

husband? that his strength is suffic-ient for you? Surely, you are not going to put Christ out of the ques-tion, by not taking him into your counsel. You will say this is all very well; but do not forget that we want husbands to provide re-with nomes, nod and clothing. To be sure you do; and you need a great deal more than these. You want friends, and real friends, and leve, not lust, and occupation, and something to live for. These things we all need; but the question is, how shall we obtain them? It is hard to be condemned for wrong-doing by one who is neither able nor willing to set you right. If I understood the reading of the instrument before me (a Peti-
