AN ARREST AT LAST.

Indictment Found in the Pelican Point Murders.

HARRY HAYS TAKEN IN CUSTODY.

Charged with Having Committed the Awful Crime of Killing One of the Men.

Special Dispatch to the News.

PROVO, Utah, Dec. 4, 1895.—Harry Hays of Eureka, was arrested here this afternoon by Deputy Marshal Foster, a murder indictment being returned today. Hays is accused of murdering Albert Hays, alias Ericstrom, and Ole Johnson and Alfred Nielsen, cousins of young Hays, living with him on his ranch at Pelican Point, on the west side of Utah Lake, in February, 1894. The body of Hays was found on April 12, 1894, the other two on April 22, on the shores of the lake. They had bullet wounds and apparently had been pushed under the ice of the lake after being killed and were washed ashore when the ice melted.

Harry Hays's stepfather, Albert Hays, lives at Eureka. It was known that the relations with young Hays were not pleasant, and suspicions rested upon him from the first. A long time elapsed from the murder to the discovery of the bodies, making it difficult to connect any one with the crime. The officers have worked diligently all the time since, gathering the thread of evidence.

The grand jury has been working on the case over two weeks, examining a large number of witnesses, resulting in the indictment.

Hays took the arrest quietly. He had nothing to say. He sent for Attorney Whitesmitten, who advised him not to talk. Mrs. Hays says lying witnesses caused the indictment and she hopes could prove that he had not been away from Eureka for a long time before and after the murder was committed.

At Nephi where Hays was brought in to court for arraignment, The News representative modestly informed one that he was reporting for the News. He proceeded no further, as Mr. Hays interrupted the attempted introductory remarks by saying: "I don't care anything for your writing. I don't want to have anything to do with you. Go to my lawyer if you want to find out anything." The scribe man thanked him and retired.

Whenever prominent people the indictment was read to Hays. It charged one only with killing Albert Hays, the Albert Ericstrom. Attorney Whitesmitten stated they would take him Friday morning to plead and defendant was remanded to the custody of the marshal.

The officers have worked with indefatigable zeal on the case, and believe they can bring the crime home to the guilty parties. Hays is not believed to be alone in the affair.

THE SCHOOL ELECTION.

A Heavy Vote and an Orderly Lot of Voters.

The election for members of the school board is progressing very quietly in the city today and for an occasion of its kind a heavy vote is being polled. Of course the result cannot be stated until tonight.

First Precinct.

The contest between R. Alff and J. T. Kingsbury in the First precinct is a warm one and the voters are turning out quite numerously to the support of their favorites. No disturbances have occurred so near the peace of the voters, but hard work character and the friends of the candidates. The vote is a good one for numbers.

Second Precinct.

In the Second precinct the candidates are R. B. Westerfield, R., and W. Van Cott, D. Tasers was some pretty lively work, and at 5 p. m. 750 votes had been cast. The party checkers indicated that Mr. Westerfield was 125 ahead, but this was uncertain, as there are many of his party who say they do not like his methods and declared their intention of either not voting or voting against him. On the other hand Mr. Van Cott is well thought of by all parties. Late conditions makes the result problematical.

Third Precinct.

From the time of the opening of the polls in the Third precinct this morning the one set of judges were kept constantly busy, a steady and unbroken column of voters making their way to the of the south window of the old Schools and deposit their votes, through which they passed their ballots. While the vote will no doubt fighter than that cast at the general election it will be the heaviest the precinct has ever witnessed on the occasion of electing a member to the board of education. At 3 o'clock about 500 votes had been polled. Of these it was estimated that Hansen, Democrat, had 190, and Pell, Republican, 210.

The judges in the Third were E. T. Lloyd, presiding; John L. Nebeker and Chas. Stevenson. Up to a late hour this afternoon there had been no disturbance of any kind to mar the proceedings of the day. The result will probably not be known until 7 o'clock tonight.

Fourth Precinct.

The election in the Fourth precinct was progressing very quietly, but a good deal of work was being done by the friends of the candidates, Farlow and Taylor. For a school election a substantial vote is being polled, 300 votes this afternoon, 500 votes had been deposited, with a big afternoon in sight. The outcome is very uncertain, the friends of both men claiming victory. Taylor was, on the whole, considered to be slightly in the lead.

