THE ubiquitous laugher continues to ply his trade with a vigor characteristic of the fraternity to which he belongs. Last night a brace of hard looking characters attempted to effect an entrance to the residence of Spencer Clawson. Their movements aroused the servant girl, who gave an alarm of their presence. They immediately took to the hills and disappeared in the darkness.

Husband and Wife.

Before Judge Zane yesterday afternoon the case of Mary H. Allsop vs. Thomas Allsop came up. The plaintiff alleges that in August, 1888, she was the owner of certain real estate near Sandy, which was worth $2500; that on August 4, 1888, and for a long time prior, the defendant had been trying to induce her to quit claim the land to him by making promises of support for herself and children; that relying upon such promises she executed such a deed, but it was not until some time afterwards that she discovered that she had parted absolutely with all her interest in the land, and had not secured any benefit or equivalent whatever for so doing. She asked to have the deed declared fraudulent and void, and that it be set aside. The defendant denied being guilty of any fraud in obtaining possession of the property, and after hearing the testimony, Judge Zane took the matter under advisement.

Mr. Burgess Going to Omaha.

The many friends of Mr. Burgess, late manager of the Walker Opera House in this city, will regret to learn that he will, within a short time, leave Salt Lake and take up his residence in Omaha. He has concluded to accept of an offer of the management of a leading theatre in that city. As a preparatory step to his departure Mr. Burgess has withdrawn from the bill posting business in which he was associated with Anderson Brothers, and has also sold out his railroad advertising agency. These two enterprises are now combined in one, under the title of the Western Bill Posting Company (Incorporated), with branch offices at Ogden, Provo, Park City and Logan. The officers are, R. L. Anderson, president; S. W. Anderson, manager, and J. C. Burgess, secretary. These are well known and respected business men.

Mr. Burgess has, during his stay, made a host of friends, being uniformly courteous and strictly honorable in his business dealings. It is safe to predict that in the new position he will shortly assume in Omaha, he will give ample satisfaction to those who have secured his services.

THE SCALES OF JUSTICE.

Youthful Offenders Present Themselves Before Judge Anderson.

A REFORM SCHOOL CANDIDATE.

An Appeal for Mercy not in Vain.—Alleged Attempted Murder, etc.

Judge Anderson held court for an hour and a quarter this morning and dealt with the several cases reported below.

ALL THROUGH A STOLEN REVOLVER.

Louis Brown, a 17-year-old boy, who yesterday pled guilty to stealing a revolver, was brought up to receive judgment.

Mr. Lochrie, attorney, addressed the court on the lad's behalf. He said that Brown was originally indicted with a young man named Bray for burglary and petit larceny, and the theft of a couple of revolvers. The latter pled guilty and was sent to the penitentiary. An investigation of Brown's case subsequently by the prosecuting attorney satisfied that gentleman of the defendant's innocence so far as concerned the burglary, and he (Mr. Lochrie) was then appointed by the Court to represent him. It was agreed to continue the case to the grand jury, who then indicted Brown for petit larceny, in that he received one of the pistols from Bray a short time after the burglary had been committed. Afterwards learning, however, that the revolver had been stolen, he threw it underneath a stairway at the restaurant at which he was employed. When arrested he told the truth, and directed the officer where to look for the weapon. Counsel further said he had been in correspondence with the defendant's brother-in-law, who resided in New York, and was a clerk in the service of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. His letters entirely confirmed the story which the defendant had told him (Mr. Lochrie) as to his past life. Brown was evidently a boy of misfortune, having lost both father and mother when quite young. He was thrown, consequently, upon his resources from an orphan asylum, and his own resources, but nothing had been known against him till this time. The worst that could be said of him now was that, having a suspicion that the pistol did not come honestly into Bray's possession, he should have given information to the police at once instead of taking the weapon away. Defendant had already been in prison five months on the present charge, awaiting a hearing, and he hoped the Court would consider this. His brother-in-law was making efforts to have him sent to New York as soon as he got out of the present difficulty, so that in future there was every reason for believing that he would lead an honest life. Mr. Lochrie suggested that, under all the circumstances, the ends of justice would be met by His Honor suspending sentence.

Answering the Judge, the defendant said that he was quite ignorant of the revolver having been stolen when given to him by Bray. He did not "think about" handing it over to the police.

