Salt Lake Stake Conference.

The quarterly conference of this Stake will convene in the Assembly Hall, Salt Lake City, on Saturday, September 5th, at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m., and in the Tabernacle on Sunday, (or Sin at 10 a.m., 2 and 7 p.m.

The officers and members of the Stake will please govern themselves accordingly.

Your brethren,

ABRAM H. CANNON,
JOSEPH E. TAYLOR,
CHAS. W. PENROSE,

Presidency of the Salt Lake Stake of Zion.

TABERNACLE SERVICES.

Elders Benjamin E. Eldredge, Angus M. Cannon and Seymour B. Young addressed the Saints.

President Angus M. Cannon of the Stake presidency was the presiding officer at the Tabernacle services held yesterday afternoon.

The choir sang the hymn:

We are assembled to unite our God
And sweet is our communion here.

Prayer was offered by Elder J. E. F. Simmons.

Choir further sang:

All hail the glorious day
By Prophets long foretold.

Elder Benjamin Eldredge, who had recently returned from a mission to Europe, was introduced as the first speaker. He said that in standing before the Saints to address them, he felt his weakness as he always did when occupying such a position. Therefore he asked that those assembled would assist him with their faith and prayers, that his remarks might redound to the benefit of all who had gathered together. His absent time was spent in England, principally in the Birmingham conference and afterwards in the London conference. In the latter the Elders have something over nine millions of people to preach the Gospel to and all in but two cities dished branches of the Church. In this conference there were at present eighteen missionaries who were laboring assiduously to promulgate the principles of life and salvation. The Gospel work in that part of the Lord's vineyard was progressing very favorably and the Elders were being treated with greater respect and courtesy than had been accorded them for a few years back. The newspapers were giving space to articles concerning Mormonism and interviews had with Elders were being published without the least bias or prejudice. While not many converts were being made, those who did ally themselves with the Church were brethren and sisters whose whole souls were in the work and who were determined to stick to it through good and through evil report. The Gospel was understood today as it had never before been understood in the nations of the earth. England in past years has added many to the Church membership and as conditions existed now, the promise was that many more would be called out from among the masses and brought to know and understand that God had restored His precious Gospel to the earth in these latter days.

Elder Eldredge said that when he left home to preach the Gospel, he had not a knowledge of the divinity of the work which he was about to represent. He real ed not its importance, its grandeur and the ultimate benefits. He was pleased to say, however, that upon returning to his home, he had come back knowing full well that God had spoken from the heavens, and that His work was destined to roll on until all the wheat had been gathered from the tares. Elder Eldredge realized now more than ever before in his life, that the register He (as he said) should be to him and his posterity and to all those to the end of time, a monument that He had lived and died for. In conclusion the speaker urged the young men and women of the Church to seek good education and to live so as to earn a very good account as to meet the choicest blessings that God has in reserve upon His people.

President Angus M. Cannon felt thankful to the Lord that the meeting was improving, and was that he rejoiced in hearing so much about the Elders. Elder Eldredge, who had been so much for the upbuilding of the commonwealth, and had given of his substance to the establishment of educational institutions in our midst. His prayer was that God would bless all who would have his work about, and so all in their power to add to the comfort of their fellow men.

Elder Seymour B. Young was the last speaker. He commenced by referring to the prophecy that was offered up at the opening of the meeting. In Wendy he felt, were included at that, and the spirit which prompted those utterances carried with it a feeling of thoughtfulness and made those assembled feel that their meeting together would be beneficial. The speaker was pleased to encourage and bid to cheer and strengthen the saints in those who had made inquiries to help in calling out of the kingdom and kingdom of God. He believed that the elder of earth a donation of experience experienced just as much by and has planned in making the gospel to those who received it. Those who had continued faithful and generously of their means to the establishing and the rapid advancement of the Church of God, had been they who were counted among the Pioneer saints of this valley. The experiences through which they had passed in early days, gave them ample opportunity to prove whether or not God was with His people or with a people. Therefore they had tested the promises of the Almighty and had found that God was always ready to carry out his part of the program. The early settlers of this valley had always been found doing their utmost to establish educational institutions, that the young and rising generation might have the privilege of attending such institutions. Not only did they look to the social advancement of Zion's sons and daughters, but they had always advocated physical training that the young men and women might be fitted to take upon themselves almost any avocation, being able to enter the field and till the soil as well as to follow the arts and professions. The Saints of God should be a people that were always ready to turn their hands to anything, so long as they earned an honest living. It had been said, and truly, too, that the greatest percentage of criminals were people who had been highly educated and had received degrees from some of the best seminaries and colleges in the land, and the question had been asked, why such a thing was. The speaker felt that this condition had been brought about through a lack of practicability. The students had gone through their college training that their mental training would enable them fair returns without having to resort to hard manual labor. Instructions had been encouraged in the people and the consequence had been that the hopes nurtured in school had vanished and caused them to relegate and go down to wickedness, which afterwards landed them in the prison and penitentiaries. It was to avert such a condition of affairs that God's servants were striving and striving, and if the rising generation would stick to the counsels given them from time to time, all would be well.

