Gen. Garcia Wants Admiral Sampson to Advance on Santiago—Spaniards Short of Food.

On board the Associated Press dispatch boat Dandelion, off Santiago de Cuba, Sunday, June 19, via Kingston, Jan. 20.—(Copyrighted, 1898, by the Associated Press.)—The United States troops under Gen. Shafter have not yet arrived. The delay is inexplicable. According to the latest information in possession of Admiral Sampson, the transports should have reached here this morning. Valuable time and favorable weather are lost by the delay. Though it is disturbing left, there has been no rain since the marines landed at Cabaniguan, which, however, this is the unsatisfactory season of the rainy season, the heavy rain has generally ceased until the end of August.

The Cubans are extremely active and continue to harass the Spaniards. Yesterday the Cuban Gen. Garcia, with 1,000 men, coming by forced marches from Guantanamo, attacked the Spanish lines at Cobre, within forty minutes of this city. He left 1,000 men at Guisaro to protect the Spanish rear, and joined in battle with Gen. Torres at Sabanilla. The Spanish troops at Cobre, including the Alfonso, Mexico, and one of Gen. Torres' and are badly off for food. They widely spread the report that they had no food, and the only ones they got was one box with some immortelles. Gen. Marino and Gen. Pando, who were ordered to aid Gen. Torres, are within forty miles
