

ANXIOUS OVER MOROCCAN CASE.

Outwardly Hopeful But Much Concern is Felt About The Outcome.

FAILURE WOULD BE SERIOUS.

Would Hardly Involve War But Would Greatly Damage German Prestige.

Berlin, Feb. 7.—While government circles maintain an outwardly hopeful attitude regarding the conference at Algiers, the indications are that much concern is felt about the outcome. Even a failure to reach an agreement on the police question is regarded as probable. This inference is drawn from the fact that the inspired press has begun discussing the possible results of a failure to reach an agreement. These papers assert that a failure would not involve the danger of war so far as Germany is concerned and they argue that France would not go to war on account of Morocco. These papers interpret the warning of the Havas agency against "excessive optimism" as proving the pacific intentions of the French government. The result of a failure to reach an agreement would be, according to German inspired utterances, that Moroccan affairs would continue to be regulated under the arrangement of 1904. More critical observers point out that the controversy of 1890 originated despite that arrangement and that the conference being due to German initiative, its failure would involve serious damage to German prestige.

The Hamburger Nachrichten says a failure of the conference would intensify the friction between Germany and France and compromise Germany's position.

SEATTLE STREET CARS COLLIDE ON A TRESTLE.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 7.—Running at an estimated speed of 20 miles an hour through a dense fog, a Ballard street car and a Fort Lawton car of the Seattle Electric company collided head-on at 3:30 o'clock this morning on the trestle between Inter-bay and the Smith street siding, on the Ballard line. Five men were badly hurt. Two of these may die. John Herron, the motorman of the Ballard car, and one passenger, name unknown, riding on the Ballard car. Both had their legs crushed and suffered severe internal injuries.

Failure of the motorman on the Ballard car to observe the block signals is given as the cause of the accident. Conductor Hurley on the Ballard car, suffered a severe cut on the head.

Thus the cars were going at considerable speed was proved by the fact that they were almost completely telescoped. The motive power was that on a trestle about 12 feet high. Had either car fallen to the ground, the list of injured would have been much larger. A fireman riding in the Fort Lawton car was precipitated half the length of the car, breaking a shoulder and suffering severe internal injuries. He broke two of the seats as he shot through the car.

Many passengers suffered cuts from flying glass, practically every window in both cars being smashed to bits by the force of the impact.

Windsor, N. S., Feb. 7.—David Fisher, whose testimony Monday at the inquest into the death of Freeman Harvie resulted in the arrest of George Stanley on the charge of having been concerned in Harvie's death, yesterday was himself arrested. ## DIAMOND SEIZED ON WRIT OF REPLEVIN.

New York, Feb. 7.—A deputy sheriff, accompanied by an expert on opening safes, entered the home of Mrs. Joseph Nelson Osborn at 2 Rutherford place, yesterday, and seized jewelry and furniture valued at $10,000. The jewelry, consisting principally of diamonds, was all in the safe, which the officers opened.

The deputy acted under authority of a writ of replevin, secured in a civil action brought against Mrs. Osborn by Miss Norma Leslie Munro. Miss Munro's brother said last night that the action is based on a business relationship between Mrs. Osborn and Miss Munro at the time Mrs. Osborn was running her playhouse in the Beekman room.

Miss Munro is a daughter of the late Norman Munro, the publisher. Mrs. Osborn is president of the Mrs. Osborn company, a dressmaking establishment. They recently they were intimate friends.

HOUSE PROCEEDINGS.

Washington, Feb. 7.—There was no delay from preliminary business in the house today. The railroad rate bill being taken up at 11 o'clock and the bill of general debate was begun. The program included speeches by Bourke Cockran, New York; Mann, Illinois; Williams, Mississippi; and Hepburn, Iowa.

Mr. Cockran announced his position in favor of the bill. While he did not consider it a panacea for all evils, it was a most wholesome manifestation of a unanimous public determination to deal with the rate evils. It was the only means by which public ownership could be stopped and checked the most plausible argument of the Socialists.

"The history of railroad management in this country," he said, "is the history of favoritism, of corruption, and of fraud."

In spite of this he would not say the railroad had not rendered enormous service, but they had not been as efficient as they should be.

His next assertion was that railway influences predominated both political parties.

Illustrating this he showed how the representatives of wealth ignored the courts and dominated state administrations.

