[illegible]

FRAGMENTS.

Texans are reported as being sent in large numbers along the railroads leading to this city.

The Mount Baldy Mill and Mining company has filed articles of incorporation with Territorial Secretary Sells.

There are messages at the Western Union Telegraph office for Louis Trinx, Ben J. Bagley and Steele Bros.

John N. Emmett has been appointed postmaster at Plain, Millard county, Utah, in the place of S. H. Alexander, resigned.

The greengrocery and poulterers' stores begin to give outward and visible signs that Thanksgiving Day is nigh.

There will be a meeting of the manufacturers of this city in the Chamber of Commerce tonight. All persons interested should attend.

The county clerk has issued marriage licenses to William F. Morgan and Esther Semper, William E. Ince and Mary [illegible].

Examiner [illegible] has nearly completed his examination of the records of the Third district court, and will shortly go to Beaver.

A stereopticon party will be given in the Metropolitan Hotel tonight, under the auspices of the Young Ladies' Aid Society.

The windows of the city stores already begin to present a Christmas-like appearance, and seasonable novelties are fast finding their way to the front.

A social entertainment will be given in the new hall of the Fifteenth ward Mutual Improvement Association this evening. A carefully prepared programme will be rendered.

The first [illegible] of the season of [illegible] by the Ladies' Musical [illegible] will be given at the [illegible] on Monday evening next, beginning at 8:30 o'clock.

Anyone knowing the address of a Mrs. H. Mason will please send the same to Mr. Phillip Spry, the tailor, on South Temple street, between First and West Temple streets.

The third annual institute of the teachers of the New West Education Commission in Utah will be held in Hammond Hall on the 23rd, 24th and 25th inst.

The Phoenix Club will give a ball in Younger's Hall tonight. The Social Evening Club will give a party at the same place on the night following Thanksgiving Day.

Postmaster Benton has received instructions from Washington to employ an additional mounted carrier after December 1st of the present year. This will give the local office four mounted carriers.

A couple of days ago the festive burglar called at a boarding house on South West Temple street and left as quietly as he entered, with $11.50 belonging to a boarder. The police know of the affair.

Only last week the death occurred of Mrs. Frank Steely, of this city, and the husband accompanied the remains east for interment. A telegram has been received from Clinton, Iowa, stating that Mr. Steely is lying dangerously ill at that place.

A. F. Mattan, a colored man, was to be tried in the Police Court this afternoon on a charge of stealing a fur overcoat from the office of Grimsdell, Burton & Co., [illegible] Main street, over a year ago, and which was recently bought from a pawnshop by a Rapid Transit motorman.

Last night another resident in the suburbs of the city lost a number of valuable spring chickens from his chicken-house. He did not lodge a complaint at police headquarters for the reason that (to use his own expression) "it would do no good at all."

There was a [illegible] company at the [illegible] hall of the Young Ladies' Aid Society last night. About [illegible] guests were present, and of these fully [illegible] couples indulged in dancing at the same time. The supper was admirably served, and the gathering was an unqualified success.

There was a collision between car No. 7 of the Salt Lake City and car No. [illegible] of the Salt Lake Rapid Transit Railway companies, on Second South, just west of Main street, about 11 o'clock today. Several passengers were on both cars, but fortunately no one was injured. The cars were considerably damaged.

It is understood that the parties who made application for a license to conduct a saloon at the corner of Franklin avenue and Second South streets, and whose petition was denied on account of the proximity of the building to a public school, will again ask the council to grant them the privilege [illegible].

Secretary H. M. Wells, of the Deseret Agricultural and Manufacturing Society, has received twenty-six silver cups, all of elegant but different designs, to distribute to the owners of the dogs which were given first prizes at the bench dog show at the Territorial Fair. The prize winners can get them by calling at the State Bank of Utah.

