WEBER APPREHENDED.

The "Hellgate" Cutting Academician is Caught Up at Elko, Nevada.

H. Weber, the man who has the unenviable reputation of having victimized everybody with whom he came to do business connect in Salt Lake and Ogden, was apprehended in Elko, Nev., yesterday. Sheriff Lewis has gone after the erstwhile promoter and perpetrator of the "Salt Lake Ladies' and Gents' Cutting academy," and inasmuch as Weber has promised to return without the formality of extradition papers, the officer and his charge will probably arrive here tomorrow.

Surprised a Former Teacher.

A pleasant surprise party was tendered Elder Don. C. Ironton, superintendent of the Fifth ward Sunday school, at his home in this city last evening. It was planned and carried out by members of a class formerly taught by Brother Ironton and was highly enjoyable to all present. Amusing games were indulged in, a "supper party" taken of, and before dispersing the class presented their former teacher with a handsome volume of the Doctrine and Covenants.

BOREAS IN A TANTRUM

Mighty Winds and Cold Swept Utah with Cutting Velocity.

OGDEN GETS A BIG MOUNTAIN ZEPHYR.

Davis County People Rush to Cover—Calls on a Stampede for Warm Quarters Everywhere.

This is the enthusiasm promulgated by the weather bureau here for the 24 hours ended at 5 p. m. Friday, the force having been made at San Francisco:

"Blue Bird Salt Lake City and vicinity. Fair tonight and Friday; moderately cold; northerly."

About 4 o'clock this morning a slight tremor began to blow over the city, evidently from the northeast. The wind gradually increased to velocity until it became very considerable indeed by 10 o'clock, when it came in heavily in gusts which almost took policemen off their feet and caused brooms to "take hold" to the windward to prevent their heads from the stock.

The morning through its use of sheets of paper and other light articles were the sole means of serious war accessories to runaways. Down on State street a team started off at Murray Wright's corner, to the great alarm of the driver, but the heavy load of beef which the wagon contained soon tired the animals down to a reasonable speed. No damage was done to the wagon or to the meat, or to load them off before any damage was done.

When the wind commenced to playfully whip the awnings there was a scramble to "take a reef" in them and lash them securely. At their meetings, which were held on one pair of weather beaten "old rules" were sorts to be themselves around the nearest corners, whence we could see the mad revelry with the questionable contents of a bottle produced from the inner recesses of a more commodious outer garment. Stairs were seen creaking out some wretched "airs," accompanied by the hysterical shrieks of the souls and the occasional tremulous quarter-hour chimes of the municipal clock.

Last night a very considerable amount of dust fell on the ground and "did not tread his partner this morning to throw it out and lay a fine dust on the streets underneath." Yesterday morning, if there wouldn't have been a dose in any such fashion, instead, the latter poured its bulk in the same manner and with equal celerity upon them into the faces of "poor, struggling humanity." The result was that a good deal of dust came to the street and would not up with a pretty face with a little black cloth of maid definitely perched on her pug nose or quietly nested in the corner of her eye. One would proceed but a few steps, inwardly muttering at the picture, when an acquaintance would come up and greet him "Hello, old man, what have you been doing to yourself, anyhow?" But it was a case of reciprocity because the other fellow's collar was in a deplorable condition.

DAVIS COUNTY IN IT.

Word came down from Davis county that the wind was tearing through the country up there at a terrific rate, causing cattle to stampede for shelter and induced the people to stuff up the keyholes. No particular damage was reported, but it was decidedly uncomfortable.

OGDEN TOO.

There is one particulary about Ogden, and that is her "mountain wind." When people there see a few ragged little fragments of debris scuttled out like this death, lurking on the western side of "Observatory Peak" and his edges are swooped, the average looker up the same the member of accordions and come indoors are pulled back into convenient harbors and edges of the eddies can remove their "outer tents"—they know it's going to blow. That name playful little "mountain wind" is a misnomer, it is more tumbling down over there forming cliffs to the eastward of the junction city and made merry with things in street. There was no buildings demolished, "but," as an Ogdenite put it, "you bet it blowed."
