NEWS OF THE WEST.

Idaho Promises One of the Biggest Sensations of the Season.

DOINGS OF A CRIMINAL GRADUATE.

An Unusual Stock of Brandy.—The Assassination of an ex-Sheriff.—A "Rush" for Burglars.

Wolf scalp bounties are no longer paid in Colorado, the furs being exhausted.

Durango, Colo., papers are discussing the reason why there are no bald-headed Ute Indians.

At Glenrock, near Casper, Wyo., about ninety miners are kept employed in the coal mines.

Garfield county, Colo., stockmen say the winters are less hard on their cattle than the heat of summer.

Canyon City, Colo., will soon have a very handsome new Santa Fe passenger depot.

A new paper has been started in Albion, Idaho. It is named the Stump Bob.

A Riverside, Cal., tramp, taken in the act of stealing oranges, was sentenced to ten days in jail.

Silverlay Morning at Reno, Nevada county, Cal., the thermometer registered 22 deg. below zero.

Several merchants of Butte, Mont., have suffered through the operations of a clever swindler, who raised $1 into $10.

The home of the maker of the Arizona National table, at Phœnix, has been entered by burglars three times within a month.

Public and dealers have combined to resist the law compelling them to weigh their coal. Buyers should now insist on let each sacker keep their unweighed coal.

The Angels jail wrecker said to be substituted through prisons of Harrison and Contra counties, Cal., has been incorporated. The road will cost about $20,000.

Twenty-two applicants for pardon have been filed for consideration of the Nevada state board at its next session. Of these eight are serving sentences for murder in the second degree and three for the first degree.

Tucson, Ariz., is shipping alfalfa hay to Galveston and New Orleans, and also into Old Mexico, while Arizona barley is finding its way to the New York breweries in large quantities.

Eagle county, Colo., men are preparing to run a tunnel into Mineral mountain, near Gilmonil, for the purpose of mining the iron with in that mountain and putting it on the market.

In Garfield county, Colo., cattlemen are steadily marketing large red cattle at fair prices, and are converting their surplus cash into alfalfa meadows. All the small valleys are being utilized for alfalfa.

In and around Canon City, Col., the winter apple crop sold for about $60,000, and the summer fruit for about as much more. Outside the city the fruit crop of Fremont county realized about $50,000 for 1893.

Percy Brilliant, a boy of fifteen, arrested on complaint of the secretary of the state board of charities and corrections, Colo., for stealing stamps from his office, was taken from the city jail on Tuesday night.

Rand county, Colo., ranks first in the state for cattle. It has 2917,000 invested. Elbert comes second with 2014,133 in cattle; Larimer with 2296,464; Weld, 2,000,000; Cheyenne, 1,000,000. Eastern Colorado no longer figures as a great cattle range.

At Green River station, Wyoming, last week a Chinese cook quarreled with a pretty white dining room girl and revenged himself by putting her in the oven with a hot custard pie. The girl was badly burned, the pastry was ruined and the Mongolian went to jail.

Chief of Police Archibald, who was shot Saturday by Digital Prescott, A. T., is still alive, and the physicians have hopes of his recovery. Cornelius Miller, who did the shooting, has been released on $5,000 bail, awaiting the result of his victim's wounds.

Near Eddy, N. M., the Seven Pines dam recently completed is said to be still filling by sand and will form a lake as large as Lake Chautauqua, New York. It is an immense concern and will contain enough water to run the controlling irrigation ditches for about twenty-five days if required.

Llewellyn R. Williams, who has been well known in Gunnison, Colo., as a real estate, was shot and killed by Hickman H. E. Rhodes, of the Denver and Rio Grande at Larimer on Tuesday. Williams and four companions were boating down the river on a freight train and paid $1 apiece to a trakeman. Rhodes then wanted a dollar himself, but refused when Williams drew a pistol. A few minutes afterwards he came from the caboose with a revolver and fatally shot Williams in the back. The dead man's companions say that Williams did not pull his gun on the occasion of the trakeman's second visit. Rhodes has been arrested.

For nearly two years the assassination of ex-Sheriff Frank Chaves has been under investigation by the courts of Santa Fe county, N. M. Ex-Deputy Sheriff Cunningham has made special efforts to trace the guilty persons, and a few days ago made it so warm for them that one of them turned state's evidence. On warrants issued by the district judge the sheriff has arrested three of the gang, Frank and Antonio Ortega and Chino Abeita. Alejandro Vigil, a fourth man, who is supposed to be the principal in the affair, fired on the sheriff's posse and was instantly shot down. The other three were in jail under heavy guard. A reward of $2,000, the offer of citizens, is outstanding on the capture and conviction of the assassins of Chaves.

A rather unusual shipment of beauty has been made from the Modoc district, in Fresno county, Cal. An order was received some time ago from the Russian Greek church at St. Petersburg, Russia, for 200 barrels of Hightoot brandy, to be used for sacramental purposes in this country. The order was accepted and the contract in Russia was so notified. Thereupon two priests armed with ecclesiastical authority came from Russia to this county and superintended the making of the brandy. Six hundred barrels were subjected to the ordeal of an oath. The priests stood guard. There never was a bibulous thing the whole time the secret thing was in standing by any watchers are ready now from the still. Only a dozen each tasted the mellow juice. When the work was done the priests stamped the seal of the church on 12 oak ex-barrels, and all was ready for the journey. The casks are just now passing over the Southern road to New Orleans, the priests are accompanying it, riding in the lower cracker cheek by every stamp. Great New Orleans the beauty will go by sound to Russia.

What promises to be one of the signal sensations of the season is being developed in connection with the charge of William McKim at one time superintendent of the Home part Bullion, a prominent property in Boise City. In 1892 McKim suddenly disappeared, and it was thought at that time he had absconded, taking with him money belonging to the company. Some months afterwards he was found in the Rose river region from which he wrote that of the missing superintendent. In addition a witness was produced who said he saw McKim in Denver. The Bonanza mine is a valuable property, but since McKim disappeared it has not been worked. Prominent men of the mine now here claim whether the missing found was either Jim McKim. It is certain that a lot men in Boise City have been taking offers the missing Bonanza Hill Mine by working shafts, and that it has no longer great claims. It is strongly hoped that McKim became aware of an underground vein, and that he jumped the claim and sold it to Denver. Detectives are at work on the case, but are very reticent, though it has leaked out that evidence has been unearthed which will bring the matter into the criminal courts.
