The Remains of 350 Emigrants Found in the Mountains.

DIED FROM A SCORPION'S STING.

A Caliber Remedied by Electricity—Charged with Blackmail—Suicide.—Saving Machine Accident.

A cattleman is working on the dirt roads of the adobe houses at Tucson, Ariz. It is a large tunnel somewhat resembling a box, which tows into the dirt of the roads, moving ways.

Although the Territory of Arizona has been organized since Jack napoleon Tuscon Star, the entire furniture and furnishings of the executive department thus far will not exceed $250. The question arises what has become of all the appropriations made for furnishings of the executive complete.

J. A. Rounds, aged twenty-two, of Portland, Or., has been arrested on a charge of attempted blackmail. He wrote letters to four ladies, threatening to expose their connections with certain parties unless he was paid $50 ea each. He acknowledges his guilt and was placed under bonds of $4000, furnished by his friends.

The youngest child of C. E. Chapin, the Tip Top morning scale, had just died from the effects of a bite from a scorpion. The venomous insect had crawled into the bed with the baby and, getting next to the skin, had stung the little one until it went into convulsions before the cause was discovered. The baby only lived a few minutes after the stroke came on.—Arizona Gazette.

George Angel has returned from the surgical institute at Columbus, O., says the Idaho correspondent of the Summit County (Oregon), where he has been receiving treatment for the removal of a cancer on his neck. The operation was performed by electricity and is pronounced a success. He was the charred remains of his unmerciful antagonist is arrested.

Barrett Scott, late treasurer of Holt county, Nebraska, who embezzled $34,000, is in jail at Juarez, Mex., having been excepted in Chihuahua by W. F. Cunningham, sheriff of Ninth Pecunity. Extradition papers have left Washington and Scott will soon be returned to the scene of his defalcation. The sheriff secures a reward of $1500 for making the capture.

It is reported that the sheriff's posse overtook the Mexicans who murdered Walsh at Apache Tuesday and engaged them in a Bone fight near Cuba, N. M., on Friday afternoon. One of the posse and several Mexicans who were with the murderers were fatally wounded. Deputy Hatton had his arm shattered and amputation will be necessary.

Gus Carlson, while placing a heavy stick of wood on a steam sawing machine at Portland, Or., slipped and fell under the saw. In attempting to throw his face struck the saw, which whirled him around, cutting off the end of his chin other face and making a gash around under his arm, cutting two ribs and through the breastbone into the lungs. He survived the cleaving of the wounds, but is not expected to recover. He is fifty years old and single.

In heavy wind last week blew in the east end of Lars Anderson's new brick residence in Deer River city. All the rock under the east gable went tumbling in and caused down through the ceiling, struck the ground floor, solidified that to shake and fell into the dark cellar below, where it heaped up a big pile of debris. The damage to the house is considerable. Fortunately the family was absent at the time of the accident or a fatality would no doubt have occurred.

L. H. Flory, an old resident of Phoenix, Ariz., committed suicide on Friday morning by shooting off the top of his head with a charge of bird shot. The supposed cause of the suicide was continued ill health. The deceased was fifty years old and married and was well connected in the East. He had two brothers living in Kansas, one Sheriff Sheriff Flory, of Leavenworth, the well known politician of eastern Kansas. Flory made a large fortune years ago as a contractor in South America.

Some queer freaks of lightning are reported from Mescal station, near Jerome, Ariz. A freight train was standing in front of the station; there were several men around a table, playing cards, and a few feet from them was a barrel of whisky. A bolt of lightning crashed down two of the poles in the freight train, passed through the open door of the station, knocked the bung out of the whisky barrel and set the whisky on fire. But two of the card players were injured, and they only slightly. Not a soul was in the station.

F. W. Baker, who went into the Temples Alias mountain on a prospecting trip three months ago, has returned and reports finding the remains of 350 emigrants who left Missouri in 1852 bound for California, and were lost. Mr. Baker says that the graves and bones are scattered over about a section and that there can be but little doubt of their identity, though the Indians have since carried away and destroyed the wagons and goods. They evidently perished in thirst, as in the spring of the year the Blue Tanks, at which they were camped, goes dry. At the time they reached it the water was almost gone. They began dying; the survivors buried the dead until thirst forced them to start west toward the Colorado, which took a year to reach. The party left Missouri in the fall of 1851 and spent the winter in Texas. In the spring they attempted to cross the old Mexican trail on account of Indians, and all perished except a few who left the main body at Alias and went up to Tucson.

Contributors to a Place Home.

"It is very astonishing," said a gentleman whose business frequently requires long journeys into the interior of the country, "how many unexpected home relations of feeling one meets across among the engines of men. A year or two ago I had a barber in Omaha who had lost belonging to one of the largest cities in the Union. I took some my wife with me, and Mr. —— the proprietor, was most kind in showing and explaining everything to her. One evening we were all standing near a table, listening with great interest to the remarkable concerning prospects, mines of ore, values and estimates, when suddenly we heard some contributions of dollars, followed by various exclamations, and we thought, gentlemen.

"What is the matter" exclaimed my wife as the noise came up and a big stately fellow stepped out. Nothing much, lady, an accident, and he with great consulting to the superintendent, who turned to us with an expression of great concern on his face. 'One of the men who is working below has lost a leg fall,' he said, 'he wouldn't be so hurted and they have his leg in bandage. Why do they not bring him up at once? he continued, addressing the great, heavy, red shirted miner who had brought the news.

"'You was afraid of frightening the lady, and wanted me to come first,' he answered."—New York Tribune.

DR. SCHENCK'S

Mandrake Pills have a value as a household remedy far beyond the power of language to describe. The family can hardly be true to itself that does not keep them on hand for use in emergencies.

* MANDRAKE *

is the only vegetable substitute for that dangerous mineral, Mercury, and while its action as a cathartic is fully equal, it possesses none of its poisonous effects.

In Constipation, Mandrake acts upon the bowels without imposing them to subsequent constipation.

No remedy can so directly act on the liver, nothing so speedily relieve Sick Headache, Nervous Headache and Biliousness as these