About 8 o'clock this morning, while the delivery cart belonging to J. E. Dooly, of the Twelfth ward [illegible], was being driven along the road in the vicinity of Sixth East and South Temple, the horse stumbled and partly fell, throwing the boy in charge over the animal's back and leaving him underneath its feet. Fortunately, however, he escaped with only a bruised leg.

It is generally believed that the committee of [illegible] to whom was referred the petition of J. C. Dolan and others which was presented to the City Council on Tuesday will recommend that the prayer of the petitioners be granted. That part of the city is rapidly settling up and the opening of the thoroughfare named would be a great convenience to residents in that locality.

Personal.

Walter H. Dietz, a well known wholesale [illegible] of New York, is at the Knutsford.

Ex-Secretary Gillespie has returned from Tintic, where he has been on business.

John H. Hamlin, of the "Straight Tip" company, is at the Knutsford.

J. S. Robinson, of Logan, and Edmund Wilson, of Malad, Idaho, are at the Morgan.

George Walton, the aged bailiff of the Third District court, has returned from Colorado.

D. O. Waldron, editor and compiler of Crocker's Railway Gazette, is in the city, collecting data for his publication.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Dwight, of London, and D. T. Bastion, of Paris, are guests at the Templeton.

A. P. Wiley, of the R. G. W., has returned from Denver and is stopping at the Continental.

DRUGGED, ROBBED, BEATEN.

Foreman Charles Clark, of the Congo Mine, Murderously Assaulted

AT AN EARLY HOUR THIS MORNING.

The Guilty Parties are Being Closely Watched and Will Probably be Arrested Tonight.

The report was industriously circulated on the streets today that an unknown man had been murdered and robbed somewhere in the northwestern part of the city at an early hour this morning.

While no homicide had been committed, a reporter of the News listened to a recital of the following story, laboriously related by the alleged murdered man, who now lies badly beaten and bruised at St. Mary's hospital:

"My name is Charles Clark; am foreman of the Congo mine at Big Cottonwood. I came to town yesterday morning and registered at the St. Elmo hotel, where I passed the night. I intended to return to camp this morning and on my way from the hotel, I called into the White House bar-room and took a drink with a couple of hack drivers, and one other man who was in their company, all of whom I met on the sidewalk in front of the saloon only a few minutes before. We remained there a short time and took another drink each, when we left the building. As soon as I stepped outside I was struck a stunning blow on the head and fell heavily to the sidewalk. I remember being put into a hack and conveyed to a distant part of the city, but where I don't know, as it was just before daybreak and I was very much dazed. I recollect, however, that the hack halted and that one of the three men who was taller than the other two and who had a light or sandy moustache, then demanded my money, but I told him that I had only a very little. This statement was true as I had left $145 with a friend at the Occidental last night for safe keeping. (This statement was verified today.) He then either shot at me, or his revolver was accidentally discharged. Simultaneously with the report of the pistol I was dealt another terrific blow on the head. My watch and chain were taken from me. That is all I know about the affair."

It is believed by the officers that Clark's story is correct. Residents near the foot of Apple street, in the Seventeenth ward, noticed the hack stop in that vicinity, and one lady heard the pistol shot and reported it to a gentleman who informed the police who repaired to the place with the patrol wagon and took the man to police headquarters, where he was waited upon by Dr. Meacham, the city physician, who ordered him sent to the hospital.

The unfortunate man bears a deep gash across the back of his head, which was either inflicted by a bullet or some sharp instrument.

The police say that they have spotted the guilty parties and will make the arrest tonight.

Death of Father Lewis.

Between 9 and 10 o'clock this morning (November 20), Father John B. Lewis, of the Twentieth ward, died suddenly at his residence. The veteran was outside the house at the time he collapsed. He fell to the ground and expired almost instantly. The cause was old age, there being no organic disease. The physical machinery was simply worn out and suspended operations. The deceased was 96 years of age on the 4th day of last April. He was a native of England, and by trade a carpenter and shipbuilder. He became a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints on the 22nd of April, 1848, and has been faithful to his religion. He was an honest, upright man in all the relations of life. Father Lewis enjoyed the distinction during the last few years—since the death of Father Merrill—of being the oldest man in Salt Lake City.