Fifth Precinct.

The voting in the Fifth precinct was very light, and not more than 300 votes will be polled. The reason for this is that there is but one contender, that of J. F. Grant, R., for member of the school board.

Stevenson's Journeyings.

SNOWFLAKE, Navajo County, ARIZONA, Nov. 25, 1895.

To the Editor:

Elder Lyman and myself arrived at this place on the 21st inst. Since my last communication some items of interest have fallen under my observation which I am satisfied will prove interesting, not only to your readers at home, but to many who are far away, for the Mormons (so-called) are arousing attention everywhere. Before leaving Woodruff our party, in connection with some of the citizens, paid a visit to the noted dam which has been erected to turn the water of the Little Colorado river out on to a limited acreage of very productive land. The present dam is the eighth effort of about twenty families to stem the torrent on a sandy foundation, at least on part of it. This stream is subject to flds and starts, that is to say, high, quick floods and torrents, and at other times nearly dry quicksands. The consequence is, the dam has been repeatedly washed, in the main, over into the abyss below, but each time leaving an immense pile of rock on which to construct its fellow dam.

The limited amount of tillable land in this little cove, although very fruitful, will allow at the present time of only a small number of families, those who have become disheartened have left the place, to be replaced by other home seekers, to attend their energies which truly to sustain this little oasis in Arizona has required a heavy tax. But this time success has attended the labor of the little band of Woodruff, for it has withstood the floods of four years. The dam, as it now stands, is 45 feet high and over 150 feet long. It looks like a mountain of rock, with the water back of it. The soil has filled up above the dam, and it looks like a young Niagara Falls. The estimated cost to the dam is said to be, as it now stands, $18,000, and including the washouts about $25,000.

The settlement had its origin in 1877. Nathan C. Tenney, Lorenzo Hatch, James C. Owens, Hans Gudmansen and others claim to have been the founders of the place. Only a few have left out from the beginning. None have been more energetic than the honored Lorenzo Hatch, who has the reputation of being the only man who can stand to work day and night. The work, could not have been accomplished only by assistance from outside help. The Church has aided, and the governor of Arizona, who visited the works commenced it highly, contributing territorial funds to the amount of $1,500. Fruit trees, shade trees and smaller fruits abound, and three crops of hayers are out, averaging two tons per acre each cutting. Lucerne brings at the market $12 per ton home. Their main market is at Holbrook, twelve miles, at the railway depot.

We may add, through reliable information, that St. Joseph, 25 miles down the Colorado river, can also tell much the same tale of washing out of dams, but for the past four years has made success of its work.

After our meeting and visit at Woodruff and at Joseph, we drove over a desert about 25 miles to another little settlement on a branch of the Little Colorado, called Silver Creek—Show Low, where we have attended three meetings and have conference today in addition to a snow storm. At this hour snow is sixteen inches deep, and it is still snowing hard.

While at Woodruff we found a brother Heinze B. Owens, aged 76, who was baptized in March, 1831. I knew him in Far West, Missouri. He was worked on nearly every temple yet built. Who, now living, was baptized before him? Father George A. Gardner is in his 82nd year of his age. He has led the Woodruff choir thirteen years and has been a choir leader sixty-two years. Father Gardner is also postmaster at Woodruff. He was with President Brigham Young in Peterboro, New Hampshire, when he received news of the death of the Prophet Joseph. After the grief was over he says Brother Brigham remarked "The keys are with me to carry on the work. It will not stop, but will go on." Brother Gardner was ordained a Seventy in the Nauvoo Temple. He has worked at blacksmithing here for twelve years. He is counselor to the president of the High Priests' quorum.

DENVER EISTEDDFOD.

Company to Carry It Through to Be Incorporated.

THE $100,000 AUDITORIUM.

Distinguished Celebrities Taking Part in the Enterprise—Bright Prospects for 1896.

DENVER, Colo., Dec. 1, 1895.

