FRAGMENTS.

A [illegible] ball will be given in the Salt Lake Music Hall, Thursday evening, February 12th. Olsen's quadrille band will furnish the music.

COMMISSIONER GREENMAN's time was occupied in hearing the arguments in a civil case this afternoon.

On Saturday the President sent to the Senate the following nominations: Probate Judges in Utah—James A. Stark, Piute County; James D. Jones, Utah County.

THE Salt Lake City Street Railway Company today erected a small box-like office for their dispatcher at the intersection of East Temple and First South Streets.

MR. C. L. Brown, of Eureka, has been appointed to temporarily discharge the duties of prosecuting attorney for Juab County, Mr. James H. Wells having resigned that position.

Most of the cases which would in the ordinary course of events have gone before Commissioner Norrell will, during that official's absence from the city, be heard by Commissioner Pratt.

THE calendar for the February term of the Third District Court will be called by Judge Zane on Monday morning next, at ten o'clock, and the law and motion calendar by Judge Anderson, on the same date.

In the Third District Court on Saturday afternoon the case of the American Publishing Company vs. E. A. Reed et al. was by consent transferred to the First District Court at Ogden. The case of M. E. Leiheim vs. Frank Kuhkle was dismissed.

On Saturday afternoon Sheriff Ward started for Evanston with William Wagner, the individual who was recently arrested (but afterwards discharged) on an allegation charging him with embezzling $[illegible], belonging to a resident of Evanston, a few months ago.

THE residents in Sugar House Ward are complaining loudly to the county authorities with respect to sheep herds passing over the mountains by way of the city and Emigration and Parley's canyons. It is said that a petition protesting against the nuisance will shortly come before the City Council.

CHIEF JUSTICE ZANE and Judge Anderson sat in chambers today, and dealt with several unimportant matters that were casually brought before them. They were otherwise occupied in preparing opinions in cases which had been submitted to the Supreme Court during the January term.

SATURDAY, at midnight, witnessed the advent of the Chinese new year, and the Celestials of this city had high jinks by way of celebrating the occasion. In the Chinese quarter colored lanterns formed a conspicuous feature of the "illuminations," and within the dwellings night was made hideous by boisterous mirth. The "fun" will extend over some twenty-eight days.

On Saturday afternoon, before Judge Zane, was brought up the divorce suit of Ada M. Saxton vs. George Saxton. The plaintiff alleged desertion as the chief ground of complaint, stating that the defendant had left her without a particle of food to eat. Judge Zane granted the decree as prayed for, and directed that the defendant should pay a stipulated sum as alimony.

Sent to the Penitentiary.

Friday evening Will Young was brought down from Ogden in the custody of Bailiff Gill and sent out to the penitentiary. Young was arraigned in the First District Court at Ogden on the charge of forgery. Being unable to procure bonds he will sojourn in the penitentiary until the grand jury disposes of the case.

A Creditable Exhibition.

The reception given by Mrs. Boyden and her pupils last Saturday night, at the Fourteenth Ward Assembly Rooms, was a gratifying success. The programme was varied and well assorted. Mrs. Boyden finished the exercises by reciting a piece herself.

The class of young pupils who gave the expressions of the various emotions of the mind did very well. The exercises on the whole were excellent, and reflect much credit on Mrs. Boyden as a teacher of elocution.

Galena Mining Company.

On Saturday afternoon the Galena Mining Company filed articles of incorporation with Clerk Allen of the County Court.

Frederick Warde.

This talented tragedian, who has a host of admirers in Salt Lake, will appear at the Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday next, and at a matinee on the last-named day. Speaking of his performance a leading exchange has this to say:

"Frederick Warde and Mrs. D. P. Bowers, two of the last known representatives of legitimate tragic acting now on the American stage, commenced a two weeks' engagement at the Academy of Music last evening. The play was "Henry VIII," and the hearty applause with which it was greeted by the large audience showed that the efforts of both the principals and the entire cast were entirely satisfactory. Mr. Warde's rendition of Cardinal Wolsey was striking and strikingly picturesque, and his fine, resonant voice was distinctly heard in every part of the Academy. Mrs. Bowers was equally as effective as Queen Catharine, her performance being marked by that sweetness and grace which have kept her among the greatest of American actresses."

"Henry VIII" will be one of the plays in which Mr. Warde will appear on his present visit. Sale of seats commences [illegible].

THE OGDEN ELECTION.

Intense Interest, Verging on Excitement.

ILLEGAL VOTERS NABBED.