The very court which had dropped the proceedings against H. H. Rogers had the next day issued a most vigorous injunction against striking printers. In this connection he reviewed the Northern Securities decision which he said declared criminals and conspirators those representatives for that combination. Harriman and Morgan, he said, quarreled over the control of several railroads in the northwest which threatened to interfere with their plunder. The president directed an action against them. The court declared a conspiracy.

"What was the result," he asked, "it was to reduce the control of these properties from two to one. When they came to distribute the stocks Harriman had been eliminated. Morgan was left alone. A more perfect conspiracy was perfected through the decision of the court itself. And the stock which was selling at $100 to $120 when the decision was rendered sold for $10 after it was announced, thus enriching the conspirators who walked out of court just $240,000,000 richer for having been convicted."

The fact that no criminal proceedings had been begun was dwelt on at some length, and the fall sentence of Debs and the conviction of two railroads for "mere inducements" contrasted. Complaints were made to Rockefeller, "at once the richest and most despised of our whole population."

The most effective feature of the bill, he maintained, was the popular disposition of it. It, the next was its publicity. Universal applause greeted Mr. Cockran's conclusion, and after the informal congratulatory reception to him had concluded, Mr. Mann of Illinois, took the floor.

CHICAGO MAY HAVE ANTI-TOBACCO SMOKING LAW.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—Chicago may have an ordinance making it a misdemeanor for any person under 21 years of age to smoke tobacco in any public store building. The draft of such a measure was presented yesterday to the council judiciary committee.

A fine of $10 for each offense is provided.

Other articles in the proposed ordinance prohibit minors to purchase cigarettes or any of the products known as "the makings." Furthermore, any person who keeps a place where minors smoke, or sell or give away tobacco without the written consent of the parents, will be subject to a fine of $5 to $50 for the first offense and $25 to $200 for subsequent violations. The sale of cigarettes except in original packages is prohibited. The ordinance will be reported at the next meeting of the committee.

ALICE ROOSEVELT'S WEDDING TROSSEAU.

All the Details About It Will be Made Public Before the Happy Day.

AND LIST OF IMPORTANT GIFTS

Some Feelings in the Diplomatic Corps Over the Matter of Involutions.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—A dispatch to the Record-Herald from Washington says: Miss Alice Roosevelt spent another busy day shopping yesterday. She had a fitting of her wedding gown, and it is understood that the entire outfit will be ready by the end of this week. Miss Roosevelt has been importuned for photographs in her bridal finery and she has partially promised several friends that she will consent to this ordeal. It was stated at the White House that all details about the trossau of the president's daughter will be made public before the wedding. This will include a full description of the materials which was specially designed. A list of the most important of the wedding gifts also will be made public. The presents are catalogued as they arrive, and then sent to the city. The most valuable of plate and jewels will be transferred to a bank vault.

In the diplomatic corps there is an aggrieved feeling because only the heads of embassies and legations and acting charges d'affaires have been asked to the wedding. Even the daughters of the British and Russian ambassadors, Miss Josephine Grand, and the Baroness Elizabeth Rosen, have not been included although the girls are on friendly terms with the bride-elect.

In society as well as among the relations of all the president and Mrs. Roosevelt have observed the rule of asking only two out of each family. Only those girls who are the intimates of the bride are to be present in the reception room. The ceremony will occur at a temporary altar erected between the great windows which face the east.

War Dept. Will Defend to Utmost Sentiment Down to Shooting Crowley.

Washington, Feb. 7.—The war department is making ready to test to the utmost its right to protect the soldier who, in the execution of lawful orders, kills a civilian. To that end preparations are in progress for a sturdy defense before the court and the military court of the case of the soldier who, in the case of Sentinel Down, who, with his officer, Lieut. Balaban, was indicted for killing a young man named Crowley, two years ago last November, who was charged with stealing copper from the Allegheny arsenal.

Joseph is busy with changes at the admiralty. ## NO SENSATIONS IN THE PACKER'S TRIAL.

BALFOUR, IF ELECTED, WILL REMAIN PARTY LEADER.

London, Feb. 7.—Surface indications tend to strengthen the belief that former Premier Balfour, if he is elected to parliament for the city of London, will remain the leader of the Conservatives in the house of commons, and that Joseph Chamberlain will become the leader of the tariff reformers, with a separate organization. The Times, the Daily Telegraph and other former newspaper friends of both Balfour and Chamberlain, have gone over completely to Balfour and the opinion at the political clubs is that the breach will widen as the days pass and that only a miracle can now prevent the ending of the friendship of the Unionists as one party machine.

