EDITORIAL NOTES.

"Take care of the pence and the pounds will take care of themselves." "Take care of the sense and the sounds will take care of themselves." "Is a variation on the above that a good many orators would do well to ponder."

There is the same difference in steady industry and in making haste to secure wealth as there is between walking and running. In one you keep one foot on the ground all the time, and are sure of keeping your perpendicular; in the other you have both feet in the air most of the time, and are never sure of your footing.

Still the cause of woman goes on, success gradually crowning the efforts made to secure her political rights and privileges. The Democratic of Kansas in their State convention at Topeka, nominated Miss Sarah E. Brown, of Douglas county, for Superintendent of Public Instruction—the first instance on record of a woman receiving a nomination for a State office. "The nomination of Miss Brown," says the Kansas City Times "was the event of the day." The world is growing.

The committee appointed to select a design for the monument to Senator Morton have awarded the contract to Mr. Franklin Simmons, the eminent American whose name is connected with a number of fine works. The design is plain, simple and beautiful. The base and pedestal are of granite, the pedestal being surmounted by a bronze statue of the great war governor. The position of the figure is easy and natural, at the same time showing its power and character. A bronze figure of the goddess of Liberty is seated at the front of the pedestal.

As the potato plant is propagated by its tuber, after the manner of a bud, or cutting, the effort made by the plant to produce its flowers and seeds must be a waste of power, which detracts from the desired crop—the tubers. The Mark Lane Express says: "We know an instance in which a six-acre field of potatoes was sown to show the truth of this statement. Three rows were the best sown cut off and three rows were left intact, alternately all over the field, and the produce of the rows which had been deprived of the flowers showed a very marked increase over that of the rows which had not been so treated."

The press dispatches—made up in the interest of the Republicans—have been laden with charges of fraud in the census of some Southern States. Gen. Francis E. Walker, superintendent of the census, says that none of the newspapers making the allegation of a fraudulent enumeration in the south have brought forward anything tangible in support of them. All the statements are based simply on the discrepancy between the census of 1870 and 1880 in certain localities in South Carolina and Mississippi. In some counties the increase in population is reported at 150 per cent. over 1870. This General Walker holds does not prove that the enumeration recently taken has been fraudulent. The General is inclined to the belief that if the census of 1870 had been properly taken, no great disparity would exist in the showing. "This is no doubt the key to the supposed discrepancies." The census of 1870 was miserably taken in Utah, while that just completed is as near correct as could reasonably be expected.

ITEMS FROM IDAHO.

Has James B. Hunt, who has just returned from the Democratic Territorial Convention at Boise, Idaho, gives us some interesting information. The convention was held on the 17th inst. and was composed of 44 delegates. He, with W. F. Fisher and William Crawford, of Oxford, represented the 12 delegates from Bear Lake and Oneida counties. Col. Wood, who accompanied these gentlemen, represented the delegation of four from Cassia County.

There were two candidates for Delegate to Congress: Hon. George Ainslie, who represented the Territory at the last session, and T. D. Cahalan, Esq., who was named for the position two years ago. The support for these gentlemen was about even until the delegates from Southern Idaho arrived, who had 14 votes for Ainslie, and he was consequently nominated by acclamation. The gentleman has served Idaho faithfully for one session, and is almost sure of election again. The Republican candidate, William Smith, Esq., a lawyer, who has but a small following and a very slim chance indeed.

Another Hart thus speaks of the Democratic candidate: "Hon. George Ainslie, the Democratic nominee for delegate in Congress for the Territory of Idaho is one of the hardy pioneers of the western coast, and one of the earliest settlers of the Territory. He has graduated through many positions of honor and trust, and his constituents have shown their appreciation by nominating him to the highest office in the gift of the Territory. He has served his country as a patriot, a soldier, a lawyer, a brave citizen, a sound lawyer, a brave patriot, a strong Democrat and a prudent statesman. He is known by birth, intellect and education. As a boy among the boys, a man among the men, a counselor among patriots, a leader in legislative assemblies, and a peer among congressmen, he has won the respect and confidence of all with whom he has come in contact."

as that of the people of Idaho, and his election will be sure."

William Crawford, of Oxford, was nominated for District Attorney for the Third District, James Hawley for the Second, and William Poe for the First, and William Poe was nominated for the Third.

The Democratic Central Committee has Col. E. N. Stevenson for Chairman, a gentleman well qualified for the post, and Chas. Himrod for Secretary. Mr. J. C. Rich represents Bear Lake County on the committee, Messrs. W. F. Fisher and Wm. Homer, Oneida County, and one member is added each from the other counties.

Cassia County was organized last session of the Legislature, out of a portion of Owyhee County. It joins Oneida County on the west of the latter. It offers valuable inducements to settlers. Its south-eastern boundary is about ten miles from Kelton on the Central Pacific Railroad. About 35 miles from this point Brother Osterhold, formerly of Willard, Box Elder County, is located with thirty-five families, and says there is abundant room and advantages for many more.

The County seat is Albion, in Marsh Basin. Formerly there was no grist mill in that region, but now there is a good one a short distance from Albion, saving the long journey with a grist which used to be taken to Malad.

Col. Wood informed Brother Hart that there is 150 sections of surveyed land on Raft River unoccupied. In Goose Creek Valley there is 600 sections of surveyed land which can be watered from Snake River. In addition to these streams, Cassia County has the waters of Sublet Creek, Cassia Creek and others, to bring fertility, with the labor of the husbandman, to excellent soil capable of sustaining a large population.

As our people increase and multiply, opportunities open for them to spread forth on the face of the land and inherit it. In this we can but discern the hand of Providence, and they who find it hard to live with comfort in the towns and cities, should avail themselves of the openings that come to light, by which they can move forward to comfort and comparative independence. Better far to struggle in a new place for acceptance, than to linger on in an old one with no prospect but to labor for others.