The funeral services will be held in the Twentieth ward meeting house, at 11:30 a.m. on Sunday next.

Students' Society.

The regular session of the Students' Society of the Latter-day Saints' College will be held at No. 333 West First North, on Friday evening, Nov. 27th, promptly at 7:30 o'clock, when the following interesting and instructive programme will be presented:

1. Invocation.
2. Lecture, "Reminiscences of the German Empire" ... Professor Richard Haag
3. Song, "Alice, where art thou?" ... Miss [illegible] Barker
4. Reading, "The [illegible] Boy" ... Professor J. J. Walton
5. Essay, "[illegible] of Life" ... Miss Jennie Smith
6. The [illegible], with experiments
7. "Deep [illegible]" ... family choir

The public are invited.

J. J. Walton, Chairman.

HOUSE RAIDED BY TRAMPS.

They Were Frightened Off, Leaving their Plunder upon the Floor.

Last night three tramps made a raid on the residence of Edward W. Genter, secretary of the Salt Lake Abstract Title and Trust company, on State, between Tenth and Eleventh South streets. One of the fellows kept watch without while the other two entered the house through a basement window at the rear, and made their way upstairs into the kitchen and pantry, where they removed everything from the cupboard and refrigerator in the shape of edibles, which they deposited in a heap on the floor preparatory to carrying it away. Their movements aroused one of the inmates, who arose and looked out of his bedroom window and saw the fellow who was standing guard without, and asked what he wanted. He replied that he was "watching a couple of men." "So am I!" said the interlocutor in a tone which was heard throughout the house. At this the gang took to their heels, leaving their plunder scattered about, and made good their escape.

On Tuesday night another house in the neighborhood was robbed of a considerable amount of provisions.

THIRD DISTRICT COURT.

Judge Zane Makes a Resetting of Civil Cases on the Docket.

Considerable delay and inconvenience having been occasioned in Judge Zane's court because of counsel engaged in the various civil cases not being ready to proceed on the particular day set down for hearing, his Honor yesterday issued a "call" for all attorneys interested to be present in court at ten o'clock this morning, with a view to a resetting of the cases. There was a very full attendance of members of the bar in response to this summons, and upon taking his seat the Judge said: The court made a setting of these cases some weeks ago, extending into December, but for nearly two weeks past the court has been losing about half its time in consequence of the cases set for hearing on certain days being continued. I now wish to call the setting over again, and ascertain if I can whether all the cases on the docket are going to be tried or not. If there are any to be dismissed, then I desire to insert others in their place. There is too much business pressing on the court just now to be losing time where this can be avoided. His honor then proceeded to call over the list, first fixing the settings for today. This occupied nearly three-quarters of an hour, and the court then went on with the ordinary business.

DECREE OF FORECLOSURE.

Isaac Hunter vs. J. F. Holland; decree of foreclosure by stipulation.

ACCEPTED.

Mulrooney vs. Salt Lake City Railroad company. Plaintiff accepted the offer of judgment in this action, and the same was allowed.

DISMISSED.

In the case of Peter Carling vs. Fritz Ellegan et al., the release was filed and the matter dismissed.

EXTENSION OF TIME.

In the case of Morrison et al. vs. Madsen et al., the court granted ten days to answer.

FOR THE PLAINTIFF.

E. McCormick vs. Chas. Lange et al.; judgment for the plaintiff.

CONTINUED.

The case of Fred N. Lamb vs. Francis A. McKean, being a motion to dissolve attachment, was continued until Saturday, the 21th inst.

A JUDGMENT AFFIRMED.

James W. Eardley vs. E. Mahoney; demurrer and answer withdrawn and judgment of the lower court affirmed.

