She fell to the ground, sustaining severe internal injuries. They testified that the night was dark so they could not see the calf or rope until the accident had happened.

The divorce suit of Albert Landon against May Landon was heard by Judge Howell. The plaintiff testified that he was married to defendant in Kansas, and that two children were born as issue of their marriage. That a year ago his wife took the two children and deserted him and since then he has not heard of his wife or the children. The decree was grantd.

Profitable Apple Orchard Yields $230 Per Acre—School Crowded.

Special Correspondence.

Monroe, Sevier Co., Sept. 27.—President Brimhall of the B. Y. U. was here on Sunday night and delivered a powerful and most interesting discourse before a full house upon the subject of "Planning, Working and Waiting," showing by man illustrations the necessity of all three in the struggle for success. A quartet, composed of F. B. Goold, P. W. Jensen, August W. Bohman and Thomas Ranson, furnished most excellent vocal music.

An interesting meeting of the Beekeepers association was held at the town hall Saturday. Richard A. Lowe is president of the organization in this county. P. H. Hansen, county bee inspector, was present. The advantages of and profits derivel from this industry were discussed.

The beginners and first grade department of the district school have become so numerous and accommodations so limited that the trustees have been forced to give each class a full half day of three hours each instead of the former full day of four and one-half hours. This method will give better opportunities in a shorter time and better results are looked for.

FINE APPLE ORCHARD.

The "News" correspondent recently paid a visit to the orchard of Orson P. Washburn, situated on the southwest corner of town. Few more beautiful sights are to be seen (in this line) than his six acres of Ben Davis apple orchard, loaded with fine fruit almost free from worms. Mr. Washburn, two days ago, sold his crop for $1,680 delivered at Elsinore. The picking and transit will not cost him more than $500, which leaves him a snug profit for one year from a 7-year-old orchard. This is another evidence of what can be done by planning, working and waiting. Mr. Washburn's success will be an incentive to starting of other apple orchards in this place, for which soil and climate are well adapted.