While it is protested that the friendship between Messrs. Balfour and Chamberlain is not a matter of personal relations. Those who are best informed say that unless the unexpected happens the two statesmen will in the end become political enemies.

Some conservative newspapers declare that recent developments have shown all the evidences of deep laid intrigues against Mr. Balfour, firstly, open threats, secondly, the professor Huma Long as leader, and now in the open threat to place a tariff reformer in the field against Mr. Balfour.

While the Liberal party is still undecided as to whether it will run a candidate, one announcement already has been made by a Liberal, D. M. Mason, a prominent London financier, who unhesitatingly contested Tradesmen, Glasgow, at the recent election.

L. G. Bowles makes the positive announcement that he will oppose Mr. Balfour unless the latter declares definitely for free trade, and from Birmingham comes a strong intimation that a tariff reformer will enter the lists. Meanwhile Mr. Balfour, undismayed, stands to his guns and says he will not withdraw, and on the present time he has not called a meeting of the Unionist members although some of the newspapers this morning say such a meeting will be called. It is an open secret, however, that Mr. Balfour has stated that he has no hopes that such a meeting would lead to reconciliation or harmony.

SHIPPING DISASTERS.

Life Saving Station at Entrance to Straits of San Juan de Fuca Wanted.

New York, Feb. 7.—Officials of the Pacific Coast Steamship company, whose main office is at 19 Wall street, are exerting every influence to bring about the passage of Senator Piles' resolution providing that the federal government erect a life-saving station at the entrance of the Straits of San Juan de Fuca, as a result of the wreck of the company's liner Valencia.

J. S. Ford, the vice president of the company, said yesterday that his company would not rest until this dangerous spot has been made the home of a fully trained and completely equipped crew of government life-savers.

While the officers of the Pacific Coast Steamship company feel keenly the awful loss of life on the Valencia, we are satisfied that the disaster was due to no negligence on the part of the company. Our own inspections proved the steamer staunch in every way and rigid inspections by United States officials supported us. Every requirement in the way of life-saving apparatus was met. The most of the life-preservers were changed from cork to tule shortly before the fatal trip, when we discovered that the tule preservers were better.

"We feel that Capt. Johnson was a good, competent commander, and that even if he had lived, he could not have been held responsible for the mistake in reckoning which brought this steamer on the reefs. He had been with us 12 years, and we must remember that human judgment is never infallible. The mechanical logs on which the captain has to depend when running along the Pacific coast in heavy weather usually overrun the distance. From reports we have received from officers who have survived this particular loss overran the distance."

"One lesson the Valencia disaster must teach. That is the need of life-saving stations about the entrance to the Straits. We have great hope that the government will take immediate action to establish a station at Cape Flattery. Senator Piles tells me that it is almost certain that Congress will provide for the erection of such a station, now that the Valencia tragedy has brought its necessity so prominently before them. We hope, too, that the Canadian government will erect a station on its side of the straits, for the protection of ships bound for Victoria and Vancouver."

PROF. NEWELL HERE.

Says Work on the Strawberry Valley Project Will Soon Begin.