Court was then adjourned until ten a.m. tomorrow, until which time all petit jurors were excused.

JUDGE ANDERSON'S COURT.

Owing to the attorneys being present at the setting of cases in Judge Zane's court, Judge Anderson adjourned his court until 2 p.m.

COURT NOTES.

On Saturday next United States District Attorney Varian expects to submit his findings to Judge Zane in the escheat proceedings of the United States vs. the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, recently decided in favor of the plaintiff. The defendants will ask for a new trial, and, if this is refused, will, in all probability, appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States.

The Dillon murder trial is exciting considerable interest in the First District court at Ogden. Yesterday's evidence was of an important character, and several witnesses testified to the singular conduct of the accused after the shooting of his brother. Judge Powers is counsel for the defense.

Mr. John C. Wester, a real estate man, of this city, was robbed of an overcoat and other articles of wearing apparel nearly a year ago. The police went in "hot pursuit" but nothing could be learned either of the missing garments or the thief. Time passed on, and yesterday, greatly to his astonishment, Mr. Wester saw the identical overcoat—covering the frame of a Rapid Transit motorman. He spoke to the wearer about it, and on investigation it was learned that the then possessor purchased it from a second hand clothes dealer on Commercial street for $12. The rightful owner will have his coat back, and now the police will have another "try" after the thief.

The grand jury will reconvene within the next week or so, and the court will take up the criminal calendar very soon afterwards. Quite a number of prisoners yet remain to be tried.

It is stated that Commissioner Norrell's health has improved satisfactorily since taking his holiday. Before returning to Salt Lake he will pay a visit to his parents in the Southern States.

"Has Judge Anderson done any business in his court this morning?" queried a newspaper reporter of the ancient bailiff who has charge there. "Yes," rejoined that individual promptly, "he has." "What!" asked the reporter. "I understood that the Judge had adjourned his court until this afternoon." "Well, if you must know," came the quiet response, "he smoked half a cigar and then went away." And off sailed the deputy smiling and chuckling, as though he had scored a point.

[illegible] Smith, the slayer of Carter, at Fort Douglas, is said to take his twenty years' sentence very hard. He is described as being gloomy and despondent, and in consequence the guards deem it advisable, for obvious reasons, to keep a close watch upon him.

Present indications are that when the Supreme Court of the Territory meets in January next there will be a good deal of business to deal with.

Commissioner Greenman had no case before him this morning.

County Court Matters.

The County court held a session this forenoon.

The sale of personal property belonging to the county, made by Deputy Clerk C. E. Stanton on Tuesday last, was approved. The property consisted of four horses, sold by public auction for $[illegible].

Melissa Stephens was granted $10 on pauper account.

Bond of Henry Wagener to sell liquor in the county was approved.

Claim of John Peterson for the sum of $250, referred at last meeting to Selectman Hardy, came up for hearing. On report of Mr. Hardy claim was denied.

Infirmary committee granted further time to complete report.

Claim of [illegible] and [illegible] $5.65 on relief account approved.

KILLED BY WOLVES.

Three Children Meet their Horrible Fate in the Woods.

St. Paul, Nov. 19.—News reached the city late tonight that three children of Andrew [illegible], near New Brighton, were killed by wolves this afternoon. Prairie fires early in the fall drove a large number of wolves down from the north. The children wandered into the woods and were attacked. Before aid could reach them the bodies were partially devoured. Armed men killed eleven of the wolves and a regular expedition will start tomorrow.

Statehood For Oklahoma.

Oklahoma City, O. T., Nov. 19.—The commercial club of this city has issued a call for a convention to be held in Oklahoma City Dec. 15, composed of delegates chosen from each political division of Oklahoma and Indian Territory, to discuss the advisability of statehood and the boundary lines of the proposed State.

For the Construction of Harbor Works.