Monroe Arrested on a Charge of Bribery.—Citizens Cheerful.

[Special by Telegraph to the DESERET NEWS.]

Last night, both the contending parties here, figuratively speaking, slept on their arms. The interest in the situation abated but very little notwithstanding yesterday was a quiet one and as orderly as Sunday ought to be. However, where two or more men were found conversing, in almost every instance the subject of their discussion was the all-absorbing theme. "How do you think it will go?" was the prevailing question, which when answered would be followed by appropriate condemnation, the latter generally flanked by the worm-eaten offer to bet something on the proposition. Everybody seemed to be talking election, nothing but election, and the interest, at times verging on excitement, has not been overstated in any accounts that have reached you.

The "Liberal" party, for the first time since its organization, is divided against itself, the Citizens' ticket (with few exceptions) being composed of the better elements of the party in power, and this is upheld by the People's party. The fusion represents law and order, morality, Christianity, and more than all, the enforcement of the Sunday laws. This, if nothing else were present, would create the opposition of the saloon and gambling element, which is championed by the "Liberals" without even an effort at concealment. The issue is thus well made up and sharply defined—virtue and vice, both strongly supported contending for the mastery. It cannot be denied that the latter has the more demonstrative following, there being very few if any saloon loungers, loafers and those who are waiting for something to turn up but what are solidly for the "ring" candidates. This naturally gives a deceptive appearance to the Liberal strength.

One incident illustrative of the great interest taken in the outcome is the appearance of the Standard this morning, containing full of election paragraphs, strong editorials and bristling heads in support of the party of good government and decency. It does not publish Monday mornings, and has gone to great expense and trouble in aid of the cause.

The day opened beautifully but exceedingly cold. At an early hour the teams were out playing in all directions, and as the day advanced and became somewhat warmer, the streets became filled with people, presenting a very animated appearance.

The voting was light at the opening of the polls and is not very active yet, at noon.

At 11 o'clock, Sheriff Belnap nabbed two illegal voters, armed with "Liberal" tickets, in the Fourth Ward, also one each from the First and the Fifth. They are said to be employed by the proprietor of the Novelty Theatre, who is reported to have quite a list. The two men were marched off to the county jail, where they now are.

The "Liberals" are working hard. Their special police take part in the work at the polls, while the fusionists' deputy sheriffs do not interfere. Illegal voting will be watched for closely.

The first two hours of the polling indicated that the "Liberals" were ahead in every ward, but later the fusionists came in more actively and began the work of filling up the gap. It seems a neck and neck race now.

At one o'clock a counter arrest followed that of Monroe's men, the victims in this case being Sheriff Belnap and brothers, his deputies, on charge of intimidation. But the most sensational event of the day was the arrest of Monroe himself on the charge of bribery. He was taken before Commissioner Wardleigh, where the saloon fraternity soon gave bonds for him. The hearing is set for Friday, at the same time the other cases will be heard. Half of the vote is polled at this hour. Unless a big influx of voters occurs soon, it will be very light for the whole day. There is more apathy than was looked for and the scratching seems to be nearly universal. A good deal of dissatisfaction is apparent.

At 2:30.—The best judgment obtainable shows that the parties are running along tolerably evenly, but it is freely circulated that Turner is running ahead of McNutt by several votes. It is claimed, with apparently good reason, that unless the "Liberals" come in toward the close with an avalanche of votes, they will be defeated on the whole ticket.

There is so much scratching and quiet voting, however, that it is impossible to tell. The Citizens' canvassers and checkers are much more cheerful than the others, and the election is claimed by at least 300.

Another arrest has been made of a "Liberal" for illegal voting.

Alleged Embezzlement.

Yesterday afternoon, at two o'clock, Deputy United States Marshal Bynon arrested, on a warrant, T. C. Aldridge, an insurance and building society agent, in his room in the Wasatch Building. The charge is preferred by B. F. Whittemore, of this city, who alleges that Aldridge has embezzled the sum of $230 which he had entrusted to his keeping for the purpose of procuring him a loan from a certain guaranty and loan association in Minneapolis.

The defendant, up to midday, was still in custody. He was to have been brought before Commissioner Pratt this morning, but that gentleman being engaged with another case, and it being somewhat uncertain when he could take the Aldridge matter, Mr. Armstrong, Aldridge's attorney, at 11 o'clock took steps with a view of bringing the defendant before another Commissioner. It was Mr. Armstrong's intention, if possible, to do this at some period of the afternoon, in order that bonds might be secured, if necessary, and the defendant released.