To the Editor:

The Denver people, or perhaps more properly speaking, the Welsh people, are making most wonderful preparations for the Eisteddfod for 1896. The whole place seems astir with the dread and grand purpose to be undertaken. The great music Hall is to be fitted with a theatre capable within the power of the electric and mechanical departments for the enterprise. The city government is full of enthusiasm; and the active and enthusiastic mayor gives it his hearty support.

It is the good fortune of the Welsh people of Denver to have the unanimous cooperation of all literary, musical and enterprising citizens, who all take to the great Welsh festival with enthusiasm. The daily and weekly newspapers of the city and state are ever ready with their columns to give the Eisteddfod all the space desired. One potent reason for the phenomenal success is the fact that the Chamber of Commerce is taking to the enterprise with all of its well established power. The result has been that a well formulated plan is on foot to erect at once a fine auditorium building, with a seating capacity of 15,000. It will be constructed after the most modern plan of an auditorium with good acoustic properties. The building alone is expected to cost in the neighborhood of $100,000.

The Welsh people of Colorado, and especially of Denver are the motive power of the auditorium project. They selected, at a meeting held at the Chamber of Commerce public hall, on the evening of Nov. 9th, an executive committee of fifteen representative Welshmen. Those selected were Joseph Hughes, member of the Hughes Lumber company, a bright literary young man; Rev. M. A. Ellis, the well known and eloquent Welsh divine; Hon. Owen Jones, the pastor of the Welsh church of Denver; R. D. Rees, a brilliant young lawyer; John O. Jenkins, the established leader of the Welsh literary and musical societies; T. M. Richards, an energetic business man of standing and wealth; Fred W. Herbert, a bright, enthusiastic, as well as very alert young business man; Lloyd Jones, an attorney of large practice, who contributes much to the success of the project by being attorney for the Arapahoe Press association in the West, besides being a member of the chamber of commerce; Prof. Vincent Morgan, one of the leading composers and vocal musical directors in the West; Rhys G. Cadwaza, deputy sheriff and a man of large business and social influence; Archie Davis, one of the shiest young business and railroad men in Denver; R. J. Griffiths, a prosperous young mercantile man; Pierce Ryffin, a true social and business man of means; and Hugh R. Hughes of the Denver Abstract company, who not only gives to the Eisteddfod enterprise the benefit of large business and social acquaintance, but also an ability and geniality that comes of youthful business integrity.

Out of this committee was selected a committee to confer with the Chamber of Commerce and urge the consolidation of an auditorium, which has been the germination of the scheme for the construction of a fine building.

The executive committee, at its first meeting, elected John O. Jenkins president and Lloyd Jones secretary. It has arranged to incorporate and issue stock on the same plan as the World's Fair project. The incorporation papers are all prepared and by the 1st of January the company, now under the name of the Western Eisteddfod association, will float its stock. It will be a success from its inception, for its stocks are already in demand. On the certificates of stock will be an admission ticket to the series of entertainments of the Eisteddfod.

There will be several vice officers at the head of the association. Among the distinguished names on the advisory board of management will be Governor McIntire, of Colorado, Mayor McMurray, of Denver, M. C. Jackson, secretary of the chamber of commerce of Denver, Evan Stephens, of Salt Lake City, ex-Governor Thomas, of Salt Lake, John James, general secretary of the Camoria of Utah, and T. F. Thomas, of Salt Lake, Owen Le Fevre, district judge, Robert Steele, county judge, Dr. Kerr Hyde the noted divine, Rev. Myron Reed, the celebrated reformer and preacher, members of the chamber of commerce, leading musicians, all the leading divines, bankers and others of the best known and most influential men and women from all parts of the state.

One of the best inspirations thus far received by the Welsh people of Denver came in the persons of John James and T. F. Thomas, of Salt Lake City, who paid a visit to Denver last week. A brilliant reception was afforded these two popular young men on their arrival, Tuesday evening, the 26th ult., at the elegant home of the Brinckers, No. 927 Sherman avenue. An address was delivered on this occasion by John James, in response to an address of welcome by Joseph Hughes, president of the Cambrians of Denver. Mr. T. F. Thomas sang a solo, and at quest response to the young visitors' salutations to Denver were made by Rev. M. A. Ellis and Lloyd Jones. Dr. M. A. Ellis and wife spread a delightful banquet for the guests on the evening of the twenty-ninth, and the entire stay in Denver of Messrs. James and Thomas (while not in an official capacity) was marked with progress for the great Eisteddfod for 1896.