City of Mexico, Nov. 19.—The Diario Official has published a contract entered into between the secretary of communication and William Pritchard for the construction of port and harbor works at Coatzacoalcos, in the State of Vera Cruz, for $1,500,000. The legislature of the State of Durango has passed a law authorizing the governor to purchase corn and establish places for its sale in all parts of the State where people are oppressed by high prices caused by the failure of crops.

Suffocated by Gas.

Anderson, Ind., Nov. 19.—Mrs. Mary Huffman and two grown sons of Lapalle were suffocated last night by gas which escaped from a gas stove.

The Alliance.

Indianapolis, Nov. 19.—One point in yesterday's proceedings of the Alliance escaped the press till an early hour this morning, that of the committal of the supreme council to party movement. This came about through the adoption of a resolution, instructing the Alliance members of Congress not to enter any party caucuses.

The "Elder" Arrives in Southampton.

London, Nov. 19.—Fears entertained regarding the safety of the North German Lloyd steamer "Elder," which sailed from New York Nov. 7, are dispelled by the receipt of a telegram from Southampton, stating that he had arrived there this morning.

The cause of delay in the arrival of "Elder," was the disarrangement of her machinery, which collapsed four days after she left New York. It took two days to effect repairs and during that time the steamer drifted.

Regular Quarterly Dividend.

New York, Nov. 19.—The directors of the Northern Pacific Railroad have declared a regular quarterly dividend in preferred stock.

Indicted on a Charge of Train Wrecking.

Auburn, Cal., Nov. 19.—The grand jury has indicted A. C. Roberts on the charge of wrecking the Southern Pacific overland passenger train near Colfax, Cal., last October.

Indicted for a Violation of the Inter-State Commerce Law.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—The Federal grand jury which has been investigating the interstate commerce violations today returned indictments as follows: For obtaining a rebate less than the tariff, the following members of the firm of Swift & Co.: Gustavus F. Swift, Edwin C. Swift, Louis F. Swift, D. Edward Hartwell. For same offense, George and John Firmenich, glucose manufacturers of Marshalltown, Ia.

For giving rates less than the established tariff, George B. Spriggs, general agent of the New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railway. In the last six months Swift & Co received over three thousand dollars in rebates for meat shipped over the Nickel Plate road. The violations of the laws committed by the Firmenichs are even greater than those charged against the Swifts.

Influenza in France.

Paris, Nov. 19.—Influenza has reappeared in many places in the southwestern part of France, and the disease is of a very severe type. In Paris, too, the disease has claimed a number of victims. Many cases are reported from all parts of the city and a large number of deaths from the disease have occurred.

Two Poles Killed by a Train.

Elizabeth, Pa., Nov. 19.—Early this morning a train on the Pennsylvania railroad killed two Polish laborers who were crossing the tracks in this city, in a wagon. One man was horribly mangled, the wagon smashed, and the horse killed. Both men leave families.

The Almy Trial.

Plymouth, N. H., Nov. 19.—Counsellor Almy, on trial for murder, began his argument when court opened today. He admitted the murder, but only in the second degree. A direct effort is made to secure sentence for murder in that degree.

Murder and Attempt at Lynching.

Allentown, Pa., Nov. 19.—The murder of Mrs. William [illegible], and the probable fatal injuring of her husband at Ironton, yesterday, threw that hamlet into a state of great excitement, when found that the woman was dead. Her husband was conscious, and he charged William Koch, a quarryman, with the crime. The couple is over seventy years of age. An attempt was made to lynch Koch, but he was safely lodged in jail.

The London "News" on Foster's Speech.

London, Nov. 19.—The News in its financial article this morning, referring to the speech of Secretary Foster at the Chamber of Commerce banquet in New York, Tuesday night, says: "Secretary Foster's speech is a confession that the opinion of America has gone too far to draw back. The United States treasury is in the same position as the Bank of France—it has to face the possibility of being saddled with an immense stock of useless silver, while taking measures to hold as large a reserve of gold that it might just as well not have silver at all. The Americans seem to be so occupied with the crop and trade prospects, that they neglect the currency troubles so long as their material progress is not violently interrupted."