Mr. Stephens, Assistant United States District Attorney, said he believed that what Mr. Lochrie had stated was substantially correct. The prosecution had no desire to have him sent to the penitentiary.

Judge Anderson told the defendant that, in view of all the circumstances, he would suspend sentence for six months, and if during that period he conducted himself properly, the Court would take such further action as was thought best.

Brown was released from custody, and seemed very grateful for the clemency shown him. He is by no means a youth of the criminal type.

A PENCHANT FOR ROAST DUCK.

William Smith, 18, next came up for sentence, having plead guilty to burglary. This is the youth who forcibly entered the Elevator restaurant and stole two meat ducks (valued at 75 cents), in the act of devouring which he was caught by a police-officer.

In reply to the Court the defendant said his parents were dead. This was the first time he had been in trouble.

Judge Anderson remarked upon the fact that crimes of the nature of that with which Smith stood charged had become too common in this city of late, the offenders being chiefly between sixteen and twenty years of age.

Mr. Stephens, prosecuting attorney, said it seemed to him that the defendant was a proper subject for the Reform School. He pointed out that the least term of imprisonment allowed by law would be one year in the penitentiary.

Judge Anderson, after giving the defendant some sound advice as to his future, ordered him to be sent to the Reform School.

DO YOU THINK ABOUT IT.

John H. Kaly, alias J. H. Jackil, was arraigned on an indictment found by the grand jury at the February term charging him with shooting at Ephraim Mullener, of Tooele County, on January 28, 1891, with intent to murder. The defendant, acting on the advice of his attorney, took until tomorrow afternoon to plead.

ALLEGED THEFT OF A HORSE.

John Don Fisher, about 24 years of age, pleaded not guilty to an indictment for grand larceny. The offense alleged against him is the theft of a black horse of the value of $50, saddle and bridle, the property of J. A. Foote. The Court appointed Mr. S. S. Markham to defend the accused.

THREE STAND OVER.

The case of James Watson vs. W. B. McKenzie was continued till May 1st, owing to the absence of some of the parties in the suit.

James W. Hardy vs. E. Mabary. This matter was also continued till May 1st.

Samuel Cross vs. D. Hirschler et al. Motion by defendants for security of costs. Order was made requiring plaintiff to give a bond for costs in the sum of $100; stay of proceedings allowed.

Court then adjourned (at 11:15) until tomorrow morning.

THE PRESIDENT'S VISIT.

The Citizens' Committee Meet to Talk Matters Over.

A meeting of the citizens' committee appointed to carry out the arrangements for the reception and entertainment of President Harrison and party, on the occasion of their approaching visit, took place last night at the Chamber of Commerce building. Governor Thomas was elected chairman and Mr. M. K. Parsons secretary.

The Governor remarked that when the question of inviting the President to visit Salt Lake was first considered it was decided to extend the invitation in some unique design; and accordingly it was thought Utonian the invitation should be in the form of a silver salver having engraved on it a map of Utah, showing the cities, counties, lakes, mountains, etc. The salver will be 8x10 inches in size, and where the northeast corner of Utah is taken out by Wyoming will be the invitation, together with the names of the twenty-nine members of the citizens' committee. The Utah silver for this unique design was generously furnished by R. C. Chambers, superintendent of the Ontario mine, and has already been sent to the New York engraver, where the work is now being done.

It was resolved to appoint a committee of five, who will act in conjunction with the committee of five from the City Council and five more to be appointed by Governor Thomas from various portions of the Territory, to act as a committee of escort to meet the Presidential party at the Territorial line.

A finance committee was appointed, as was also one on publicity, upon whose business will be to arrange for a public reception to be given by the President, a march and some child provided with a flag, and a bouquet to throw into the President's carriage.

The details of the procession have not yet been decided upon. The matter will be left in the hands of the City Council.

The distinguished party will arrive in this city on Saturday morning, May 9th, at 4 o'clock.

PROTECTION AGAINST FIRE.

Recommendations of Chief Stanton on That Subject.

Chief Stanton, of the Fire Department, presented the following recommendations to the City Council on Tuesday night and asked that they be embodied in the fire ordinance without delay:

SMOKE HOUSES.