The Gospel work was spreading; it was gaining ground on every hand, and with eight hundred in mission in the field, the nations of the earth were being made acquainted with its revelation in these last days. Those who wished to know the truth had every opportunity to learn it, as it was being expounded to forty million of the saints. The Elders were scattered to the four winds, so to speak, and they were winding as it Jeremiah that was being left throughout the entire globe. Governments of people were now investigating the principles of the Gospel, and the chances were that many of them would be added to the fold of Christ in the due time of the Lord.

Choir sang the anthem:

Rise, ears, my soul.

Benediction was pronounced by Elder Joseph Kimball.

WAS A SEVERE ACCIDENT.

Heated Bearing in Mr. Smith's Wagon Proves Too—Some Of Consequence Grief.

PLEASANT GROVE, Aug. 29, 1896.—Mr. Harlett accidentally broke his arm on Tuesday while measuring some hay stack. Dr. Lewis of Lehi set the injured member and he (Mr. H.) is progressing favorably.

Mrs. Sarah Mayhew and Mrs. Margret Brown, with two children, were out riding in a carriage on the morning were seriously injured by having the buggy overturned. The animal showed signs of the coming storm when the driver, Mrs. Mayhew, thought she would turn in an opposite direction, hoping to sell the tempest. She quickly turned the team back to the road, throwing the occupants out with great force. Mrs. Brown got her shoulder quite badly bruised. Mrs. Mayhew received bruises and a cut in a setting it cannot be considered now it may result. The children escaped unhurt.

Elder Elmer Benson accidentally dropped the tongue of a wagon making a stack yesterday and had well.

Professors Fred W. Reynolds and Frank H. Driggs of the Utah University returned last Thursday from Harvard University, where they have been attending the summer school. The boys seem to be in the great institution of the eastern states and return after a pleasant and profitable trip. Mr. Driggs was quite ill for a few weeks but is now feeling all right. The young men will resume their positions in Utah's great school, viz., Mr. Reynolds in the University and Mr. Driggs in the school of the deaf at Ogden.

Misses Mamie Varney and Ada Roberts of Salt Lake City are visiting friends here.

Heatwach F. Driggs passed his 83d mile stone on Thursday, 26th; he is hale and hearty and still plying his vocation.

The gravel team are entertained for Sister Mayhew's recovery. Drs. Rodgers and Pike are in attendance.

LEHI.—Pleasant Grove, Aug. 31.—Mrs. Mayhew dies after intensive agonies. She was the proprietor of the Mayhew house here. Her husband Elijah died very suddenly last winter, she was generally respected. She leaves a few family.

AMUSEMENTS.

ELDREDGE'S CLOSING PERFORMANCE.—Another large audience, scarcely less than that of the opening night, witnessed the closing performance given by the "Mormon Wizard" at the Theater Sunday evening.

The program remained the same as that given on the opening night and the same enthusiasm was displayed, Eldredge having to respond to several enthusiastic, a particular demonstration being occasioned by the startling rendition of the "Beggar's Dream" which is certainly the best thing on the program. Mr. Eldredge will go direct to New Orleans in a few days to begin his season's work, which the Saints trust will be a successful one.

Mr. H. S. Goddard the popular baritone singer and vocal teacher, proposes to inaugurate a series of sing recitals, to be given complimentary, by invitation, to members of his singing classes, the first of which will occur at the Congregational church about the middle of September and to followed by about during the season.

THE LYCEUM.

Tonight the Aryan company will begin their five week of their engagement at the Lyceum, presenting the five act comedy-drama Man and Wife.