"I feel out of humor," remarked the funny man.

"That's the way you feel when you write your jokes, isn't it?" asked his friend.—Drake's Magazine.

JOY AND SORROW.

Unfortunate Termination to a Social Gathering in the First Ward.

The trial of David Gaisford on a charge of unlawfully stabbing Ephraim Madsen with a knife, with intent to do him grievous bodily harm, at a dance in the First Ward on February 5th, was fixed to take place before Commissioner Pratt at 10 o'clock this morning. At that hour all the witnesses were in attendance, but owing to the engagement of County Attorney Murphy and his assistant, Mr. Eichnor, elsewhere on public business, it was nearly 11:30 before the case was taken up.

Assistant County Attorney Eichnor conducted the prosecution, and Judge Burris appeared for the defense.

Quite a number of witnesses had been subpoenaed on either side. The complainant's version of the affair was to the effect that on the night of February 5th, he attended a dance at a small store building in the First Ward. Just before 1 o'clock next morning, at the close of the dance, the defendant went up to him and asked him to drive him home. Madsen replied that he could not do so, as his (Madsen's) wife was waiting there for him. Gaisford suggested that she might wait until his return; but Madsen would not hear of this. Gaisford, after some further conversation in the same strain, said, "Very well, then come outside; I want to talk to you." Madsen answered that he did not feel like going outside, to which the defendant rejoined, "You are scared, you s— of a b—," at the same time getting closer to Madsen, with his "arms in motion." Madsen quietly pushed him away, stepped back, and desired the floor manager to take Gaisford away.

He accordingly moved the defendant across the room and told him that he wanted no "racket" there. Madsen then motioned to his wife that he was ready to go home, but at that moment Gaisford again walked towards him, having his right hand in his hip pocket. Then drawing the hand slowly around his coat, he lifted it and struck Madsen on the arm, as he raised it in an attitude of self-defense, with the blade of a pocket knife, inflicting a terrible gash about an inch in length and extending to the bone. The knife fell to the floor. After standing perfectly still for about ten seconds and staring Madsen in the face, he stopped quickly, and on raising himself again hurried out of the door and disappeared. When the blade entered his arm Madsen called out, "I'm stabbed!"

In cross-examination by Judge Burris, the complainant denied having struck Gaisford at all, and said all he did was to push the defendant off. Defendant did not say to him, "You took me to town and got me 'full;' now you ought to take me home." He simply asked witness to drive him home, and he gave him his reason, as before stated, why he could not do so. It was the defendant, and not another man under the influence of liquor, who stabbed him. He had had no previous quarrel with Gaisford. Witness was not under the influence of drink, neither was the defendant, who "could stand up as well as anybody there, and was as smart as any of them."

One of the witnesses, named Evans, spoke to having heard Gaisford say something about shooting. He saw complainant struck by Gaisford, who was also hit on the head by Madsen. He, however, saw no knife, but heard something fall on the floor at the moment defendant struck Madsen. Some three minutes elapsed before he heard complainant say that he had been stabbed.

Louis Madsen, wife of the complainant, corroborated her husband's story in the main particulars. Both young men had been on quite friendly terms up to the time Gaisford asked her husband to drive him home.

Cross-examined, the witness said her husband struck Gaisford three times in attempting to ward off Gaisford's blows.

(Case proceeding.)

Police Court.

In the Police Court today the irrepressible and uncontrollable Fannie Griffiths was sentenced to thirty days' imprisonment for vagrancy. She accepted the sentence with a contemptuous curl of the lip and a sneer at the Judge that exhibited with unmistakable emphasis the reputation she has hitherto borne.

Richard Daily, W. J. Williams, Joseph Walker, Joseph Brown and Thomas Barber forfeited $5 for inebriety.

A double quartette of the demimonde were fined $25 each for prostitution.

Found Dead in Bed.

Thomas P. La Londe is a young man, probably not more than twenty-two years of age, but weighed 200 pounds. He was taken suddenly ill at his rooms, 204 S. Third East Street, and was found dead in bed at an early hour Saturday morning. The people with whom he lodged, becoming alarmed, sent for a number of physicians, most of whom arrived at the conclusion that the cause of death was fatty degeneration of the heart. Coroner Harris was present during the physicians' consultation, and questioned one of them as to whether it would be necessary to hold an inquest. He replied in the negative, there being no doubt as to the cause of the man's death.

