TRUTH MUST PREVAIL.

Judge Jeffreson Neff, of Grand County, on the Davis Farce.

MOAB, Utah,
December 30, 1894.

Editor Deseret News.

IN THE SEMI-WEEKLY NEWS of December 25th a statement is made that "W. E. Davis is serving a term of eight months in the county jail for the murder of Brock."

Davis is not in jail for murder at a hotel where he is in town. Davis is to direct not be killed Brock, Daniel and Miller or at most the prison. I suppose it is the same people who are here today. When a man can kill three men and only one of a number of eight months in jail, and serve it out by sporting at a house of the county's expense while others have to empty the same when there condition proved against them?

JEFFERSON A. NEFF,
Probate Judge.

P. S.—I have written this because I presume you want the truth to prevail.

Fatal Accident.

MANTI, Sanpete county, Jan. 1, 1895.—Gloom spread over this community on the first day of the new year because of a sad accident that befell Mr. Albert Tuttle, a son of Hon. Lorenzo Tuttle, of this city, and which ended fatally.

The circumstances, so far as could be obtained, were as follows: Friends and relatives were gathered at the home of Mr. Lorenzo Tuttle. About five o'clock in the afternoon the unfortunate young man, with one of his brothers, left the family circle and went to the Manti brick, of which he was the owner. Outside the back building they met a friend, who joined in their accompanying him. They refused, and a playful tug of war followed, each of the three contestants pulling his own way. The friends were somewhat of a peculiar amount of the two young men, he dap, and the result finally was the man went down. Mr. Albert Tuttle struck against the hard ground with the back of his head and was unable to rise. The prostrate body was immediately picked up by spectators and tenderly conveyed to the office of Dr. Murray, close by. Here it was placed on a bed and another physician summoned. Medical skill, however, was unavailing; in a few minutes life was extinct.

Word had immediately been sent to the family, who hastened to the side of the dying young man. Too late. His eyes were scarcely closed and he lay stretched in death. It was heartbreaking to witness the scene as women and relatives gave expression, as the lifeless form was taken away from the doctor's office and conveyed to the home but a few minutes before to happy, so peaceful.

Deceased was forty years old. He leaves a grief-stricken wife and six children. He was a genial, intelligent man, much respected by all who knew him. His loss will be felt for a long time to come in this community.

A Happy Family Re-union.

The family of Brother James Mack spent New Year's day at 30 east, North Temple street, (their present residence). The family were all there, some two sleeping in Omaha, one in Ogden, four daughters, two sons-in-law, three daughters-in-law, seven grandchildren, and Brother and Sister Hansen, old-time friends. The time was pleasantly spent chatting, feasting, singing, games, etc., and quite frequently a song and not very uncommon cards by the grandchildren. Brother Mack's children were all born in Cache Valley, where he with his dutiny wife settled in the year 1863. They have lived at Smithfield continuously until the present winter.

OBITUARY NOTES.

MOSES CHRISTOPHER SANDERS.

One by one the old, tried pioneers of the pioneers of Utah are passing away. Prophet Joseph and Hyrum are fast fading from their earthly labors, and soon will be left for others to complete. Only a few are now to be seen in the vicinity of the tabernacle in Salt Lake City, the Church—a place from which the voice of truth echoed for proclamation throughout the earth. How well they succeeded in the vigorous labor, some know, others would today can verify, when the divine ordination of the Authority was accomplished. The work of the present generation belong to a new and a more vast children. It is a fine evening of their days, as they are in the act of the Master. Great work have commenced in establishing a kingdom which will endure when time shall be no more. Such men as Moses Christopher Sanders, who died in Ogden, Dec. 31, 1894, at the age of 78 years, are the noble pioneers of Israel in this second dispensation. "Well done good and faithful servant."

Bell-ringing of the death knell has sounded in the ninety-second year of Moses Christopher Sanders, who died in the city of Ogden, Dec. 31, 1894, and passed away after long years of faithful service. He was born in Bennett, Oneida county, Idaho, in 1803, having been and remained the pioneer, he joined the Church, and was the first child of the Saints in Idaho. He was baptized in Oneida, Idaho, by Bishop Jesse W. Fox, in the year 1864, and was ordained a Priest, and was sealed to his wife, Sarah Ann Sanders, in the Salt Lake Temple, in the year 1866. He was a faithful Priest, and was called to preside over the Oneida Stake office in Salt Lake City, and was ordained a High
