The flock of Dr. Brown, in San Francisco, are losing faith in their pastor, and suspect that the story of Mrs. Davidson is not without good foundation.

The Consolidated Canal company, of Mesa City, Arizona, has received three carloads of machinery for the new power house just constructed on their canal, which will be placed in position as soon as possible.

Two California girls who thought tramp life would be a good thing for them have given it up after a month's trial. They are now in a county hospital being nursed through a severe illness which came upon them through exposure and hunger.

George H. Sweeny, who died from lockjaw, as a result of being turned with phosphorus, was buried at Oakland, Cal., on Sunday. He was the brother-in-law of the founder of Tombstone, Arizona, and leaves a wife and four children.

Contracts have been let for smelting and reduction works to be erected at Morenci, A. T. The concentrator will have a capacity of 250 tons per day, while the smelter will turn out thirty tons of metallic copper per day. Wealthy New Yorkers are backing the scheme.

Thomas Quirk, an old gentleman living near Hillsboro station, Oregon, was accidentally killed Saturday evening. He was discovered some hours later by his son on his return from his day's work.

In the district court at Laramie, Monday, the case of Hill vs Hill was on trial. It is Lydia Hill vs John Hill, both former residents of Laramie. Mr. Hill is now superintendent of the Union Pacific shops at Salt Lake, and Mrs. Hill for the past six months has been a resident of Laramie. She is now suing for separate maintenance, with her three children, and asks for $100 per month.

Two boy burglars, aged 7 and 8 years respectively, have been arrested in San Francisco. They were used by older persons to rob stores, the grown up individuals holding the boys up to transoms, which the little fellows would crawl through, and then would drop to the floor of the store. On Sunday night they got into a building where they could neither climb back to the transom nor open the door, so they were left there and were caught by the proprietor on a late evening visit.

Charles Taggart, the sixteen-year-old son of Joseph Taggart, a well known mining man of Vanderbilt, Cal., was accidentally shot and killed by a companion while hunting in the hills west of Los Angeles, Sunday. Taggart, with his two companions, F. T. Hewinstine and Roy Pease, had stopped to drink from a creek. As Taggart arose from the water Hewinstine's gun, which he held by his side, was discharged in some unknown manner, and the full charge of bird-shot struck Taggart in the face and neck. He died instantly.

Three fiends assaulted and ravished a sixteen year old girl in the Big Horn Basin, Wyo., last week. She is not expected to live as the result of her treatment. On Sunday police officers in San Francisco went into a house where they found his father, Barry Wakeman, drunk and asleep on a lounge. His family consisted of a mother and seven children, all under ten years of age. The officers say that it is absolutely the worst case of destitution that has come under their notice for years. There was no furniture except a lounge, a bed and a stove, which was borrowed from a neighbor. The only fuel was a basketful of coal siftings swept up in a coal yard by the children. The little ones were sick, hungry and cold. There was not an atom of food visible. The woman and children were taken care of by a benevolent society.

News has been received of a desperate encounter between two men at Bonville, in the Okanogan valley, B. C., as a result of which Moore, an old man aged over 60, lies at the point of death and Thomas Leddy is now confined in the Kamloops jail. Both men are trappers, and a dispute arose while they were drinking in Moore's cabin. A rough-and-tumble fight ensued, during which Moore was badly used up, his nose being split open and two ribs broken. Leddy then went to his cabin, returning shortly after with his Winchester. Another scuffle ensued, during which eight shots were discharged, one of which inflicted a fatal wound in Moore's abdomen that will probably prove fatal.

IS THE GENERAL REPLY.
Many purchasers give when asked "What do you know about the material of suits?"
Most garments look all right when properly made up; the appearance is there, but after all the material lacks. Buy your suits from reliable dealers.
