NEWS OF THE WEST.

An Old Man Struck by a Train and Killed.

DRINK LED TO A BUSHMAN'S DEATH

Cut Down by a Railway Train—Fire Idol in the Hills Fore—Suicide —Gossip in Notes.

Onkie Hickman, Oct. 31st. E. Trol, a cowman of Kane, Utah, was killed with a shipment of cattle.

Trol, 84, from Blockton to St. Francois, killed a man on Paradise cut-off on January afternoon. It was purely an accident. He was identified as John Dougherty, a native of Ireland, aged 55.

Within the past few weeks southern California has been flooded with "green goods" circulars sent in answer to advertisements of men in distant from different addresses in New York and Pennsylvania.

Richard Mulroney, a dry goods salesman, died Sunday afternoon at San Francisco from the effects of a wound inflicted by himself last Tuesday. He had received an injury about six months ago, and since that time had suffered numerous spells of vertigo. While these spells lasted he frequently produced a razor and cut a deep gash in his throat.

Frank Bess, part owner of a laundry in Helena, Montana, shot himself in the temple with a double-barrelled shot gun and died instantly early last night. He had been drinking heavily of late and his wife had taken refuge in a neighbor's house, fearing that he would kill her. He called at the house, but she refused to see him or come out. He then went to the back yard and committed suicide. He was about 35 years old and leaves a widow and two children.

Hon Wrede, formerly a well known hotel keeper in Victoria, New Westminster, B. C., is thought to have perished in the Omineca country. He went there prospecting last fall and the last heard of him was on March 6th, when a letter was received stating that he intended leaving Bear Lake on a 400-mile trip. A letter just received by Wrede's wife from A. C. Murray, the Hudson Bay company's agent at Stuart lake, states that Wrede had arranged to meet two prospectors at the head of Finlay river. They waited some weeks at the agreed point and he did not come they concluded that he must have perished in the wilderness.

An old man was struck by the Oroville, Cal., train near Sacramento, Cal., on Sunday while walking on the track near Webster's siding, and was instantly killed. His head was badly crushed, and his chest and limbs were reduced to pulp. The engineer sounded the usual alarm on the track, and thought nothing of the matter until the train neared Gilmanton where the whistle sounded, but with no result. The man was apparently deaf, and the engine struck him before he was aware of his danger. Death was evidently instantaneous. There was on the person of the deceased a new pocket-knife, a plug of tobacco, a bar of soap and two slips of paper, on one of which was written the name, "F. T. Mark," and following it was an itemized account showing the bearer has been cutting wood. On the other was written the words, "Owens-between Market and Mission on Fourth street." Other than this there is no clue to the dead man, who was apparently 60 years old, but pleasant features, was scrupulously clean and had evidently been better days. Whether Mark was his name or not is not known.

Butter Fat and Butter.

Question—If the yield of butter is determined by adding one-sixth to the fat, should creamery men give on an average the same yield to the patrons? If not, why not? All machinery is supposed to be of the latest improved.

Answer—The amount of fat required to make a pound of butter depends upon the amount of water, curd, etc., contained in the butter and also upon the amount of fat lost during the process of manufacture. In determining a common rule for estimating the yield of butter from the amount of fat secured by the new the latter element was ignored because it was considered that the new should not be charged with lack of skill in the butter maker or loss due to imperfect machinery. The results of the dairy test at the World's Columbian exposition showed between 82 and 86 per cent of fat in the butter. If, then, one-sixth be added to the amount of fat secured, it will require the butter to contain 85.7 per cent (nearly) of fat, and this factor was therefore adopted at the last convention of the Association of American Agricultural Colleges and Experiment Stations because of its convenience and its very close approximation to average results already determined. In factory work it will be found that this factor is slightly too large because of the loss of fat already allowed for. The addition of one-sixth to the fat is equivalent to an overrun of 16⅔ per cent, or a yield of (16⅔) pounds of butter from 100 pounds of fat. Factories that are well managed should show an overrun of 12 or 15 per cent. Occasionally, with very careful management and where the butter is made to carry all the water possible, 16⅔ per cent may be reached or even exceeded. If a loss per cent is reported, there is some unnecessary loss of fat in some part of the process of manufacture.—H. H. Wing in Rural New Yorker.

An English Road.

Take the road that leads from Stratford to Coventry, and you will have taken the finest road in all England. In my the travelers, and here is a story that looks as if there might be a grain of truth in the statement. An American woman who crossed the Atlantic wanted her husband of driving rather than "railroading" through Great Britain. "Well," observed a neighboring Englishwoman, "you won't find a smoother drive throughout the land's length and breadth than that from ——." "Yes, she will, too," interrupted another Englishman. "Of course I don't know the road you're thinking of, but whatever it is it can't compare with the one I have in mind." The argument upon the subject at length waxed so warm between the two that the American suggested that each write his "Drive" upon a slip of paper, the slips to be handed to her and not opened until she had set foot on British soil. This was agreed upon. And when the Afternoon woman opened the slips she read upon the first, "From Stratford to Coventry," and upon the second, "From Coventry to Stratford."—New York Sun.

Note For the Hostess.

This curious advertisement, addressed to family old ladies or gentlemen with an austere house, appears in a London newspaper:

A couple of highest social position and old family, wishing to educate their children well and having a large, comfortable country house one hour and a half from town, are desirous to meet with a lady and gentleman, or married with a good income, who, in return for every care and pleasant society, would make a home with them and contribute thereto expenses, and possibly make them a home subject to their laws. No one with less than £1,500 a year need apply. Highest references would be given and required and a month's trial allowed. Carriage and horses kept. Best society in moderation and most comfortable and happy home guaranteed. Reasons in London or written stated if desired. Personal interview desired. No objection to details or to any proof.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the wonderful nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before properly directed efforts, gentle efforts pleasantly and rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant, gentle laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and everybody enjoyed it highly, by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health and the system is regular, laxatives are other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be recommended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

To Offer a Reward of 100 Dollars

If a case of catarrh that cannot be cured, amounts to nothing except to sell articles. Do you know of any such reward being paid? Ely Bros. do not promise rewards in order to sell their well-known "Cream Balm." They offer the most effective remedy, prepared in convenient form to use, which is absolutely free from mercurials or other injurious drugs.

Buckingham's Dye for the Whiskers is the best, handiest, safest, surest, cleanest, most economical and satisfactory dye ever invented. It is the gentleman's favorite.

A cough worse periods day after day, should not be neglected any longer. It means something more than a mere local irritation, and the sooner it is relieved the better. Take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is prompt to act and sure to cure.

The only permanent cure for chronic catarrh is to thoroughly expel the poison from the system by the faithful and persistent use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This wonderful remedy proves success at when all other treatment has failed to relieve the sufferer.

is self-evident. It is that most common form of protest against the cruel Spiked Plate that is now compulsory and not to use them alone. Horseshoe after the shoe is in fact one of the dangers that is made to follow.

This is what happens: One part comes out, where it should be clinching, the other goes into the horse's foot. Such nails are the result of the Calkinded and by which the fibres of horse are separated and can then be pried apart with the finger nail. The point of a nail can be easily distinguished by the rough edge along the side and point.

Putnam Nails

are exclusively Hand-Forged and Hammer-Pointed, produced by the old-fashioned handmade way. The process is slow and costly, but the result is a nail that will stand clinching, a nail that will cause little injury to horse and is Absolutely Safe.