All smoke houses shall be built of stone or brick, and the doors and roofs of same shall be constructed of some non-combustible material.

ASHES.

It shall be unlawful for any person or persons to deposit any ashes, or cause the same to be deposited or placed, or permit or suffer the same to be or remain in any wooden vessel, or in any place or premises belonging to or occupied by him or her or others, or any metal vessel, within two inches of any woodwork or structure. Penalty, a fine not less than $500.

SHAVINGS, HAY, STRAW AND LITTER.

Each person making, using or having the control of shavings, hay, straw, bags, litter or any other combustible waste of the character of the dust of each day, cause the same to be disposed of so as to be safe from fire.

TO SECURE BUILDINGS.

Whenever any occupied building or buildings are not properly secured, the fire inspector shall immediately visit the premises and notify the owner or owners, agent or agents, or the persons having control of the same, of the condition of such unoccupied building or buildings, and to have it or them, within twenty-four hours, properly secured so as to prevent evil disposed persons from gaining access thereto. Penalty, a fine not less than $500.

PORTABLE LIGHTS AND PROTECTION OF COMBUSTIBLE MATERIAL.

No person shall use any portable light in any building or place where combustible materials are kept, unless such light be securely enclosed in a lantern, and no person shall use a light in any place where combustible materials are shall be suspended above it, without so protecting it as to prevent such materials from falling upon or coming in contact with it.

STEAM AND SMOKE PIPES.

No steam pipe shall be placed closer to wood than three inches; if said space is objectionable, it shall be protected by a sheathing of other earthen ring or tube. No smoke pipe, in any building with wooden or combustible floors or ceilings, shall enter any flue, unless the said pipe shall be at least three inches from said floors or ceilings; and in all cases where smoke pipes pass through wooden partitions of any kind, whether the same be plastered or not, they shall be guarded by either a double collar of metal with at least four inches air space and holes for ventilation, or by a soapstone ring not less than three inches in thickness and extending through the partition, or by a solid casting of plaster of Paris three inches thick, or by an earthenware ring three inch as from the pipe.

The matter was referred to the committee on fire department who, it is expected, will recommend the adoption of Chief Stanton's suggestions.

Russia will consider as an act of war any interference by Italy with the Russian expedition to Abyssinia. Russia regards the Emperor Menelik as an independent sovereign of an independent nation, and will tolerate no obstruction in dealing directly with him. The expedition is under the command of Lieut. Maschief and will remain three years in the country and make an attempt to reach the great lakes from a direction not yet attempted by Europeans. It is this part of the programme that excites English jealousy.

"DON'T SHOOT ME!"

A Daring Robbery Committed in a Saloon Last Night.

THE PERPETRATORS IN CUSTODY.

A Smooth Talking Fellow Steals a Hat and Makes Good His Escape.

Patrick Mehan and William Ranson, of Kansas City, arrived in Salt Lake about a week or ten days ago. Both men seemed to have considerable money, and after looking about for several days decided to locate here. Yesterday they purchased return tickets to their homes, over the "cronie route," with the intention of boarding the 10:35 train at the Rio Grande Western depot last night.

They arrived at the depot about 8:30, and were informed by the ticket agent that the train was forty-five minutes late. After checking their baggage, Reardon took out a ten days' accident policy, while Mehan leisurely sauntered up and down the platform whistling "Annie Rooney." A bunco sharper was in the neighborhood looking for victims and glanced with covetous eyes at Mehan's watch and chain.