WORK WHERE IT IS MOST NEEDED.

THE Cincinnati Times thus musically handles some foolish remarks of a Chicago paper in reference to President Hayes' recent visit to Salt Lake:

"A leading public journal in a city which it pronounces the wisest upon this continent, if not the wisest in the world, thinks that 'President Hayes missed his opportunity when he failed to tell the Mormons what the people think of them.' and that 'Utah was a better place to fire a message at them than the White House.' Furthermore, that 'Brave men always choose their quarrels with the enemy, and President Hayes is a brave man or not may be an open question; but there does not appear to be anything in the letter of the Constitution which requires him to go about, getting at close quarters with the inhabitants of the States and Territories and telling them what other people think of them. If President Hayes regards it as one of his official functions to misstate from place to place, reasoning of righteousness, temperance and a judgement to come, it is manifestly his duty to do so. If he is to be the center of the synagogues of Satan where the smoke is thickest, and the tails of the devils have their stiffer curls, it is his duty to do so. If he is to be in any land'—to commence his operations."

One Room for Hancock.

New York, 22.—The Herald says: "The most important event on Governor's Island yesterday was the presentation of a gold pen to Hancock. The presentation was the outcome of a fair held at Elizabeth by the Phil Kearney Guards, the arrangement being that the pen, which is massive and valuable, should go to the presidential candidate having the highest number of votes. The result showed for Hancock 375 votes, for Garfield 330 votes, and for Weaver 20 votes. A committee was appointed to make the presentation to Hancock, and this committee visited Governor's Island yesterday. A formal presentation speech was made, and 'I feel great pleasure,' said the General, 'in accepting the present. I shall prize it because it is the gift of your town, Elizabeth. I have great attachment to the name Elizabeth, it is my mother's name. I like these plain old names, Elizabeth and Mary. I like your town because it was once the residence of General Scott whom I used to visit frequently, and of Colonel Clark, my old Colonel, and is now the home of Gen. Buford, the son-in-law of Colonel Clark.' He was giving you this pen, we may be allowed to say, Mr. Revolver, that we hope that you will use it in writing your inaugural address as the next President."

"I have had a good many pens, but all quill pens, and I already for that purpose," the General replied smiling, "I promise you if I agree to the rule that I will use the pen for one thing, I will write a letter of thanks to the Phil Kearney Guards." The committee expressed themselves delighted. Last evening a republican torch light procession occurred in Brooklyn. The torches had the following episode: Eight wards had, when their organization started, over 200 men in line. On reaching Third Street, and just as two boys who went in the rear, reached the building in course of erection, a mob of about 500 men, who were lying in ambush, suddenly rushed from the building, and every man let fly at the men in line a brick or stone. Captain Woodhead, who has a wooden leg, at once turned and said, 'Garfield backers and boys in line, to the rescue.' The street was very dark and the men had not lighted their torches yet. The stones and bricks came so fast and thick that the men were panic-stricken, more than 200 were struck, and were falling bleeding and groaning. The lines were soon broken though Capt. Woodhead succeeded in forming a line. The mob then rushed forward and to capture the men the best possible course to pursue, so as to defend themselves as best they could, as far as Douglas Street and Court Street, 12 blocks away from the mob, the men found themselves reduced to a few. After making every effort to find their comrades, only 50 out of the 200 could be gathered together. These many were badly wounded.

Early in the struggle uniforms were torn from the men and it is thought that many must have been seriously hurt.

Grant's Eviction of Party Call. Numerous inquiries have been received at the national republican headquarters from various parts of the country as to whether General Grant would preside at the political meetings of the Governor Jewell communicated with him, and to-day received the following reply:

Galeata, Ill.

To Governor Jewell: While I shall do all in my power to aid the republican cause, I cannot now engage to attend any meetings. I will be in New York about the 10th of October, and will remain until the 20th, during which I shall visit Boston.

(Signed) U. S. GRANT.

A Female Stump Speaker.

At the republican meeting last night in Chickering Hall, Charles Watrous, formerly of California, introduced, Nellie Woodcock, a wordy lady. She was becomingly dressed in black and wore a band of full roses at her girdle. She was veiled with three cheeks as she advanced to the front of the platform, and it was fully a minute before the applause elicited by her appearance was allowed to die away. As she bowed her acknowledgements, some one shouted "Three cheers for the daughter of the invincibles," and the cheering was renewed. Miss Woodcock began the delivery of her speech which lasted about half an hour. At the conclusion of the address cheer upon cheer arose from the packed audience. Men stood up their handkerchiefs, and ladies waved their hats. It was some time before order could be restored. Watrous read a dispatch from San Francisco bearing greetings from the invincibles. Miss Woodcock said that California could be relied upon for Garfield.

French Opinion of California Vineyards.

A Washington special to an evening paper says: M. De Lacretelle, sent by the French government to inspect the California vineyards, has written the agricultural department that the same insects and diseases are to be found in the American as in the French vines, but not of so destructive a character. He expresses the opinion that many French vine growers will emigrate to California to embark in the business there.

The "Herald's" Talk. The Herald says of the Irving Hall and Tammany party at peace-making. They are all earnestly and almost fiercely in favor of union, only they don't unite.

Speaking of the political prospects in Indiana it says: "The democratic canvass seems to be in wretched condition from the account given by the Herald's correspondent at Indianapolis, and the republicans ought to be encouraged." In October, English, we are told, is universally disliked and has refused to contribute more than $2,500 to the campaign fund of the Carrs.

Killed by the Carrs. A train from Gloucester struck a carriage at Cabot street crossing, Beverly, early last evening, killing the occupant, Aaron Stevens and Clara Trisk, both of Beverly.