Taken as a all the present indications are that Denver and Colorado will do credit to the great musical and literary festival, and we may hope to have a rare treat when we meet in Denver for the contests. The literary programs are now under preparation, and when distributed the public will know, and that soon, the time and conditions of this great literary and musical convention.

Four Bottles of Paine's Celery Compound Made Him Well!

There may be in the distant future some remedy as effective as Paine's celery compound.

There is none such today.

The sick and ailing who are stretching out their hands for help must take the best that the scientific medical knowledge of the world now affords.

The reasoning that has enabled Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M. D., Ll. D., of Dartmouth college to discover the remarkable formula of Paine's celery compound is the result of the century's work in medicine.

It is by a new and more thoughtful grouping of diseases, from a careful study of their causes, that Prof. Phelps has been enabled to see the true relationship of all diseases of the blood and nerves.

Neuralgia, sleeplessness, melancholia, hysteria, headache and dyspepsia at once referred themselves to a tired, half-fed and therefore enraged nervous system.

The cure lay in attending to the nutrition of the whole system. This system of cure, simple and sane the most sense-making thing, was embodied in the greatest tissue builder, nerve-restorer and regulator yet known to science—Paine's celery compound, the two great remedy that makes people well!

Persons who complain of feeling "tired to death" and sought a compound to invigorate, as soon as their physicians ordered Paine's celery compound, felt that their tired feeling were actually taking a new start. Their strength rapidly increased. They were no more troubled with sleeplessness which, and both days were no longer made wretched by neuralgia and dyspepsia.

Constipation, that stands up in the path of achievement, giving place to health, will find a positive and lasting cure in Paine's celery compound.

There is very short time to write any doubts on the matter by giving Paine's celery compound a trial.

Mr. John Holland, whose portrait is given above, is a barber and resident, whose home is in Jersey City. He writes:

"I wish to give my testimony of the great benefit Paine's celery compound has done me. A year ago I had typhoid fever, and after I had to have an operation in my side for an abscess over the liver. This left me very weak. I grew very nervous and could not sleep. I was tired even more after I got up than I was when I went to bed. I have taken four bottles of Paine's celery compound, and am perfectly well! I have sent six bottles to some friends in Virginia, and, although it has taken only a bottle or so, he's much better and almost well!"

Paine's celery compound puts the weakest on a healthy, strong basis, cures true disease. Try it if you are ailing, and a trial will speedily convince you.

OBITUARY NOTES.

ALICE AMELIA NEFF.

Sister Alice Amelia Neff was the daughter of the late Franklin Neff and Frances M. Neff, and was born at East Mill Creek, Salt Lake county, Utah, Nov. 23, 1866. Being born and raised in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, she early manifested the virtues of the Gospel, and by her quiet and winning disposition made a wide circle of friends. Her physical constitution was never robust and was even more delicate for several years before she died, which was perhaps due to the presence of internal trouble that finally caused her death. During the long sickness previous to her death she bore her sufferings with the greatest patience and fortitude, and exhibited an unmovable faith in the administrations of the Elders and in the doctrines of the Gospel. She submitted with the greatest cheerfulness to the surgical operation from which she never rallied, and showed a faith and courage not often seen in persons of more stronger body and temperament. On receiving notice a few hours after the operation she lived only a few hours, quietly, peacefully and without pain, about 4 o'clock p. m., Nov. 6th, 1895.

She was a teacher in the Sabbath school and one of the presidency of the Y. L. M. I. A. and always took an active part in whatever tended to good.

Her funeral was held in the East Mill Creek meeting house, Saturday, Nov. 9, 1895, at which excellent counseling and impressive remarks were made by Elders Horace Cummings, H. H. Saddlemire and Angus M. Cannon. A long outpouring followed the procession to the Salt Lake City cemetery, where they were interred, Elder Joseph B. Taylor offering the dedicatory prayer at the grave.—[COM.