It has since been rumored, however, that there are reports of foul play, but we understand there is no tangible foundation for them. The Coroner has decided to hold an inquest at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

The deceased was a single man, and was employed at the Fountain billiard rooms on Main Street.

Painfully Scalded.

On Saturday night Ethel Saville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Saville, of the Eighteenth Ward, met with a painful accident. An elder sister was carrying an open vessel containing water just about at the boiling point. The unfortunate girl accidentally struck against the vessel with her hand, and the contents were emptied upon one side of her face, inflicting a very severe scald, which extended from the left eye downward to the shoulder. The pain endured by the little one was for a time excruciating, but she bore it heroically. Patches of skin peeled off the neck, while over the balance of the injured part, large blisters formed. Everything possible to relieve the sufferer from her pain was at once attended to and she is progressing nicely.

A New Organ.

Yesterday was a "red letter" day in the musical history of the Twentieth Ward. Some of the generous residents of that Ward, recognizing the fact that the divine art is pre-eminently an element in the worship of God among the Latter-day Saints, subscribed the necessary funds to purchase a Vocalian organ, from Taggart & Chamberlain, the agents. The instrument with its ornate pipe front is quite an addition to the meeting house, in a decorative sense, and the residents have every reason to be pleased with the acquisition. The service held last evening was the occasion of the opening of the organ, at which Professor Joseph J. Daynes presided with his usual ability. His skillful manipulation of the two manuals, pedals and sixteen registers left nothing to be desired in evidencing the capabilities of producing delightful and melodious harmonies from the "king of instruments"—the pipe organ. The ward choir ably rendered the hymns and anthems, making, in all, a "jubilate" in the praise of God.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY.

An Ex-Lineman and Striker Fined $25 and Costs on the Above Charge.

Robert McAllister, an ex employe of the Salt Lake Power, Light & Heating Company was arraigned in the Police Court this morning on the charge of assault and battery. The complainant was Joseph Evans, a lineman in the employ of the same company. Labor troubles were the cause of the altercation.

On January 5 nearly all of the experienced linemen of the Salt Lake Power, Light & Heating Company went out on strike.

The cause was a reduction of wages from $3.50 to $3.00 per day. A reporter of the DESERET NEWS was informed by a representative of the company, this afternoon, that originally $3 per day was paid to the linemen. In August last, however, the company's business increased to that extent that they felt justified in raising the wages of their workmen fifty cents per day, with the understanding that there would be a reduction to the regular standard wage rate for such workmen when the rush of business was over.

This change of affairs seemed to afford satisfaction all round, but when the reduction came, on January 5th, it resulted in the oldest and most efficient workmen leaving the company's service. New linemen were employed immediately. Among them was Evans.

On Friday morning last he was accosted by McAllister, one of the strikers, in front of the Culmer Block, and requested to leave the company's service. Evans refused, stating that he could not afford to do so, as times were hard; also that his present situation suited him very well. It is alleged that McAllister then offered to pay all of Evans' expenses until he would be able to secure another job. This offer was also indignantly rejected by Evans, whereupon McAllister retorted with a volley of violent abuse. Among the many epithets and strictures applied to Evans was the old and favorite term with strikers: "You are a scab." With this provoking abuse Evans received also a blow in the face. Smarting under the treatment and no longer able to control his temper, Evans returned blow for blow. At this juncture the police appeared on the scene and arrested the combatants.

The affair culminated today before Justice Laney, who imposed a fine of $25 and costs upon the defendant.

Origin of the Indians.

The following from the St. Louis Globe-Democrat is corroborative of the Book of Mormon regarding the origin of the American Aborigines:

Early travelers among the Indians claim to have found rites and ceremonies strikingly similar to those of the Jews. George Catlin, the artist, who spent a considerable portion of his life among the tribes, and believed they had Jewish blood in their veins, although he could not go so far as to identify them with Israel's lost tribes. The Indians worshiped a Great Spirit or a Jehovah. Idolaters were never found on the North American Continent. The tribes had their council or medicine houses, which they held most sacred. They had their high priests and their prophets. They followed the Hebrew custom in not allowing the women to worship with the men. Fifty years ago the Sioux exploited the same belief that they are dancing themselves crazy about now. They maintained that the Indians were the chosen people of the Great Spirit and that in time they would triumph over the rest of the world through a Messiah.