The Episcopal Congress.

Washington, Nov. 19.—The third day's session of the Episcopal congress began this morning, with Bishop Dudley, Kentucky, presiding. A number of essays were read on the general subject of "new and old parochial methods."

Amusements.

John T. Kelly, one of the best of stage Irishmen, supported by George W. [illegible], comic players, will present the latest laughing success, "U & I," at the Salt Lake Theater, for three nights, commencing Monday evening. As O'Donovan Innes, in this skit, Mr. Kelly is said to be indescribably funny, and his specialties now said of the right sort. "U and I," which gives Mr. Kelly and his associates opportunities for the display of their abilities, is a satire on the apartment house system. It deals with a strange assortment of characters and dispositions coming together within the four walls of a New York flat.

There was a meeting of the Canadian Social and Literary society held in the Wasatch block last night. Interesting addresses were delivered and essays read. The election of officers was held with the following result: C. W. Brown, first vice-president; M. D. McKinnon, second vice-president; G. A. Livingston, treasurer; M. J. Reid, financial secretary; A. A. Johnson, corresponding secretary; R. R. Parks, marshal; trustees, [illegible] Leslie and V. B. James.

THE BARBER'S TALE OF WOE.

Why Shouldn't Knights of the Razor be Permitted to Wear Beards.

My barber is—for a barber—of a very modest and retiring disposition. Indeed, I have observed about him at times a tendency to what some poet calls "pensive melancholy." He never asks you what you think of the next president, or volunteers to tell you a funny story, or gives you tips on the races or suggests that your head needs shampooing. In fact, he is singularly free from those peculiarities which cause barbers generally to occupy a low position in public esteem. That is why I like him. And perhaps it was his intuitive perception that I appreciated him which caused him to give me his confidence the other day.

"If you wouldn't mind, sir," he said, when he had finished shaving me, "I should like to have a little talk with you."

I told him that I would willingly give ten minutes of my time and charge him nothing for it.

"I understand, sir," he began deferentially, "that you write. I want you, sir, to write a piece that will start a reform in the interests of some of us barbers. You may have observed, sir, that some faces look better with beards and that some faces look better without beards. It all depends on the chin, sir. Now, you may have noticed, sir, that my chin is not what you would call a strong one."

I told him that I thought his chin would pass muster in a crowd pretty well.

"It is very kind of you to say so, sir," he replied, "but I have seen and handled too many chins to be deceived in my own. It is not a chin that would impress any one, particularly a young lady, as indicating strength of character. There are many barbers and likewise many other people built that way. But the people in other professions, if nature has been at all generous to them, can hide their weak chins behind beards. But we barbers, sir, with weak chins are not allowed to do that. The bosses won't allow us to wear beards. They say it would encourage our customers to wear beards instead of getting shaved, and that would hurt the business.

"What I make so bold as to ask you to do, sir, is to write a piece denouncing the conduct of the bosses as tyrannical. I venture to suggest, sir, that you might get some interviews with prominent people who wear beards, and ask them how, if they were barbers, they would like to be compelled to shave their chins. I am sure, sir, if the papers took hold of the reform in earnest the bosses would have to yield."

"If you will tell me what it is that really makes you so anxious to start this reform," I said, "perhaps I may write a piece for you."

"Well, sir, I don't mind owning up to you, sir, that it is all on account of a young lady that I'd like to make my wife. She favors another fellow, a grocer's clerk, just now. He's got a fine black beard, and that accounts for it. But if I was allowed to raise a beard, sir, I am sure that I would be able to cut him out. His chin isn't any better than mine, but his beard makes him look like a devil of a fellow. But I would look more of a fellow than he does if I could raise a beard."—New York Herald.
