SALT LAKE STILL IN THE RACE.

No Decision Yet Arrived at Regarding the Meeting of the N. C. A.

About a week ago the "News" gave expression to the opinion of Dr. Millspaugh that the question of holding the next meeting of the National Educational association had not yet been decided. In substantiation of this belief he has received a letter from the secretary of the executive committee stating that no such determination had been arrived at, and will not be for some time. This fact is very important as most of the files that Salt Lake was not of the race, and this Lookeaway was its winner. The matter is still in the president's on an all unbiased in this city. In the event that a decision is made the committee will be ready to gather and perform the necessary work. It is believed that Salt Lake can get it, and have in its city the largest and most successful national educational convention that has been held in the United States. Satisfactories are that a renewed effort will be made without delay and that success will follow.

AMUSEMENTS.

The reception given Ned Royle and his wife at the Theater last night, where they appeared in a triple bill, was a warm and enthusiastic one—not that a home-coming was always precisely the hands of his fellow-townsmen, who are proud of his achievements in the world of drama. Last night's program consisted of an enchantment of Captain Impudence, formerly known as Myron, now Walter of Wall Street and The Highball Family. As there pieces received much credit upon Mr. Royle and gave his friends in unfortunated that he is somewhat of a prodigal, for at the same time he is author and stage manager and a good all-around man in every capacity. Julian Pelle Royle, his wife, still captivates the every, remarkable actress we first saw her in by and her work last night, particularly in the Highball Family, proves her to be a character artist of much ability, with tact and a proper conception of the requirements of each role. Her versatility was manifested in the recording sketches on each evening's bill. In the impromptu of the presentations Mr. Royle now requires but two persons besides himself and wife, and Miss Mae Dupont, an remarkable member of the Edwards Stock company, or the Grand a couple of weeks ago. She is a perfect as of now and her acquaintance gave evidence of their correspondence of not in a sense of sufficient to make it a success. The other members of the company, Mr. William Frederick and Mr. Lindsay Morison, are well and kept in the fun. Irene Franklin, the sweet little entertainer, with Mr. Royle, made her appearance last night, the being detained on the Southern Pacific, for the same reason that Royle got out of the train at Provo last night. She arrived in the city at 7:30 p. m. Manager Pat Gilmore, who was to have straighten the Theater and Mrs. Hough Manager Price made the announcement before. It certain that she would not reach the city in time for her portrayal here, the popularity journey of Miss Franklin, she could not expected to arrive her way into the good graces of the large audience assembled. Mr. Royle made a speech of Captain Impudence what it should have been in the first place—one set comic-dotts, and as such it is the best of the three. Part of the other two sketches could be started a comedy drama and the other a farce, both with much more meritorious lines and, with Captain Impudence, a very creditable evening's entertainment is presented.

Mr. Royle expresses himself glad to be home again and last evening's very flattering audience showed he certainly enjoys the esteem in which he and his accomplished wife are held here.

The Air Ship continues to fill the New Grand nightly and the funny business of this amusing production continues to find favor with the audiences. A matinee will be given on Saturday afternoon.

Dramatic authors have sprung from a great many professions and they are continually holding out from the most unexpected sources, but probably the most remarkable of all the men who have written for the stage for the last ten years is the author of The Old Coat, in which the Smith and Dixon dramatic company appear at the Salt Lake Theater on Friday and Saturday and Saturday Matinee. Now, this and that The Old Coat has turned out to be a very, very, very good, very commendable play. Lieutenant Abileslow has well to proud of its success.

Mr. Murray, representing Matthews and Bulger, "the real funny boys," who come to the Theater on Tuesday, was interviewed in the Theater box last night by a "News" man last evening, as was Mr. Kennedy, who is here in advance of Harvey Stevens, Wm. Gillette's great war play, which will appear here at an early date.

UNIVERSAL SATISFACTION

IS THE RESULT FROM USING OUR

UNIVERSAL RADIATOR.

We are proud of the compliments we are continually receiving from our customers who are using them. This is a handsome Soft Coal Parlor Heater, so constructed that a fire will burn in it for twenty-four hours without feeding, by regulating the draught. This feature is exceedingly convenient during the winter nights. It is really a coal furnace, encased by a highly ornamented covering, with nickel trimmings. We have them in three sizes.