In marriage the Indians had customs which savored of Palestine. They gave presents for their wives. In their bathing and in their family relations they followed with remarkable precision many of the requirements of the Mosaic law. They observed certain laws of purification which the Old Testament teaches. Fifty years ago travelers found no difficulty in discovering the practice of these rites and ceremonies by the Indians. But as the line of white settlement advanced the Indians gave up their old customs. Their forms were laughed at by white men, and many of them were abandoned. The ghost dance, which the Sioux have been scaring the frontier with, is the old sun dance under a new name. It used to be practiced very frequently as an atonement ceremony.

There was once an Indian feast which was very like the annual feast of the Passover. Some of the tribes kept a feast with branches of willow and preliminary fasting which bore striking resemblance to the Feast of Tabernacles. The practice of offering to the Great Spirit the first green corn, and the first fruits of all kinds was almost universal among the Indians before they became contaminated with white men.

DIED FROM HIS INJURIES.

Young Leviege Passed Away at St. Mark's Hospital This Morning.

A young man named Leviege, while driving a transfer for Grant Bros., on Friday night, ran against a telephone post. By the shock he was thrown to the ground, alighting on his head. He was carried into an adjoining house in an unconscious condition. Dr. Wilcox was sent for. After examining the unfortunate young man, he stated that he had sustained a severe fracture of the skull, and that the injury was necessarily fatal. The patient was removed to St. Mark's Hospital. He never regained consciousness, but expired from the effects of the injury at 7 o'clock this morning—just sixty hours after the accident.

Young Leviege had only been in this city a few months, having come from Des Moines, Iowa. Mr. Grant telegraphed to his former employer at that place, making inquiries as to whether the deceased had any relatives. An answer was received stating that he had a sister in Hartford, Conn., and that she had been telegraphed to. The body is held at present, awaiting instructions from his relatives.

SHOCKING ACCIDENT.

Two Boys Run Over and Seriously Mangled by an Electric Car.

A catastrophe of a most distressing character occurred about twelve o'clock today at the corner of First West and First South streets. Two brothers, Walter aged six and Teddie aged three and a half years, sons of O. E. Friedrichsen, who resides in Whitmore's Row, near the locality mentioned, were crossing the street hand in hand, the elder one looking backward at an approaching team apparently anxious for the safety of his little brother, and oblivious to the fact that an electric car was coming towards them from another direction. The motor-man on the car either failed to notice the approach of the boys or miscalculated the time it would take them to reach the track and failed to provide against a collision until it was too late. To the surprise of the little boys and the unspeakable horror of several spectators the two boys were struck by the car just as they commenced to cross the track, and before the car could be stopped it had run over them both and dragged the smaller one a distance of nineteen feet. Then the little fellow who was lying on his back with the point of the pilot, or V shaped guard, at the rear end of the car resting upon his face, was extricated, all mangled and bleeding, from his painful position and tenderly carried by the motorman to his parents' residence near by. The elder boy who, after the car passed over him, sprang to his feet and ran, had already reached the house and startled his mother by crying out that Teddie was killed. It proved to be not so bad as that, but bad enough, for the little fellow had his face cut and bruised in various places and the scalp torn from the back of his head, to say nothing of the possibility of the skull being fractured or internal injuries being inflicted, the extent of which are as yet unknown. The frightened mother dispatched the elder boy to a drug store half a block distant to summon a doctor, and it was not until he had returned from his errand that he made any complaint about his own injuries. Then one of the bystanders, noticing that he was in pain, removed the shoe from his right foot and found that the car wheel had evidently passed over it and broken the great toe and cut the ends of the next two toes off. He was also bruised somewhat about the legs. Dr. Benedict was soon in attendance and made the boys as comfortable as possible, but beyond expressing the opinion that no bones were broken other than the toe of the larger boy, gave no assurance as to the result of their injuries. The Friedrichsen family are new arrivals in the city, having lately come here from Nebraska. The father is employed in Lockwitz' grocery on First South Street. The affair was witnessed by Frank M. Brown of 544 S. Third West Street, and H. Lord of 240 W. Third South Street. The number of the car which ran over the boys was 27 and the motorman is said to be named Knappen.

New Organ for the Twentieth Ward Choir.

A few enterprising members of the Twentieth Ward have presented the choir with a fine Vocalion Organ, which is truly a magnificent instrument, and the people of the ward feel justly proud of it. It was purchased from Taggart & Chamberlain, our well known music dealers, who have the exclusive agency of the "Vocalion" for Utah Territory. Professor J. J. Daynes made the selection personally, which speaks volumes for its merits. Invitations have been issued to see and hear the Vocalion on Sunday evening, and those who were fortunate enough to have received one will doubtless avail themselves of the opportunity. d11
