ORDINANCES BEING REVISED

The Municipal Fathers Take Up The New Compilation.

PAYING TAX PROTEST.

The New Garbage Ordinance Returned By The Mayor For Correction.—The Center Street Grade.

A special session of the City Council was held last night. In the absence of President Lindsborne Councilman Ewing was called to the chair. The members in attendance were Rich, Folland, Hardy, Moran, Bell, Evans, Simmons, Lawson, Wandland, Hales.

RETURNED UNAPPROVED.

The garbage ordinance recently passed by the City Council was returned by the mayor unapproved and referred to the sanitary committee for revision.

SIDEWALK CONSTRUCTION.

Wandland offered a resolution providing that the city attorney report an ordinance to the Council providing for the payment of taxes on sidewalk construction to be paid for in four installments of three, nine, fifteen and twenty-one months. Adopted.

REFERRED TO MAYOR.

Wandland moved that the special committee consisting of the city engineer, superintendent of waterworks, be requested to report concerning the steps necessary to be taken to replace the sidewalk of the Salt Lake and Jordan canal north of Ninth South street. Adopted.

AMENDED SUBSIDIES ORDINANCE.

An ordinance amending Section 1 of an ordinance creating Sprinkling District No. 1 and defining its boundaries was passed. The amendment added the addition of the following: Third West street from the south line of South Temple street to the north line of First South street and the same is hereby made a part of District No. 1.

CENTER STREET RAILWAY.

The committee on streets reported that the grade of Center street to the level of the west sidewalk was extended by the city engineer at $2,435. Also that the Street Car Company offers $750 of the amount. The committee recommended that the street supervisor be directed to grade the street under the direction of the city engineer and that the street car company be requested to place its tracks in the middle of the street.

Moran—I am dead against this report and the proposition on general principles. If the petition is granted dirt will be made and as a result retaining walls will have to be built.

Hardy—The proposition is an evident one. The gravel taken from the cut can be used to good advantage in other parts of the city.

Lawson—I believe we should be careful in regard to this matter. I remember that the city will be at least $2,000 out of pocket. I move that it be referred to the city attorney for an opinion as to the legality of contracting retaining walls at that point, should it be considered necessary.

The city attorney explained that he had already delivered an opinion on that subject and that the city was not necessarily obliged to construct retaining walls.

Bell—Mr. Hardy lives in that precinct and I know him to be prompt with suggestions on street matters, and am willing to accept his representation of the case.

The report was adopted on the following vote:

Ayes—Bell, Hales, Ewing, Folland, Hardy, Hess, Rich, Bell, Simmons, Evans, Moran.

Noes—None. Lawson.

PAYING TAX PROTEST.

Hardy presented a petition from a large number of prominent citizens and company owners representing real estate in this state. First, also income taxes, private property, against the payment of the 25th installment of the paving tax on August 25th, and asking that the first installment be made payable about ten days before the sale. When the city shall make its first payment to the contractors on said works.

Moran—I move that the petition be granted.

Wandland moved to amend by referring the matter to the city attorney and city engineer authorized for recommendation.

The total assessment is $128,900.

Some discussion of a desultory character followed, after which the original motion carried.

PUBLIC GROUNDS.

Hales offered the following:

Whereas, It is reported that a number of lots and parcels of ground belonging to the city are now in the possession of divers and sundry persons who may acquire title to the same by adverse possession, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the city engineer be and hereby is instructed to employ some competent person to visit such plots of ground owned by the city and find out who occupies and what particular pieces of ground, lot or part of lot are so occupied.

Adopted.

REVISED ORDINANCES.

The recorder announced that the table was cleared of all the old business.

Bell then moved that the city ordinances recently rearranged be referred to the committee on municipal laws, and the city attorney associated for special revision.

Wandland opposed the motion to refer to any committee.

Folland suggested that it would be a better plan for the Council to discuss the ordinance in open meeting, employ by chapter. The members would thus have an opportunity of familiarizing themselves with the law.

MR. LEITNER'S EXPLANATION.

Mr. Leitner said he had followed the general outline of the Omaha ordinances in revising the city ordinances. Up to date there were 16 chapters, all substantially alike. The recent parking ordinance and the new eight hour labor law would of course be added, making all total a book of sixty chapters.

Whenever he found a conflict in the revised ordinances he would call the attention of the Council to the same as read.

In regard to the liquor law, he called attention to the fact that the Territorial Legislature had, in 1888, passed a general liquor law. The city adopted this into its ordinance. In 1890 the Territorial Legislature adopted a new liquor law. The Council had never adopted this, but was acting under the old law.

