of Monaco, remaining there four years. This was followed by seven years as pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Indianapolis, of which ex-President Harrison was a member. In 1887 Mr. Reed became pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Denver, the wealthiest church in the city. Here he remained for eleven years, winning a national reputation by the eloquence of his utterances.

After his resignation from this pulpit the Brooklyn Tabernacle association was organized for him, and from the day of his first sermon there, it was evident that he was taken with his total power six weeks ago, the capacity of the Broadway Tabernacle, the largest in the city, has been taxed by his sermons, some nearly every Sunday morning. Mr. Reed's sermons embrace current events and all walks of life.

Mr. Reed has always been prominent in the politics of the state. In 1888 he was nominated for Congress by the Democrats, and though the normal Republican majority was from 4,000 to 5,000, he was defeated by only 800. In 1892 Mr. Reed responded to the call of the People's party and was again tendered a nomination for Congress. He declined, however, and Lafe Pence, the other nominee, was then given, was elected by a large majority.

Mr. Reed leaves a widow, two sons and a daughter. The oldest son, Paul Jr., is a civil engineer residing in Antwerp, Belgium. The second, Robert W., is an attorney in this city. The daughter, Mrs. Louise G. Carter, resides here.

STOCK EXCHANGE OPENING

Salt Lake's New Institution Now Ready for Business.

Stirring Music, Patriotic Speeches, etc., Mark the Formal Opening This Afternoon.

The doors of the Utah Mine and Stock Exchange were formally thrown open to the public at 1:30 this afternoon amid great pomp and enthusiasm. On the outside the R. W. P. band, hired especially for the occasion, discoursed stirring strains of music, this tending to draw a crowd of great proportions—so great in fact as to fill the hall to a rather uncomfortable extent. The audience contained a good sprinkling of ladies—most of them, found seats on the inside of the pit, and it included now, members of the Salt Lake Stock and Mining Exchange, as well as a number of distinguished citizens who had come on special invitation.

The new exchange is located above the Block Square house, just east of the Clifton hotel and in the building once occupied as the Epworth and Westland theater. The room is large and airy and is appointed so as to make things very convenient and agreeable for those who will meet there from day to day to gamble in mining and other securities. On the walls are the blackboards for listed and unlisted stocks, while in the center of the pit is the caller's rostrum, being a raised platform reached by an iron railing. On the right is an elevated stand for the press, while the tables in vogue are furnished with chairs and benches for the convenience of those who may gather to look on at proceedings.

It was 2:45 when the R. W. P. band filed into the hall and formed a crescent up a number of patriotic airs. Then President W. F. Noble rounded the rostrum and introduced to the audience Judge E. F. Colborn, "a man who perhaps knows more concerning the mining interests of Utah than any other individual."

JUDGE COLBORN SPEAKS.

Judge Colborn began by referring to his residence in Utah, which, said he, had enabled him to witness the coining of no less than three mining booms, viz: Clarkson. He referred to glowing terms the effect of the Ontario on Utah and the upwards of $20,000,000 in dividends out of the storehouse of those, was the great result of Ontario. The mining boom of Leadville, he said, exceeding that of any other silver mine in the world, to E. Wheeler, who, said the speaker, was responsible for a steady stream of dividends," and to Judge Colburn, "Thy have done much to make the world richer, and will continue and do even more, as the State's resources are opened up and developed."

Referring to the new exchange, Judge Colborn explained that it was simply an outlet for institutions established by the great number of citizens desirous of dealing in mining stocks. He could see every reason for the existence and he believed, judging from the success of the Ontario, that it would flourish and succeed, and that the members as well as the city and State, would realize from it great benefits.

JUDGE GOODWIN'S SPEECH.

After another selection by the band, Judge C. C. Goodwin was introduced as the next speaker. He said he had been asked over to talk to the people present that the only way to make money in stocks was to buy low and sell high. Money, said the judge, was the only legitimate industry in the State. It gets money into the pockets of those engaged in it. Capital is the great necessity of that great essential so necessary to all the affairs of life. It was an industry benefiting the rich and the poor alike, and made the rich better and richer and more prosperous.

The speaker then described those present to look out for "sell-outs." That was the only risk connected with mining stocks. Beware of the "sell-outs" of the town, said the Judge, who thinks stock at 4 cents, they can sell it and forty at 50 at the same time. Remember that there is not that much money in the world to buy all the stock.

Judge Goodwin said he was not a prophet, nor the son of one, but he was a good enough one to predict that if the stocks were listed on the exchange they would live long enough to see the remunerative value of silver, and the mining and smelting industry of Utah. Judge Goodwin promised to hear of the Ontario, Daly-West and others investing his actions yet, and he believed that time was at hand when all the resources of the State would be full of life and activity. He was pleased to see the people in buying and selling stocks, and believed it was a good purchase to make, for it was that kind of investment.

Hon. E. A. Bernheisel was next called upon for a few words. He responded, although said he, he knew he was not at his best. He knew he was tired and was very tired. He had invested his whole life in Utah, and he had found that there was money in it. Money, he thought and said at the same time, he knew, was invested in the mines, but he knew that there was money in them. He bought and sold at the same time. Mr. Bernheisel knew that there was money in the mines of Utah. They had demonstrated this fact in the past, and would continue to do so in the future. A generous era had set in for Utah, followed by a spirit of enterprise. He congratulated the people on the spirit of liberality and enterprise in establishing an institution of this kind.

EVERY DAY LADIES' DAY.

President Noble announced that every day was ladies' day in the new exchange, and after Dr. Hurd had taken a photograph of the assemblage, the band played "A Hot Time in Utah" and the new exchange was declared to be formally open. The call for commencement at 2:30 sharp.

ENTERED BY THIEVES.