The confidence man determined to make Mehan's acquaintance and stepping in front of him, inquired which way he was traveling. "My destination is Kansas City, sir," was Mehan's reply. "I also am going East," said the confidence man. The conversation was continued for some time when the confidence man asked Mehan to step across the street and take a cigar with him pending the arrival of the train. Mehan assented and they entered Hegney's saloon together. They had been there into a few minutes when a confederate of the confidence man proposed to treat the crowd to drinks. A colloquy ensued between the two sharpers, both claiming the right to pay for the liquor. Finally it was agreed to settle the dispute by shaking dice, and Mehan was requested to act as referee. He refused to do so, and the bartender was then called up on to decide the matter. The drinks were then served at the expense of confidence man No. 1. Subsequently Mehan was called upon to treat. He had no small change in his pocket and demurred, but not wishing to appear miserly he finally agreed to do so, and took four $100 bills from his pocket, at the same time endeavoring to screen them from the view of the curious crowd. Instantly there was a concerted movement on the part of what now proved to be a gang of thieves. Before Mehan, Hegney and Ranson were finally pushed behind his back and the money wrenched from his hands. He made a desperate resistance, but numbers were against him. Two of the robbers rushed into the street and made good their escape. As soon as Mehan regained his liberty, he drew a revolver from his pocket, and pointed it at a third party, who was also an accomplice in the robbery. The fellow threw up his hands, saying, "Don't shoot me! Don't shoot me. I am your friend. I had held up you, but it was only to drag you away from the villains who were fleeing from you." In proof of them when you halted me." Upon this showing, Mehan allowed the fellow to depart. The officers arrived on the scene immediately afterward and in company with Mr. Mehan commenced a raid upon the gambling dives and tenderloin joints of the city with a view to capturing the robbers. Shortly after midnight they discovered their men in the White House bar-room, playing billiards. The two who first approached Mehan early in the evening were arrested, while the third man, who so plausibly invented an excuse by which he escaped being shot by Mehan after the robbery, sneaked through the rear of the saloon. The couple who were captured were taken to the City Hall, where they strongly maintained their innocence. On being searched, however, a $100 bill was found in the hat lining of a new Derby belonging to one of them. In the pockets of the other man $70 was discovered. They were locked up for the night and arraigned before Justice Lamy today, and in default of $2000 bonds each were remanded to jail pending an investigation. At police headquarters they gave their names as F. F. Holland and J. J. White.

A SLICK HAT THIEF.

A couple of prospective purchasers of silk hats walked into the store of Noble, Wood & Co., on East Temple Street, last night. One of them appeared very particular, and while Mr. Wood was hunting for the size and kind wanted, his mate of the felicitous tongue picked up a hat from the counter and walked out. Mr. Wood, whose back was turned at the time, failed to notice the theft. Departing in the same time the fellow escaped with the headgear. Mr. Wood had the other man until the police arrived and placed him under arrest. He disclaimed all knowledge of the affair and said that the thief was an entire stranger to him. He gave his name as Lawrence. His true name, however, is Burton. He deposited $25 to secure his attendance in court today. It was found that no evidence existed against him, and his security was refunded.

ALLEN SENTENCED.

John Adler alias George Murray, alias a directory of titles, who was arrested on the charge of abstracting a sack of silver from the office of Boggs & Company a week ago, was sentenced by Justice Lamy to pay a fine of $200 and costs and serve a term of three months' imprisonment. The defendant claimed that it was a trumped up charge and that he was purely a victim of circumstances. S. H. Lewis, attorney for the defendant, gave notice of an appeal.

"THE TROMBONE."

The NEWS must obediently submit to the superior knowledge and judgment of the "Trombone" in matters pertaining to the gutter, the alley way, and the dark dens of Commercial Street. In the case of Nellie Green, it is possible the NEWS was misled; but not so with the "Trombone." Nellie's clientelage comes from the readers and editors of that classic record, and it is an authority on "nigger" depravity as well as a fair and pedestrian nomenclature.

PROVO.

The following cases were disposed of in the Provo division before Judge Blackburn:

Charles Pulster vs. James Chipman et al., a case in which the plaintiff sues for two acres of land in dispute on the shore of Utah Lake, claimed also by defendant, who now hold possession and uses it for a bathing resort. The dispute arose from the meandering of the water making the boundary lines uncertain. It is now on trial.

In the case of Jungh & Fadian vs. E. Wilkinson, the jury could not agree upon a verdict and were discharged. Nine were for the defendants and three for the plaintiffs.

In a action for a mechanic's lien by Fell & Olson to replevin the fixtures of the Enterprise restaurant, which are under attachment of creditors. The former held a bill of sale of the goods, which was given them in consideration of the release of a mortgage and other considerations.

The grand jury came into court and reported three indictments, the following being ignored: People vs. James Cheney, People vs. James Harrington, People vs. G. C. Tolman.

Young Men's Musical Contest.

