ANOTHER ONE DIVORCED

Mary Parkinson Secures a Legal Separation From James T. Parkinson.

GROUNDS: CRUELTY AND DRUNKENNESS

Mrs. Rudolf Will Domicile in the West to Get One—Trial of Cases Before Diles and Cherry.

The testimony in two more of the uncontested divorce cases referred by Judge Diles to Deputy Clerk Hoss was taken, and in our opinion, on the recommendation of Mr. Hoss, a decree was today granted.

The one divorced was Mary Parkinson from James T. Parkinson. Plaintiff, in her complaint, charged defendant of cruelty and drunkenness.

The testimony adduced at the hearing was to show that the parties were married January 15, 1873, and that their children were born to them, the eldest of whom is now a young man in his eighteenth year. It was also shown at the hearing that for several years past defendant has neglected and refused to provide his wife's support, and has made threats of taking home drinks and making things warm around the house by assaulting furniture and scaring his family.

On this showing Judge Diles granted the decree prayed for and ordered the plaintiff the custody of the minor children.

NOT YET DETERMINED.

Clerk Hoss also took testimony today in the case of Ruth Rudolf vs. Nathan Rudolf and will make the report thereon, but will not render the decree in the case.

The ground on which Mrs. Rudolf based her suit was cruelty and drunkenness on the part of her husband.

The depositions of Mrs. Rudolf were followed by the testimony of her father, John Chase, the parents of said defendant were interrogated by Hatch, Hatch, May 18, 1893, a marriage license was issued to them a few now eight years old; that for more than two years past the defendant has been guilty of habitual drunkenness.

W. T. Leach testified that he had known Rudolf for eight or ten years. Knew that he was a drinker and that would remain so for two or three weeks at a time.

J. A. Greenwald testified that he knew the plaintiff and defendant quite well. They formerly stopped at the Wasatch hotel, that he had frequently witnessed that defendant was drunk every day for nearly a year.

TWO MORE ILLSATED COUPLES.

Miss Ella Fitz Hugh and Mr. M. E. Lieb Admitted to be Divorced.

Ella Ferguson and May E. Lieb are sudden as sentiments of their matrimonial bonds from Mrs. Peter G. Ferguson and Charles H. Lieb.

The complaint of Mrs. Ferguson sets forth that the parties were married in Raleigh county, W. Va., on Christmas day, 1893, and lived together up to October, 1895, when, she alleges, Mrs. Ferguson alleges she has supported herself by sewing. Mrs. Ferguson further avers that her husband drank to excess, and vulgar language towards her and for six years past has failed to contribute anything towards her support. The plaintiff also claims that the conduct of a most excellent family and was raised among refined and cultured people. Defendant is accused of threatening to kill his wife, smashing her wheel and of applying coarse and vulgar remarks towards her.

Mrs. Lieb alleges that she married her husband August 9, 1896, in St. Paul, Minn. She then accuses her husband of being possessed of a violent temper and a wicked and cruel disposition. The manifestations of Lieb's temper, Mrs. Lieb says, has impaired her health in consequence of which she was compelled to leave him, which was on the 21st of October, 1897. Defendant is also said to have threatened her life on over the head and at another time of threatening to throw her out of a window. There is also said to have occurred, when Mrs. Lieb says, he assaulted the custody of.

LOST HIS VALUE.

James L. Franken's Suit Against the Pullman Company on Trial.

Judge Cherry and a jury today heard the case of James L. Franken against the Pullman Palace Car company. Mr. C. Hill appeared for the plaintiff and Lorenzo A. Lindsay for the defendants.

Plaintiff brought this suit against the defendant company to recover $10,000 as damages for a wrongful detaining extra, works and other articles that belong to a gentleman's wardrobe while travelling.

Plaintiff alleged that on the 26th of July, 1895, he was a passenger on the Pullman company's sleeping car Iowa, traveling between Chicago and Salt Lake city, and, that when he came to look for his valise it had vanished. He complained that the company had not taken proper care in looking after his baggage.

The case was tried before Justice of the Peace Whitchurch in March, 1896, who found for the plaintiff, assessing his damages at $100. The case was then taken up to the district court where a trial by jury was had, which resulted in a verdict for the defendant, which verdict was given to the jury this afternoon, the case was closed.

ALLEGED NOTES WERE ASSIGNED.

Case of McCornick vs. Meagher Is Also Tried Before Judge Diles.

Judge Diles today took up the case of W. S. McCornick vs. F. J. Meagher et. al., doing under the name of the name of the Western Crate company.

This is an action brought by plaintiff to recover the sum of $1,000 on certain notes and contract given plaintiff for the purpose of enforcing payment of H. A. Lazier and company of Cleveland, Ohio, of the sum of $1,200.

The complaint sets out that the plaintiff is indebted in the sum of $1,000 to Lazier and company, and that in order to secure the payment of $1,000 to Lazier and company, and that in order to secure the payment of said notes and contract given plaintiff for the purpose of enforcing payment of H. A. Lazier and company of Cleveland, Ohio, of the sum of $1,200.

The complaint sets out that the plaintiff is indebted in the sum