Temple Barber Shop the Scene of Another Burglary.

The Temple barber shop, on west South Temple street, was entered by burglars again last night, which makes the fifth time in three years and about the twentieth time since the place was built by Goddard & Jones in 1887. Only recently Proprietor Walter Sudsby secured the services of a the strongest marauders, by barricading every door with heavy iron bars, nailing down the windows, and placing a steel door behind frosted burglar proof locks, as well as the doors. Those schemes failed to work, however, for the burglars broke in at 1 and 2 o'clock last night entrance was obtained through the back door built up from the alley and about $20 worth of goods stolen. An inventory of the stock was taken today and the following articles were found to be missing: Four sand strainers, five bars of shaving soap, three razor strops, four bath brushes, one bottle of "world renowned" hair restorer, six bottles of lime juice and glycerine, four packs of Bicycle playing cards, six combs, two shaving mugs and one nickel-plated handle lather brush. Strange to say the combs, clippers and scissors were not touched and the reason of this is accounted for from the fact that Sudsby, who knows the burglars, knew where they were kept. This was the explanation given by Ben Walker, a barber employed, who gained the idea advanced by Detective Sheets and others, that the burglary was the work of a boy, for said he "boys would not be in and take the stuff at night, and besides what's our carbon lamp for?"

An examination of the premises disclosed a small pane of glass in the back door out out and the lock sometimes late off. The hole in the door panel was large enough to admit of a good stand hand, by which the lock had been raised. The partition door lock was also broken off, and in the shop it was found that a hole had been cut through the bottom of the cash drawer. There was nothing in the cash drawer, however, which was taken. The window case was ransacked and this morning two boys were arrested by Officer Ward after having been struck by a cyclone. The police have been notified and 2 number of arrests may follow.

RAILWAYS ARE IN THE STORM.

Blizzard on the Plains Catching Them All.

MAY CAUSE SOME DELAYS.

Railway officials and employes view with a degree of apprehension the progress of the terrific blizzard that is sweeping northward across the plains, and already has plowed the Rocky Mountains along the Union Pacific track in Wyoming, where a fierce storm and a sixty-mile-an-hour hurricane is getting in its work and may delay every train of stage and cattle, and give the railroads much trouble in keeping trains anywhere near schedule time. All the lines from the Missouri valley westward are now in the grip of the winter of the Dismal, but the initial point of the cold, 36 degrees below zero at Battleford, Minnesota, seems to have been modified in the westward rush of the storm, and possibly the lines in Montana may escape the force of wind and snowfall, so that the tail end will not be a serious block to railway traffic in the eastern slope Utah's eastern lines. The local weather bureau predicts colder weather, but will not hazard a guess as to the anticipation that in the valleys the cold snap will not be serious. In the meantime the railway boys at this season are in a spirit to confide with their co-workers in Kansas, Nebraska, Wyoming, Colorado and the north Mississippi valley States.

The decision of the Idaho supreme court in the case of Mat Patrie vs the Oregon Short Line, in which the railroad is to purchase a canal it crossed by railways, Mr. Patrie, who is secretary of state for Idaho, had several horses killed by a Short Line train, on the track where it passes through his land, and he brought the action to recover the amount claimed, and the court holds that the company is liable for the loss of the horses. Mr. Patrie's land was not under fence and should have constructed a sufficient fence on either side of such fence, to keep the animals off the track. The Idaho law requires railway companies to fence their tracks.

The Mining Reporter of Denver has the following: The Mining Reporter is informed that an agreement has been made between the Denver, Rio Grande and Salt Lake with General Dodge, of the Rio Grande Western railroad with a view to the joint ownership of a line to serve a line for a railroad from Green River Crossing to the gilsonite fields in northeastern Utah. The next step is a Grand Junction serviceable house for material, a large number of camp stations in the same point, all of which indicate that there is business going on in the Utah field. It is also stated that construction will be pushed as rapidly as possible, so as to enable the gilsonite people to get their product, for which there is a constantly growing demand.

The new fast train on the Chicago and Northwestern made its first run yesterday covers nineteen miles. All the conditions of the weather were against fast time and the results of the performance were wonderful. A representative of a local road said the morning that the new train was a great success. The train, known as No. 1, which has been leaving at 4:30 p. m., will leave at 4:00 p. m. after the 1st of February, and will arrive at 7:45 a. m., instead of 8:15 a. m. TUMOR EXPELLED.

Unqualified Success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

MRS. ELIZABETH WHITLOCK, Maytoe, Ia. Iowa, in the following letter describes her recovery from a very critical condition:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been taking your Vegetable Compound, and am now ready to send you testimony. It has done wonders for me in relieving me of a tumor.

"My health has been poor for three years. Change of life was working upon me. I was very much troubled and was a burden to myself. Was troubled with smothering spells, also palpitation of the heart and that bearing-down feeling, and could not be on my feet much. I was gone up worse all the time, until I took your medicine.

"After taking three boxes of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Lozenges, the tumor passed from me.

"My health has been better ever since, can now walk quite a distance and am troubled no more with palpitation of the heart or bloating. I recommend your medicine to all sufferers from female troubles."

It is hardly reasonable to suppose that any one can doubt the efficacy of Mrs. Pinkham's methods and medicine in the face of the tremendous volume of testimony.

HELLO! HELLO! HELLO!

This—? That's right, I want—.

I want a can of U. S. baking powder. Why? Because I had. Last time I bought the grocer made a mistake and gave me another brand. Wouldn't stand it at all. Wouldn't use it so well. Really didn't like it because the food didn't taste right and they all became ill. Specifies, Dear Mr. Grocer, I want the deposed grain it's being right. We love better health from using it and greater satisfaction in our food.