An interesting musical event will take place in the Tabernacle on the evening of the first Monday in June, under the auspices of the "Young Men's Mutual Improvement Associations." It will consist of a singing contest. To the best chorus of twenty-five male voices, all members of one association, will be given a prize of the handsome sum of $200, to the best sixteen Boys, to the best eight girls, and to the best quartette $100. The best duet will receive $25 and the best single baritone, or tenor, $15, with $10 for the second; the best tenor $15, with $10 for the second. There is a fair chance, in all, for sixty young men to win a prize as a share. The contest will be all the more interesting and beneficial in this respect it will probably bring to light new talent and be the means of inducing those with good voices to cultivate them. The prizes, all of which amount in the aggregate to $2000, are offered by the "Contributor" Company, and most of the pieces to be sung are published in that excellent magazine. The object in view is to encourage our young men to organize singing clubs in every association.

We understand that a number of such clubs, both in this city and the counties north and south of us, have been hard at work for some time, and doubtless the results of the contest will be most gratifying.

Amusements.

"The Governess" was presented last night at the Salt Lake Theatre to a large audience. Effie Ellsler appeared in the leading role and realized all that has been said of her, in the emotional line. The place affords special opportunities for displaying the pathetic, and Miss Ellsler secured a certain call in appreciation of one of her emotional outbursts. The plot of the play, however, is not altogether perspicuously connected, though everything becomes clear enough towards the finish. Frank Weston and John Ellsler played their parts to perfection. The child Rose was a marvel. The remainder of the cast was far above the average.

Tonight Miss Ellsler will appear as "Miss Manning," a character the direct opposite of "The Governess."

J. S. Lindsay and his company hold the boards at the Salt Lake Theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday next, in "Ingomar" and "Damon and Pythias." Mr. Lindsay will be supported by his three daughters, who have been on an extensive tour with him for the last eighteen months.

On Friday and Saturday evenings and Saturday matinee "The Little Tycoon" will be given. The Pittsburgh Dispatch says of it: "A large and cultured audience greeted this company at the Opera House last evening, to witness the rendition of this popular opera. Mr. Willard Spenser, the author, conducted the orchestra and directed the opera in its presentation. The appearance of this company was looked upon as one of unusual pleasure and interest by the music-loving people of this city, as the seating capacity of the Opera House was filled at an unusually early hour, while standing room was eagerly sought for.

At "Wonderland" tomorrow will be souvenir day. An artistically wrought bouquet of wax made flowers will be presented to every lady visitor.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—U. S. Gov't Report, Aug 4, 1889.

OBITUARY.

The aged veteran, James Moses, departed this life on Saturday morning, April 4, 1891, at 10 o'clock, at his residence in Big Cottonwood. His last sickness, which was bronchitis and la grippe, was not of long duration, he having excellent health until about two weeks before his death.

James Moses was the son of Jesse and Esther Brown Moses, and was born in Norfolk, Litchfield County, Connecticut, Feb. 18, 1806, and was consequently eighty five years of age. He followed the occupation of farmer in his native state, until he heard the sound of the Gospel, which he embraced, being baptized by Gideon Billings on 16th, and confirmed the same day with his co-religionists in Kirtland, there. Here he became intimately acquainted with many leading men of the Church, including the Prophet Joseph, to whom he proved a true friend and for whom he always exercised feelings of love and reverence. On one occasion, when the Prophet was in great need of money he and his brother Julius lent him a large sum. For this generosity and confidence Joseph was very grateful, and in laying out Adam-ondi-Ahman and Nauvoo, he gave them very choice lots.

He shared the persecutions, losses and hardships incident to the Saints at that time. In Far West his wife, Mary Perry, died, leaving two small children. During the first general conference held in Nauvoo he was married to Eliza Spencer, by which he had eight children, four of whom he now survives. He was driven from Nauvoo with the rest of the Saints and went to Winter Quarters, where he was ordained a seventy and set apart as one of the Presidents of the Twenty-second quorum. From Winter Quarters he went to Council Bluffs, where he lived until 1856, when he returned to Connecticut to fulfil a promise made to his aged father that he would take care of him until his death. He remained there until 1861, when his father died and he came to Utah. In December, 1864, he married wife Ann, since which time he has lived at his home with his children.

Brother James Moses was a plain, honest, industrious man—a true type of the New England farmer of the old Puritan stock—who had many friends and few enemies. He passed away peacefully, retaining his mental faculties until the very last.