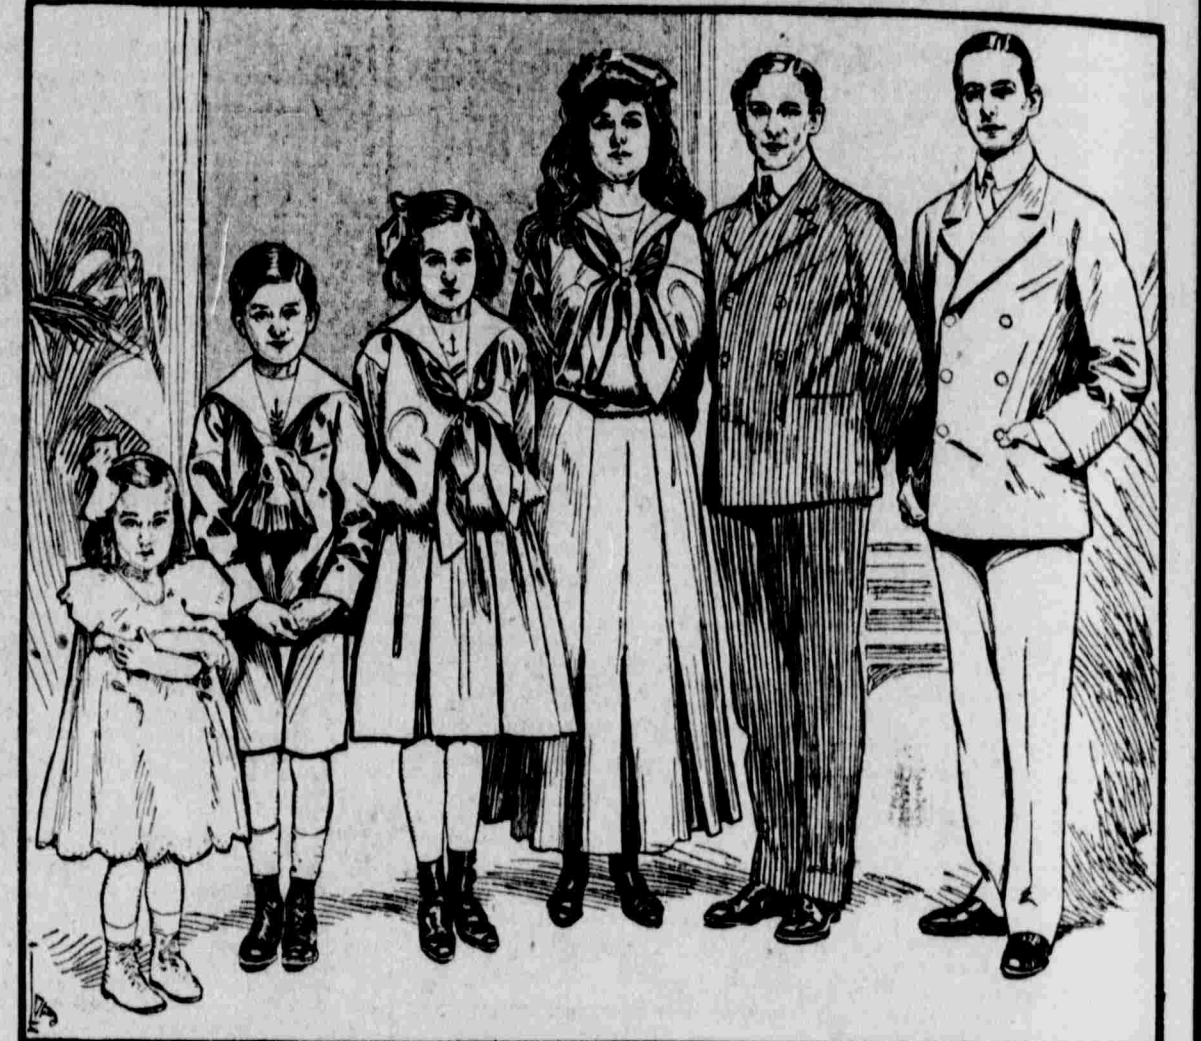

Prof. F. H. Newell, chief of the hydrographic bureau, arrived from the west yesterday afternoon, en route from Nevada to Washington, and stopped off in this city long enough to talk over with Prof. Swendsen the prospects of the Strawberry valley reclamation. He says the work in Nevada means the reclamation of 50,000 acres of valuable land, and involves the storing of the Truckee and Carson rivers. Incidentally the professor said: "One great trouble is that the people who come out from the east to make their home in that desert region cannot bring themselves to believe that all the cultivated regions of the arid states were once deserts like the one in Nevada. They get off the train at Hazen, drive across the alkali lands for sixteen miles and by the time they reach the land where they had intended to make their homes, they are entirely discouraged and ready to turn back. Point out a waving field of alfalfa to them and they insist that the soil where it grows is different. To prove their statement they will lead you to the field, pick up a handful of the soil, and sure enough it is different. But that is due simply to irrigation and cultivation. Only those who have actually gone through the experience of making the desert blossom seem capable of appreciating that it can be done."

Prof. Newell spoke hopefully of the Strawberry valley project, and said: "Measurements have been taken and the supply of water for the coming year will be greatly in excess of the capacity of the reservoir that is to be constructed. But this is an exception, structing the big irrigation system that is being figured on, and so while we will have more than enough water this year, the dry season of the next year, a long constructed will be of just the right capacity. In a few weeks they ought to be able to start the camp down the Strawberry. We will have to have some kind of power there, either electric or steam, and the camp will be up-to-date and built with the idea of being used for two or three years. Of course, after the work is once started, weather will make no difference—winter, summer, night and day, the work will be prosecuted to completion."
