A Trip Through Cache.

As my tour through Cache Valley brief account of my journey.

unmentioned beauties. On my ar- us room that we may dwell," etc. rival I found that a priesthood meeting was in session in their beautiful New Tabernacle, and the energetic presidency engaged in making all necessary arrangements for continuing their labors on the Temple in a vigorous manner. They have a great many stones cut, also mortar prepared, so that there will be nothing to retard the work as soon as spring appears.

At Smithfield I found not only a friendly and hospitable, but also an industrious and energetic people. They have all necessary materila on hand for building a new schoolhouse, and have a tannery and shoe shop in good running order.

Richmond is a flourishing town of about 150 families, with three stores in a prosperous condition. I got a very good subscription list for the News and passed on to Franklin, where I met I. B. Nash, an old friend of ours, who is now doing a good work, as a Sunday school superintendent. The new wool factory here is ready for running and no doubt will do a good work.

At Oxford I met Judge Crawford, who treated me very kindly; after attending to all necessary business here, I started south, on the west side of Bear River. Through this part of the country the snow is about ten inches deep, feed very scarce and a great many stock are dying.

I next found myself in a town by the name of Clarkston where the dramatic association was playing the very interesting drama of "Ernest Maltravers," and a laughable farce. The people not only encourage them by their talk but by their patronage, the presidency also, who see that nothing is done contrary to the instructions of the presidency of this Church.

After attending meeting, I left for Newton, where I had the pleasure of seeing Bishop Rigby's extensive nursery. I continued my journey south with the aid of a good horse, and soon found myself talking with Brother Preston in Logan, who welcomed me on my return and desired me to visit the settlements in the south and hold meetings, which I did; but before my labors were completed in the south, I received an invitation from Brother Preston to attend a meeting of two days at Logan, which I accepted with pleasure. The meeting was very interesting; the part which struck me most forcibly was an account read by the secretary of what each ward had done in the shape of temple and fast donations. In one small ward, a five cent donation was taken for the children, which amounted to $80. Though when I came to meeting I was quite snow-blind, after hearing Brother M. Thatcher speak my eyes were all right and have been well ever since. This meeting gave me a good opportunity to speak about the NEWS. I will close by saying that Cache Valley is "boom-

BEAR RIVER CITY, March 26, 1880.

Editors Deseret News: We have a flourishing Sabbath School of 100 members; many of our elder brethren and sisters attend punctually. The superintendent, N. P. Andersen, is very energetic in promoting the progress of the school. We have made considerable progress in our singing, considering that our young brethren and sisters have all been reared in the Danish language. Brother Andersen attends every singing practice punctually; this gives Brother Powell valuable assistance and encouragement to persevere in instructing the young brethren and sisters in singing the songs of Zion. We have a Young Men's and Young Ladies' Mutual Improvement Association, a Relief Society and Primary Association. We need couragement and advice suitable for the occasion, One great drawback to the pros-

song books adapted to the abilities of the little ones. Our Bishop

If our Legislative Assembly would open the way for assistance to this people towards cutting a canal to bring the Bear River waters out, thousands of acres which are now worthless would soon become very valuable. The last dry season ruined all the is very near completed, I will give a crops; still the people feel to trust in our Heavenly Father, looking for Logan is the metropolis of the the better day that is coming in the north, and though you have spoken near future.
