of crockery. Unfortunately, three pieces were broken before they were aware of what they had found. The pieces taken were large, circular, concave vessels, each capable of holding about one gallon. They were ornamented with colored design. The remaining pieces were all dug out whole. The shape of each resembled that of a common jug, but instead being pointed in the place of flat. They varied in size, the smallest holding about one pint and the largest about two gallons. Some bones were also found which appears to have been placed as vases for some purpose, large flat rocks placed on edge encircled the different articles. On hearing of this find the writer proceeded to investigate the matter. Near the spot a circle mound of small was found which was strewn with rock, mostly flat. By their positions the foundations of several buildings could be distinctly traced. It being late in the day further investigation was deferred till some other time.

The New York Commercial Bulletin expresses the electric light companies can be made to pay for free and accidents caused by carelessness in properly insulating their wires.

It was a strange and apparently trivial thing that defeated Archbishop Ireland's Minnesota plan for merging the Catholic parochial schools into the public schools. The Catholic sisters passed the state examination and got their certificates to teach primary and observances suggestive of the Roman creed were left behind, and the sisters passed quietly into place as public school teachers. Then suddenly, when all seemed to go well, the Protestant parents raised a revolt because they were unwilling their children should be taught by teachers wearing the robes of a Catholic order. A contest of bitterness intensity broke out on the point and defeated the whole plan at Faribault, where Archbishop Ireland had the strongest hopes of it. A little matter of dress spoil the scheme which the archbishop had formulated with the utmost care, and to which the pope himself had given his assent.