Mr. Lippmann said that there was no law for the appointment of a police judge prior to March 8th, 1890. The general Territorial law provides that precedent that five justices of the peace should be elected, and that the Council had, in addition, only authority to have, when emergency one of these justices to act as police justice. The last Legislature, however, enacted a law providing that the city police judge should be elected for the city at large. He then mentioned quite a number of other uncertainties, to which he would call attention as the ordinance was read.

It was then moved that the committee be discharged and the ordinances as read and approved if no other actions were entered. Adopted.

THE ORDINANCES TAKEN UP.

It was nearly 10 o'clock when the reading of the new compilation of ordinances was commenced by Mr. Lippmann. When the subject of the appointment of officers was reached, Lawson moved that the law be amended to make the tenuousness of officers subject to the pleasure of the Council instead of two years.

Rich seconded the motion. He believed the proposition was a good one as officers sometimes were appointed whose conduct could not be sanctioned by the city.

Mr. Lippmann suggested that the charter provides that appointees to office could retain their position for two years.

Rich amended by moving that the exact words of the charter touching on the subject be incorporated in the ordinance.

Lawson seconded the motion.

The city attorney read from the charter "that any officer can be removed from office by a two-third vote in the direction of the City Council." "This can be done with or without office."

Rich amended that the word "cause" wherever it appears should be stricken out. There were many good reasons why this should be done. For instance, a policeman under the old law—no matter how objectionable he might be—could find apparent sanction in the statutes that his appointment was good for two years and he could hold his office that long and thus cause the Council a great deal of trouble. The city ordinance should be such that any officer could be removed at the pleasure of the City Council.

ADJOURNED UNTIL TONIGHT.

A motion to adjourn until tonight at 7:30 was carried at this juncture of the proceedings.

DEAD OF LIBERALISM.

A Former "Liberal" Thinks the Party Has Outlived Its Usefulness.

Editor Deseret News.

The decay of Utah-Liberalism, as viewed during the Liberal conventions in Salt Lake City, is a hopeful sign.

The mission of Liberalism was noble, only so far as it advocated and worked for unity through channels approved of by the church, state and parties. The sentiments and feelings can be transfused to the interests of this Territory only in proportion to its capacity to absorb the social uniting principle. A system, wherever found, which aims at isolation and exclusiveness, and ignorants its principle which is capable of producing peace and harmony, is a failure. Liberalism allying itself with Americanism and Mormonism with it has gone across here as elsewhere—a battlefield for the social and educational forces, by and through which American institutions, in the past, peaceably and infallibly achieved such great victory on this continent, from the Atlantic to the Pacific. It will, in the fullness of time, solve the problem of Utah and necessarily and eventually wrest the conditions of the two last Liberal defeats, in promoting this great Territory of Utah, the great sheaves of the world. The sooner this can be done the better.

It is unquestionably the great desire of Mormons and Gentiles alike to see the day coming when the principles of Americanism shall rule here as elsewhere, when peace, harmony and good fellowship shall prevail. If Liberalism, then, were a national alloy of Americanism it would have a chance; but as it is totally partisanized into it it would be a success, unmanned by all. If on the other hand, it lowlies and acquires that by a course of success it can better cope with and solve the supposed problem which confronts the people of the Territory, it is and always will be a failure.

Americanism as preached and practiced in the past has let in one of its virtues and strength has enlarged to say so powerfully and impressively and effectually as in the past. Were Liberalism alive to it, it could do the same. Political Mormonism widely liberal or otherwise, are by sufficient per se to solve the problem which has vexed this Territory.

The birth of this bold assertion, because so far every day. While anyone should be allowed for diversity of opinions in all matters relating to the welfare of Utah politically, socially or morally, the bitterness which has characterized the past should find no place. For it is not true that every who have come to these valleys from east and west, north and south, have come here with the sole desire of making a home in this beautiful country and intent only on seeing Utah become the garden spot of the western country?

The writer ventures moreover to assert that while differences of opinion politically and otherwise are sure to assert themselves here as elsewhere, a continual political lamentation like that of the past, is antagonistic to all things beneficial to a substantial and healthy growth of Utah.

The bitter spirit which once animated the friends is now no more. Peace and reconciliation spread their wings over the great and glorious Republic, and with the exception of a few trivial differences, we are now unanimously a nation "Union sparkling." Are not we as serious as that between the North and the South has now, through the wisdom of the wise and the measures of the reasonable, become a fact. If true Americanism, patriotism and loyalty should this in a comparatively short time, have taken place would be required to settle permanently the purely local political issues between the two of more enlarging parties here?

It is admitted by many good men, both Liberals and others, that the past has been characterized by a political bitterness which has disgraced, with the spirit of the age, reason to a few and offensive to the majority.

Audacious as it may, nightmares which may hereafter visit this land and appear to. Many who come shall then find that after all Utah is not as bad a country to live in, and not so utterly benighted as reported, but a country where the grand principles of the American institution can find a ready and as anywhere on this broad continent.
